How to Care for Your AZALEA

(Rhododendron hybrids)

Medium Light locations are preferred by your Azalea. This means light near a sunny window but protected from direct sun. To determine this, place your hand 1 foot above the area you've chosen as its home — you should get a distinct shadow (ideally, 100 to 500 foot candles).

Moderately Moist soil at all times. Never allow soil to dry out; however, avoid standing plant in water.

Temperatures found in most homes are acceptable, but COOL locations will greatly improve the lasting quality. Ideally, 60° to 65° F days and 55° to 60° F at night.

Fertilizer: If plants are kept for extended periods of time, use a house plant fertilizer at the manufacturer's suggested rate and frequency.

Avoid excessively hot or cold locations.
