

Do You Know Your Charleston?

Gate at 60 Hasell Street

'PIDGIN ENGLISH' LOOMS

Shaw Says Chinaman Knows How to Say 'No'

Letchworth, England, May 17.—(P): "Pidgin English will be the classic English of the future," George Bernard Shaw declared in a speech at the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Letchworth library.

"An English says, 'I am sorry I can not oblige you,'" Shaw said. "But a Chinaman says: 'No can,' and expresses himself perfectly."

Shaw took exception, ironically, to the Biblical reference to the "blessedness" of the poor.

"Until this country becomes determined that it shall never again have a poor man, woman or child in it," he said, "it won't be a country worth living in."

Oldest Legionnaire is 87

Haverhill, Mass.—(U.P.): The oldest member of the American Legion lives here. He is John Carpenter, 87, former sailor in the U. S. navy.

Gate at 60 Hasell Street Residence Fine Specimen of Old Iron Work

The gateway to the old house at 60 Hasell street is an unusually fine example of Charleston iron work of its type. The house was probably erected between seventy-five and 100 years ago and the gate is believed to have been placed in its present position not long after.

With its central figure shaped like a lyre, the workmanship presents an unusual note, graceful in the extreme. The design at either side of the lyre is carried out in the fence.

The dwelling was once occupied by Dr. Robert Chisolm, a well known eye, ear, nose and throat specialist who practiced in Charleston during the period following the Confederate war.

Of two stories in height, the house is not particularly large, but is constructed in an interesting manner, with turreted rooms on either floor, and central halls. The woodwork is plain but there is a fine portico on the exterior, together with iron balconies which add greatly to the distinction of the dwelling.

The gardens were originally laid out in a beautiful manner, with the beds in front shaped like an urn. The property includes two cottages on the front edge of the grounds.

In the old house to the immediate east, Gen. Wade Hampton was born.

The house is now in the possession of Mr. and Mrs. W. Dewar Gordon.

SUPER BANK IS URGED

British Authority Expresses Self on Money

Ottawa, Ont., May 17.—(P): Establishment of a super bank which would buy and control all the gold and silver resources of the British Empire—possibly also those of the United States—is advocated by J. F. Darling, director of the British Midland bank and British authority on currency.

Under his plan, to which he believes the United States would find it unprofitable not to subscribe, Mr. Darling said there should be no difficulty in keeping silver on a comparative parity with gold.

He asserted the rehabilitation of silver to be of immediate importance, "because as I see it we are drifting rapidly toward economic chaos."

The super-bank, binding together the financial structures of the entire British commonwealth of nations, would establish the ratio of silver to gold at 20 to 1, which he said "approximates to the exchange value of the Indian rupee."

MRS. WILSON TO ATTEND

Will Go to Poland This Summer for Ceremonies

Washington, March 17.—(P): To an ancient Polish city dominated by a castle built by Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is expected to journey in July to see a national demonstration of gratitude toward the United States.

Ignace Paderewski, the grand old man of Polish statesmanship and music, was said today to have asked Mrs. Wilson to attend the unveiling of a monument to the war

U

Dr. Jekyll
ake Mr. Hyde?

versation colored with private spending stinted