

From: Kevin R. Eberle
To: Emmons, Karen
Subject: 158 Tradd Street
Date: Saturday, March 07, 2020 10:02:35 PM

---

Here is a super picture of the filling station that was at 158 Tradd Street (on that really angled property where New Street intersects Tradd Street). I've contacted the guy whose grandfather worked there to see about getting a super high res copy for you! Fingers crossed!

The information transmitted is intended only for the person or entity to which it is addressed and may contain confidential and/or legally privileged material. Any review, re-transmission, dissemination or other use of this information, directly or indirectly, by persons or entities other than the intended recipient is prohibited. If you are not the intended recipient please contact the sender and delete the material from all computers in which it resides. Internet communications cannot be guaranteed to be secure or error-free as information could be intercepted, corrupted, lost, destroyed, arrive late, incomplete, or contain viruses. Therefore, we do not accept responsibility for any errors or omissions that are present in this message, or any attachment, that have arisen as a result of e-mail transmission. If verification is required, please request a hard-copy version or contact us by phone. Any views or opinions presented are solely those of the author and do not necessarily represent those of the Charleston School of Law.

From: Kevin R. Eberle
To: Emmons, Karen
Subject: 158 Tradd
Date: Thursday, March 12, 2020 2:50:25 PM

---

Scott Pooser is the fellow who let me make a 600 dpi scan of this. He didn't know who took the photo. The motorcycle is apparently a mid-1930s model according to people who know about motorcycles.

He also shared three other shots showing a parade with a mystery building in the background that I'll email separately. He randomly added that his mother had a bunch of old photos of his dad as a boy in the 1940s in downtown Charleston with old houses! I told him that I would LOVE to get copies of those too, and he said he would talk to his mom when he visited her the next time.

The information transmitted is intended only for the person or entity to which it is addressed and may contain confidential and/or legally privileged material. Any review, re-transmission, dissemination or other use of this information, directly or indirectly, by persons or entities other than the intended recipient is prohibited. If you are not the intended recipient please contact the sender and delete the material from all computers in which it resides. Internet communications cannot be guaranteed to be secure or error-free as information could be intercepted, corrupted, lost, destroyed, arrive late, incomplete, or contain viruses. Therefore, we do not accept responsibility for any errors or omissions that are present in this message, or any attachment, that have arisen as a result of e-mail transmission. If verification is required, please request a hard-copy version or contact us by phone. Any views or opinions presented are solely those of the author and do not necessarily represent those of the Charleston School of Law.