She then went to Pine Grove School, and graduated from the eighth grade. She went to West Depere high school and quit her second year. She moved to Detroit. Her parents spoke Oneida. Her grandmother, Mary Johnson made blankets. Eva's mom did home remedies. In 1972 Eva started working, and retired at the age of 67. Eva's advice and thought for the people of the Oneida Nation are that people should have a lot of love for each other. Be nice to each other. Work together. Be nice. As an elder one thing that she thinks should be changed, is that people should take care of their new homes.
