TOPOGRAPHY
of
CHARLESTON

CREEKS, MARSHES:

Mills: Statistics: page 391- " The site of C. divided into a number of peninsulas, by creeks and marshes, which indented it on three sides, so as to leave but little unbroken high land in the middle. The first buildings extended along East Bay-street, and had a marsh in their whole front. A considerable creek, named Vanderhorst's Creek, occupied the foundation of Water Street, and passing beyond Meeting-street, sent out a branch to the northward, nearly to the present site of the first presbyterian church. Another creek stretched northwardly, nearly parallel to East Bay-street, from the neighborhood of Mc Cleod's lots, (the Battery) through Longitude Lane and north of it. The same kind of low grounds ran up Queen's street (then called Dock Street) beyond the French church, and through Beresford Alley till it approached Meeting-street. The north end of Union, now State-street, was planted with rice about the end of the eighteenth century. Another very large creek occupied the site of the present central market, and extended westwardly beyond Meeting-street, then diverging southwardly almost to the independent church and spreading extensively to the northwest, and throwing off a branch to the northeast, so as to cover a large portion of ground. Besides the marsh and there creeks, which nearly environed three sides of the improved part of Charleston, there was another creek to the southward of what is now Water-street, which stretched westwardly over Church-street; and another which ran northwardly up Meeting Street and the

Church Street

1. "A Street that runs parallel with Cooper River"

Note: on Crisp's Survey, 1704. Also Shecut says it was one of the first of the 8 streets and one alley in early city in period from 1680-1704, from present Water to present Cumberland.
First date: 1720 (RMCO, C- p.130)

2. Meeting Street

So-called on map of Charles Town, frontispiece of Carroll's Collections of A. C.. This an accurate copy of map printed 1771 and 1775 but apparently of an early date in Charlestown history/ "References" seem to call from Water Street to Marsh around Market Street, only by name of Meeting Street, but present lower Church Street shown on map.

3. Church Street, or New Church Street

1721 "A street that runs from Cooper river to New Church
1723 "A street that leads from Brick Church southward" (RMCO C.p:121)

Original grant to Isaac Mazyek in 1720, 63 or 8 acres sold to Thomas Gadsden. In 1728, T. Gadsden sold a small tract to Francis Le Brasseur (Petit Versailles, then called "Brewery" and this then to Thomas Shubrick and then to S. C. Society) and the rest remaining in Marsh to Capt. George Anson - the story is that it was in payment of a gambling debt which T. Gadsden, then tax collector, owed to Anson, a great gambler.** In 1747, Anson sold 23 5/8 acres to Jeramyn Wright retaining the land to the westward, which became Ansonboro*. In 1757, Lord Anson, sold to John Rattray a part of a plantation ( of the original Mazyek Grant) of 20 acres of high land and 20 acres of marsh bounded on east. In 1758, Rattray sold this to north of Laurens Street to Gen. Chris. Gadsden. Part became Middlesex and Part became Henry Laurens land. * ***

PINCKNEY STREET

1. Ancrum Street

First date: 1773 Lands of J. Ancrum, Parker Quince, etc. Plat by W. R. Naylor, Case #45, J. McCrady Plats (RMCO)
Previous to 1776 a plat by Thomas Lynch shows it from Maiden Lane eastward crossing East Bay (Index Bk to Plat Bk in C. E.'s Of.)
Thomas Lynch died 1776, was married 1731. Same as Naylor Plat of 1773
1773 Plat by Naylor (RMCO - I#4 p.191) shows it from East Bay westward beyond Quince. "The Harb' east of E. Bay and slightly to north of Ancrum.

Last date: 1813 (RMCO-L#8, p.187) A.R.H.S. p. 277, says Ancrum absorbed later by Pinckney, which about 1819 was opened through to Meeting.

Note: Ancrum Street the Southern Boundary of Rhett'sburg, which was just above Colleton Square. This Square extended as far west as present Anson Street. In 1748, Charles Pinckney built his house in Colleton Square. It was probably soon after this that the eastern of Ancrum Street got the name of Pinckney.

2. Pinckney Street

First date: 1739 Pinckney's Map. Shows it from Cooper River to Meeting but this is incorrect as shown only as far west as Maiden Lane on Petrie's map of 1788 and also Naylor's Plat of 1773.
RMCO YY 1755, p. 236, 1776 Hunter's Plat. Says Pinckney Street.
Also AA of Dec. 17, 1816 (DeS. see 7 Stat 136) ordered extension of Pinckney from Maiden Lane to Meeting.

1773 (RMCO * L#6. p. 491) shows Pinckney crossing E. Bay and on to Cooper River.

1812 Dir. runs from Maiden Lane to Mey's Wharf/

3. Hard Alley

N. Trott St. (Wentworth); E. Quince St. (Anson) S. Ancrum (Pinckney)
W. King.

1714 Land granted to Wm. Rhett (RMC L#6., p.491)

Originally a deed of Trust by Chief Justice Trott and Sarah his wife the widow of Col. Wm. Rhett. Col. Rhett and his wife, among other children had a daughter, Mary, who married Wright and had one daughter who married James Hasell, Jr. by whom she had two daughters Susannah and Mary, who married respectively Parker Quince and John Ancrum. These ladies divided Point Plantation or Rhettsbury Plantation between them. Lots laid out and streets given family names.*

No date but probably Before 1736 when George Hunter purchased Colleton Sq. from John, grandson of Sir Peter Colleton (to whom Colleton Sq. land was granted in 1681) for himself, Chas. Pinckney and Thomas Ellery as tenants in common. After this Ancrum Street soon began to be called Pinckney St. though it seems still to be called Ancrum as well.***
