TRAFFIC TAKES 2 MORE LIVES

TRAFFIC RECORD

Accidents in 1936	725
Persons killed	16
Persons injured	717

Motorists over the weekend were involved in 17 accidents, resulting in injuries to 19 persons.

Two other persons died, one from injuries received Saturday morning and another from an accident Thursday, boost the swiftly mounting traffic toll on Oahu to 16 fatalities for the year. The count stood at 19 by the end of June last year.

Meanwhile hospitals held two victims with fractured skulls and a third with a possible fractured skull.

Chi Gil Ahn, 78, of 1420-B Keeaumoku St. died at 5:15 this morning at the Queen's hospital from injuries sustained Thursday when he was struck by an automobile driven by Vivian Davis, 23, of 750 11th Ave. He had sustained a depressed skull fracture.

Mr. Ahn is survived by eight children, Mrs. Grace Kim, Mrs. Bessie Lim, Mrs. Ellen Choy and Peter, Joseph, Jacob, Mary and Helen Ahn, and nine grandchildren. The body will be at Bertelmann's mortuary after 6 tonight. Services will be held at 2 Tuesday afternoon at the Seventh Day Adventist church. Burial will follow in Nuuanu cemetery.

Saturday afternoon saw Kenneth Kam, 35, of 1511 Kalakaua Ave. die at the Queen's hospital after suffering fractures of both legs that morning when crushed between the rear of his truck and the front of a car driven by Mrs. Alice Nightingale of 4066 Black Point Road. He was wiping the tailboard of his truck in front of his residence. Mrs. Nightingale said illness caused her to lose consciousness temporarily.

Mr. Kam was born in Honolulu. Surviving him are the widow, Kam Char Shee, his mother, Mrs. Kam Feo, three brothers, Yuen Fong, Tin Wong and Sun Tan Kam, five sisters, Mrs. Kim Yuen Mau, Mrs. Chock Moy Mau, Mrs. Francis Chun, Yuen Kim and Sin Yun Kam.

Funeral arrangements which are being handled by the Nuuanu mortuary will be announced later.

YOUTH HURT WHEN CAR LEAVES ROAD

Executive Coming For Mid-Pacific Isles
U. S. To Continue Weather Observations

Here is a scene showing the occupation of Uncle Sam's equatorial, mid-Pacific islands. Before the Stars and Stripes, hoisted upon their landing at Howland Island, are Kini Pea, left, Stewart Markham, James Kamakaiwi (in charge), and Killarney Opiopio. The Kamehameha boys pose with an old cannon found on the island, a relic probably of the American whalers and guano workers who used the island last century.

Interior Department Agent Will Supervise Islands From Iolani Palace

By JOHN WILLIAMS

Jarvis, Baker and Howland islands, U. S. midpacific equatorial possessions, by executive order in May were placed under the administration of the department of interior. Richard B. Black, a department field representative, is due in Honolulu July 8 and, from a desk in Governor Joseph B. Poindexter's suite in the capitol, he will supervise the business of the islands.

These facts were made known today by William T. Miller, superintendent of airways, bureau of air commerce, department of commerce, who is in Honolulu arranging an expedition to the islands to depart on the Itasca July 14.

Mr. Black will accompany Mr. Miller on this four weeks' trip and after it Mr. Miller will return to Washington.

Each of the islands which were abandoned in March this year, were occupied this month by four Kamehameha boys who are continuing the weather records.

By the Itasca July 14, Mr. Miller will take transmitting and receiving radio sets, and operator for each island and foodstuffs for making upper air readings. Lumber for the erection of permanent structures on the islands will be taken to replace the tents used all last year, which have perished in the equatorial weather.

"The radio on each island will operate daily schedules with the navy at Pago Pago and Pearl Harbor," said Mr. Miller. "Before the operators leave Honolulu they will be trained by the navy in the use of the equipment and the upper air instruments.

"Occupation of the islands is more or less indefinite. The Itasca will visit the islands every three months, at least, to reprovision the boys. On the forthcoming cruise we will visit Kingman's reef, Palmyra, Jarvis, Howland and Baker islands. After refueling at Pago, we will return to Jarvis, Howland and Baker to check the radio and upper air instruments, and then return to Honolulu."

Future Indefinite

About the future of the islands Mr. Miller could not say anything definite. It is known a New York syndicate, with which Dr. Dana Coman was associated, has applied to the department of interior for a lease of the islands ostensibly to work the guano and other deposits, but Mr. Miller is sure the government will protect the aerial possibilities of them in any lease it may make.

Undoubtedly, said Mr. Miller, radio beacons could be set up on the islands to navigate planes to the Antipodes and the islands have fine surfaces for land planes.

"Such strides are being made by American designers with long distance land planes," he added, "such as the four motored Douglas now under construction, that it is logical that our department will okay them for transoceanic flying because the wings can be easily built for flotation. In such a case, Baker, Howland and Jarvis islands would be invaluable and they would offer the finest landing fields between here and Samoa."

S. C. HARDESTY HAS HIS 81ST BIRTHDAY

As S. C. Hardesty of Kaneohe celebrates his 81st birthday anniversary today, he looks back over a lifetime which has seen much of important American and Hawaiian history in the making. Arriving in 1898, he saw Hawaii become a territory of the United States. For the past 38 years he has made his home in Honolulu and Kaneohe. Mr. Hardesty was born in Missouri and traveled west in 1861 by ox team across Indian territory which later was divided up into states. He was active during the Banick war in '77 when some Indian tribes rebelled against being put on reservations.

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

HILO, Hawaii, June 29. — One hundred and twenty four naval ROTC cadets ended a busy two days' visit in this island port when the battleship New York and two destroyers, the Sicard and Broome, sailed for Honolulu.

The officers, cadets, from the University of Washington and University of California, faculty guests and ship personnel were showered with entertainments arranged jointly by the Hawaii National Park supervisors and the aloha and entertainment committee of the Hilo Chamber of Commerce.

They were greeted on their arrival Saturday morning by a committee headed by James Henderson and including Attorney W. H. Beers, Walter Eklund, Roy Estes, Kenneth Byerly and W. L. Henderson.

Immediately after their arrival, the cadets were taken to the national park, and a few minutes later, 150 sailors from the ship left for the same destination.

The visitors were met at the park by park rangers, who accompanied them to the observatory where Ranger Sam Lamb gave a lecture on volcanoes.

After luncheon at the Kilauea military camp, the party returned to Hilo for swimming, golfing and tennis.

In the evening on board the New York, Ranger Lamb showed films on the recent Mauna Loa eruption. At 8:30, the enlisted men were entertained at an aloha dance at the Hilo armory, while the officers and cadets were honored at a dance at the Hilo Yacht club.

Hostesses for the yacht club dance were Mesdames Fred Harbocker, Walter Eklund, Roy Estes, A. J. Fonner, C. W. Atkinson, Dodge Baker and James Higgins.

On Sunday noon the board of supervisors and the aloha committee were joint hosts at a luncheon at the Volcano House in honor of the visiting naval officers.

Local people at the luncheon were Chairman Sam Spencer, Supervisors Gavien Bush and Juichi Doi, George Lowson, president of the chamber; Cyril Hodgs, Carl Hanson, Stanley Williams, C. E. Crawford, Roy Boy Estes, Gwynn Mathias, James Henderson, Kenneth Byerly, C. G. Bockius, Robert Lindsay, Judge D. E. Metzger, Walter Eklund, W. L. Henderson, Dr. Samuel Glynn, Fred L. Harbocker, Superintendent E. G. Wingate, Maj. Hugh C. Gilchrist and Maj. Ben Stafford.

The American Legion Gun club also arranged a rifle and pistol match with the visiting teams on Sunday morning at the Keaukaha range.

PROGRAM PLANNED FOR CADETS HERE

The USS Sicard, bearing the naval cadets, was entering Pearl Harbor at about 2:30 this afternoon, to be followed by the USS Broome at 5 and the New York a little later. They are scheduled to come to Honolulu from Pearl Harbor Tuesday morning. The ships will be here until July 4 when they will sail for San Francisco at 10 in the evening.

Plans for the entertainment of the naval cadets during their stay in Honolulu are in the hands of the chamber of commerce with the alumni associations of the University of California and Washington cooperating.

Highlights of the program include a tea dansant at the roof garden of the Alexander Young hotel Tuesday afternoon, home night dance at the Army-Navy YMCA Tuesday night, an inspection tour of the naval yard at Pearl Harbor Wednesday, a hukilau at Waimanalo Thursday, a Hawaiian program on board the USS New York Thursday evening and a return tea dance on board the USS New York Friday afternoon. In the evening at 8, a searchlight parade will be staged by the Hawaiian separate coast artillery brigade at Ft. De Russy.

CHANG WILL DECLINE KAWANANAKOA AWARD

Peter Chang, contractor, today notified city-county officials he would decline the bid recently awarded him for construction of the $47,000 Kawananakoa school auditorium in view of the necessity to complete the work in 100 days. A. W. Heen, building superintendent, announced he would recommend to the board of supervisors that new bids be called for.

33 Auto Fleets So Far Entered In Safety Race

Members of a committee representing auto fleets for the third consecutive time met yesterday for a final discussion of rules which opens July 1. William Swanson, manager of the contest and traffic safety commission member, presided.

Members of the committee represented 33 organizations so far enrolled in the contest, with an ownership of more than 1,000 trucks operating for a total of more than 12,000,000 miles yearly on Oahu highways.

Rules governing previous contests will obtain during the forthcoming year with one exception. This year, Mr. Swanson pointed out, demerits will be earned by fleet owners whose drivers have been convicted of traffic violations. Auto fleet owners are invited to join the contest by calling Mr. Swanson at the Rapid Transit Co.

Two thousand pairs of army trousers and as many khaki shirts were sent to Kiowa Indian agency at Anadarko, Okla., by the war department to be made into children's clothes.
