ITASCA CREW SAYS FAREWELL AS VESSEL LEAVES FOR SOUTHERN SEAS

WILL AFFOREST SOUTHERN ISLES

Attempts at forestation of Jarvis, Howland and Baker islands will supplement aerological and meteorological studies of those remote outposts on a proposed air route linking Hawaii and New Zealand.

When the Itasca sailed for the islands at 4 p. m. Thursday in charge of her new skipper, Cmdr. Fletcher W. Brown, with W. T. Miller and his aerological research expedition, she also carried an assortment of small trees, bushes and shrubs which will be planted on the islands.

Judd Directs Forestry

Directions for attempted forestation were given by Territorial Forester C. S. Judd, who was present at the Itasca departure. He did not accompany the expedition.

Lt. E. W. Stephens, fleet airbase aerologist, accompanied the party to make observations en route and on the islands.

Lt. Cmdr. L. Herndon, Lt. R. W. D. Woods and Lt. R. J. H. Conn will make the trip reportedly just for pleasure.

Army Men Aboard

To assist with the proposed forestation and help in administration of the camps on the islands, the following army personnel made the trip: Maj. C. L. Bissell, Capt. H. A. Meyer, Staff Sgt. Gerald J. Van Dyke, Sgt. Austin Collins, Cpl. Clarence T. Rine and Pvts. Otto Burroughs, Ralph C. Wilson and William E. Wilson.

Kamehameha youths who sailed as possible replacement personnel for the island research stations were: Wiliam Yornes, Solomon Kalama, Joseph Kim, Luther Waiwaiole, Henry Mahikoa, James Carroll, Henry Ohumukine, Alexander Kahapea, George Kahana.

Mr. Miller said he plans to return within seven weeks.

S. N. CASTLE PRESIDED

250 MORE SIGN SAFETY PLEDGES

Two hundred and fifty employes of two Honolulu business organizations today signed up to live up to eight safety rules of the road in the traffic accident prevention campaign initiated by The Star-Bulletin and the traffic safety commission.

Enrolled were 150 store employes and truck operators of Lewers & Cooke, Ltd., and 100 employes and drivers for the Rosecrans bus and service station company. Pledges for the first concern were taken out by Howard N. Mosher, Lewers & Cooke department manager, at the city hall traffic safety desk in charge of Ray Rietow. Charles D. Rosecrans, bus line owner, secured his through the office of this newspaper.

Scores of schools, commercial houses, government agencies and auto clubs, and thousands of individual motorists on Oahu, have enlisted in the highway safety movement.

Sought from motorists is the day in and day out observance of this cardinal safety rule:

I Will Drive Safely!

Adherence to this slogan, sponsors of the safety work are certain, will result in a substantial reduction this year of Oahu's 1935 highway toll—35 men, women and children dead; hundreds injured and maimed; property damage, $150,000.

Safe driving pledge cards may be obtained through schools, the Honolulu Automobile club, the City Transfer Co., and the Home Insurance Co. Downtown headquarters have also been established in the patio of the city hall, where Mr. Rietow is present daily from 8:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. to receive enrollments and issue the red and white windshield sticker. A charge of a penny each, to cover cost of printing, is made for card and sticker.

THEFTS, BURGLARIES HERE INVESTIGATED

An unidentified man who allegedly entered the home of Andres Cabot of Honolulu recently, taking $6 and a bank book, and who subsequently took $60 out of a local bank by forging Mr. Cabot's name to a withdrawal slip, is the object of police search today. The hunt began when Mr. Cabot and the bank both made complaints to police.

Other theft and burglary cases on file today at police headquarters include complaint of Lt. Lawrence O. Mathews of 1029-A Alewa Dr. that an overnight case valued at $30 was recently stolen from his home; and complaint of Ponciano Ariliano of 816 S. Queen St. that clothing and a coin bank valued at $35 were taken from his home.

CHILDREN PROTECTED

One hundred and fifty children crowded into the board of health offices this morning to receive diphtheria immunization treatment. They brought the total number given free immunization treatment this week to more than 400. Saturday will be the last day which the board will give the free treatments, Dr. Fred K. Lam, director of the bureau of communicable diseases, said today, and all children wishing the treatment must present themselves for it between 8:30 and 10:30 a. m.

"Grand Operas" heard each Saturday 8:30 a. m. to 11 a. m. Honolulu time.
