Event: Shelter Island – Journey to Understanding – Festival

Saturday, Feb. 28 and Sunday Feb. 29, 2004

Co-sponsored with Shelter Island Historical Society

Program for Saturday included Traditional Food served at the Shelter Island Presbyterian Church from noon through 6:00 pm

At the Chapel Museum were speakers on Contemporary Cultural subjects.

Drumming and singing by Old Point Singers with solo dancers were featured.

Daughters of Tradition from Shinnecock were guest performers.

Special thanks to Chief Harry B. Wallace, Unkechaug, and Margo Thunder Bird for delivering keynote addresses. Fred Bess, Chairperson of Shinnecock Tribal Council, was the Master of Ceremonies.

The Traditional Food menu of wild rice and turkey soup with fry bread, Shinnecock Succotach and Indian Tacos were prepared by Becky Genia and Donna Collins Smith all day from morning to night.

Their contribution was greatly appreciated.

The logo poster, original pencil drawing by Chris Lile, Lakota artist, was made into museum quality posters. A limited print edition (200) signed by the artist were available as Chris Lile was present and signing his work.

On Sunday, 2/29/04, with Rev. Holly Haile Davis as MC, the program was again opened with the Lord's Prayer in sacred dance by Elizabeth Thunder Bird Haile. The troupe of young dancers included Waban, Nadonis, and Sampwe Tarrant and Nasha Hill dancing both traditional and fancy dances.

The entire event was videographed by Karola Ritter and assistant.

The Shelter Island Reporter Newspaper sent Nicholas Moorehouse at the end of the event on Sunday to take pictures.

Many presentations were made in a circle outside the Museum on the front lawn due to the beautiful weather. At least 100 people attended the event each day coming and going.

Inside the Museum several Native vendors displayed excellent hand made jewelry. They were wampum makers and beadworkers who willingly shared information with interested visitors.

Louise Green, Town Historian and her co-director of the Museum, Beverlea Walz were hosts to all. Their many hours of work are appreciated.
