

Staff Photo by Wade Spees

Appealing Color

Window-shoppers stroll by colorful RTW Ltd., a women's clothing store at 186 King St., Thursday. The colors were the subject of an appeal at a Board of Architectural Review meeting Wednesday. Frances S. Edmunds, Historic Charleston

Foundation executive director, said, "The colors are wrong for the building, which is one of the great early storefronts of America." The board, which approved the colors Feb. 26, referred the appeal to the City of Charleston's lawyer.