I went back to my cousin who also sent me this other lower resolution scan, attached. Also the handwriting on the back of the photo is from my great aunt Harriet Stroman Williams, whose mother, Caroline McGillivray, was born and raised at 10 Atlantic Street.

The notes on the back identify the two women in the doorway as Florence "Florrie" McGillivray (1873-1963) and Bel Morrison, who I don't know.

Both Caroline McGillivray Stroman and her sister Florrie McGillivray Corbett (the one in the photo) married men in Orangeburg County. Florrie was buried in Springfield, S.C. Caroline (my great grandmother) died in and was buried in McClellanville after the Stromans lost their ancestral Orangeburg County plantation in 1922 to taxes after the cotton crop failed.

I haven't researched when the house passed out of the McGillivray family. But if that's Florrie in the photo, she looks to be a young woman so more likely this photo was taken around the early 1890s.

Thank you so much! The pdf looks to be of a good quality for zooming in, as my researchers like to do. Very much appreciated!!!

Hi Karen,

Unfortunately, all I have is a PDF of the original photo. I just obtained it from a second cousin. I've attached it here -- hope the file size emails okay. I don't think she knows where the original image is anymore, but I will ask. I also have a shot of the home circa 1980s.

I do know the names of my McGillivray ancestors who lived there. Let me know what information you'd be interested in and I will try to provide what I can.

We also have an original image of Ann Hinckley (1716-1812), daughter of William Hinckley who your website says built the home in 1769. I will try to get it scanned for you but it's not in my possession.

Best,

Mary

Hello Mary,

Thank you for your offer of sharing a photograph of 10 Atlantic! We don't have any photographs of the house and an early one will be especially appreciated. Would you like to donate the original photograph or provide a digital copy? Either will be great.

If you'd like to donate the original photograph, I will make a high resolution scan for you. If you'd like to provide a digital copy, please scan it as a TIF file at 600 dpi. Also, if you know anything about the photograph, e.g., who may have taken it, the name of your ancestor who resided there, etc.

Whatever format you consider will be a benefit to researchers of historic buildings who contact/visit the Archives and, again, your offer is much appreciated!!

Best regards,

Karen
