

June 11, 1898

THE EVENING POST (DE)

A CAREER

Of Great Success Has Been that of One of our Progressive

CITIZENS, MR. H. NOLTE

Proprietor of the Modern Grocery
Emporium at 26 Vanderhorst Street—Superb in Appointment.

In calling the attention of the public to the establishment of the gentleman whose name captions this article we perform our mission, besides paying a compliment to one whose enterprise is generally acknowledged. He is a contributor to the commercial thrift of the city and his efforts are well directed, as the prosperous condition of his affairs will fully attest. His career has been one of success, and is marked by the characteristic principle of honor, integrity and progressiveness. It was in 1880 that there came here from Germany a young man who believed that America offered a better field for his efforts than the old country; nor was he mistaken, as the success of those efforts have been fully demonstrated. He secured a clerkship in the house of Mr. Thiele, since deceased, and remained in the employ of that gentleman until 1883, when having accumulated some money he resolved to embark in business for himself. Accordingly the start was made under the firm name of Nolte Brothers, on St. Philip street. This partnership existed until 1887, when our subject purchased his partner's interest and became sole owner of the business. About 1889 he moved into his present commodious quarters at 26 Vanderhorst street. These premises are amply commodious, being 40 by 65 feet in dimensions, and splendidly equipped in a modern and up to date manner, so characteristic of the genial and wide awake proprietor, who believes in keeping abreast with the times.

A glance over the well filled shelves and counters of the house reveals to the eye an elegant and varied assortment of fresh staple and fancy groceries, teas, coffees, sugars, cigars and tobacco, and in fact everything usually found in a modern, first class grocery emporium. Mr. Nolte has by his honorable business course secured a large patronage, which continues to grow with the flight of time. While every detail of the business is given his personal attention, he still finds time to devote to other affairs, being prominently identified with many of our leading organizations. He is prominent in military matters, and is honored by holding the position of 1st Lieutenant of Co. B of the famous German Artillery. He is treasurer of the German Rifle Club, a member of the Turn Verein, a stockholder in several of our leading building and loan associations and a member of Von Mohr's Lodge, Knights of Pythias.

CITY MARKET. Photo

Mr. Nolte is a great believer in home enterprise, and is thoroughly imbued with the idea of pushing Charleston to the front. He is a gentleman of commanding appearance and intellectual attainments. In every way, therefore, he is eminently qualified for his present vocation and his success in it is consequently hardly a matter of surprise. He is courteous and attentive to all patrons, and we are sure in predicting for his establishment a wide range of usefulness in the future.

the eye an elegant and varied assortment of fresh staple and fancy groceries, teas, coffees, sugars, cigars and tobacco, and in fact everything usually found in a modern, first class grocery emporium. Mr. Nolte has by his honorable business course secured a large patronage, which continues to grow with the flight of time. While every detail of the business is given his personal attention, he still finds time to devote to other affairs, being prominently identified with many of our leading organizations. He is prominent in military matters, and is honored by holding the position of 1st Lieutenant of Co. B of the famous German Artillery. He is treasurer of the German Rifle Club, a member of the Turn Verein, a stockholder in several of our leading building and loan associations and a member of Von Mohr's Lodge, Knights of Pythias.

Mr. Nolte is a great believer in home enterprise, and is thoroughly imbued with the idea of pushing Charleston to the front. He is a gentleman of commanding appearance and intellectual attainments. In every way, therefore, he is eminently qualified for his present vocation and his success in it is consequently hardly a matter of surprise. He is courteous and attentive to all patrons, and we are sure in predicting for his establishment a wide range of usefulness in the future.