

(Staff Photos by Johnson)

Gourmetisserie awaits hungry Charlestonians and tourists.

Market Square Dedicated

William E. Murray turns to for opening.

By DORA ANN REAVES
Evening Post Staff Writer

The dedication and grand opening were held today for Market Square, the newest restoration project in the Market Street area.

Participants in the ceremonies were to include William E. Murray and Harold Adler of the Save Charleston Partnership, which restored the building at South Market and Church streets. Theodore S. Stern, president of the College of Charleston, was to speak.

Although not all shops are open, many of them, including the 12,500 square feet of eating establishments, are in business.

Shops include Linning House Galleries, Casa de Loma, Tradd Street Press, Now and Then, Chez Grace, Swensen's Ice Cream Factory, Kado's Health Foods and El Estanco II. Wares will range from gifts and foods to plants and pipes.

At the Gourmetisserie, names are sufficient to explain the international fare. Booths include La Creperie, The Puffy Egg, Theo's Pizza, Beef n' Bun, Hot Diggity Dog, Soups & Salads, Bessinger's Barbecue, Cousin's Fried Chicken, The Frozen Yogurt Place, Old Athens, Lowcountry Kitchen and Sylvester's Seafood.

As a special attraction, Budd Price, square manager, said strolling musicians will play in the renovated outdoor patio area.

In 1973, Baier Corp. of At-

Continued On Page 2-A, Col. 5

ly about 25 per ormal amount of fact that would heating insuffi-

l Weather Serv-
ords of the total
ishine by means
; device. Febru-
potential of 18,501 ut 308 hours) is month. During r-February win-
the area could t 1,285 hours of
e past winter, 627 hours were
ring December
d the area for as days at a time.

But the Pentagon was forced to go public last Aug
Soviet submarine and the U.S. frigate Voge colli
Ionian Sea, causing $500,000 in damage to the V undetermined amount of damage to the Russian sailed away on the surface.
Last month, the U.S. Navy issued a report bl Soviet submarine for the collision. So far as is kno has never publicly acknowledged this incident.

MARKET

Continued From Page 1-A lanta bought property in the area and planned to raze several warehouses to build a high-rise condominium. The Save Charleston Foundation, organized to rescue the property, sold it to the Save Charleston Partnership for restoration.

does

IND

EN RAGE?"