

ca. 1955-56

Undated photograph by Samuel Chamberlain. Russell House research files.

North elevation, camera facing southwest from First Scots.

This photograph likely dates to Chamberlain's second set of images of Russell House, documenting the restored interior. These pictures were probably taken in the late winter or early spring of 1956, since the trees in the cemetery of First Scots are without leaves.