DOB: Oct. 21,1912 Place of Birth: Oneida on Freedom Rd. Mother: Josephine (Hill) Webster Father: Isaac Newton Webster Siblings: Only Child Grandparents: Mothers side – Cornelius Hill and Salisha (Skenadore) Hill Spouse: Children: 8 Children Additional Information Woodrow’s grandfather from his father’s side lived near the Brown County Golf Course. His father Isaac worked as a farmer and gardener. He went into politics. Woodrow’s mother went to school Carlise and Hampto , he got his muse from her. Josephine learned the lase work, and she was the instructor for the lase workers. She did this until some of the work got too old and died. Woodrow graduated 8th grade and high school at Green Bay, West. He attended a business school in Milwaukee, then after went back home. He did not go into any work when he returned, so he entered a walk-a-thon. Sometimes he would sing or dance. He moved to Detroit for 10 years for work. Woodrow entered the Navy, and joined the National Guard. Woodrow went to camp the day he graduated from high school. He had a lot of training before he finally got shipped out, and continued to be shipped around for about 2 ½ years. Then he worked as a singer. He started in the Oneida committees and became a secretary. 4 people were on the committee. Woodrow notes that Gaming is the biggest change, bingo is a pretty big thing. The advice that he would give to younger people is that education is important. His parents always told him that and if they didn’t get an education they would be left behind. He also says that “Oneida was always home.”
