

Explanation

The Barony lies all south of the Ashley river. The exterior boundaries are those of Col. Barber's map of the Barony made in 1713, except that the workings and courses of the river are conformable to later maps. The boundaries of the Barony are denoted by solid black lines. Other ----- indicate subdivisions by broken black lines. Other ----- and other ----- Roads by double dotted lines. Other ----- Savannah lands ----- Marsh -----

General topography and swamps, streams, branches, ponds, galls, woods, fields, &c. &c. are not delineated or marked.

Contours and adjoining roads and settlements are all taken from various maps and deeds, many of later date, and given names and locations as of the present date. - Compiled in 1906 -

Scale. 4 inches = 1 mile
1 inch = 1320 feet

M.A.P.

showing the location and boundaries of the Signory of St Giles commonly called Ashley Barony on the South side of the Ashley river in South Carolina granted 15th March 1675 for 12,000 acres to Anthony Earl of Shaftsbury, with sketch division lines showing the subdivisions anterior to 1780. and with adjoining and contiguous roads and settlements. Compiled from old maps and deeds by Henry A.M. Smith Reduced One-Third of Original Size