These are of 10 Sutherland Ave. in Hampton Park Terrace.

Sadly, the new owners, who admittedly saved the house from utter collapse, could not be dissuaded by even the pressure of Mark Engelke to retain the boxed column bases. They ultimately went for round columns (and cost themselves a sure-shot Carolopolis Award in the process).

Kevin,

This may be too little too late, but attached are a couple of photos I came across of the Sutherland Ave. house while trying to organize photos I have. (It is Mission Impossible to get them organized.) Unfortunately, the photos are the most “panoramic” I could find. They are from May 1943. I hope they can be of some use.

Regards,

Tom
