Spirit

Uniqueness

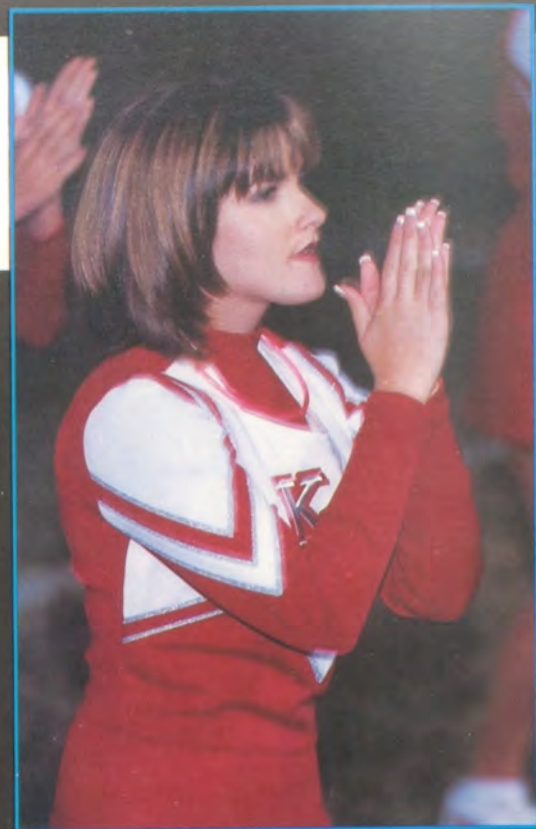

It's a warm August morning and you are up with the sun. You go outside and sit on your front porch. The summer breeze, heavy with the smell of the sea, calls you to the beach. As you wade through the surf you realize that this will be your last walk along the beach for the summer. Tomorrow is the first day of school.

As you walk along the shore, the sea washes up over your feet. You look further down the beach and you see a shell that the waves have washed on to the beach. When you step closer to it, you recognize its rough edges and hues of pink and peach. It is a Conch shell.

The Conch is the lone herald of the traditions of Key West High School. It symbolizes Spirit, Uniqueness, Excellence, Service, Pride, Leadership, and Commitment. You pick up the shell and as you hold it in your hands, your mind is flooded with a tidal wave of memories. You think of all the fun that you had last year at Coffin Week, Spirit Week, Homecoming, pep rallies, and all the other traditions that make your experience at Key West High School memorable. Then a picture enters your mind. But, this vision isn't a memory, it's a dream; one that is yet to happen. You are walking down a poinciana paved path in your cap and gown. The thought of this tradition sends a chill down your spine. Soon, too soon, your high school years will come to an end. But, you will always carry with you those same characteristics that the Conch symbolizes. And through you, the Spirit, the Uniqueness, the Excellence, the Service, the Pride, the Leadership, and the Commitment will go on. Through you, THE TRADITION CONTINUES.

our Spirit will go on

Before, during, and after school, Key West High School students have many ways of unwinding and letting loose. And because of this fact, our Spirit is so dynamic. At any point during the course of the day, you can walk down the hall-way and see a girl whose face is beaming with excitement just because she is talking with her friends.

The students here love to talk. We talk with our friends, talk with our teachers, and talk with our significant others. At lunch we "hang wit' da homies" and talk some more. And, in order to make ourselves as comfortable as possible, we pay close attention to the clothes that we wear. The articles of clothing that we choose to place upon our delicate, suntanned bodies may sometimes be a little out of the ordinary. But, who cares. The stranger the better, right? And the Seniors really know how to dress to impress. When you are wearing red it's kind of hard to miss you.

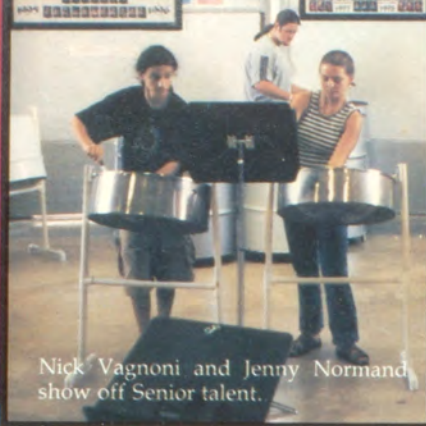

After a long five days of talking, "chillin' wit' da crew," and dressing to perfection, our weekends have to be awesome. A lot of us party hardy all weekend long. But some of us take our frustrations to the waves. And living on a island, it is kind of hard not to.

During the school year, students take part in many traditions that have become part of our lives. There is the annual bonfire, which was cancelled this year, coffin week, Homecoming, Spirit week, and let's not forget Fantasy Fest, which is a large attraction to Key West High School students of the past, present, and future.

However you choose to live your life is up to you, but these are the days that count. You can only experience high school once. So make these years an event that will forever be burned into your memory.

Nick Vagnoni and Jenny Normand show off Senior talent.

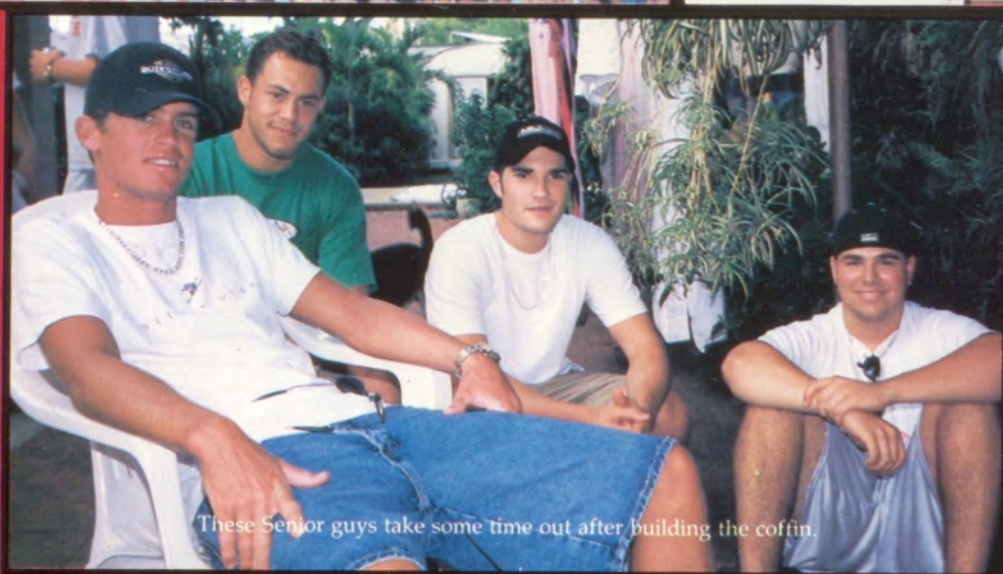

We're the BIG DAWGS

At the first pep rally Seniors spelled out their spirit.

These Senior guys take some time out after building the coffin.

The Senior class of 1999 has shown its individuality over the last four years. We are a diverse class that didn't entirely break away from tradition, just drifted a little. We knew the importance of school and did our best, but we also valued having a good time. We shared priceless memories that we'll cherish forever. We've had many victories as a class that we take great pride in. High school years will continue and traditions will be followed, but the class of '99 will always be remembered.

The Seniors work hard at creating their own original coffin. Look'n good guys.

SENIORS RULE

Michele and Natasha look like there up to no good, once again.

SENIOR RITES

Vivian, Jenny and Jennie work together to hold the bridge together. Togetherness is what makes our class so strong.

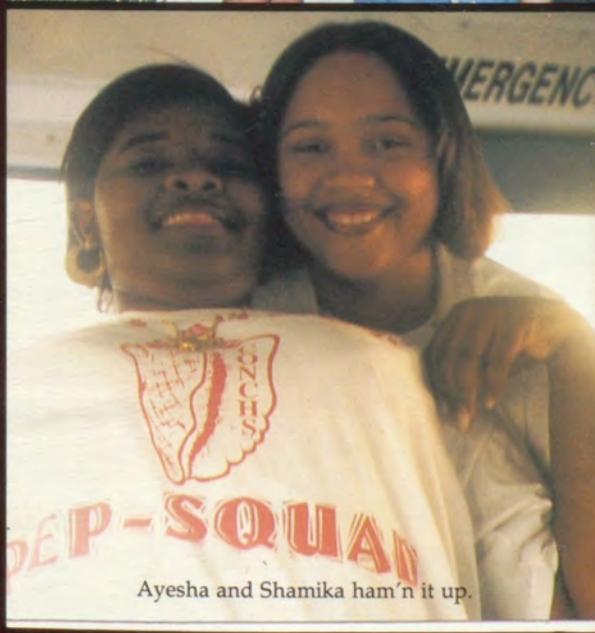

Shakti Assoulina takes her Seniority to an advantage by showing who's the boss.

The Senior Executive Board takes some time out from doing candy grams to take a picture. Smile guys.

Senior cheerleaders point out who's number one!!

Ayesha and Shamika ham'n it up.

Students gather in order to challenge the battle of the seniors. Congratulations on being seniors. RIP!!

Generation of Spirit

These cheerleaders are putting their all into hyping up the crowd and the football team for a victory.

Let's hear it for Pep Squad. It was their first performance of the year and they did a great job of entertaining the crowd.

Alison Greene did us proud to show her spirit. She even bought her car to display her Conch spirit.

Seniors Tony Mendez and Kevin Donahue are wearing their jerseys the day of the opening football game. "What's the matter Tony? Are you suddenly camera shy?"

At the first pep rally of the year this group of Seniors proudly supported their class. Because this is their Senior year every activity will be a memorable one.

The Varsity Conch Football Team storms through their banner, ready to fight against the opponents at an away game. The Fighting Conchs had a great year, beating some of their greatest rivals. Good job, guys!

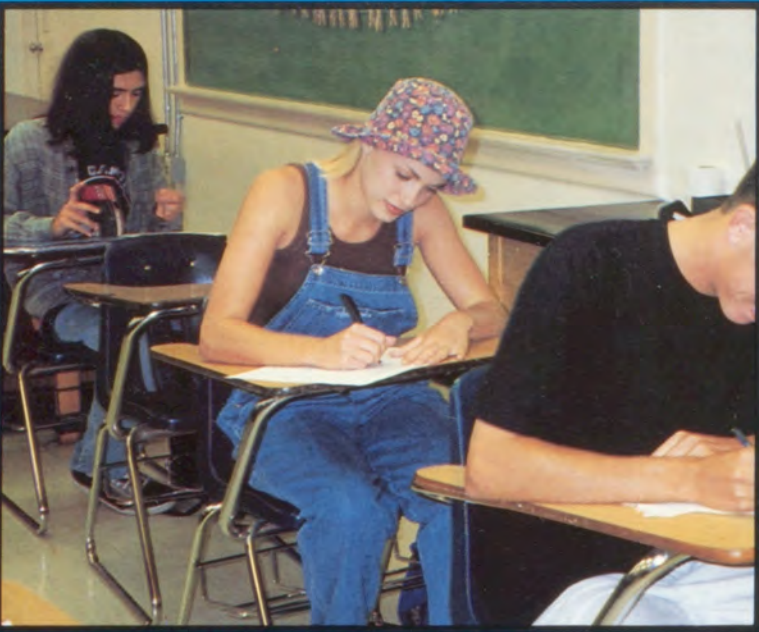

The Conchettes stand at attention waiting in anticipation for the band to play their song. The Conchettes have been a part of halftime for numerous decades, and this certainly adds to Conch spirit.

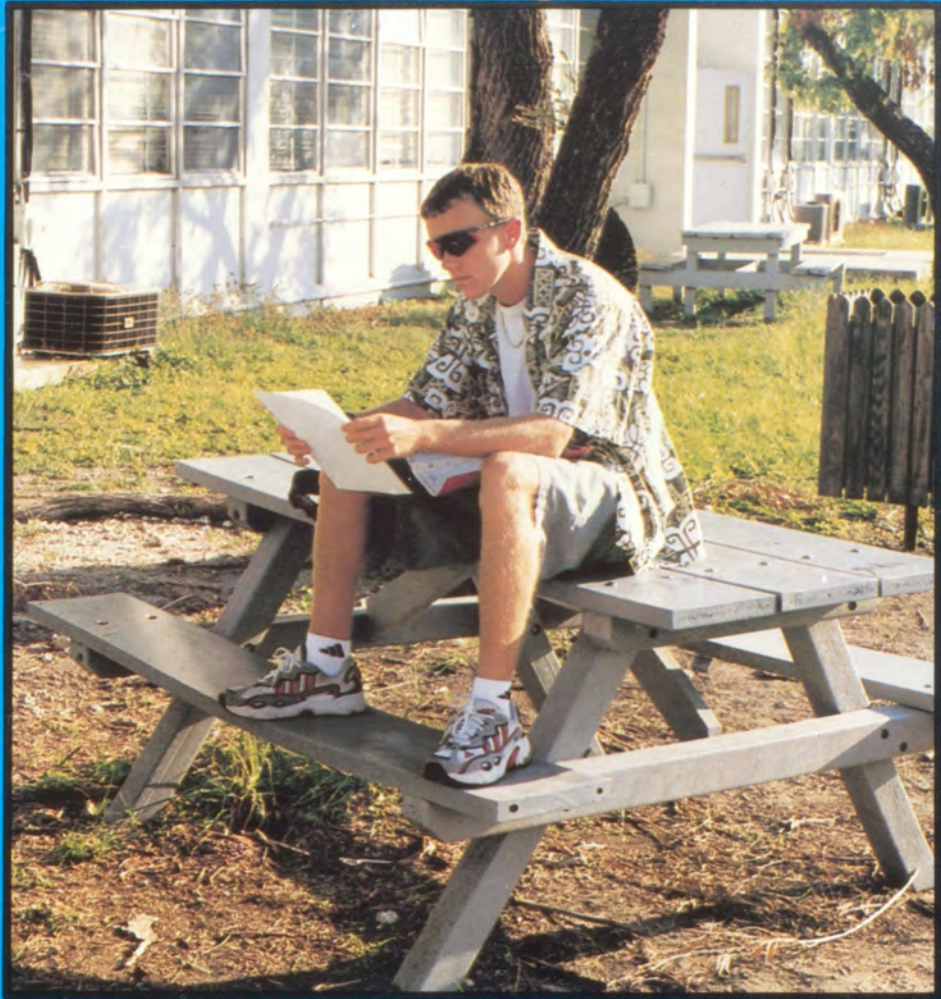

The Sophomore Class has a lot of spirit. They got their act together for the first pep rally.

Never Ending...

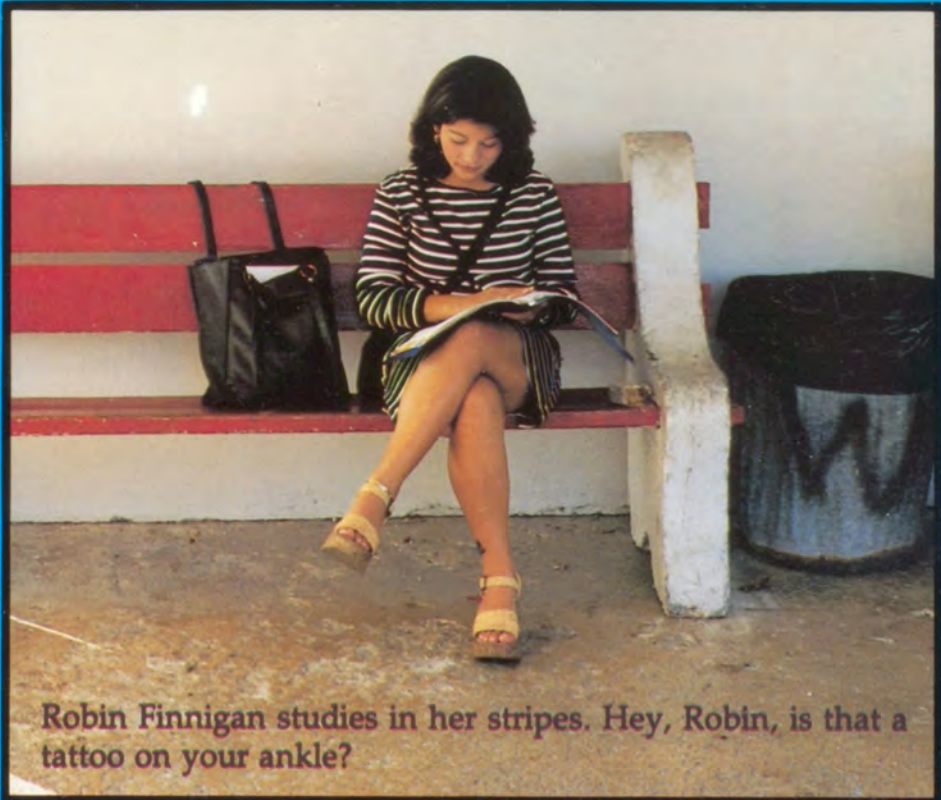

Junior Lacy Pischke looks fashionable with her bright flowered hat while working diligently. Sometimes little touches can make an outfit. Hey Lacy, what happened to the no hat rule?

Mick Greene shows off the new look of hip, yet comfortable clothing. Lots of people dress more for comfort than style. It takes talent to pull both off at the same time. Good fashion sense, Mick.

Junior Natalia Duke poses for the camera in her awesome outfit. Butterflies and flip flops have become a major "must have" this year. And the silver bracelets is an extra 10 points for Natalia. Even her hair is in style. Keep up the good fashion sense.

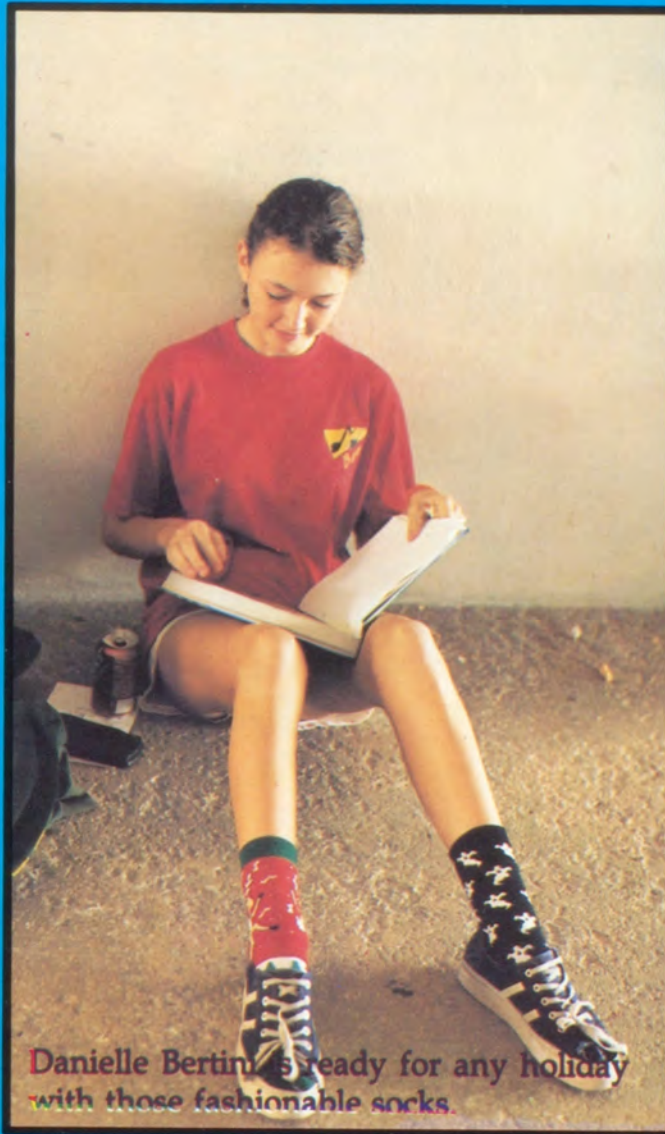

Robin Finnigan studies in her stripes. Hey, Robin, is that a tattoo on your ankle?

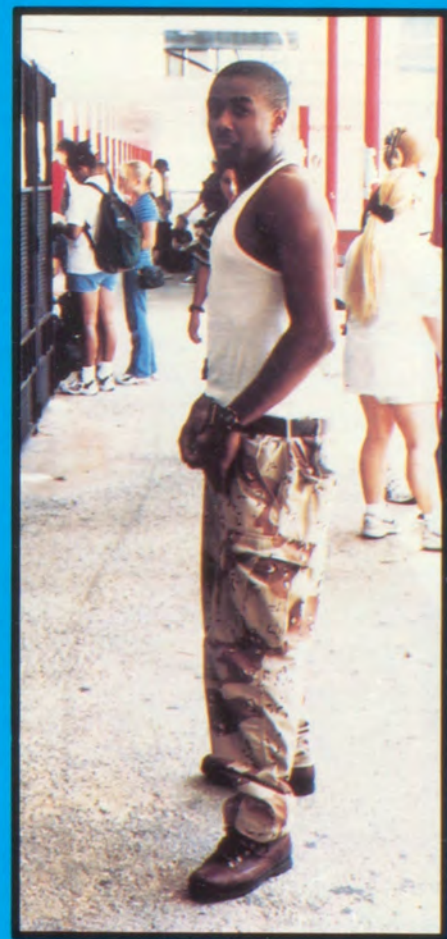

Senior Alisa Gosselin puts her feet up and relaxes in her cute outfit. Corduroy has become the new fabric of '98. Even in Key West it's "cool." Alisa looks like she'd rather be in Hawaii.

Ysla Bruggeman displays the child within by sporting these 'lil girl pig-tails.

Danielle Bertini's ready for any holiday with those fashionable socks.

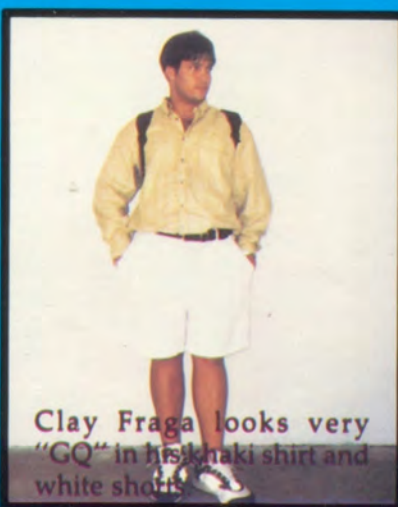

Is this guy part of the No Limit family? No! It's our very own Donteau Williams chillin' in his fatigue wear.

Jesse Brown points out exactly where to find fashion, "Right here baby!"

Helena Cori and Kaitie Nolan stroll in the typical Key West ensemble, a cool tank top with comfortable jeans.

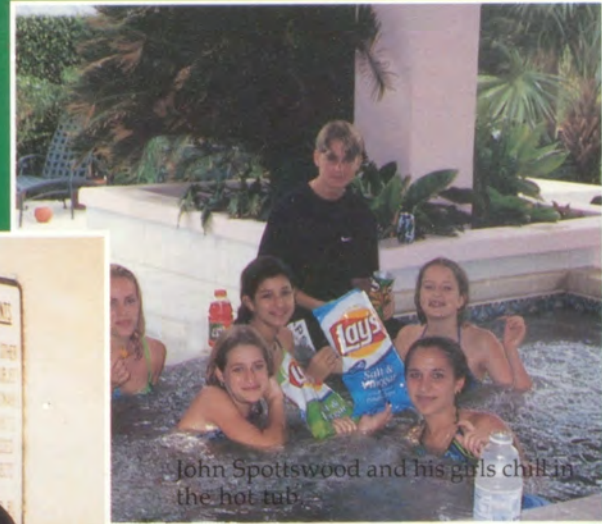

Clay Fraga looks very "GQ" in his khaki shirt and white shorts.

Styles

Ongoing Friendships

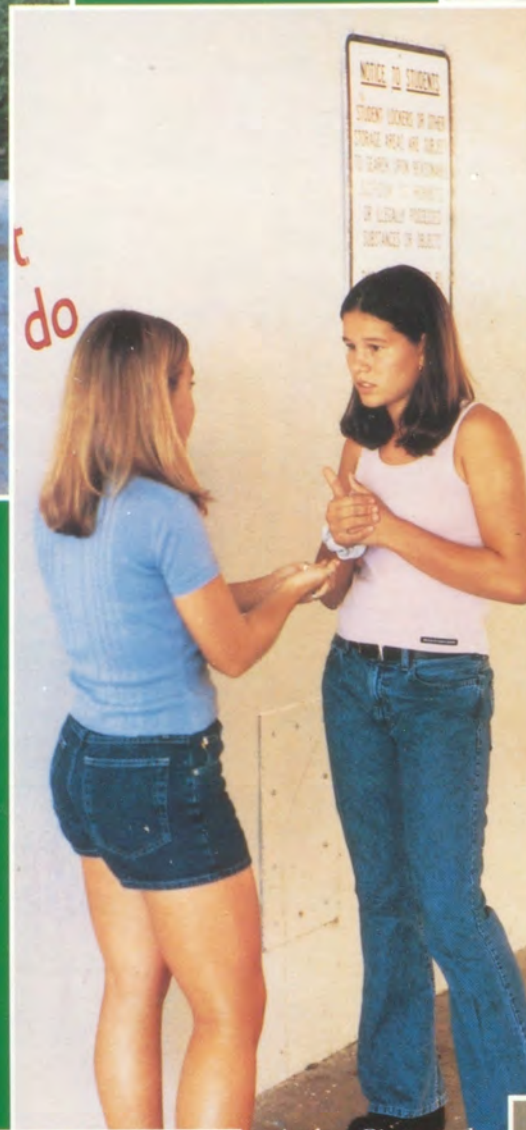

Samantha Fredricks and Danielle Bertini take time out to look in a yearbook.

John Spottswood and his girls chill in the hot tub.

Ayesha Osborne and Jennifer Hernandez talk about their adventures over the weekend.

Amber Rivas and Amber Elkins take a break from class and find time for a little chat in the hallway.

Seniors Holly and Crystal enjoy another beautiful sunset in Key West.

Steven Lowe and Sam Shaw seem to be pondering who to take to Homecoming this year.

These two have something up their sleeves.

Zeph Allen and Chet Poller use their time during lunch to just chill.

This group relaxes in the shade to get in some gossip time.

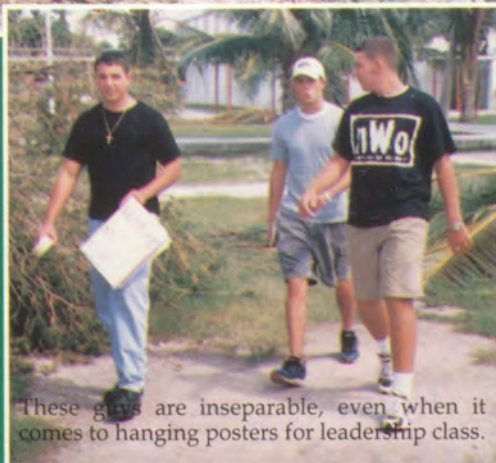

These three amigos help each other out with math homework.

These two take time out of their conversation to watch their passersby.

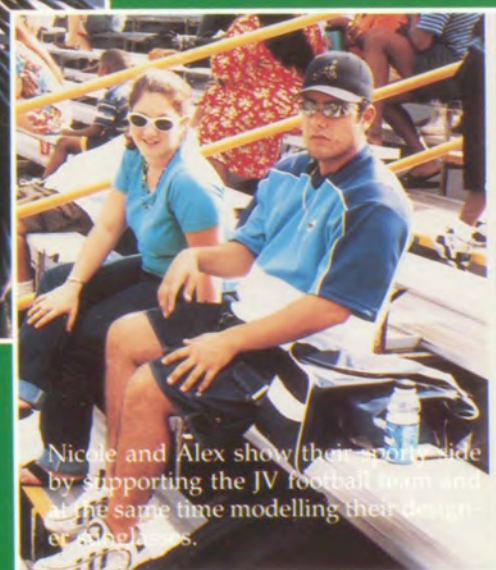

The 6,7,8 boys practice their pyramid for the big game today.

These guys are inseparable, even when it comes to hanging posters for leadership class.

It must be nice when all your friends listen intently to what you have to say.

Nicole and Alex show their sports side by supporting the JV football team and doing some time modelling their designer shoes.

"The fish was this big" Alicia Rossi exclaims. Her buddy Chelsea Snell disagrees.

This group of friends seem hard at work. Everybody gets a participation grade today.

Munch Your Lunch

Danielle Avel, Ben Wells, Jessica Velasquez, Heather Weidman and Robert Huffman take an alternative to the cafeteria and enjoy their lunch outside. These students even get their lunch from outside the school.

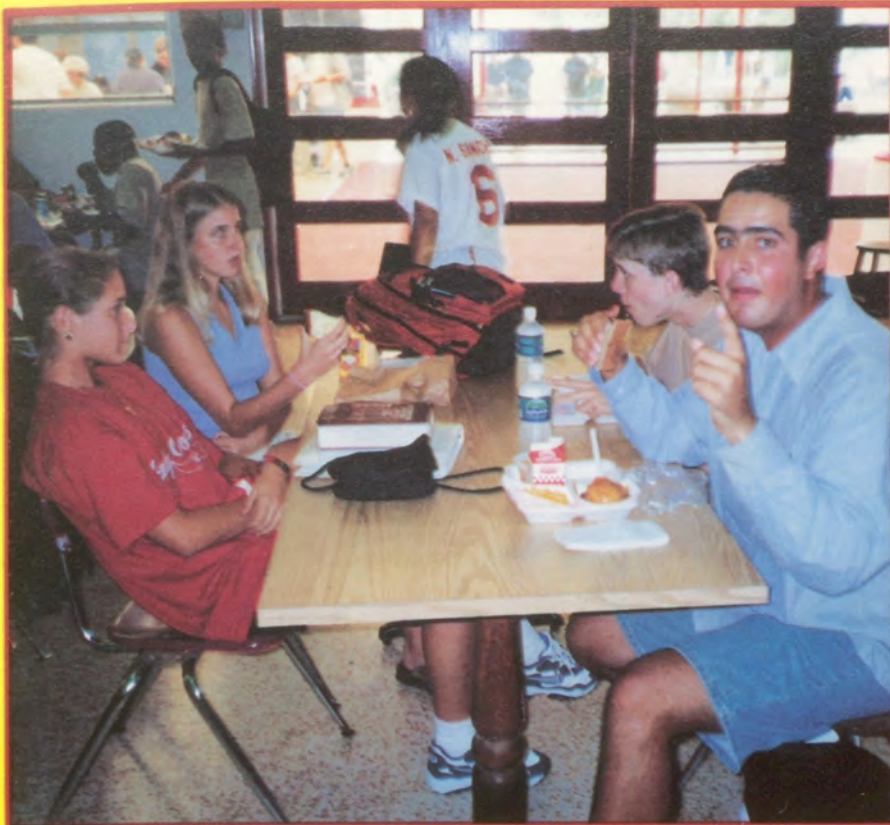

This group munches their food outside under the shady trees, where it is much cooler than out in the sun. Hey, Ashley, don't you like what your mom packed you?

Andrea Kosticova and Beverly Perez enjoy a quiet lunch for two. Sometimes the peace and quiet away from the cafeteria is a relaxing break from the overwhelming day.

These two also decided the ground was more comfortable.

We caught ya! These Seniors enjoy their lunch while discussing the usual Senior stuff... college, SATs, and recommendation letters. Julio, Larry, cheer Holly and Cindy up!!

These girls found a laid back way to eat lunch. They sat where they could stretch out and get comfortable.

Freshmen feel the need to stick together their first year of high school. Even if it means crowding this many people at one table.

Joey Britz, John Darling and Timmy Kirshner believe that milk does the body good. Hey, Timmy, maybe now you can do that back flip and not break your arm.

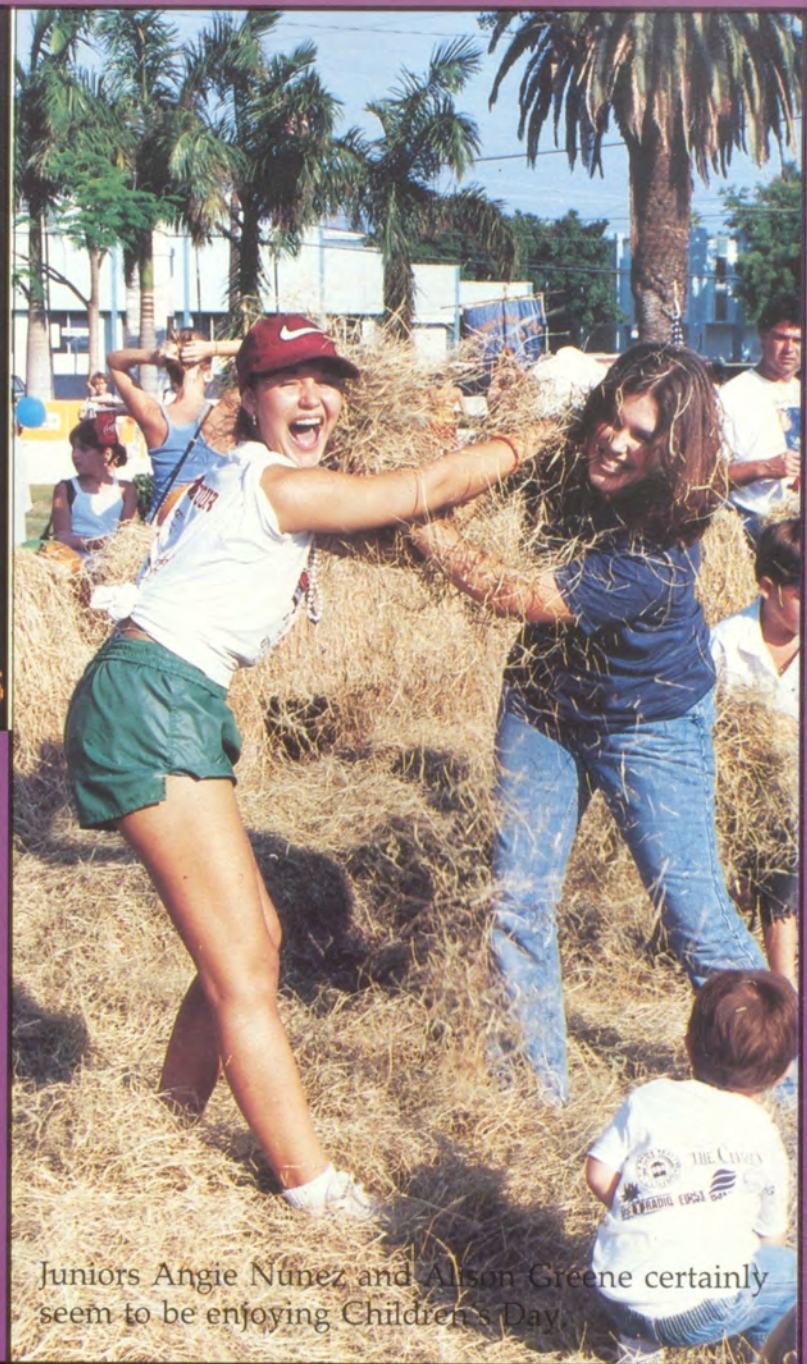

Dadu, Andrea Millian, and Shanta Jordon have a serious discussion while eating during lunch, while Penny Jackson and Alvin Scott clown around.

Time-Honored Weekends

Juniors Julia Leahy, Kristin Story, Bonnie Stump and Grace Pita get ready for a night on the town.

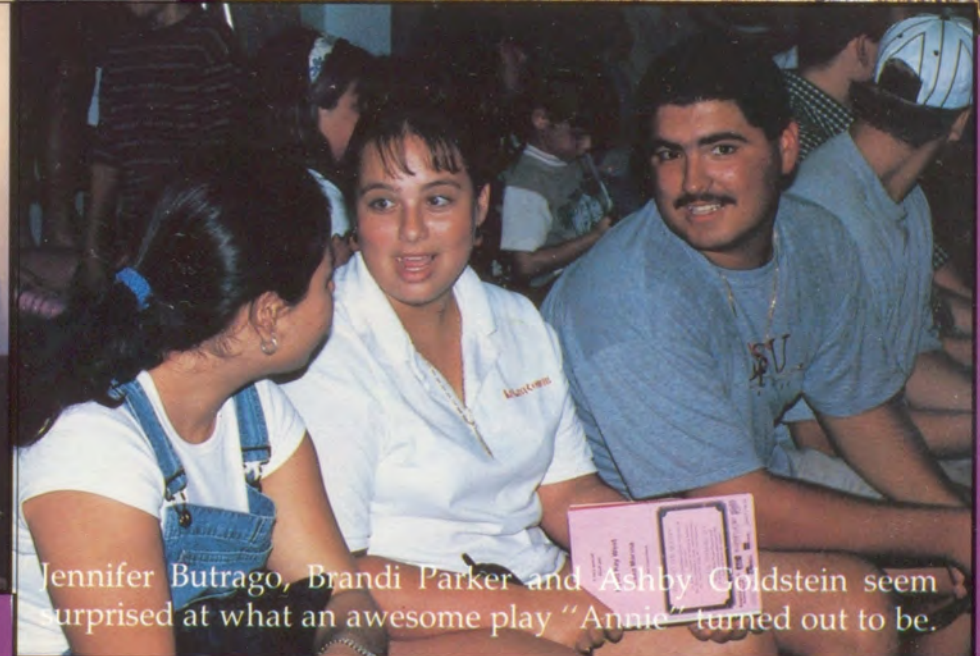

Juniors Angie Nunez and Alison Greene certainly seem to be enjoying Children's Day.

Junior Rebecca Tarentino styles and smiles while working at a football game. Lookin' good, Rebecca.

This group of friends play a game of Twister on their weekend. What color did it land on, Jesse?

Jennifer Butrago, Brandi Parker and Ashby Goldstein seem surprised at what an awesome play "Annie" turned out to be.

Juniors Alexis Disdier and Sarah Meyer enjoy themselves at a party.

This group of Seniors celebrate the beginning of their last year of school with a "Back to School Party."

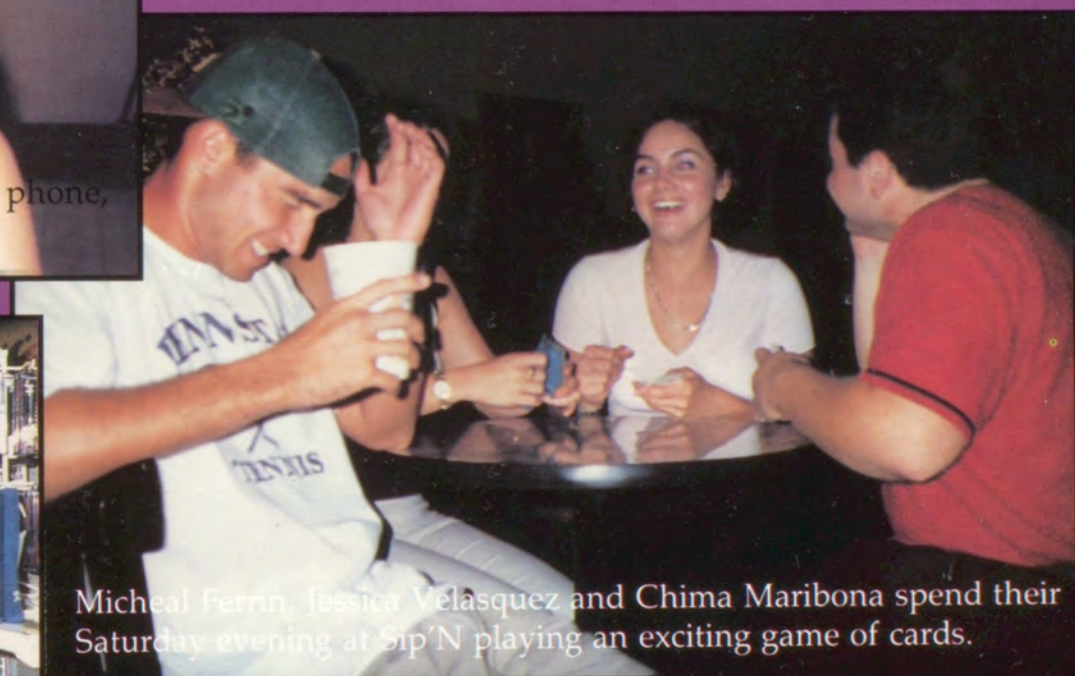

Sophomore Lily Carr gabs on the phone, while making plans for a night out.

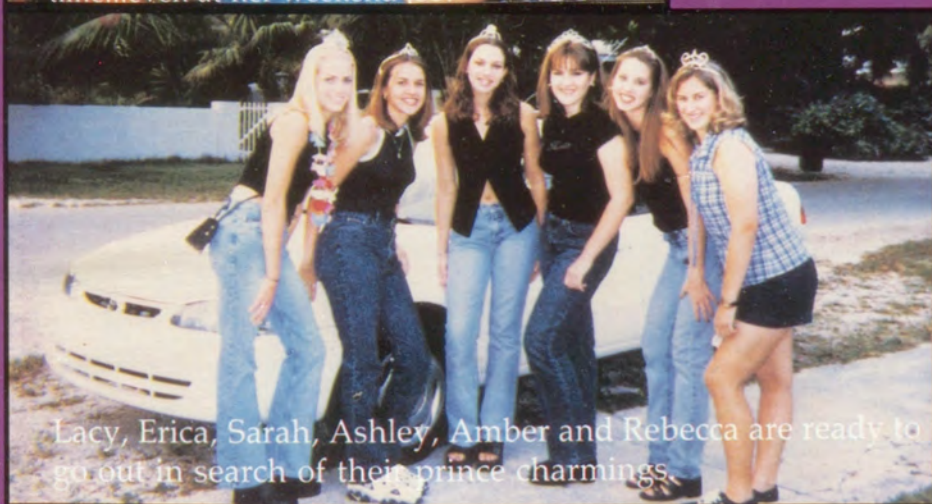

Alicia Garcia, Chris Ferrin, Edee Fallon and Lole Poole show their support for the Fighting Conchs by cheering in the stands.

Crystal Barroso finds a way to have a good time...even at her weekend job.

Micheal Ferrin, Jessica Velasquez and Chima Maribona spend their Saturday evening at Sip'N playing an exciting game of cards.

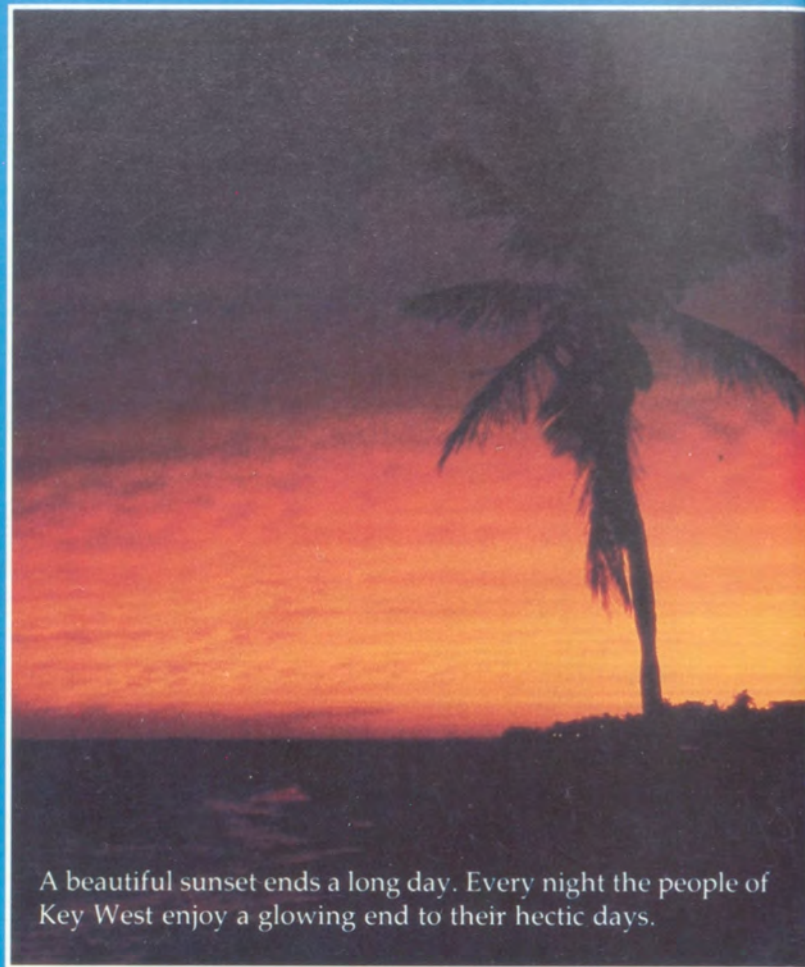

Lacy, Erica, Sarah, Ashley, Amber and Rebecca are ready to go out in search of their prince charmings.

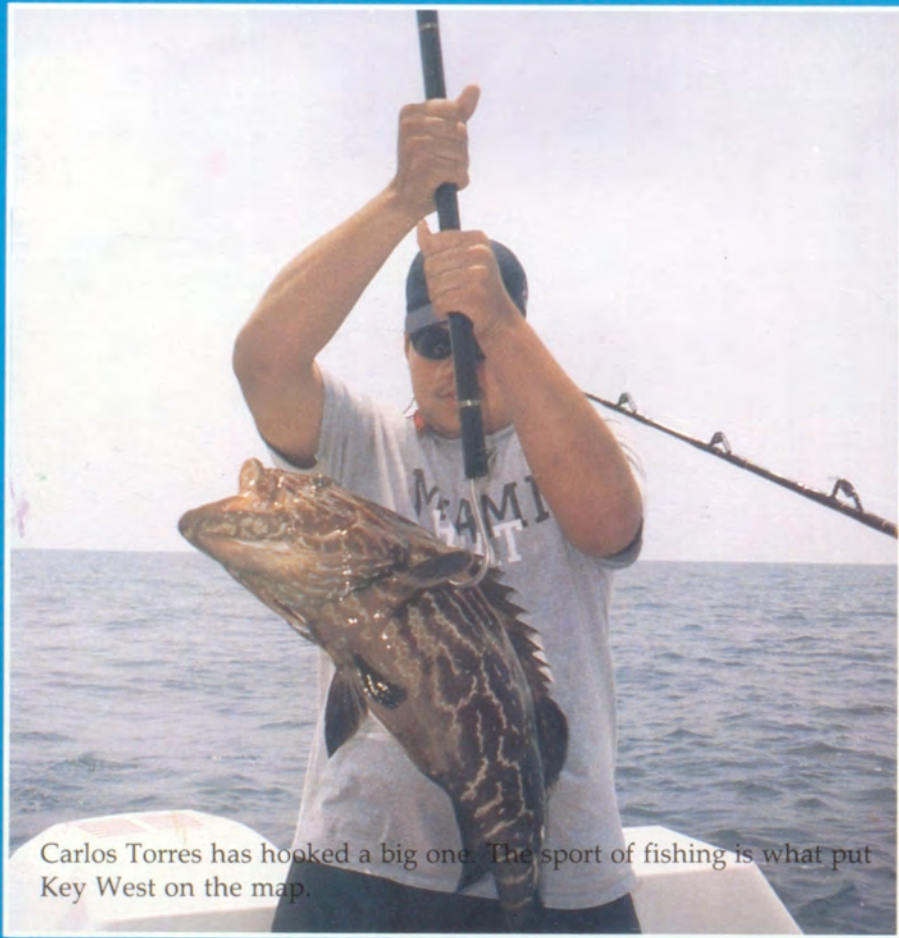

Alisa, Nicole, Shakti, and Christina are all smiles after attending a Matchbox 20 concert.

A beautiful sunset ends a long day. Every night the people of Key West enjoy a glowing end to their hectic days.

Carlos Torres has hooked a big one. The sport of fishing is what put Key West on the map.

After a hard day out on the boat Chris Ferrin shows off his fish, as well as his buff bod.

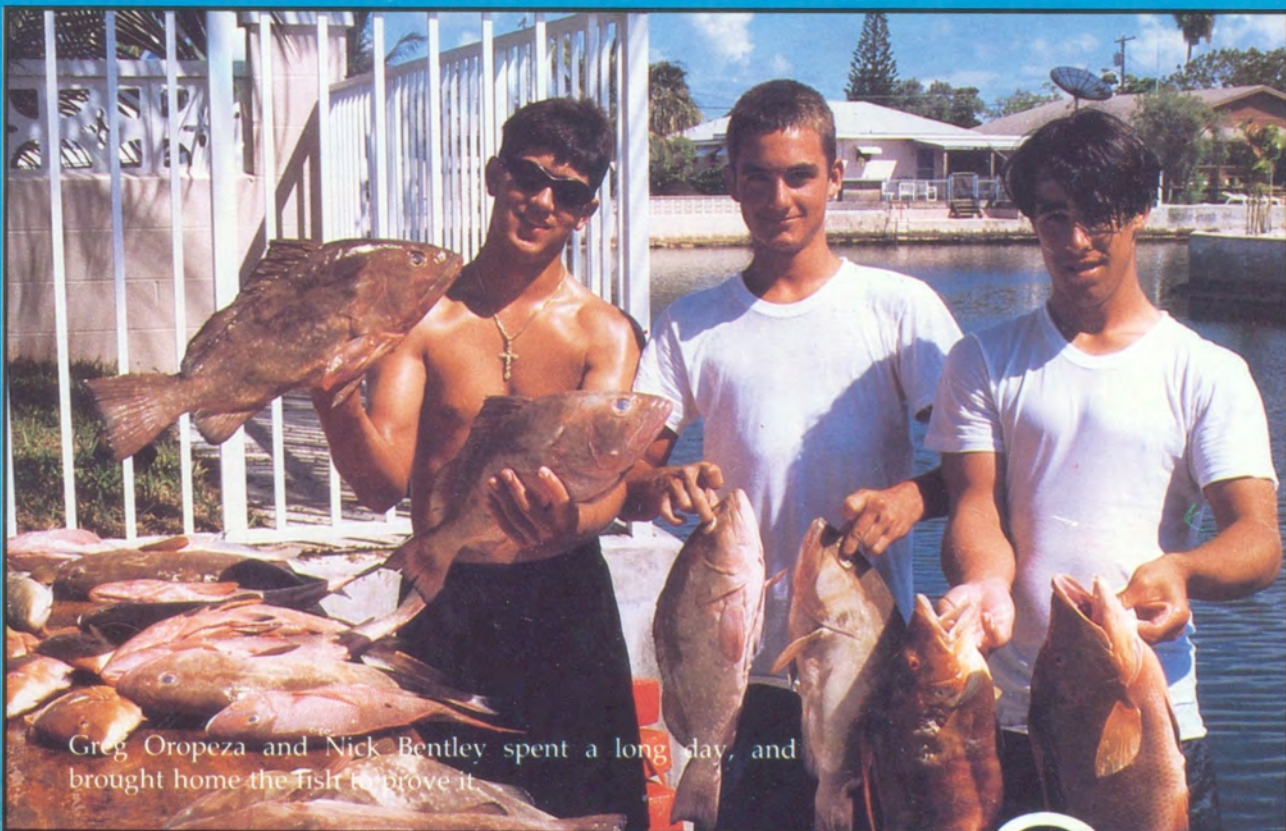

ENDLESS

Troy Phillips takes surfing to a new level. Underwater. Everybody knows how talented Troy is when it comes to the water. Keep riding those waves, Troy.

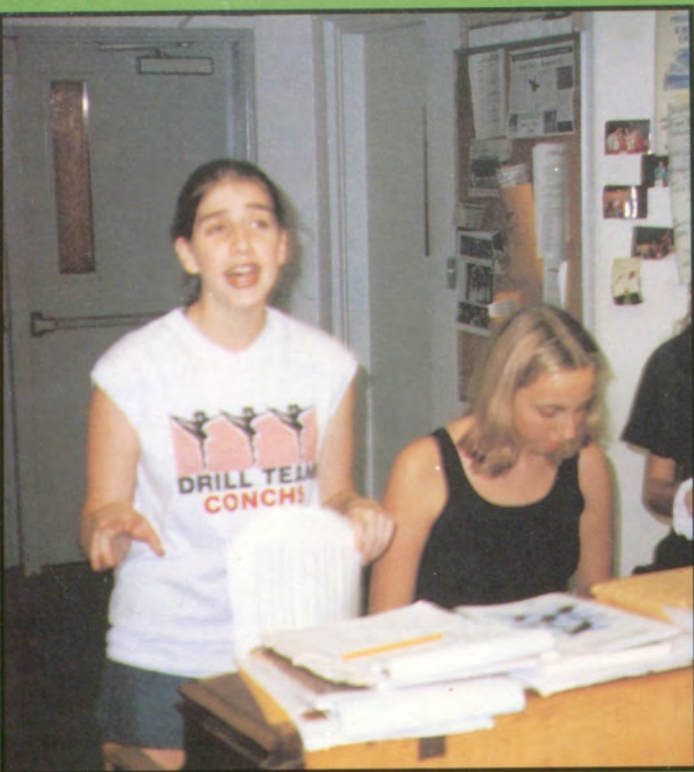

Angela Davila and Jessica Cranney go snorkeling in the beautiful waters of Hawaii.

Greg Oropeza and Nick Bentley spent a long day, and brought home the fish to prove it.

TIDES

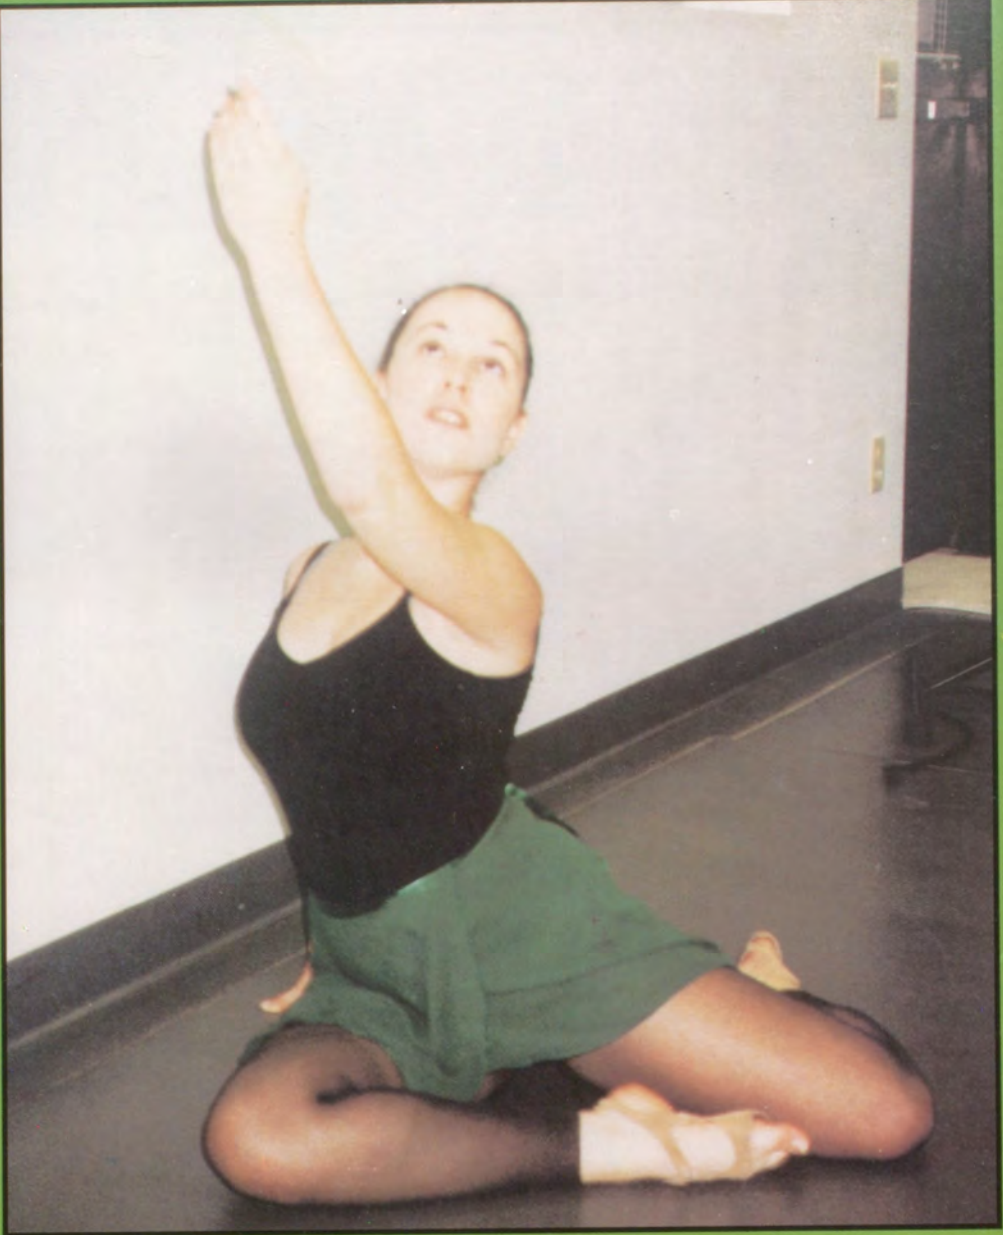

Tal Yardini and Rachel Bender show off two different talents. Rachel plays the piano, while Tal sings.

Monique Thiel exhibits her ability to paint. She helps design the backdrop for the Senior float.

Shamika Leland, Josh Hayden and Crystal Barroso show off their talent in cooking class.

Samantha Reynolds practices modern dance. Modern dance is a more relaxed, less disciplined form of ballet. This talent takes skill, gracefulness and lots of practice. You look great , Sam!!

Amber Mulcahy, Clinton Curtis and Holly Hopkins sing and dance to "Easy Street" in the production "Annie, Jr."

Practice Makes Perfect

Julio Barroso conducts Senior band members in a practice for their Homecoming parade performance. Their talent is obvious, because you can hear them from miles away.

Kelly Germann jumps over a high post on her trusty horse Jewel. Many people take up hobbies and find unique ways of spending their free time, whether they have to travel long distances or a quick drive. Students know what they're good at and will stop at nothing to enjoy their hobbies.

Christina Buckmaster is starting off her modeling career. Be on the look out for this covergirl in the future.

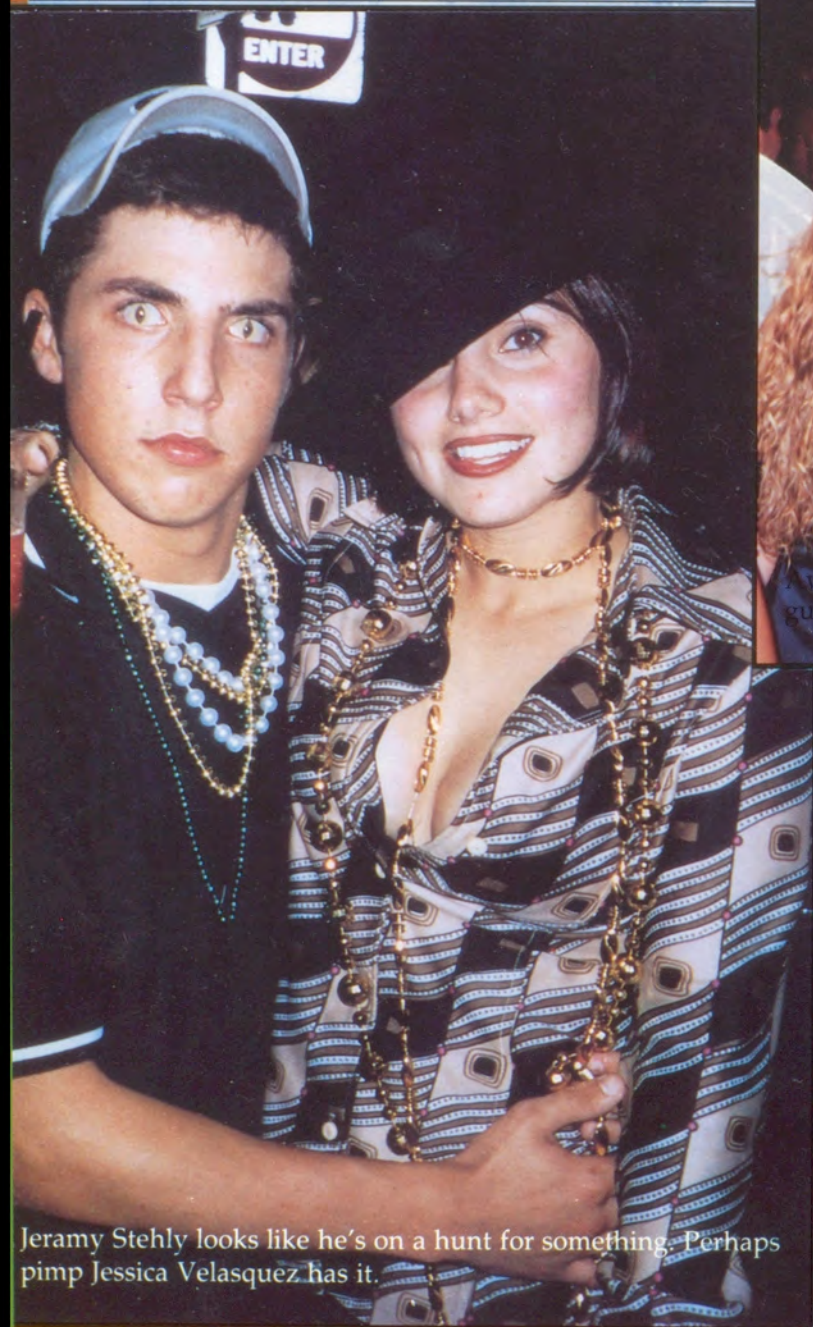

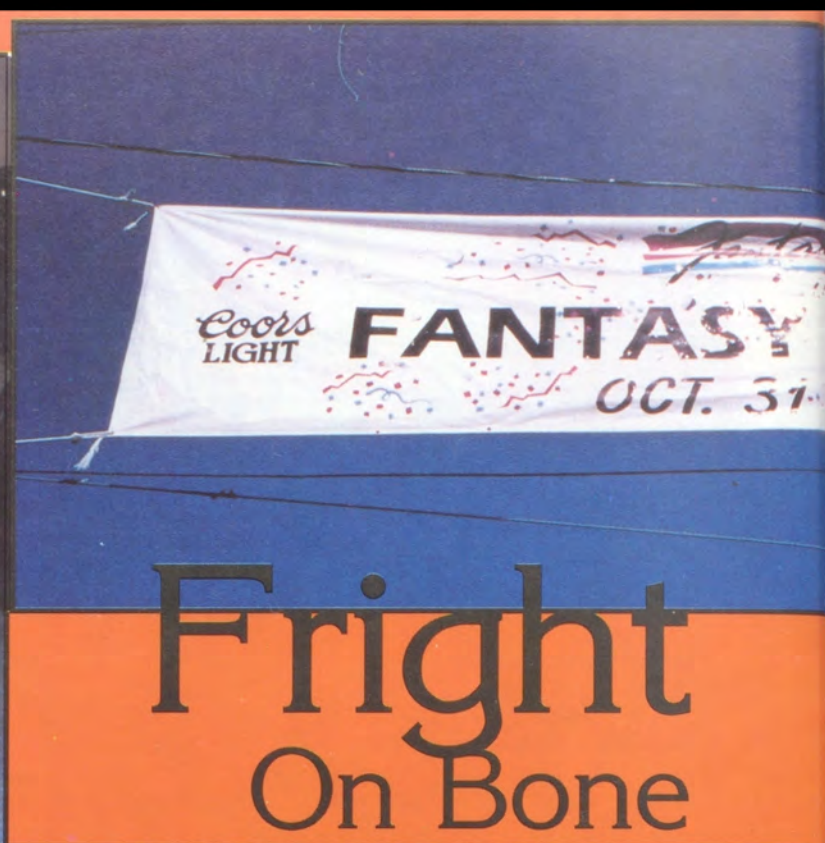

Francesca Santiago styles Aileen Rowe's hair for the Homecoming parade. This talent runs in the family.

Talents

21

Christina, Aileen, Josie, Jesse and Monique say "Spice Up Your Life!" on Fantasy Fest.

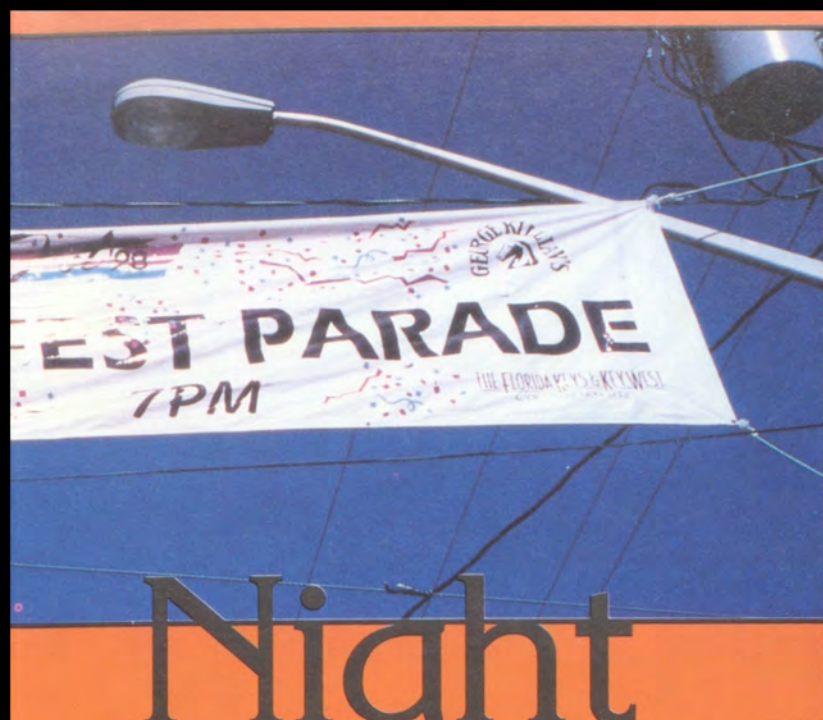

Jeremy Stehly looks like he's on a hunt for something. Perhaps pimp Jessica Velasquez has it.

Awww! Don't Jeremy Taylor and Lauren Rodriguez look so angelic?

This group of Junior girls has fun on Fright Night.

Night Island

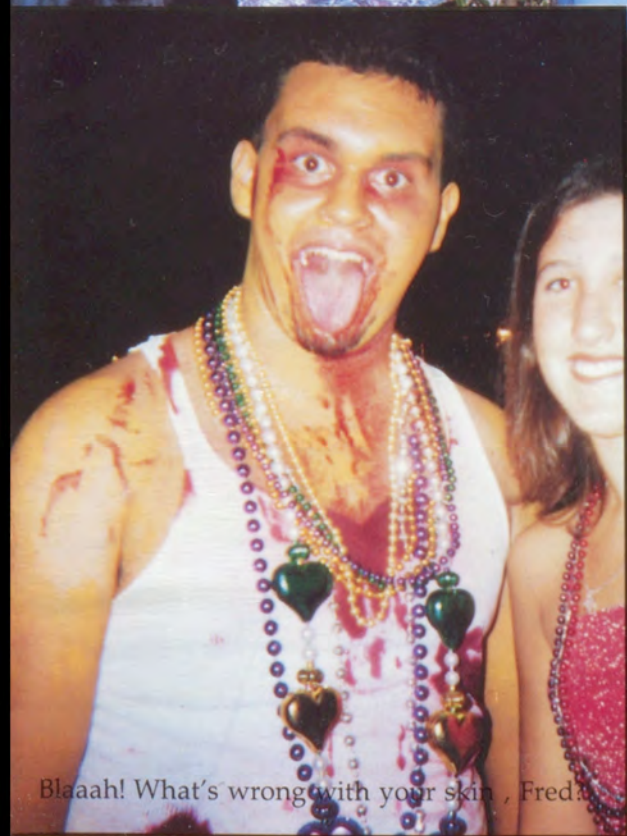

This group seems to be enjoying their wild Fantasy Fest night!

Christian, Jenny, James, Holly and Micheal get all dressed up to work the Coast Guard haunted house.

Ashley Estenoz, Amber Kent, and Sarah Revelin are all feathered up tonight.

Blaaah! What's wrong with your skin, Fred?

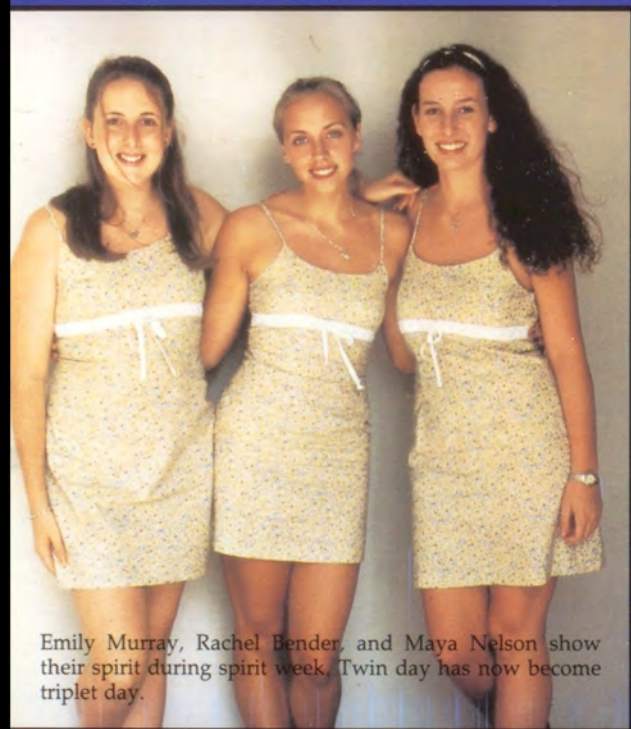

Look how sweet Cathi Hart and Steven Lowe look. So, is that how you got all those beads, Cathi?

Isn't Dawn the center of attention? Michele Rowley signs her toga, while Natasha Green waits patiently. Hey, girls you all got a dolla?

Emily Murray, Rachel Bender, and Maya Nelson show their spirit during spirit week. Twin day has now become triplet day.

Kristin Walterson and Juan Menendez sport the same outfit on twin day. What happened to the goat lady?

The class of 2000 dresses in black and shows its spirit for the class.

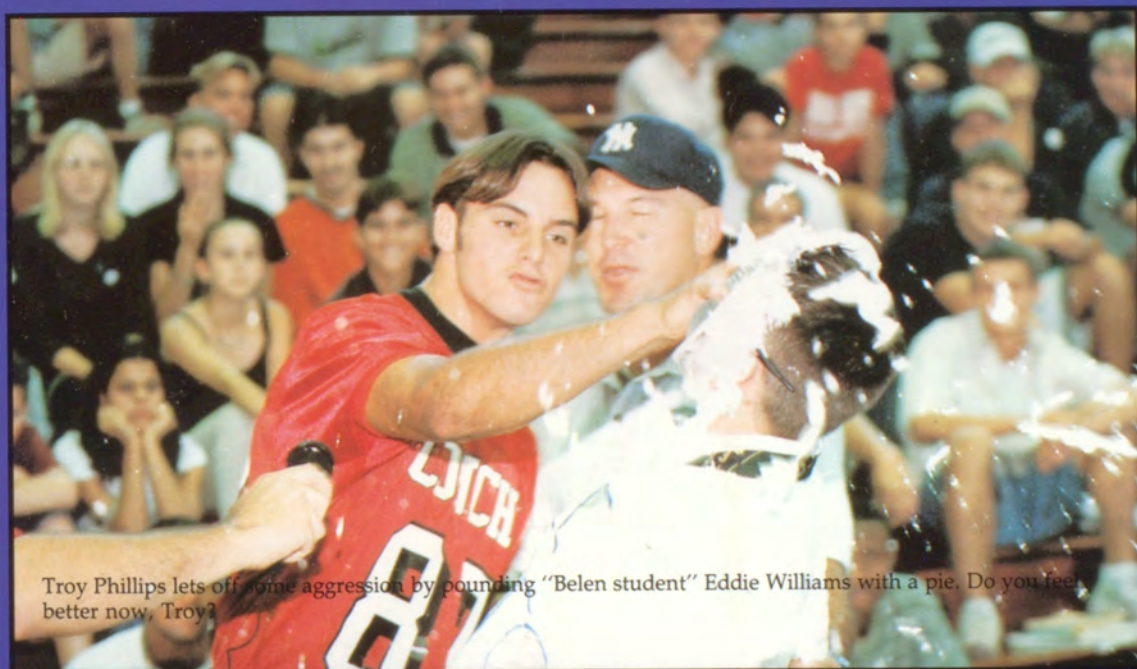

Spirited Traditions

This group of girls decided it would be fun to dress up in white sheets to show off their spirit.

Mr. Boza and Ralph Garcia show the spirit and their drug awareness. How cute, lil' cubans!

Troy Phillips lets off some aggression by pounding "Belen student" Eddie Williams with a pie. Do you feel better now, Troy?

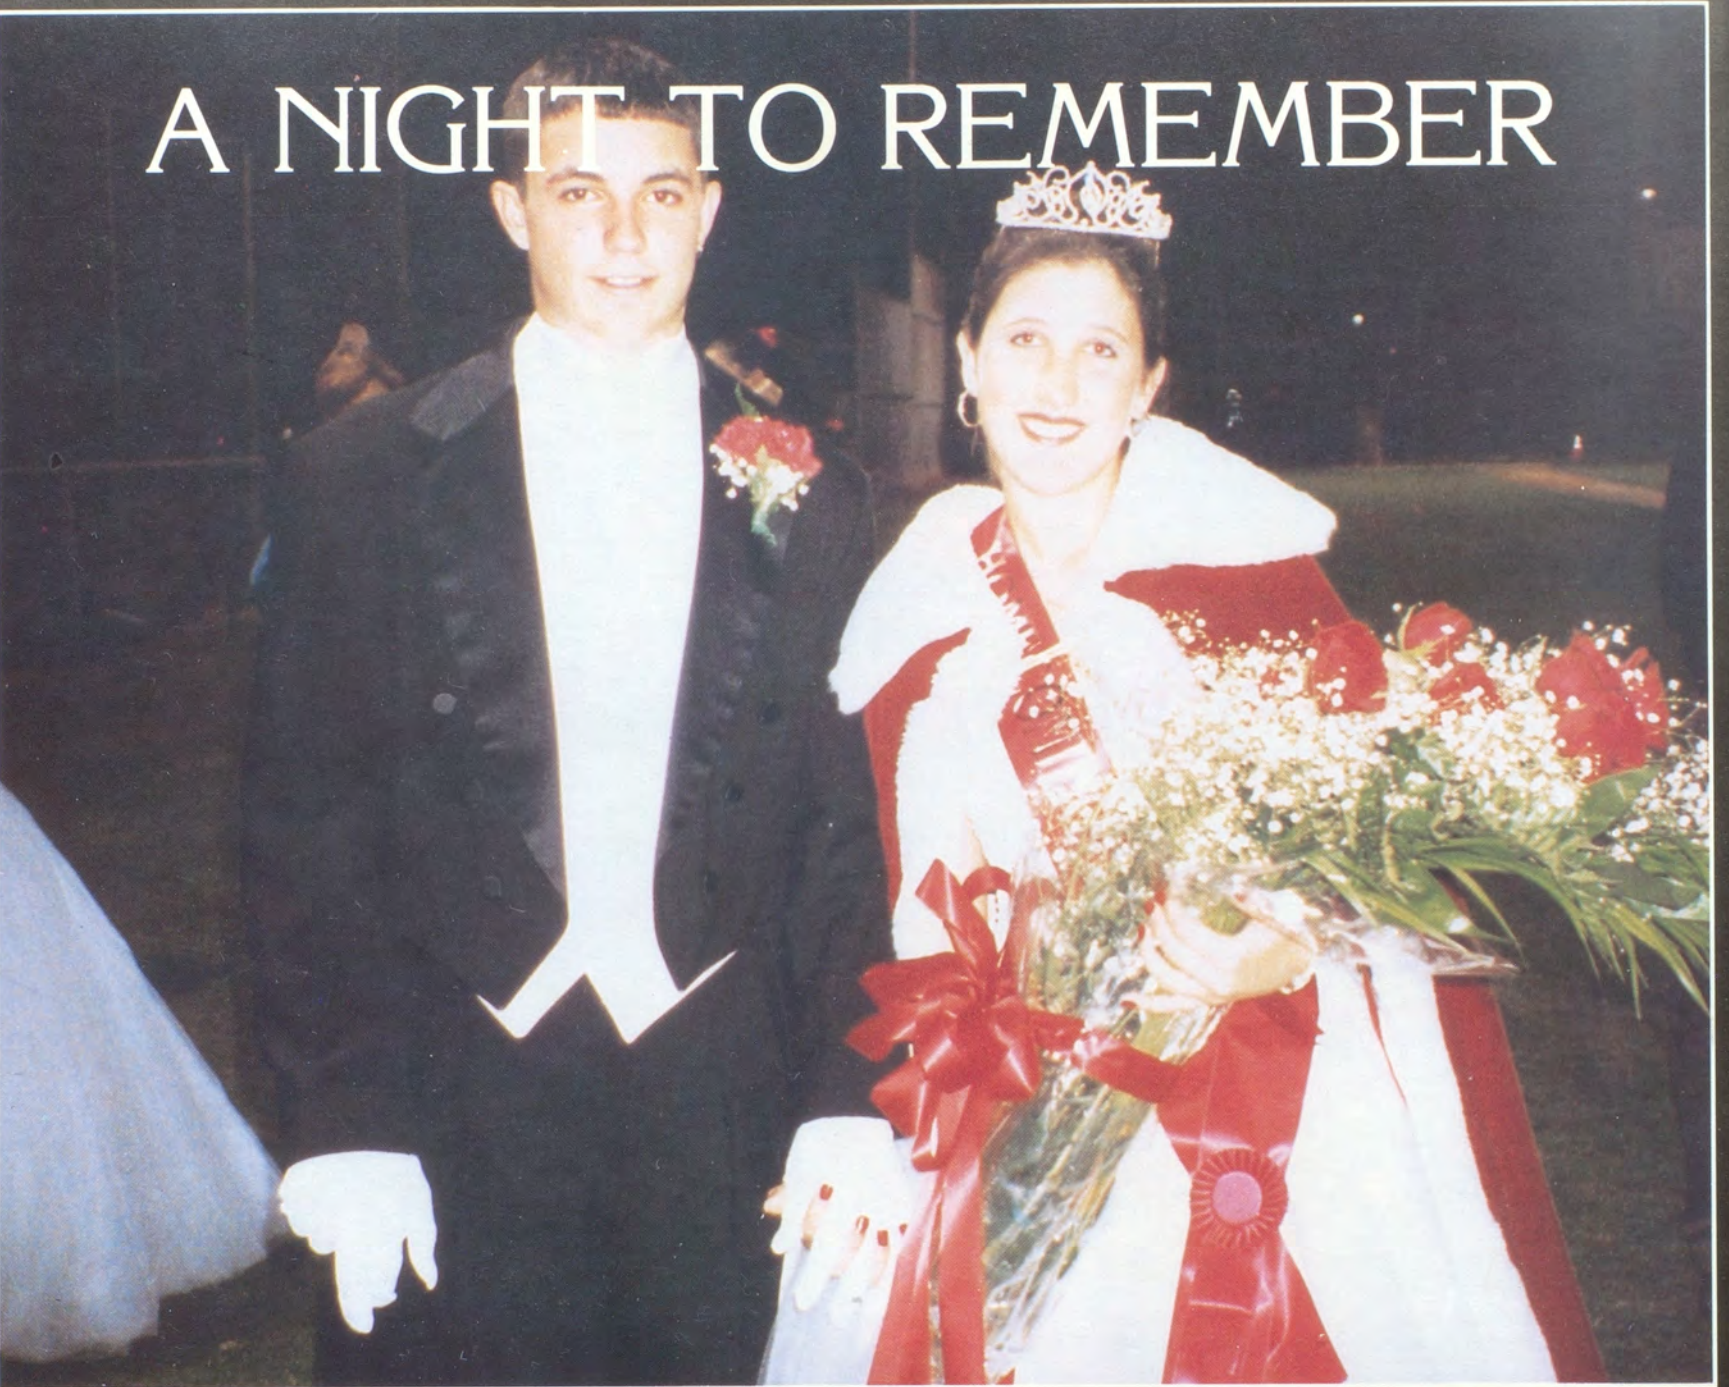

Lissette Cobo and Teresa Miller get creative with the twin day outfits. Did you two just escape from Barney playhouse?

The Homecoming court and their escorts beat the faculty in a series of relays at the Homecoming pep rally.

A NIGHT TO REMEMBER

Congratulations Carly! Carly Bernaldi was crowned the 98/99 Homecoming Queen on November 6. She's president of Student Council, vice-president of Interact and a prime runner of the Girl's Varsity Cross Country team. She works really hard for the school and well deserved the title of Homecoming Queen.

Jessica Cranney and her escort Sean Morales. Jessica is co-captain of cheerleading and secretary of Senior Executive Board.

Angela Davila and escort Marcus Davila. Angela is captain of cheerleading and treasurer of Student Council.

Aileen Rowe and her escort Billy Spottswood. Aileen is president of Senior Executive Board and a essential part of the Girl's Varsity Softball Team.

Monique Thiel and her escort Jeramy Stehly. Monique is vice-president of Senior Executive Board, secretary of Student Council and co-captain of Conchettes.

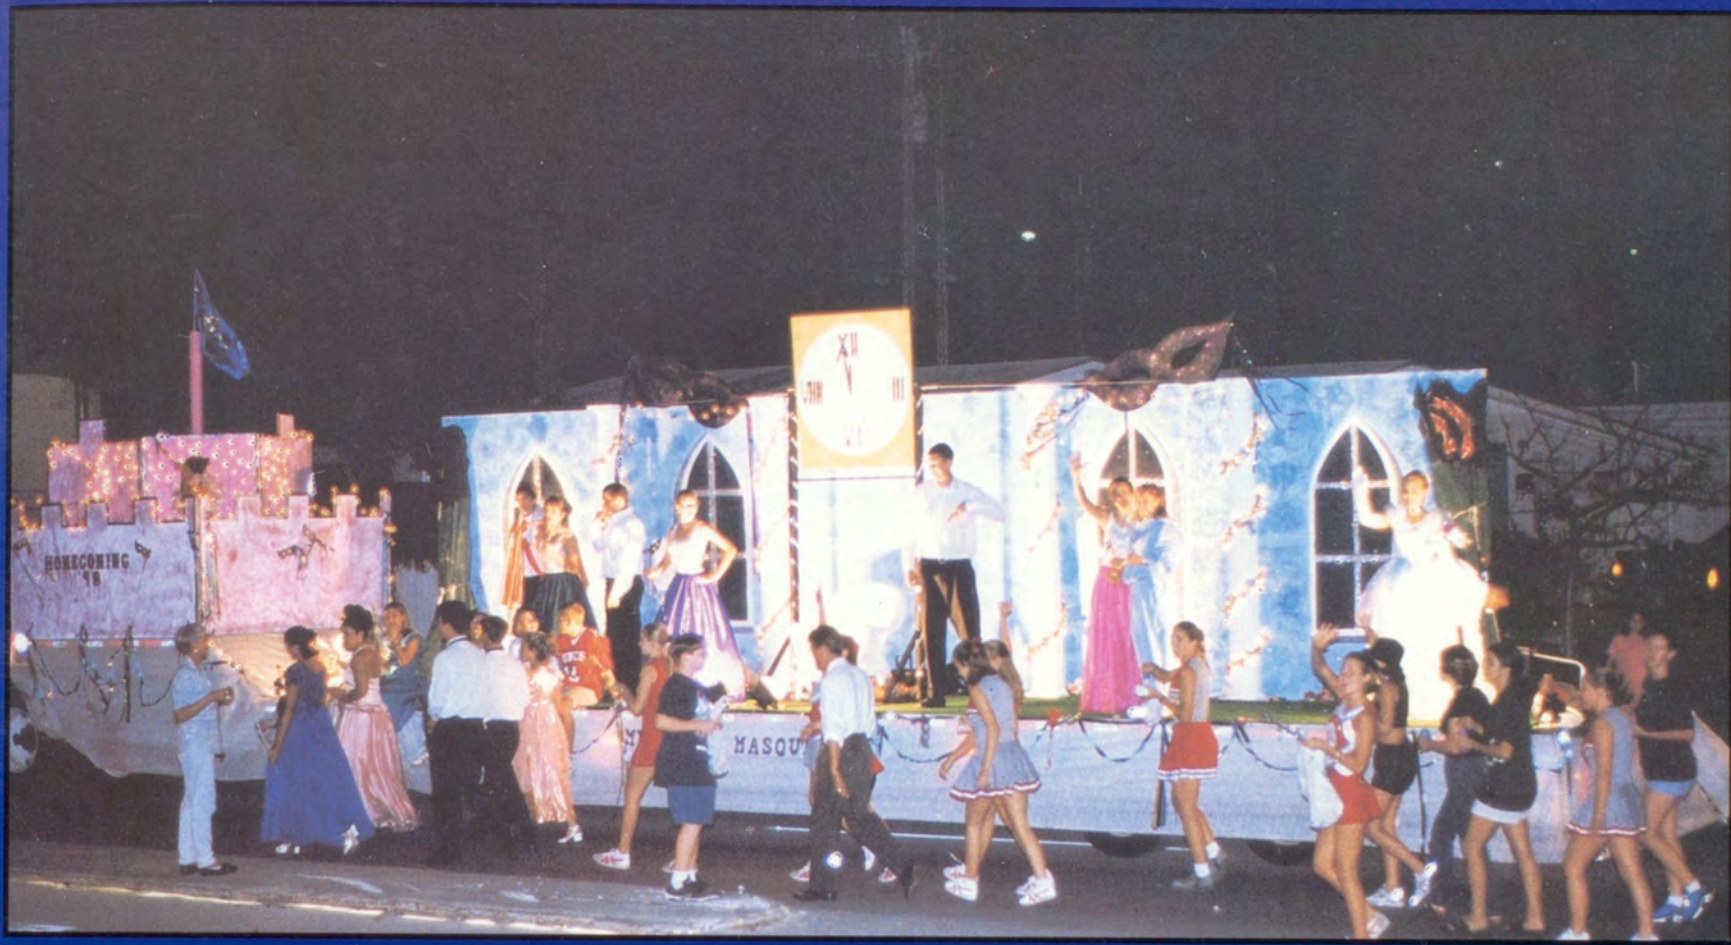

Masquerade

The Freshmen class took a whole new perspective with their float. It was called "Midnight Madness" and it was about a pep rally held for the basketball team. It included people dressed as cheerleaders and referees. For being newcomers they put forth their best effort and received fourth place. Freshmen never know what to expect, but these guys seem to have their act together.

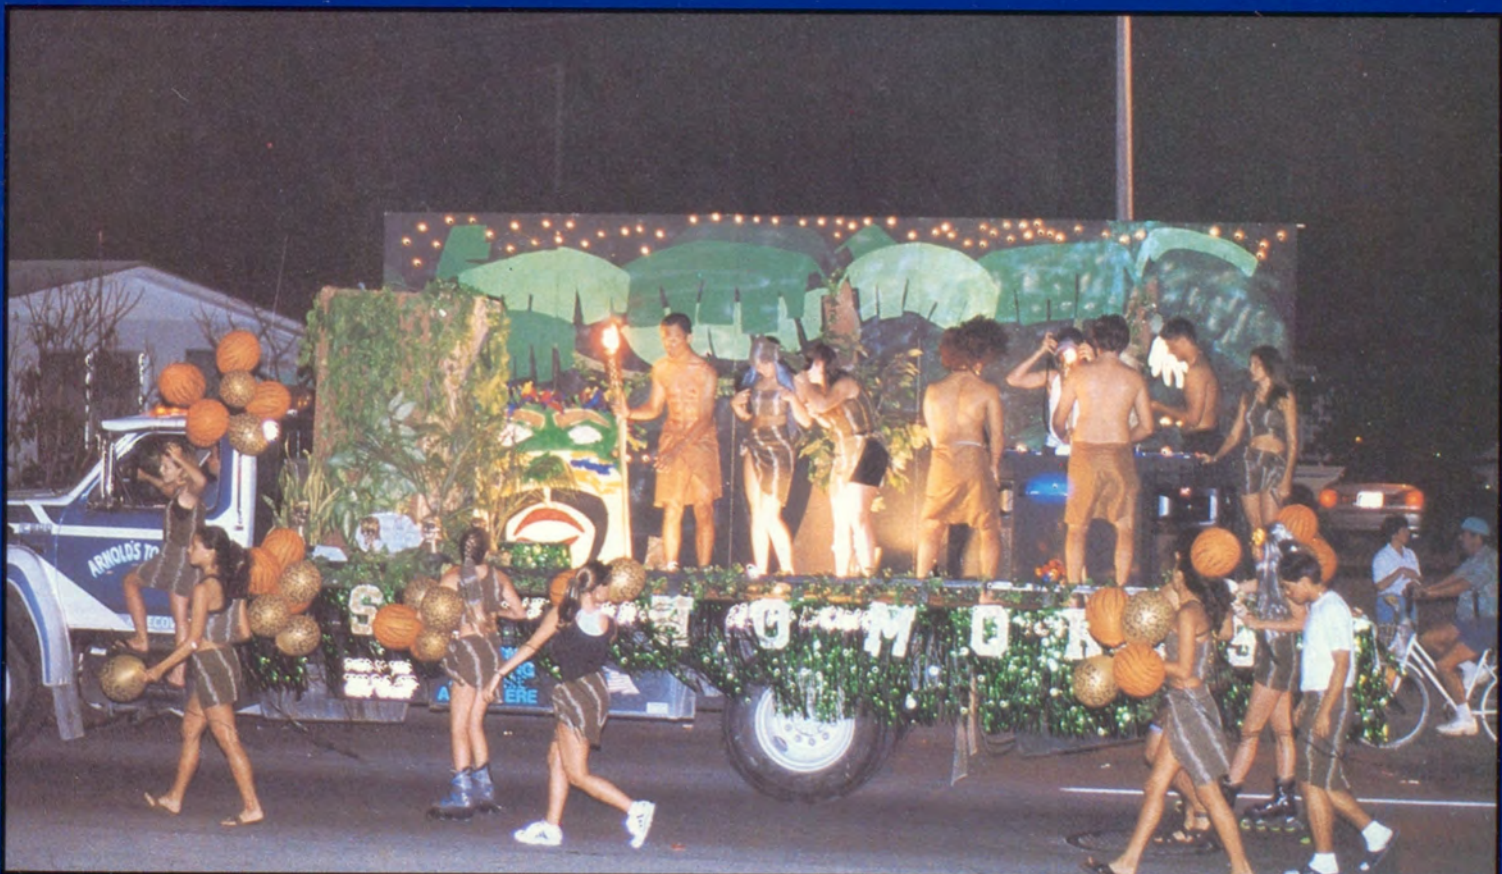

Parade

The Junior class whisked us away to Cinderella's ball, equipped with ballroom dancing and great costumes. They then transformed the ballroom into a football field. Very creative, guys. The Junior class always has a great float and until this year has received 1st place. This year they had to settle for second.

The class of 2001 took their float into the heart of the jungle for a sacrifice of Belen. They showed a lot of creativity, especially with their costumes. Cavemen and women roamed Flagler and entertained the crowd. And who knows, maybe their sacrifice helped us win the game. They took home the third place trophy. Keep up the hard work, guys.

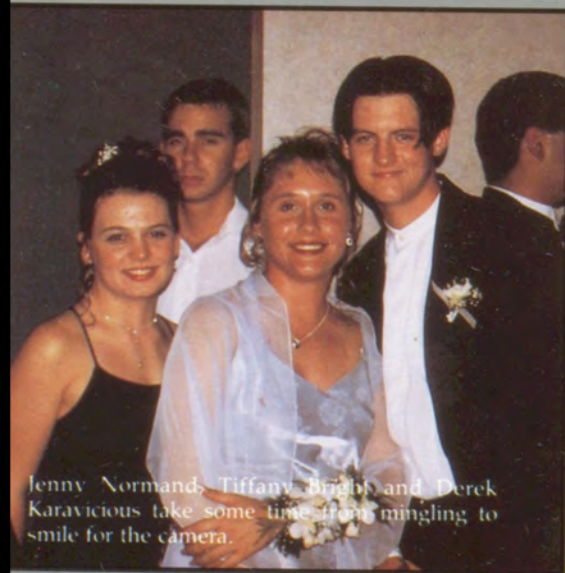

Midnight

James Bunch and his date are a familiar sight. I'm sure everybody saw them dancing the night away. The Casa Marina was small, but everybody managed to fit on the dance floor.

The crowd looks like they're enjoying their dinner.

Natalie McIntyre and Richard Ware are just entering the dance. Are you guys ready for a fun night?

This group tries to squeeze all their friends at one table. Looks like they're having a lot of fun.

Seniors Will Gordon and Shakti Assouline got dressed up 20s style, as a flapper and gangster. Cute idea, guys!

Entertaining your date is not just keeping the good work.

the Uniqueness do sn't stop

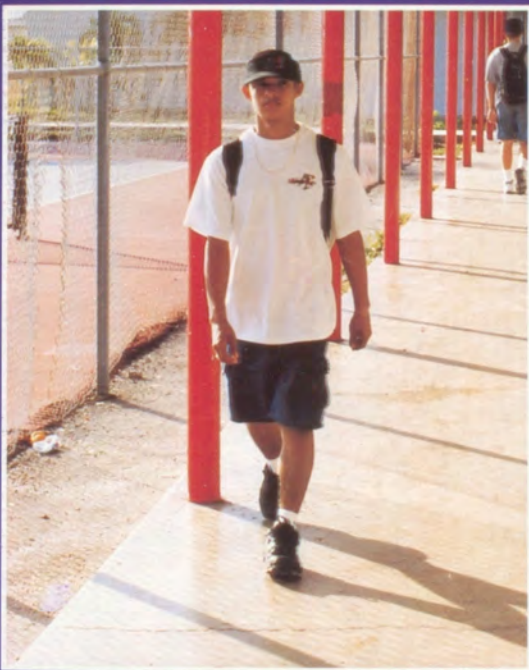

One thing that can be said about the students of Key West High School is that we are Unique. And the diversity of the student body is one of the things that makes this school so great. The students participate in many clubs, sports and other extra-curricular activities. We also spend a lot of time doing homework, and doing "stuff" with our friends and classmates.

One thing that the Seniors have to think about is that this is our last year with our classmates - with our friends. Most of us have been in school together since kindergarten, and now we are leaving the Monroe County school system and moving on with our lives, leaving our friendships behind. Graduation will be a bittersweet event that will change all of our lives forever. It is an end that is the beginning of the rest of our lives.

The other classes should keep this in mind. Keep involved and make plenty of friends. Have fun. Because too soon, it will all be over. And the friendships that shape our lives will be gone.

Seniors, the Class of '99, have a lot to think about as their high school years come to an end. Classes aren't as easy as they were when they were Freshmen. They also have to start applying to colleges early in the year. The Seniors are unique due to the pride and dedication they have shown throughout their years. We have also seen all their enthusiasm in their involvement and participation in school functions, such as pep rallies, Spirit Week, and in their service in the various Clubs and Organizations. The top class has shown much leadership and commitment throughout the traditional events held at Key West High School. Most Seniors feel that graduating from high school and being independent will be one of the greatest challenges of their lives. This group of Seniors shows off their spirit by wearing their class shirts, and the color red, letting everybody know that Key West High School has "Saved The Best For Last."

The Class of 2000 will always be remembered as the first class to graduate in the new millennium.

Traditionally, Juniors are represented by the color black. Black can mean many things such as strength and stability. Black also goes along with the expression "In the dark" referring to feeling. We may feel that way, but we need to know which way we are going in life because our senior year is creeping upon us. Also the Juniors represent the color of night, like in the phases of the moon. We are in the third quarter of our high school years. Three years are down, and only one to go. Our memories of Key West High School will always be with us and we are looking forward to another year. We are ready for whatever may come our way.

The Sophomore Class of 2001 are not new and certainly not forgotten. This unique group of students is intelligent and have a lot of school spirit. Many Sophomores are involved in sports, and some have after school jobs. With after school jobs, the sophomores learn responsibility and ways to succeed in what they choose. No matter what, this group of students know that high school is a time of learning, and is also a time for growing. Wherever we go in life, and whatever we do, a part of us will reflect the unique traditions of KWHS. The tradition continues with us.

For the class of 2002, this year was the beginning of the end of their childhood. The next few years will greatly impact their future. The new freshmen seem to have developed great pride in their new school. When asked about her first year at Key West High School, freshman Stephanie Thompson replied, "I like how we have more freedom to do what we want." Many freshmen like having the opportunity of meeting new people. Making the transition from the "pick of the litter" to the "bottom of the barrel" can be very overwhelming, but the Class of 2002 has conquered that change with lots of Conch Spirit. They will carry on pride and school spirit throughout the next four years, which will make traditions continue for generations to come.

These freshmen pep-spaud members are sure pumped-up for the big varsity football game. Their enthusiasm and school spirit rubs off on the rest of us. Go Conchs!

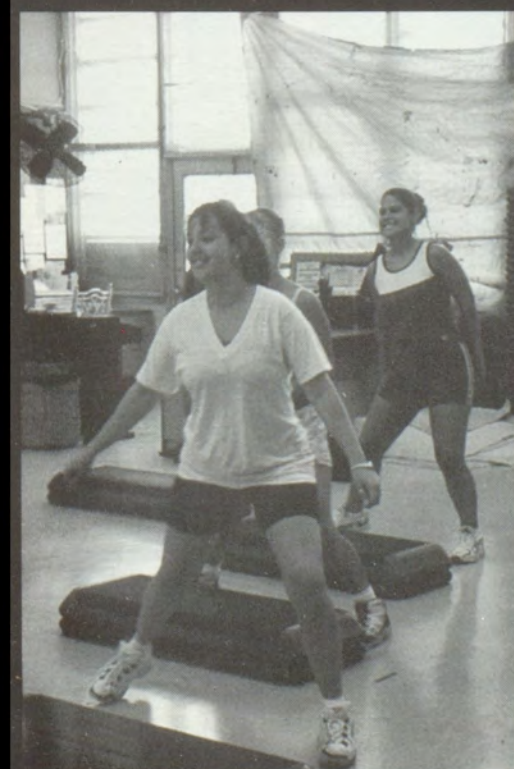

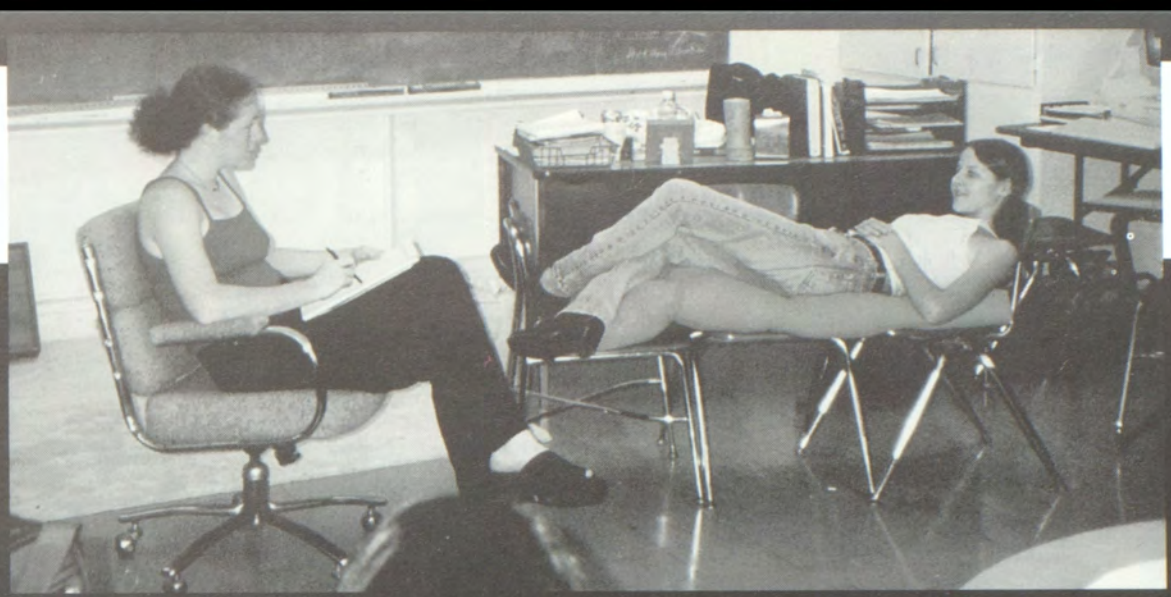

Freshmen Mary Meyer is enjoying the breeze in the halls while she has some free time to talk with a friend.

the Excellence is never ending

At Key West High School, we pride ourselves in our commitment to Excellence. We realize that school comes first, and fun comes second. But, sometimes we have a problem following this good rule of thumb. So, we make school fun. And can you blame us? Whether we are bungee jumping off of J-wing, doing step aerobics, singing, acting, or painting, school is a blast. But, when all is said and done and all of the fun has been had, we will leave these halls with a confidence - that the fun we had and the lessons we learned will stay with us forever. The excellence is never ending.

Administration & Staff

A lot of things have changed this school year, but the biggest change is the addition of our new principal, Mr. James Hollins. Mr. Hollins has been visiting the Keys for 20 years, and when given the opportunity to be principal at KWHS, he gladly accepted. Mr. Hollins has lived in Florida all of his life and is a graduate of the University of Southern Florida. He came here from Daytona on his boat, which he lives on. He loves the Keys and its numerous water activities. He mostly enjoys diving and fishing. After Mr. Hollins' first impressions of the physical state of KWHS, he decided that it needed a lot of work. Some of the things on his agenda included renovations to the gym, auditorium, and tennis courts. Some new additions he hoped to make were behind the school, such as adding tiki huts.

His first impression of the student body was it resembled that of a typical Florida school. For the most part, the student body looked alike, dressed alike and acted alike. But he also mentioned that prom here was different from any other Florida schools. Most Florida schools have prom between February and April.

Next year there is the possibility of changes in the block scheduling, but this is not up to KWHS administration. The new governor may have the opportunity to make changes to the number of credits required to graduate, thus requiring the new schedule.

Mr. Hollins is happy to be here, with great teachers and a good school. He wants KWHS to be the best and will do everything to keep it that way. "The bottom line is I like to win," Mr. Hollins said.

ENGLISH

Reinacting scenes, writing, analyzing, and reviewing basic grammar are just some of the many things that are offered in English courses. Enjoy your projects because English is not all fun and games. No one leaves KWHS with out learning the basic grammar skills needed for everyday life. Great teachers educate their students with works of well-known authors from many different cultures. Many days are spent learning, reading, and analyzing literature. Even though lesson plans are created for each day, debates can break out in English class and all kinds of new ideas can pop into teachers' and students' minds. So always remember great things are learned in Key West High School's English Department.

This student takes a break from her daily studies. This opportunity doesn't come along too often, so you must enjoy it while it lasts.

Rachael Sommers diligently works on an exercise in her creative writing workbook. This is a fairly new class to Key West High School. It is also a required class for all Sophomores.

Seniors Rebecca Rogan and Fausto Serrano and Juniors Emily Murray and Teegan Swindle are practicing and preparing their presentation for their class. Many students go through the pain of having to stand up in front of their peers and present a project. We hope that these students are well-prepared.

Above: Freshmen in Mrs. Ford's English class are paying very close attention to the television screen. Many teachers utilize the teaching equipment that is provided for them. Students should always appreciate the many different techniques teachers use to teach with. To the right: Juniors Teegan Swindle, Sohmer Rains and Senior Fausto Serrano are seen here in Ms. Hodgdon's class hanging out. Fausto, try to smile a little. You have two girls all to yourself.

Jenny Costarino really gets into her presentation! Her outfit and her knife sharpener/sword deserve an A for effort from Mrs. McLane's AP English class. Jenny, are you fighting someone in a jungle?!

Mrs. McLane's AP English class is full of methods of expression, such as acting and writing. Michael Ferrin and Ami Emanuel demonstrate one method by performing in front of the class.

Holly Schulte is working on her English IV paper. Many Seniors don't take their last year slacking off. As we see Holly working, it looks like she knows what it takes to get out of high school: do the work!

Mr. Fant is walking around the classroom handing back papers. One student closes his eyes and prays that when he gets his paper back it has an A on it. By the look on Mr. Fant's face, the grades are not that hot.

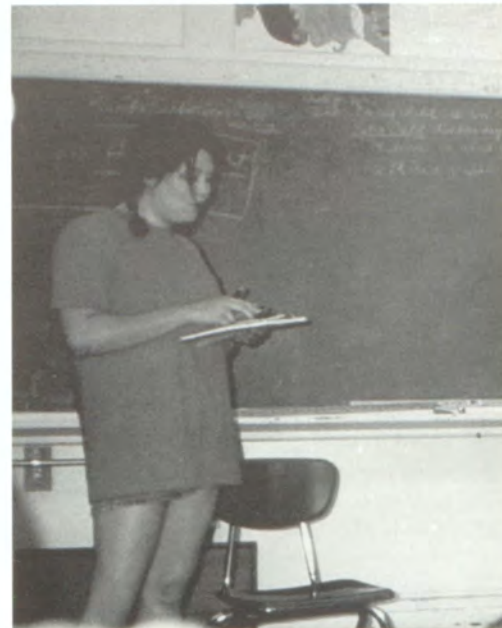

Chris Ferrin, you are working! WOW! We sure are glad that Mr. Spence took a picture of this. Now we know that you are capable of doing the work. We hope that you get an A on that paper.

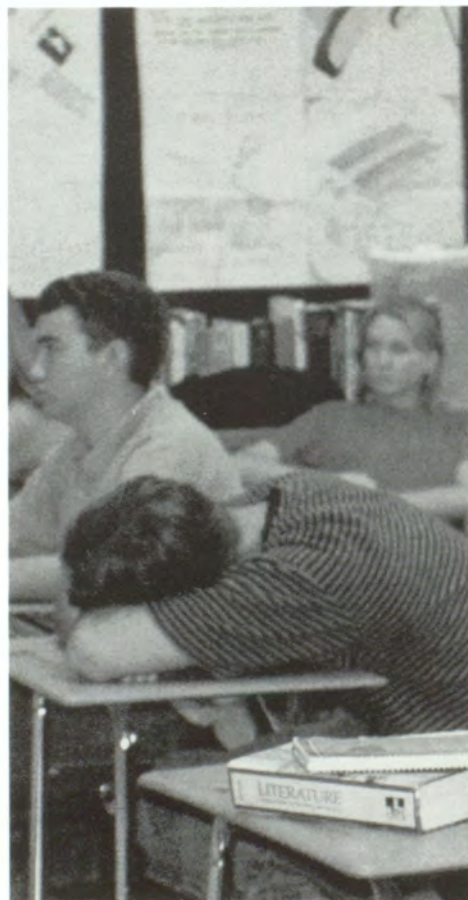

Sophomores in Mrs. Freer's class have free time to catch up on missing assignments. Usually not many students take the advantage and do the work. They rather catch up on the latest gossip.

Teri Moore teaches Mrs. McLane's Advanced Placement English class. This is one of the many presentations that are made in Mrs. McLane's class.

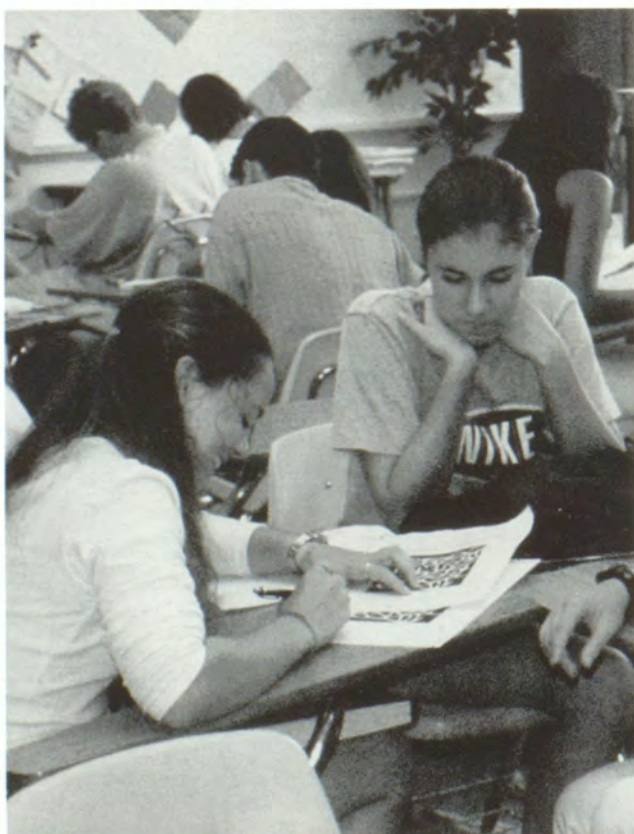

Mr. Fant is seen here interacting with his advanced reading class. Now most of them are getting just a little bit more help. Many students seem to be trying to learn what he just taught.

This group of students in Mr. Spence's class is working very diligently on their assignment. Teachers usually assign work so that students can get the chance to learn on their own. Work harder, Sophomores, you might just get an A!

Holly Schmidt and Larry Davila are very into the words coming out of Mrs. McLean's mouth. Cindy McDaniel seems off in space. Come back, Cindy, this information may be on a future test!

Above: Just another day in Mrs. Hodgdon's DE English class. As some students listen to Mrs. Hodgdon's lecture about Existentialism, others, like Jason McCoy, catch up on their sleeping skills. To the left: Mrs. Edgington's English II students are working together in groups on their projects. Audrey Rothaus and Amelia Hinchcliffe are working to get the job done and earn a good grade.

As tradition continues, so does history. It's been said by many students that history is boring!

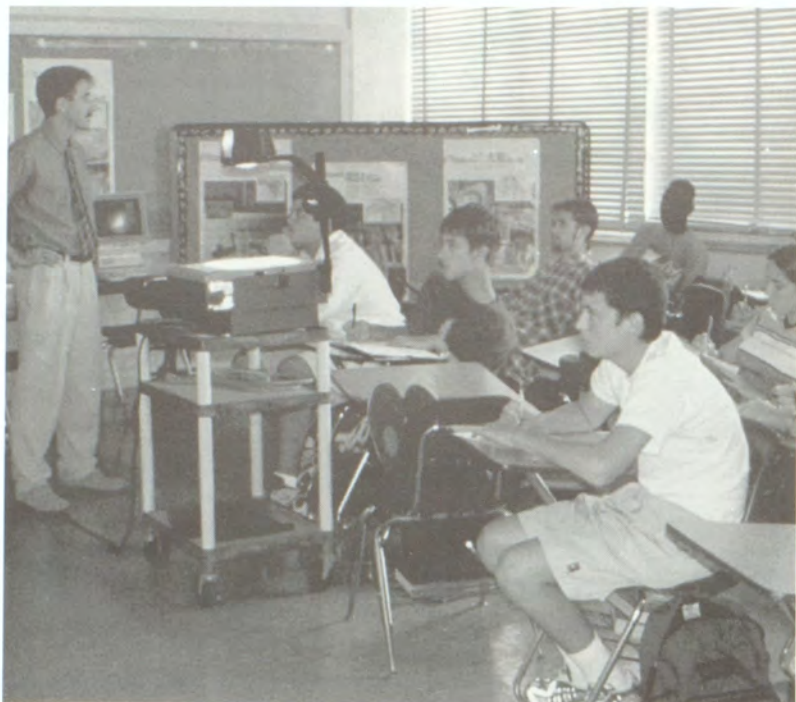

And the question is always, "When will I ever use history in my adult life?" We can answer that by saying, history IS everyday life. Look around you, historical buildings, past presidents, and technology!

Don't you wonder how America was founded? You know the basics, but wouldn't you be interested in knowing the in-depth picture. So listen up in class because you might learn something. Don't sleep history away or you are bound to repeat it!

Students in Mr. Bowe's class are split into groups. They're sharing opinions and ideas on class work. Students always enjoy getting into groups. It provides an extra chance to talk with their peers. As always, there has to be a class clown.

Seen here, Mr. Vanloon is trying to work a video camera. He is trying to get ready to tape his class giving their oral reports. Mr Vanloon, we think you should retake video 101.

Sophomores in Mr. Paul's world history class seem hard at work. They are taking important notes. Mr. Paul's students will probably use these notes to study for an upcoming test.

Jennifer Dimasi and Jacqueline Casola are listening to the instructions that are being given by Mr. VanLoon. American Government class is not hard as long as you do the work. Jennifer, you should sit down and get started.

Mr. Bowe's class is deep into a group activity. One group seems to be getting ideas from one another. While students try to work together Mr. Bowe will most likely walk around and make sure everybody is on task.

Michelle Davis and Brandi Parker are chilling in Mr. VanLoon's class. Brandi is sitting on the floor talking to Michelle. They look like they want to sit and do nothing for the whole class. In a little while, you girls, you will have to rise for the pledge.

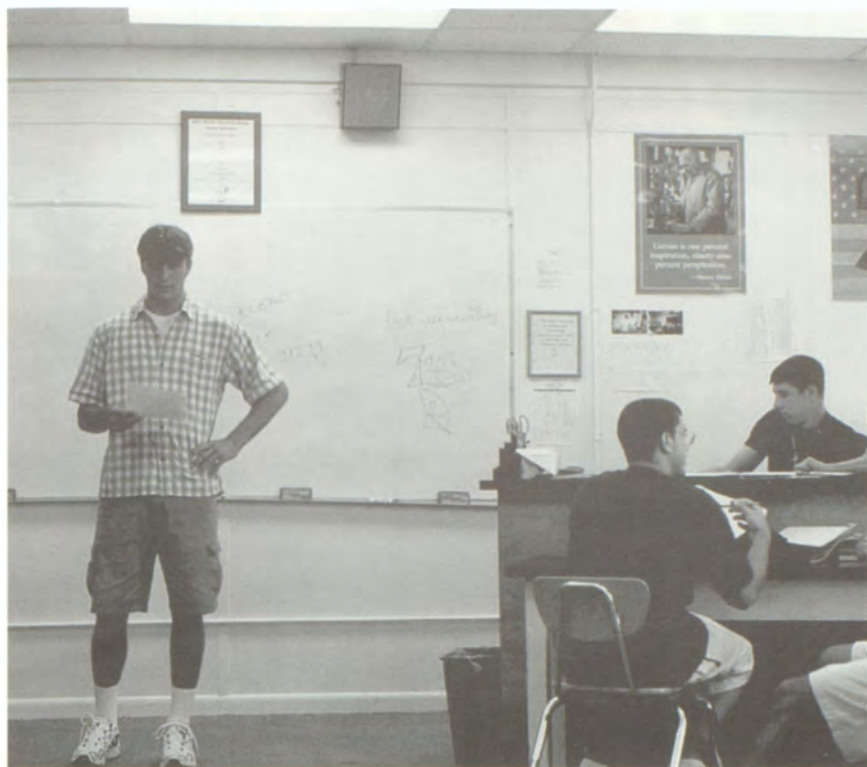

Dawn Dumas and Ayesha Osborne are sitting together in American Government class. As these girls work hard together, many other students are most likely doing the same thing. Way to go, girls! Learning something everyday will get you very far in life.!

Mr. Bowe's students are seen here using their class notes to finish a worksheet. Many teachers use these worksheets after they have taught a lesson. The students are working very hard on them while Mr. Bowe does paperwork.

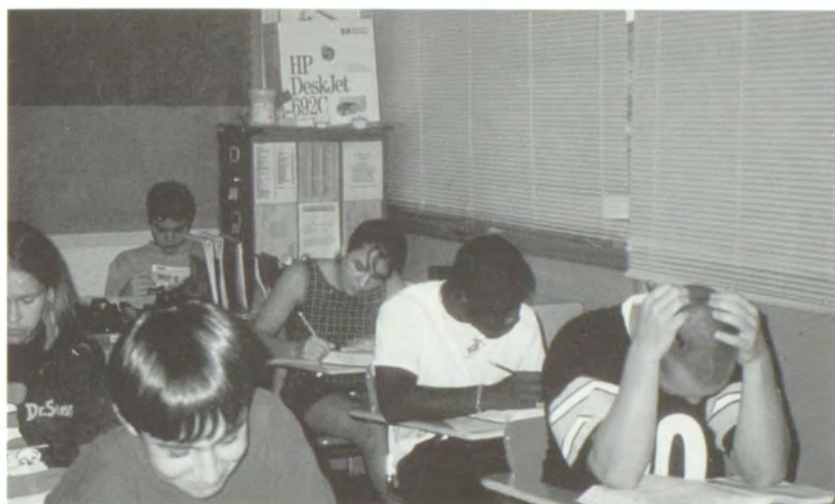

Senior Troy Phillips is preparing to tape a speech for American History class. Other students are watching and waiting for his T.V. debut. You might be famous one day, Troy. Don't worry everybody, the rest of you will get your chance at fame also.

Phillip Kirouac is seen here getting a little help from Mr. Clifford. The rest of the class is really involved in their assignment. World History seems to be really fun these days.

These Sophomores are doing book work in Mr. Clifford's World History class. One student seems to be having a little trouble, or maybe he is just thinking, "When does this boring class get over?"

Jason Barrera, Victor Kithcart and Rishi Gidwani are sitting in Mr. VanLoon's class working and chilling. We hope you guys are learning a thing or two.

In Mr. VanLoon's American Government class, students are deep into the book work. As you look around the room you can tell book work is not always on the agenda. Rutanya Hardin and Curtis Butler are working together to get the work done. While others students work alone or just sleep.

Mr. Kremer's class is really into his exciting lecture. Jill Cranney is off in space, though. Jill, please come back, this valuable information may be on an upcoming quiz.

These five Sophomores are really into their assignment for World History class. They seem to be having fun while doing it also. It doesn't get any better than this.

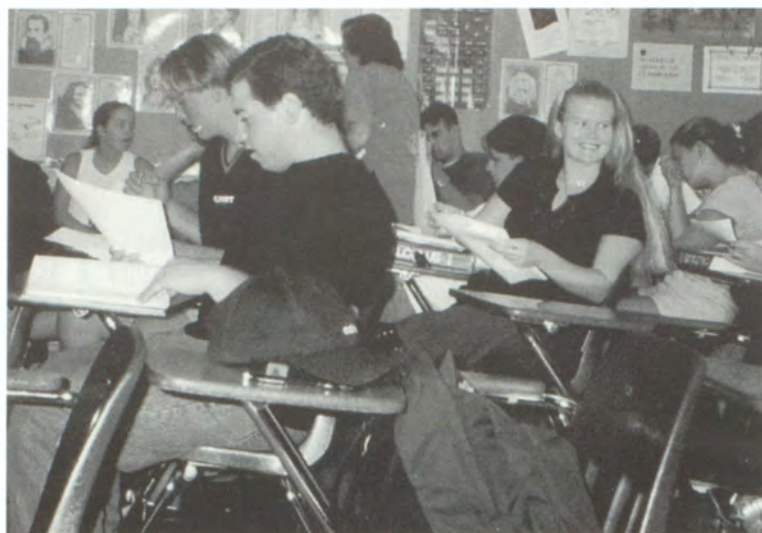

Jessica Sotis is in Mr. Clifford's class taking down notes out of her book. It seems like someone is talking to her while she's working. Don't let Mr. Clifford catch you, he might make you history.

MATHEMATICS

When you think of Mathematics, numbers, problems, graphs and calculators come to mind. Math is the study of relationships between quantities using numbers and symbols. It is essential to everyday living because you use it in purchasing products, paying bills, and measuring quantity. Math might be the last thing on your mind, but you have to learn it and get it down pat. Jobs in accounting, chemistry, and astronomy require the use of math. There are still many, many more jobs that we could mention. All kinds of sports use numbers and calculations, too. Here at Key West High School you can get prepared for college and jobs that you will have in the real world.

David Jackson patiently waits for the teacher's explanation. Algebra can be complicated if you don't ask a million questions and receive a million answers.

Students in Mrs. Webster's class are hard at work. Most teachers let students work on their own and then do board work for the harder problems. Good Luck, guys!

Mrs. Rodriguez takes no excuses for sloppy lines. This student is doing a good job by having all her tools needed to finish all geometry work. We hope you're watching Mrs. Rodriguez, this girl deserves an A!

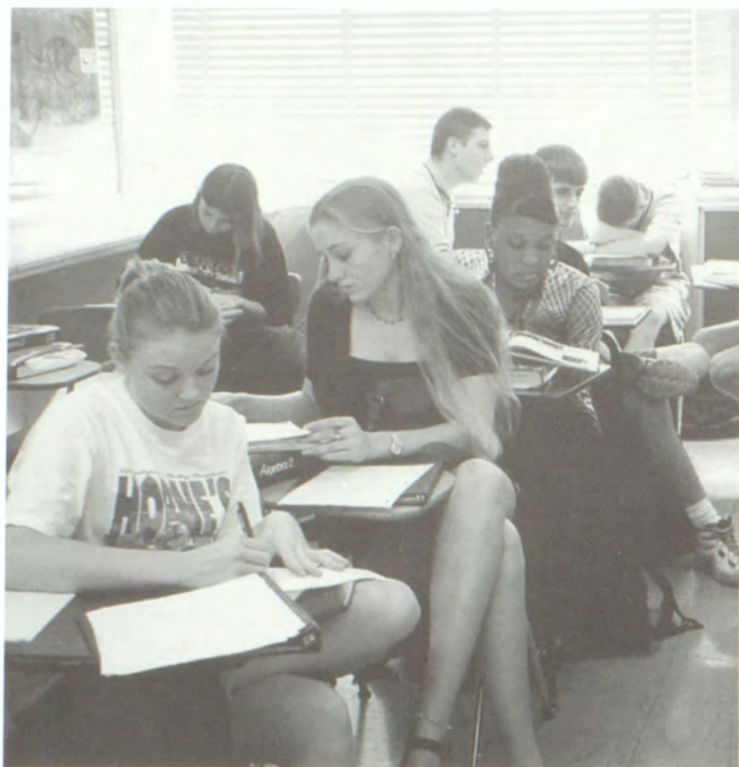

Mrs. Henderson's Algebra II class takes out their books to shape up those math skills. Jennifer Zubek and the rest of the class seem anxious to do their math work. Many students fear math class, but with cool teachers and awesome friends you can pass with flying colors.

These students are working very diligently on their class work. Geometry is a college bound class. Work hard, students, colleges want only the best.

Miranda Gates works hard to solve a problem in her Algebra II class. Keep working hard, Miranda, you might be using these math skills one day very soon.

Mr. Rodger has taught the lesson for the day and now his students are hard at work on their classwork. By KWHs having block scheduling, students are able to finish classwork and homework all in one class period.

Sean Morales, can you see your work with those dark sun shades? There is no sun in math class. Maybe you thought this was P.E. class today. We think that you should take them off, so that you can make a good grade on that math assignment.

Mrs. Webster's Informal Geometry class is working together to get their answers right for their upcoming test. This is not called cheating, it's helping each other out by consulting with one another.

Being prepared for class is a must when it comes to Geometry class. You can't make accurate angles without a compass or straight lines without a ruler. This student is realizing that she forgot all of her tools. She now has to prepare to ask Mrs. Rodriguez if she can borrow some tools.

These two students are getting math help from one another. Classes are a lot easier when you have a good friend there to help you out when you need a little bit of assistance.

Megan Graham looks a little confused about her Algebra classwork. Mr Rodger's class is not hard, Megan. We hope you get help on your work and get a good grade.

Science is present in everyday life. Science is the explanation of life. There are many things that we would not know without science classes. The structures of plants and animals, the purposes of an ecosystem, what things are composed of, and the way gravity affects things are just a few examples of what is learned in science. These classes explain natural phenomena and how the world thrives on itself. Many students find their science class interesting because a lot can be learned about life. Without science, we would not know what makes the world go 'round.

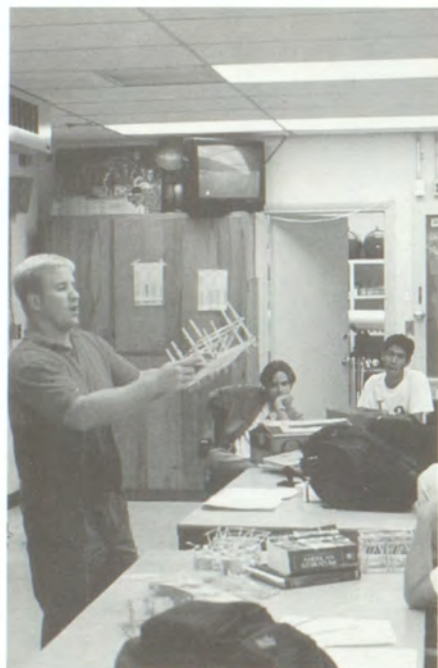

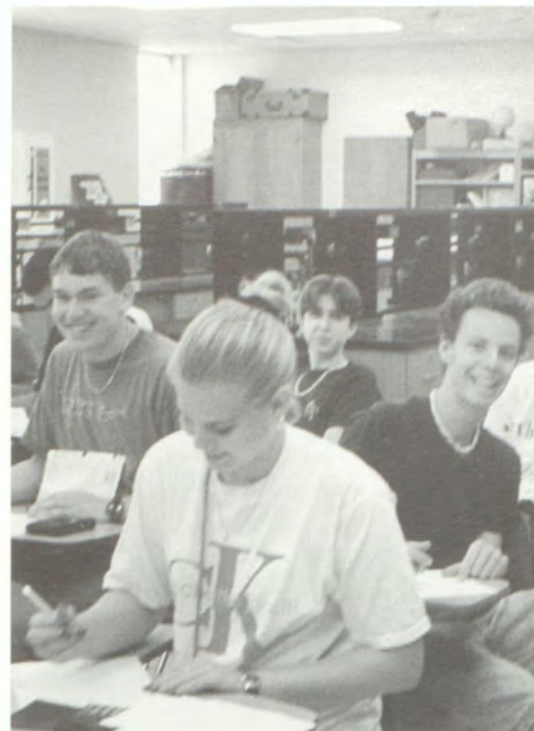

Roni Cleare and her classmates are just working away in Mrs. Fant's Environmental Science class. This is a required science for all Key West High Freshmen. Keep up the good work, it will pay off when you graduate!

Celeste Washington and Alex Godoy are all in to their science experiment. Besides book work, students also get a chance to work with chemicals and dead animals.

These Juniors are working with chemicals in Mr. Jones' Chemistry class. Some of the class is taking the assignment very lightly. Don't forget to put those goggles on. You don't want to get hurt.

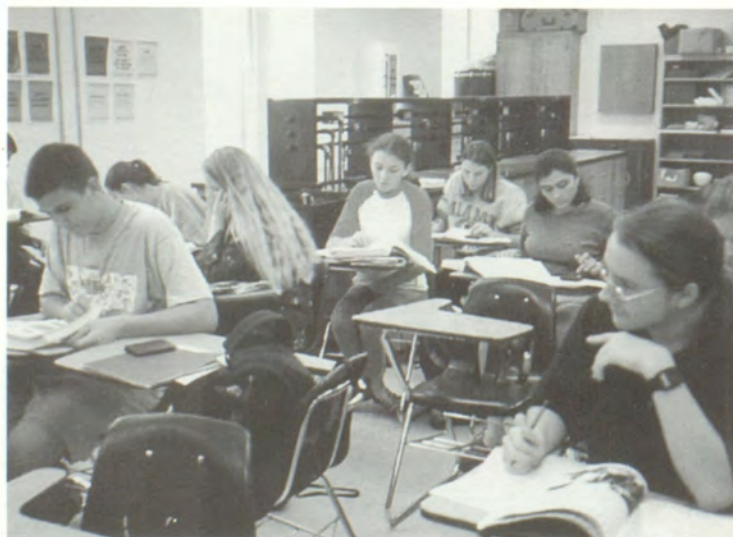

As Mr. Mathy talks about the upcoming toothpick bridge project many students look a little confused. Mr. Mathy is that your personal toothpick bridge. Good job. A plus

This Senior class sits and listens well as Mr. Mathy gives them their day's assignment. Some of the students seem to be off in a daze. We hope you come back before the bell.

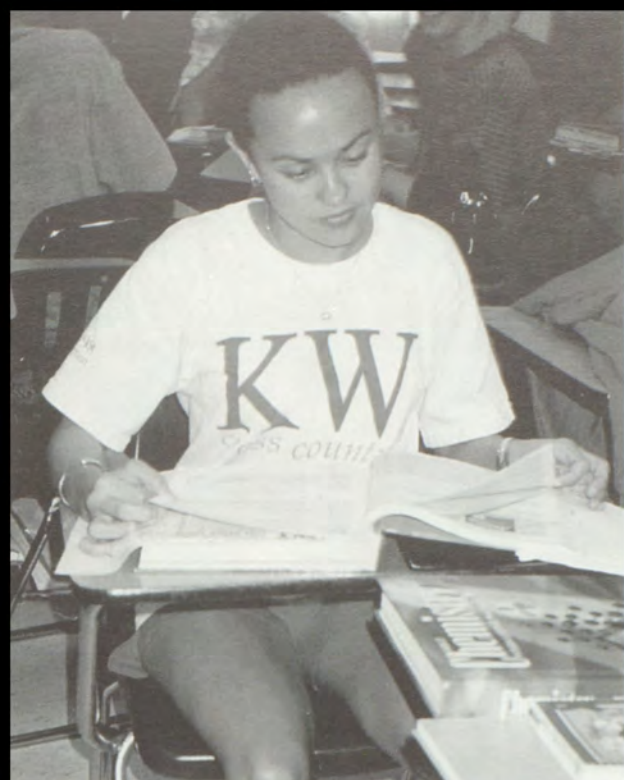

Above: These students in Mrs. Parker's chemistry class are hard at work. Some are posing for the camera while others are worried about getting their work done. To the right: Observers watch in awe and horror as a fellow student hangs on for dear life. Was there a fire or is this just one of Mr. Mathy's crazy class projects?

Students in Mrs. Parker's Chemistry Honors are working hard. And they only have one question on their mind, "will they pass their next test?"

Edde Fallon is seen here getting just a little help from Mr. Perkins on her lab. By being in one of KWHS's science programs you are able to work with the finest lab equipment there is. What are you working with today, Edde?

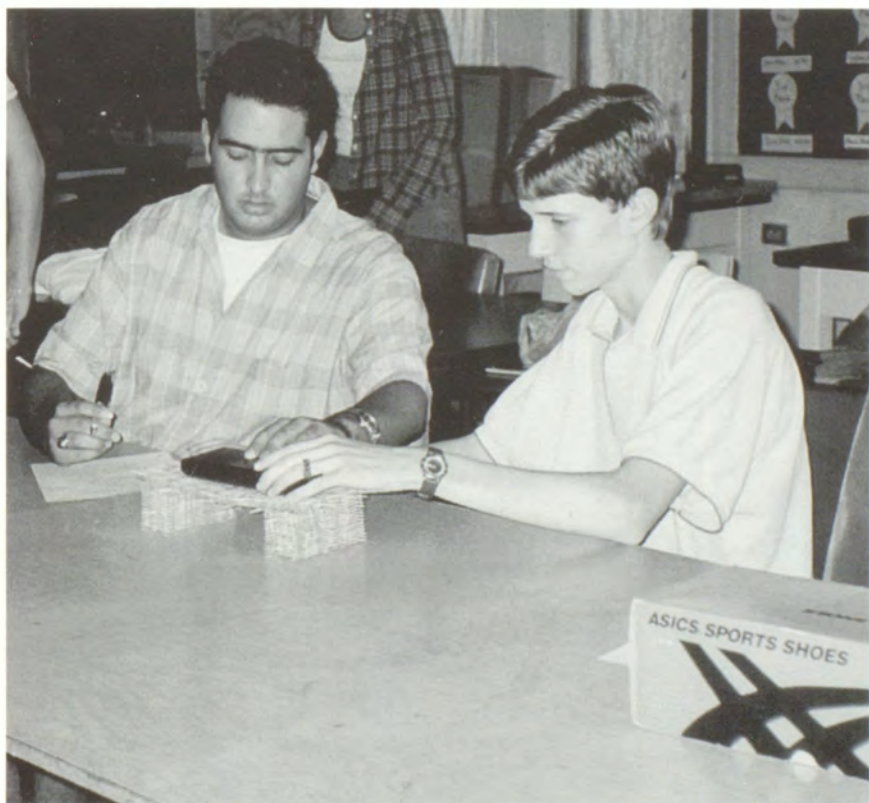

Natalia Duke studies hard for her chemistry exam. Good thing she is studying away, we heard that it's a doozy. She will do just great, she has two books to look through.

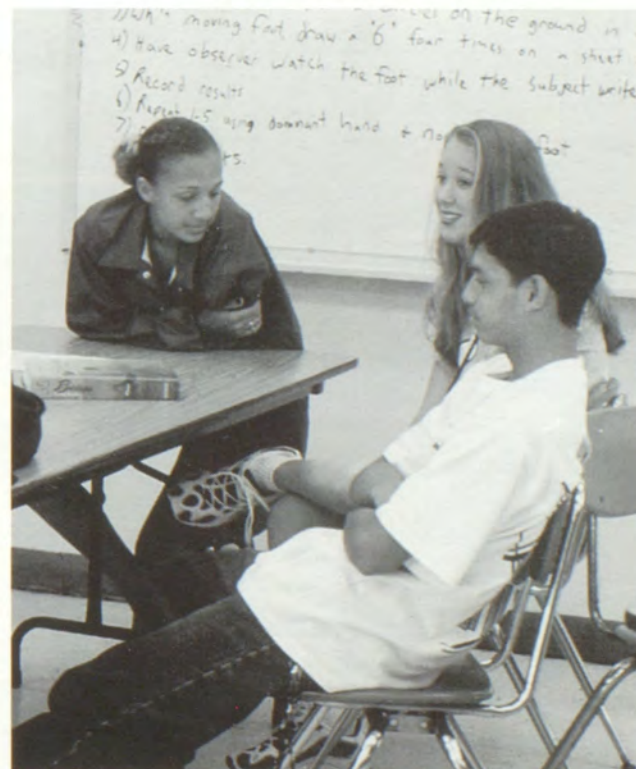

You might think they're working, but then again... they could be writing notes, dazing off, or waiting anxiously for the bell to ring.

Mr. McPherson has assigned his class a group project. Now these three friends have to get together and complete the work. Help each other out, guys.

What a masterpiece! Larry Davila has probably just asked Julio Barroso if his work of art can actually hold the pressure of a one pound calculator, but with all the functions on your calculator it must weigh a ton. So be careful, your bridge just might not hold it.

Juniors Robin Finigan and Albert Hall are going over questions and answers to a lab in Mr. Jones Chemistry class. It looks as though Robin knows what she is doing and so she is helping her partner understand.

Many students think of electives as a break from the regular curriculum because they aren't required to do much work, but that isn't true. They are equally as important as core classes. These classes give students a chance to explore new things and take part in class activities that they enjoy. They are normally chosen by students because the class will help them decide a career field. You should put some thought into choosing your classes, not easy ones, but ones that will help you in your future career. Choose the right path, because you can't change your career every year!

Bonnie Stump is seen here coloring the Senior bulletin. Many projects that are made in Mrs. McPherson's leadership class benefit the school and the students. Bonnie, shouldn't you be working on a Junior bulletin?

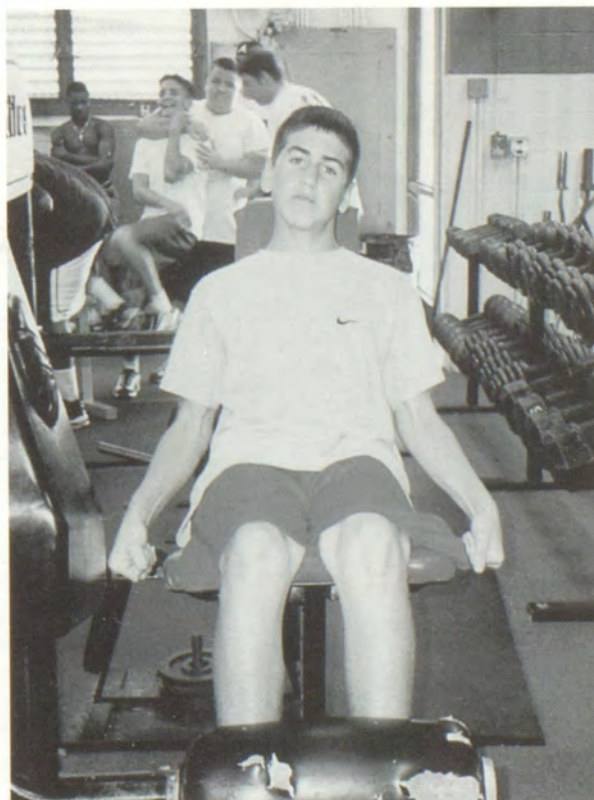

"Run, Forrest, Run." Oh no, boys, the bell rang and you know it's 10 laps for every second you are late. Coach Hughes will have your head. One second, two seconds, three seconds. You already have 30 laps, boys!

Senior Aaron Marn is trying to impress the camera by lifting weights. Can you lift anything heavier, Aaron? He seems pretty impressed with what he looks like. You go, boy.

The V.I.P.s practice their dance moves to Mr. Wilt's jazzy piano playing.

Freshman Neil Mellies is flexing his arms and legs for the camera. He is getting buffed up for all the ladies. Hurry and snatch him up because he won't be single for a very long time.

Lucas Lanasa, seen here, is working hard in his Spanish class. A lot of Seniors take a language class to prepare them for college. We hope that you're making an A in your class, Lucas.

You can tell Mr. Boza's students are enthralled with their lesson. Just look at all of them dreaming of the days when they will speak Spanish in Spain or Cuba.

The human culture is like a bunch of building blocks, it keeps adding on to the base of it all. Humanities classes teach students about the various human cultures today, and how they reflect the past cultures of yesterday. The languages we use, the creativity we show, and the food we eat are all parts of human culture. Key West High School offers Spanish, French, Art, and Food Preparation to help students learn more about the many cultures of the world. In these classes, many projects are assigned to give students the experiences of these cultures. Spanish and French classes help students relate to the language and Art and Food Preparation classes show students the traditional techniques of drawing and cooking. Whatever humanities class you take, a lot will be learned about human cultures. You might even learn more about yourself!

Dena Triplett seems amused while her classmates look confused. Come on, girls, the work can't be that hard! Exactly what are you all studying? Some indecipherable political joke.

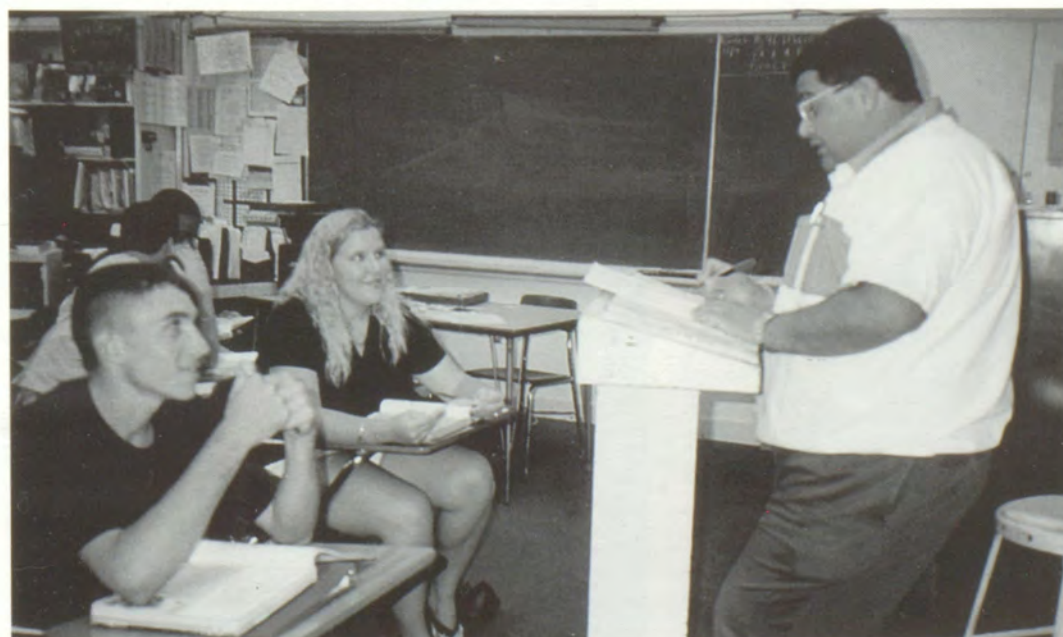

These students in Mrs. MacDonald's Spanish class are working on a packet. From the looks of it, that packet seems long and thick. Looks like you guys will have homework tonight. What a bummer!

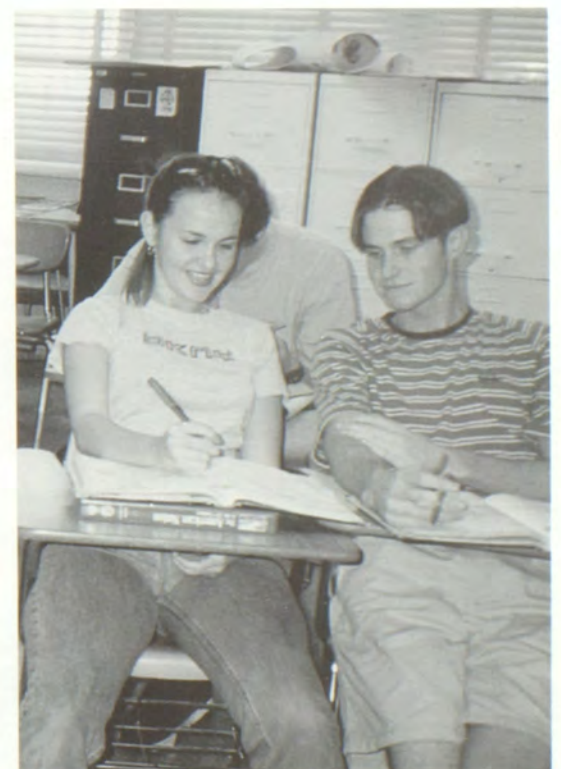

Mick Greene works hard on his Spanish work. All that Spanish talking has probably made him a little hungry. Quiero Taco Bell?

George Rodriguez and Courtney Abbott are listening to Mr. Boza as he goes over the next quiz questions and answers. Don't forget all the conjugated verbs. They can be a pain.

Jessica Velasquez and Daniel Farina are seen here chillin' with their friend from the Senior Citizen Plaza. Leadership classes visit the Plaza every year. As you can see these two Seniors are really enjoying themselves.

Junior Erica Delgado and Senior Steven Lowe are talking and working away in Mrs. MacDonald's Spanish class. Are you two working or catching up on the latest gossip? Don't let the teacher notice you, she might give you even more work!

VOCATIONAL

Mr. Conrad	Mrs. Kimball	Mrs. Parker
Mrs. Gootee	Mr. Klimowich	Mr. Parker
Mr. Grose	Mrs. Lariz	Ms. Santana

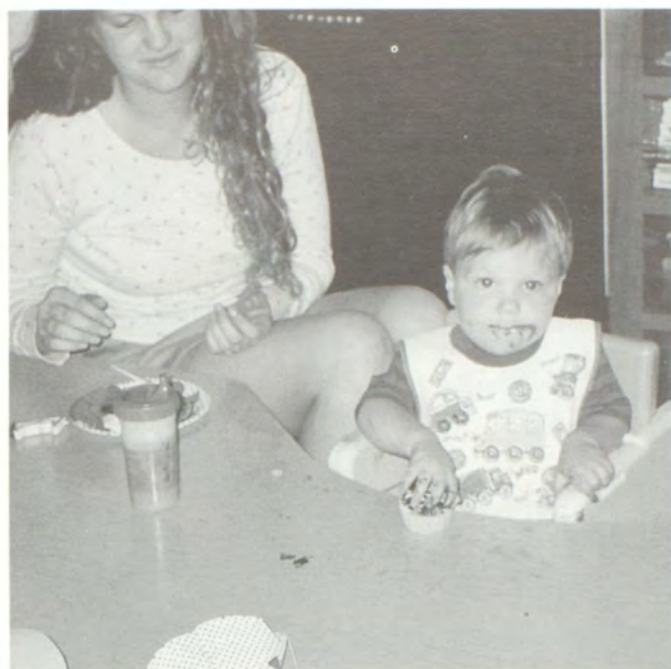

Mr. Henderson does his job well. Just look at this Picasso in the making. Many students learn the art of art in art class!

Key West High School offers a wide range of vocational classes to prepare students for the jobs they will choose in the real world. These classes range from T.V. Productions, to Cosmetology, to Hospitality. By students taking these classes, they can be informed of jobs off campus. These classes only have one thing in common, they allow students to learn hands on. They also help students find out what their job interests are as well as create a fun-filled experience.

Vocational classes are an important part of a student's schedule, for they help students choose a career track. And they also look impressive on you college application.

Mrs. Gootee artistically plucks Dawn Dumas' eyebrows. The price some girls pay to be beautiful is less expensive because of KWHs cosmology classes. In the end, we hope that Dawn is satisfied with Mrs. Gootee's work.

Senior Tammy Lugones and son take time from their dessert to hit a pose. Doesn't that look yummy? You might need a napkin when you're done, Tammy.

These two nail techs are seen here pampering their clients by applying artificial nails on them. A little pampering before Homecoming is just what they needed to relax after a hectic dress hunting schedule. I bet you can't wait for your date to see you. He'll sweep you off your feet.

These art students show off their artistic skills while painting pictures from under the sea. Mr. Henderson teaches a variety of methods to express art skills.

Junior Josh Powell is seen here working away in his Spanish class. Many students take two years of a language to receive a college prep diploma. Good luck, Josh, we hope you are making an A.

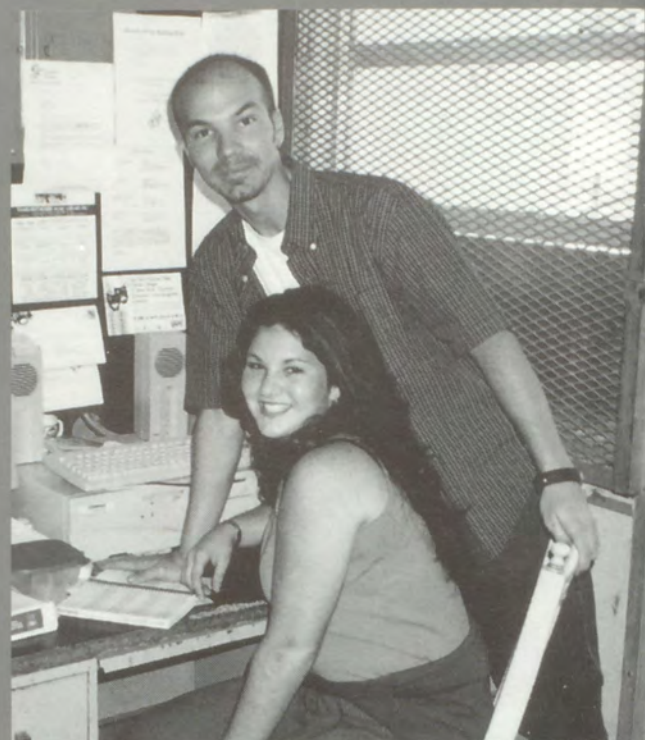

These two nail technicians are deep into thought. Putting on nails is harder than it sometimes looks. They don't just do Key West High students, they do a variety of outside clients also. They have to build up a clientele.

These two students seem to be having a great time painting this truck in Auto Body class. Auto Body gives students the chance to learn mechanics and to create a beautiful car.

an eternity of Service

The clubs at Key West High School are an important part of the lives of many students. They are often time consuming, but they definitely pay off in the end. Beach clean-ups, bake sales, Children's Day, blood drives, marathons, and car washes (even Hog washes!) are just some of the activities the students involve themselves in.

Club members are also required to attend bimonthly meetings. Here they meet to socialize and discuss upcoming events. Not only does the student receive service hours for their club work, but they also have a chance to give back valuable time to the community. Moreover, students have the opportunity to earn much needed money for their respective clubs. These organizations are the lifeblood pulsing through the heart of the school, keeping it healthy and active. Without them, the lives of students here at Key West High School would certainly look bleak. We should all give thanks to the members and the sponsors of these clubs, for these are the people who are responsible for making Key West High a great place to grow and learn and be involved!

Student Council

Conchering Tomorrow

One hundred and fifty students may seem like a lot for Student Council. But with all the activities they do throughout the year, they need as many dedicated leaders as possible. Student Council, sponsored by Mrs. McPherson, is a mix of all classes. You must obtain the skills of a leader and have at least a 2.0 grade point average. Not only do they sponsor events such as the Homecoming Dance and Parade, a Children's Day booth, Spirit Week, Freshman Orientation, and decorating the school for the holidays, but they also participate in the MARC House Christmas tree sales, visiting with the senior citizens, pep rallies, teacher appreciation breakfasts, and clean-ups around the school. With the help of Student Council officers President Carly Bervaldi, Vice-President Rae Ann Banks, Secretary Monique Thiel, and Treasurer Angela Davila the school has experienced a fun and spirit-filled year.

Student Council Officers- Treasurer Angela Davila, President Carly Bervaldi, Secretary Monique Thiel, Vice-President Raeann Banks.

This group of Student Council members look like they're busy serving drinks to hot customers at Children's Day. They sure do have a bit of a crowd. Keep up the good work!

Monique Thiel, Rutanya Hardin, and Jennifer Buitrago cheerfully decorate this tree for the cafeteria to prepare for the holiday season.

Jessica Soldo and Shakti Assouline get into the spirit of the holidays by searching for the right ornament to hang on the tree.

"Hurry up, girl!," you hear Olitha Mumford exclaim, while waiting for her fellow student council members to fill up a cup. Looks like the hot sun is getting to her even though she's in the shade.

Senior Executive Board

Last of the Century

Your senior year means you've got to give it all you've got. A last chance to do new things, to have fun, and to have success. With the coincidence of having 99 members from the class of '99 participating this year, the Senior Executive Board was more active than ever. President Aileen Rowe, Vice President Monique Thiel, Secretary Jessica Cranney, and Treasurer Julio Barroso all agree that the only requirements for being in Senior Executive Board are being a Senior, paying dues, and agreeing that the class of 1999 rocks! Sounds pretty easy, right? Well, activities like Children's Day's, Jr. / Sr. Field Day, Coffin Week, and a creating a Homecoming float kept them busy. They also raised money for activities like the Senior Prom. Seniors also held fundraisers like car washes, pizza sales, and card sales. Seniors made the most of their final year by keeping school traditions fun and inspiring the other classes to do the same.

Larry Davila lifts this stereo grudgingly onto the back of the float.

Top Row: Monique Green, Tyresa Butler, Sean Morales, Kevin Donahue, Ralph Garcia, Daniel Farina, Elissa D'Amato, Michael Ferrin, Larry Davila, Peter Batty, Merrill Roberts, Crystal Parra, Tiffany Bright, Aileen Rowe.

Third Row: Sponsor Mrs. Rowe, Jennifer Torres, Natasha Green, Josie Tarracino, Holly Hopkins, Lauren Rodriguez, Jessica Velasquez, Edee Fallon, Kim Blanco, Rebecca Rogan, Angela Davila, Lydia Poole, Jesse Brown, Sponsor Ms. Thiel.

These seniors are carefully inspecting the layout for the Homecoming float. It takes a lot of planning to come up with an idea that's a winner.

Holly Hopkins and Julio Barroso direct these senior band members. The Seniors utilized their members to the fullest extent by showcasing everyone's unique talents.

All the dedicated Seniors are painting, cutting, and hauling their time away attempting to make their float look the best.

Jennifer Hernandez, Dustin Statts, Merrill Roberts, Michelle Rowley, Josie Tarracino, and Kristin Walterson joyfully sing out the alma mater.

Carly Bervaldi and Julio Barroso are working diligently at the Senior Car Wash. Boy, does that car sparkle.

Aileen Rowe and Ayesha Osbourne work hard washing cars to earn extra money for the Senior account. The Seniors need all that money to fund their Senior prom. Make sure you don't miss a spot girls!

R a l p h Garcia hoses down a truck at the Executive Board Car Wash. That's one down, but there are lots more to go.

Francesca Santiago uses her skills to make the coffin a work of art.

Edee Fallon and Kristin Walterson discuss plans for the next event after the Homecoming Parade.

Christian Maribona holds the first place trophy triumphantly over his head. It's no wonder Chima got the award for Most Spirited. But this victory was not the result of just one man's work. It took dedication and hard work from many Seniors to achieve this long-awaited goal.

Class of '99 celebrates with smiles because they've finally won the much deserved and hard earned first place trophy.

These Seniors are definitely ready to party after waiting four years to win first place in the Homecoming Float contest. Their patience finally paid off and now they can celebrate.

Ryan Salazar and Chad Sorknes hopefully know what they're doing.

Kim Blanco, Jennifer Buitrago and Holly Hopkins spend many long hours working on the float.

It's obvious that Jesse Brown and Erik Lemon are ecstatic to be in Senior Executive Board.

Seniors break it down on the float. Their boundless energy is what got them this far.

Lauren Rodriguez washes a window. Many Senior class members showed up to help support their class and also earn some points for Executive Board.

Coffin Week brings out the creativity in most Seniors. Carly Bervaldi and Holly Hopkins are certainly included in this group. This year's Senior class made the most creatively camouflaged coffin ever.

Junior Executive Board

Leaders of the Millennium

Adventureous, determined, and fun! These are qualities required for the first class of the new millennium. These 30 Juniors have proved that they are willing and ready to take on any challenge by participating in fundraisers, such as car washes, selling ice cream at Children's Day, and organizing class activities.

The officers, President Lacy Pischke, Vice President Jenny Sterling, Secretary Sarah Revelin, and Treasurer Ashby Goldstein, have helped the class of 2,000 through a busy year of competition and involvement. Coming in second place with Cinderella on their float for the Homecoming Parade was a great achievement. This group of students is full of dedication and striving for the best!

Armed with only a magical wand, Rebecca Collins fights the wishes of an evil step-mother.

David Lariz sprays some of the last minute pieces of the Homecoming float. Angie Nunez is helping also, but she better pay attention, or she might end up spraying David's feet instead.

First Row: Sarah Revelin, Lacy Pischke, Jennie Sterling, Ashby Goldstein

During a pep rally, the class of 2000 clumps together trying to send the message that the Juniors rule.

Deana Triplet digs into the ice cream bin to supply patiently waiting children while Dara Arnold collects their money.

The spirited Dara Arnold leads the squad of Juniors on a bike and carriage during the Homecoming Parade. Their enthusiasm was one of the things that helped them achieve second place.

Prince Andy Morey and "Cinderella," a.k.a. Lacy Pischke, waltz carefully around the moving float.

J.P. Brennan shows up to the ball with Yahaira Serrano and Angie Nunez. What a lucky guy - he has two dates!

Sophomore Executive Board

2001: A Scholastic Odyssey

Although this was only their second year in high school, the Sophomore class proved that they have spirit. From carwashes to candy sales to achieving third place in the Homecoming Parade, the class of 2001 was very involved. Officers Lande Spottswood, president, Taron Higgs, vice-president, Marina Burton, treasurer, and Ashley Roberts, secretary, showed excellent leadership abilities by encouraging the 40 members to fundraise for special activities. Their sponsors, Ms. Ford, Mr. Clifford, and Mr. Pierzchala, also provided guidance for the Sophomores.

"Come on guys! Let's go!" screams Lily Cohen. The Sophomores were filled with excitement and spirit, even though their float only received third place. She realized that in order to win the parade, you need enthusiasm as well as a great looking float.

Bottom row: Taron Higgs, Lande Spottswood, Marina Burton, Ashley Roberts

Christy Spottswood and the "Masked Maurader" wildly skate down the street during the Homecoming Parade. Hey, can I have a balloon?

Sophomore Executive Board Officers (L-R): Treasurer Marina Burton, Vice President Taron Higgs, President Lande Spottswood, and Secretary Ashley Roberts

Nathaniel Tinaya was smart to stay near Christina Lolos and Taron Higgs in the midst of all the Homecoming Parade madness. After all, those big torches might come in handy to ward off the offending juniors and seniors.

Christy Spottswood, Lande Spottswood, Alex Machado, and Vince Leone really got into their whole jungle theme. Those skulls and balloons really enhance their spirited float. They might look kinda scary, but it paid off in the end. Maybe their class motto should be, "Born to be Wild."

Freshmen Executive Board

2002: It's up to you

The class of 2002 has shown promise from the very beginning. From their first steps in high school to their involvement with the Homecoming parade, Key West's newest class showed their spirit. Although their Homecoming float placed last, this class never stopped believing in themselves. Led by President Ashli Lopez, Vice President Amanda Gallardo, Secretary Shiri Kainan, and Treasurer Aisha Orofino, the Freshmen Executive Board took charge of the entire class of 2002. With leadership skills like this, the Freshmen class is bound to finish the year in a strong fashion.

This group of Freshmen boys shows their spirit by sporting these nifty football jerseys. It looks like they have so much talent that maybe they should have tried out for the basketball team instead.

It takes a lot of hard work to build and prepare a float for the Homecoming Parade. These Freshmen girls are striving to use their artistic talents to the best of their abilities, while painting a sign that will be displayed on the side of their float.

This Freshmen cheerleader tries to rally her fellow classmates. Their enthusiasm was a great contribution to the float. Unfortunately, they were outnumbered by the upperclassmen and only achieved fourth place.

I nteract

Service is our Watchword

Interact, v.- to become involved in.

True to its name, one of K.W.H.S.'s most popular clubs is all about interacting and helping others. Members of Interact earn community service hours while having fun and benefiting the Key West community. Aside from selling refreshments at Children's day, Interact has kept its traditions by involving themselves in many annual events. They sponsor blood drives for the Red Cross and play lumber jacks at the MARC House Christmas tree sales. They also help serve food at the Wesley House Valentine's Day fundraiser and dress up as elves for the Snow Day at the Audubon House. Officers Peter Batty, president, Carly Bervaldi, vice-president, Michael Ferrin, secretary, and Shakti Assouline, treasurer, even organized gift wrapping for needy children during thier annual Christmas pizza party. Interact members never tire of looking for new ways to serve the community.

Shakti Assouline gives an update of the Interact account during one of the meetings.

Jennifer Buitrago looks a little concerned as the nurse begins taking blood for the Interact Blood Drive.

Robert Gallo concentrates very hard as he writes a name on the tag for a needy child. Make sure you don't misspell it, Robert.

What's wrong with legos? You guys act like you never had them when you were kids. Poor Julio Barroso is not getting anyone's approval on the gifts he's picking out for needy children.

Junior Natalia Duke seems to have had some gift wrapping experience. What in the world are you wrapping, Emily?

Junior Maya Nelson keeps a cheerful face while working the coke booth.

Sophomore Christy Felix and Junior, Jessica Perez help out with the refreshment booth. The Sophomore Executive Board raised a lot of money to sponsor numerous club activities. It looks like these two are having a whole lot of fun. Hey, Christy, can I have a coke to go?

This group of Interact members crowds around a newly delivered pizza at the Christmas party. Hey, is that pineapple and onion? Can I have a slice?

Sophomore Greg Orpeza and Seniors Kim Blanco and Peter Batty are having a good time at the booth. Lots of people come to show support and get an ice cold drink.

Erica Ernst and Becky Gonzalez do their part to wrap presents for Big Brothers/ Big Sisters.

Holly Schmidt and Renee Phillips check off another name on their list.

Alisa Gosselin is surrounded by many presents. How many ya' got there?

Senior Jenny Normond gazes longingly at a toy she secretly wants. Behind her Larry Davila and David McPhail argue over whether an action figure is really a doll or not.

Z — Club

No time for Zzzzzzz's

Since Key West is such a small community, it is surprising how much service is really needed. The Z-Club provided a large quantity of it by helping at local events. At Children's Day, Z-Club sponsored not one, but two booths. Using their people skills and warm personalities, the 70 members made song-and-dance visits to the convalescent center along with Sunday Gardening and decorating for holidays. The patient members worked with day-care children and Friends of Animals, while the more athletically-inclined participated in the ABC walk with Zonta. Officers Christina Stout, President, Jennifer Buitrago, V.P., Vivian Tapia, recordings secretary, Nicole DiNicola, corresponding secretary, and Shakti Assouline, treasurer, worked hard to ensure that Z-Club went through a year of great fellowship meetings and dedicated service.

Becky Gonzalez is so tired that she doesn't notice two children sneaking into the haunted house.

Christian Maribona cuddles with this adorable puppy that looked like he needed a friend, or at least a good petting.

Jennifer Buitrago and Joyce Ho play with a nice white cat while visiting the animal Shelter. The animals really appreciate the extra attention, as you can tell by this kitty's reaction.

Jennifer Buitrago reads the minutes aloud while Vivian Tapia follows along to make sure she gets everything. Meanwhile, Shakti Assouline is eyeing Nicole DiNicola who looks like she's going to grab the chips and run for it.

Looks like Christina Stout would rather be fishing than working the Z-Club booth.

Amelia Hinchcliff, Tal Yardeni, and Christina Lolos take a breather after they finish the ABC walk. The money raised went to help fight Breast Cancer. Good work, girls!

H O P E

The Grass Is A Little Greener

Key West High School has added yet another club to its lengthy list. H.O.P.E. stands for Helping Others Protect the Environment, and that's exactly what they do. A few activities that H.O.P.E. participated in to help the community are working at soup kitchens, recycling at the school, and cleaning up the beach and mangroves. H.O.P.E. also helped Hurricane Georges victims with the damage clean-up. The officers of H.O.P.E., President Shakti Assouline, Vice-President Alisa Gosselin, Recording Secretary Kim McCrory, Corresponding Secretary Phillip Kirouac, and Treasurer Kirsten Hengst, set the rules and requirements. Some of which include an interest in the environment, a good work ethic, and a willingness to get your hands dirty, and most importantly a commitment to the club. H.O.P.E. was started to help a good cause and will hopefully be here for a long time to come.

Senior Renee Phillips contributes her time and energy to help protect our beautiful earth.

National Honor Society

Brains Over Brawn

The members of National Honor Society should be in the circus for their juggling act. In addition to keeping a G.P.A. of 3.5 or higher, and maintaining a social life, this busy band of scholars performed many activities to service the community. From selling snacks at Children's Day, to sponsoring canned food drives for the Salvation Army, to coordinating the Angel Tree Program, this club is always busy. NHS also raised funds for other organizations with car washes. Some of the many groups that have benefited from N.H.S. generosity are the Family Resource Center and the Keys Cancer Center. With all the activities that Julio Barroso, president, Jesse Brown, vice president, Larry Davila, secretary, and Yahaira Serrano, treasurer, planned it is a wonder the members of NHS find time to study.

Beta

Beta' Than The Rest

The Beta Club, a national honor club, has served our school and community for many years. This year Beta's membership nearly doubled to 90 members. Those members were involved in many activities ranging from Children's Day booths, to helping at the Teen Line, to sponsoring the Sadie Hawkins dance. The Beta club never failed in making its presence known as it participated in many community service projects. However, Beta does have a few small requirements before you can become a member. You must obtain a GPA of 3.0 or higher and be at least a Sophomore. Just because Beta is about volunteering and scholarly activities, doesn't mean you can't have fun as well. Officers Christian Maribona, President, Erica Gates, Vice President, and Rebecca Collins, Secretary/Treasurer, made sure that there was never a dull moment!

Mu Alpha Theta

Mathemagicians

While many students at Key West High School dread the hour and a half a day they spend in math class, the 27 members of Mu Alpha Theta actually smile when they walk through the door. In order to be one of the few and the proud, you must have taken Algebra II and have no lower than a B average in all math courses. President Larry Davila, Vice-President Merrill Roberts, and Secretary/Treasurer Julio Barroso organized several testing sessions and study seminars in order to raise their own standards and compete with other math clubs.

Officers (L-R) Julio Barroso, secretary/treasurer; Larry Davila president; Merrill Roberts, vice-president.

C hess Club

Strategically Nonexistent

'Tis all a chequerboard of nights and days,
Where destiny, like men, with pieces plays,
Hither and thither moves, and mates and slays,
And one by one back in the closet lays.

— from the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam

The great astronomer and mathematician from Persia, Omar Khayyam, could not have been more prophetic regarding the Key West High School Chess Club. Once a proud and thriving sapling in a forest of many, it now lies fallen and forlorn among the ashes of its brethren. It has gone the way of all flesh, the way we all must someday go. Alas, this death is truly tragic, in that it met its demise long before its time.

Perhaps one day, on the lonely shoreline that bridges Valhalla with this tenuous arena we call life, someone will once again discover a weathered checkered board and a little pine box of black and white pieces, half-buried in the sands of time, and care enough to lift a hand, to resurrect the little men that lie there, helpless, and proclaim that this day, this day the great game of chess shall live again!

Capturing Traditions

Many people think that joining yearbook means that you get to take pictures and leave campus. But the truth is we have to write everything you guys see now, organize it in layouts, wait for it to be edited and corrected and then, most importantly, make sure it is sent in on time. Staffers have spent many stressful days picking out pictures and typing in captions. In order to meet deadlines you may have to give up your Saturday mornings and miss after school activities. It's not exactly all fun and games. It's only fun because we choose to do it and make it fun. The real fun starts though when we see our final result and know that we, yes we, the students made it all possible. We have captured the traditions and the memories and compiled them into what you see today.

Josie Tarracino must find her 20 words per minute skills very handy when deadlines creep up.

Our yearbook staff is very particular with the way layouts are done. Editor Jennifer Jones is very picky about her set-ups. Right Jenny?

Writing captions can be a difficult, but sometimes fun process. Junior Teresa Miller says to herself, "How can I make a crack at this guy?"

As you can see, the yearbook staff at Key West High School is always busy. Everything from making phone calls to brainstorming in groups keeps us all on our toes.

Holly Hopkins looks over Carly Bervaldi's shoulder as she types some pertinent information into the computer. Better make sure Carly doesn't make an error. That could send us way off deadline.

Newspaper

Snap To It

We've all heard of The Key West Citizen, The Miami Herald, and The New York Times. Ever consider working for them? Well, being involved in the school paper, The Snapper, is a good place to start. The 15 students that work on our paper have a lot to cover. With Editor-in-Chief Jesse Brown leading the squad, the amount of activity is stressful - you need to have extensive writing skills, a creative mind, and either a journalism or writing credit. The Snapper covers all the off school activities, including articles, editorials, and the latest news. For the more right-brained reader, The Snapper also includes the latest trends, gossip, and horoscopes.

Now don't get them wrong. They don't stand around yelling "Extra! Extra!" We're talking personal questions, probing editorials, and intriguing interviews. What do you expect? They're all part of the media!

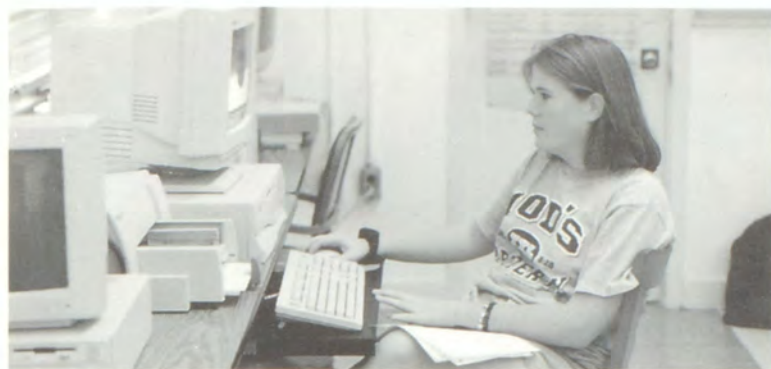

Lande asks Mrs. McLean if her article sounds good. Neil Cohen looks like he wants to critique it also.

In need of a well deserved break, Jesse Brown takes a moment to look through some pictures.

Doing the layout of a newspaper requires a lot of decision making. These staff members have to hear each other's opinions before making the final "Okay."

Looks like the pressure is on for Sophomore Chris Ferrin.

Mrs. McLean explains to Chloe Mailer the proper way to write an article. It looks like she's very interested in learning.

Excited with creativity, John Paul Brennan can't wait to start his article.

Art Club

Coloring Our World

Many people have noticed an assortment of murals popping up all over K.W.H.S. and are wondering where they came from. Not to worry, its not a sprite who comes to draw on our walls in the middle of the night or aliens from outer space. It is, however, a band of creative souls who combine their artistic talents in order to express their individuality and beautify the school. There aren't any requirements to join, but an interest in art and a willingness to devote free time to making our community a better place to learn are greatly in need. Like other clubs they have fundraisers, such as painting classroom doors, in order to buy supplies and create art scholarships. Officers Kim McCrory, President, Aurora Stevens, Vice President, Kelly Germann, Secretary, and Josh Benny, Treasurer, made sure that no one was left out during this time of great improvement for both the school and the artists themselves.

Blossom Mills puts the finishing touches on this door.

Renaissance Club

A Blast From The Past

Renaissance: a style of art, literature, and architecture that originated in Italy during the 14th century. Its influence later spread throughout all of Europe and harkened the rebirth of learning and knowledge. Even today, the Renaissance still has influence over many. Thus the Renaissance Club. This group of highly motivated students continues to seek out the truths and ideals that our ancestors sought so long ago. This past year the group visited a number of faires and festivals all over south Florida, such as the Italian Renaissance Faire held at Vizcaya in Miami, the Medieval Faire held in T.Y. Park in Miami, and the Renaissance Faire in Marathon, sponsored by the Marathon High School Renaissance Club. While attending such lavish festivals, members had the opportunity to dress in their favorite Renaissance costumes, sample some of the foods of the time, and participate in various activities, such as the axe throw, the cross-bow shoot, and jousting.

Some questions were raised by this figure, but it's only a member of the club reminding us of times passed.

Drama Club

A Star Is Born

What Key West High School club participates in plays and musicals, takes trips to see Broadway touring shows, and has the creativity and talent to make costumes, props, and entire sets? This is all done by the 35 members of the drama club. President Nicole DiNicola, Vice-President Tyler Santos, Secretary Kristin Walterson, Treasurer J.P. Robles, M.A.L. Holly Hopkins and sponsor Mr. Bonnett keep their club members involved in fundraisers, plays and musicals. One of their biggest achievements this year was opening a show with only 17 hours of rehearsal after losing two weeks due to Hurricane Georges. They held true to the saying "The show must go on." Without the drama club no shows would go on at all. Don't you think they deserve a round of applause, or perhaps even a standing ovation.

Elissa, an honorary drama club member, does much of the work behind the scenes.

Sophomore Sarah Bender works the sugar side of the booth for Children's Day. Don't eat the goodies, Sarah!

Annie

It's a Hard Knock Life

As part of the Key West Theatre Festival for 1998, a cast of about 25 high school students and 20 elementary students performed the classic musical Annie. Annie featured Ralph Garcia as Daddy Warbucks, Holly Hopkins as Ms. Hannigan, and Christina Stout and Jennifer Stress as Grace, as well as many other talented students. The rehearsal schedule was cut drastically short by Hurricane Georges, only leaving three weeks for full cast rehearsals. The intense rehearsals paid off, and the first night went off without a hitch. Every performance was acted out before a full house, and got rave reviews from the community. Director Daniel Bonnett and Assistant Director Elissa D'Amato pulled off yet another great production and proved that even though it is "A Hard Knock Life," the show goes on.

Elissa D'Amato helps Holly Hopkins prepare for the show.

The cast sings farewell to their audience. The show was a hit, thanks to all of their hard work.

Talk about your opposites. Christina Stout expresses her happiness with a small smile, while Ralph Garcia excitedly jumps up and down. Be careful, Ralph, you don't want to pull a muscle.

Tyler Santos and Ralph Garcia put on quite a show with little orphan Annie. What is that you're wearing, Tyler? I thought you were far more fashionable than that.

"A little to the left," Stage Director Elissa D'Amato says as she repositions an actor while Mr. Bonnett makes notes in the script. This duo of directors played a key part in the overall success of the musical.

Looks like Holly Hopkins is "falling" for Merrill Roberts. She wasn't the only one who was impressed by his incredible flair for acting.

Tyler Santos, Tony Gil, and J.P. Robles appear to be quite taken by Jennifer Stress. Don't stare too hard, guys, or you'll forget your lines.

Steel Magnolias

Finding the Courage

Steel Magnolias was performed at the Waterfront Playhouse on November 12-15, featuring an all-star cast of Ashley Jonas and Lona Hall as "Shelby"; Nicole DiNicola as "Truvy"; Shakti Assouline and Christina Lolos as "Anelle"; Elissa D'Amato as "Clairie"; Samantha Fredricks as "Weezer"; and Jesse Brown as "Mayln." The play took place entirely in Truvy's beauty salon. Shelby, a diabetic, has a child against her doctor's recommendations and eventually dies. The child is raised by its grandmother, Mayln. The theme of the play is "Life goes on." The all-female cast was remarkable and received rave reviews from audiences and critics alike. There were many who were reduced to tears for a long time after the performance was over. All in all, the play was a success.

Nicole DiNicola lets out a little laugh while styling Ashley Jonas' hair during Steel Magnolias.

The cast of Steel Magnolias surrounds Deana Valdez during a very emotional scene. Performances like these held their audience captive until the very end.

The first cast gathers around this window frame, but this is not everybody. It took two casts to make the play a success.

42nd Street

We're in the Money

"Break a leg!" Well, that's what they say, but they don't really mean it. But that's just what happens in this lively musical, as Dorothy Brock, the darling of all Broadway, trips and snaps her ankle on opening night. Enter aspiring star Peggy Sawyer, who gets her "break" and takes the stage by storm. Sawyer, being more talented than the aging Brock anyway, steals the show with breathtaking song and dance routines. Our version of the musical 42nd Street ran March 12-14 and was performed at the Tennessee Williams Fine Arts Center. The cast included Kristin Walterson as Peggy Sawyer, Deana Valdez as Dorothy Brock, James Bunch as Abner Dillon, and Ashby Goldstein as Julian Marsh. The numbers performed by these and other members of the cast were a smashing success and earned the well-deserved applause of the crowd.

Concentration is the key for Tyler Santos and Ms. Revelin as they try to hit the right notes.

Like a house of cards, Lisa Jones balances with perfection on those high heels! The rest of the cast takes note of her exceptional skills.

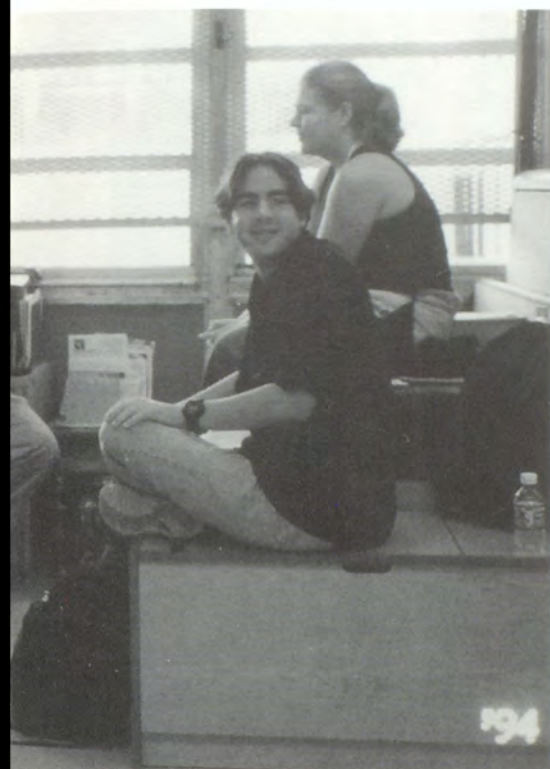

These cast members keep their eyes in the mirror to see if their steps match those of Mr. Bonnett. He's hard to keep up with, isn't he? This entire group practiced long hours to perfect all the intricate dance numbers associated with this production. To say that the show was a hit is an understatement. The crowds raved and asked for more with standing ovations. Congratulations to all!

Brandi Parker, Deana Valdez, Tyler Santos, and Kristin Walterson run through their lines to eliminate any chance for mistakes.

"Say what?" Clinton Curtis appears to ask, while Brendan McLeod frantically looks through the script for his next line. You had better learn those lines fast, Brendan. There's not much time left before the show.

Mr. Bonnett gives Julie Hennigan and Tony Gil a run-down on the moves. Follow closely, y'all, he's fleet of foot!

Misty's & V.I.P.'s

Two for the Show!

Every school has its "elite" groups. There are varsity teams, advanced classes, and honors courses. Let's just say that the Show Choir, better known as the Misty's & V.I.P.'s, fits into that category. They are the auxiliary ensembles from concert choir. In order to be a part of this excellent organization, you must first be a member of the concert choir, as well as undergo a strictly graded audition. Once you are accepted into the Show Choir, you can participate in the four enjoyable performances at the school and travel to middle and grade schools to entertain and encourage young singers. This year the choir teamed up with the band and performed at the Statue of Liberty in New York. The twenty-two girls and twenty-three boys that make up this remarkably talented group are full of artistic skill and have much potential.

While singing a popular song from the Disney movie "101 Dalmations," Jesse Brown showed up in her evil attire as Cruella DeVille and nearly frightened the spots off these adorable V.I.P. puppies. Fortunately, some feline Misty's showed up to steal the spotlight and save the concert.

C oncert Choir

A Concerted Effort

They sing! They dance! They move you with their stellar performing abilities! They are the one and only K.W.H.S. Concert Choir. As most of you are aware, the choir is an organization designed for those who love to belt their hearts out. After all, only people who live to perform would put the time and hard work into creating four terrific concerts a year. In addition to that, they performed many times in the community and at other schools and organizations. Not only does this committed group of vocalists love what they do, but they are good at it as well. So good in fact that they were invited to Washington, D.C. to perform at the "America Sings" festival and at various sites around New York City to complete their successful year.

Freshman Choir

Voices of Tomorrow

Adjusting from middle school to High School can be rough, so many new students join clubs and organizations to ease the transition. When they get a run down of what extracurricular activities are offered, Freshman Choir is usually the one that catches their attention. After all, it's ninth graders only; no sophomores, juniors, or seniors allowed! The Freshman Choir made its debut in the Fall Concert and then gave encores in the Holiday Concert, Snowbird Concert, and End of the Year Concert. In addition to that, these students perform around the community. Don't get the wrong idea, not every ninth grader can be in Freshman Choir. Each member must successfully pass an audition in front of the director, Mr. Wilt, before the beginning of the school year, in order to ensure that the Freshman Choir is as unique as the other choir organizations.

Those silly Freshmen! Tricks are for kids! But these choir boys seem to liven up the pajama party with their cheerful personalities and good-humored singing. Hey, guys, what's up with the propeller hats?

B and

On the Run!

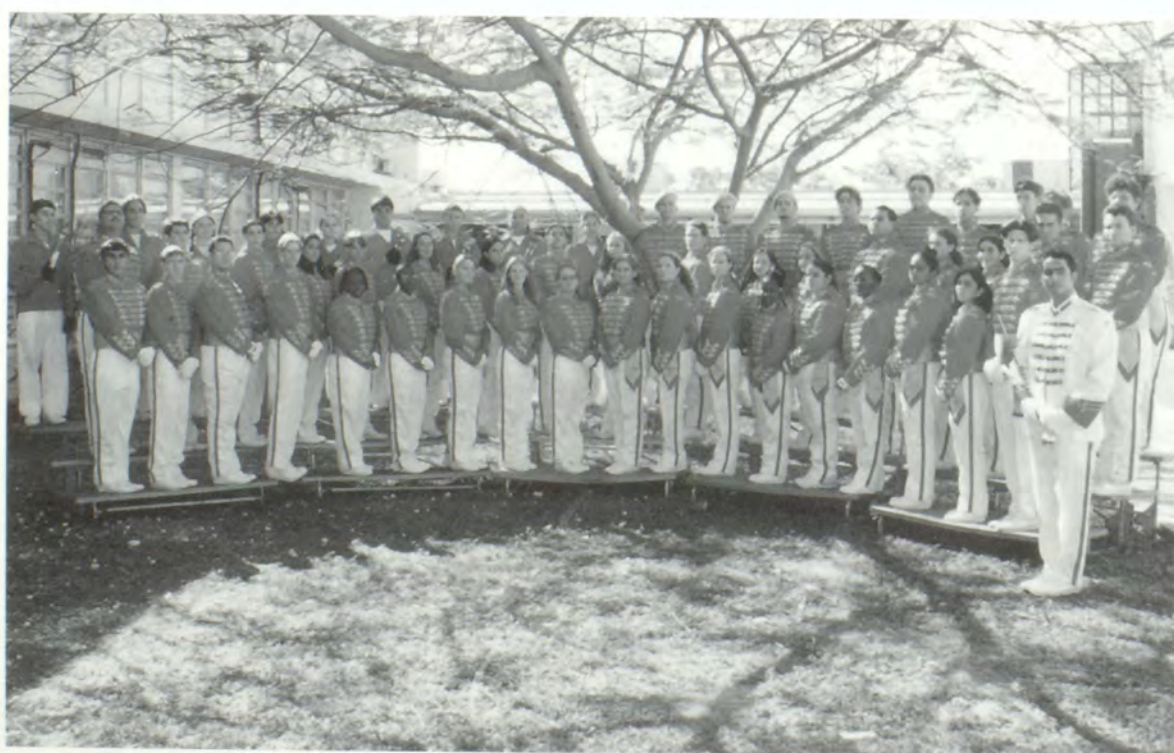

Ever heard the expression, "We don't play the field, we rule the halftime?" If you have, you've probably heard it from a band member. The KWHS Band is mainly known for its traditional performances at the football games, but that's not all they do. Events such as parades, marching festivals, district and state competitions, and concerts complete their busy schedule. With new director Mike Truhan, the band members have truly enriched their program. The jazz band and steel drum band also soared to new heights by expanding membership and improving their individual skills. The band completed their year by teaming up with the choir for their trip to New York City, where they performed at Times Square and the World Trade Center. We are all looking forward to next year as the band continues to progress and develop.

The Key West High Band waits patiently at attention until the judges give them the okay to perform. It must be nerve-racking to perform under such strict grading criteria.

Auxiliary

Up, Up and Away!

The Key West High School Auxiliary worked hard to make this year a success. Color Guard Capt. Tiffany Bright, co-Captains Jennifer Jones and Gosia Bujak, and Majorette Capt. Brandi Parker made sure to keep the girls rolling. Before the school year started, they attended Penny's Camp and Band Camp. They also participated in many fundraisers such as car washes and selling glow necklaces. They entered the school year eager to show us what they're made of by giving us a spectacular performance at our first home football game, and as the year progressed they continued to improve. They performed around the community at Children's Day, Waldenbooks, and several parades, each time leaving the crowd in awe. In the spring they went off to FBA Indoor Guard and Marching Auxiliaries competitions where the 12 color guard members and 6 majorettes enjoyed the sweet success of awesome performances.

Stephanie Gonzalez and Jessica Jones are practicing their moves. Like they say, girls, "Practice makes perfect." Looks like you're almost there!

Amanda Walker seems to be having trouble figuring out how to make a hot dog. Or maybe she's staring at that cute guy working in the NHS booth. Better hurry, I think you have a lot of orders to fill!

These Color Guard members show off their flag skills at the FBA marching competition in Miami. They worked extremely hard and earned an excellent rating. Good job, girls!

Conchettes

Boots and Boleros!

The Conchettes are a unique drill team that has been in existence at Key West High School for over 40 years. The group is a disciplined outfit of girls who all share the special talent of dancing. They also share a sisterhood that's irreplaceable; a bond that lasts a lifetime. Under the direction of Mrs. Debra Oakes (Conchette-Tia), the Conchettes line the field with their red and white to celebrate their spirit. Halftime shows at the Fighting Conchs football games are enthusiastic, with the girls flashing their high kicks and award-winning smiles. Every year they also give the community a taste of their talents with Conchette Capers, the show that keeps 'em laughing in the spring. All in all, the Conchettes have become quite a tradition at Key West High. Their kicks will always soar high and their smiles will be as bright as their memories.

Varsity Cheeleaders

Red and Grey... All the Way!

The Varsity Cheerleading squad started the year off strong by taking home trophies for "Top Team" and "Camp Champion" at the USCA Cheer Camp over the summer. During the school year, they shined in their brand new uniforms, while supporting the Conchs. Whether it be for football, basketball, volleyball, or pep rallies, the cheerleaders are always there to yell for their team and give a spectacular performance. The squad supports all sports through posters and other spirit raising activities. Being a Varsity cheerleader requires a great amount of athletic ability, but more importantly, it requires intense dedication and true spirit, proving themselves to be among the hardest working students at KWHs. They practice everyday and sometimes nights and weekends. Besides accomplishing the traditional cheerleading duties, this squad worked very hard preparing for their own events and competitions, such as the NCA regionals in Miami, The State Championships in Jacksonville, and The NCA Nationals in New York City.

Jessica Oakes looks a little confused with handling the money. What's the matter Jessica, can't count that high with your shoes on?

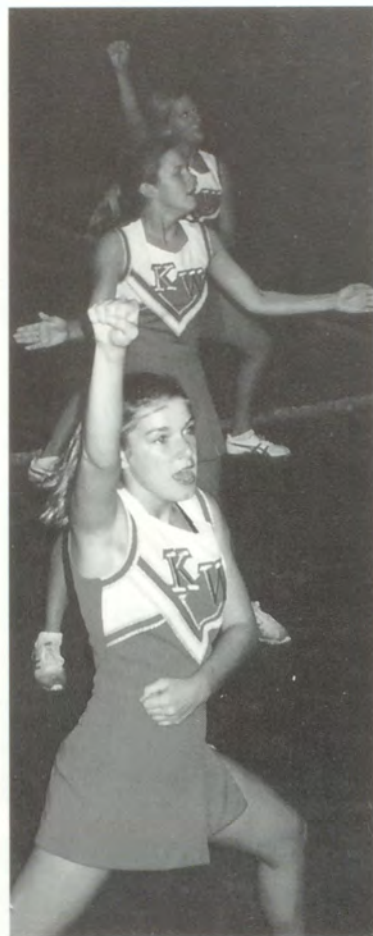

The Varsity Cheerleaders end their Children's Day cheer with a bang! Confident that they completed their cheer perfectly, they stand still and await the oncoming applause. Seems everyone had a good time watching them cheer.

Andrea Milian yells: "Go, Fight, Win!" Keeping her spirits high helps to get major audience participation.

Carly Bervaldi completes a perfect "Liberty" atop the supporting arms of the varsity squad.

As always, Michelle Rowley, Jessica Cranney and Jill Cranney shout out a great cheer for the Varsity Football Squad.

Jessica Oakes screams for help from the crowd to get a little more into the Fighting Conchs football game. "Why aren't you louder? Stand up and cheer!" she pleads to the audience. Don't worry Jessica, your outgoing attitude convinced them to join you. You can almost hear the crowd's loud response:

"GO TEAM!"
"GO TEAM!"
"GO TEAM!"

Symmetry in motion: Andrea Milian and Carly Bervaldi wave their strong arms in the air and flash a spirited smile.

The Varsity Cheerleaders take a little Hawaiian atmosphere with them to the summer training camp. From the looks of things, they really went all out with their accessories. Lookin' good, girls!

Andrea Leto yells out, "Defense, hit 'em hard!" as the Conchs keep the opposing team from scoring.

Erica Diaz checks to see if she's in sync with the rest of the team. Her effort was rewarded with a perfect performance. Good job, girls!

Blake Freer, Nicole Munoz, and Angela Davila take a breather after a hard routine at the Children's Day festival.

Michelle Rowley and Natasha Green enjoy themselves at Children's Day. Getting a tan, listening to music, and making money all at the same time. What more could you want?

"Do that funky chicken! Get as loose as a goose ...," Michelle Rowley, left, yells out to the crowd at a Conch Football game. Having fun, Michelle? We hope you are.

"Conchs, Conchs, Go! Go! Go! ..." is what these cheerleaders are screaming to the frenzied fans at a Conch pep rally. This cheer is one of the most popular, as it gives each class a chance to display its spirit.

J.V. Cheerleaders

Grey and Red...Knock 'em dead!

Spirited, cheerful, and athletic. That's what you think when you hear the word cheerleader. That's definitely what the J.V. cheerleading squad is. They cheered for all of our J.V. teams to keep the school spirit up. They also participated in many school activities, such as pep rallies and other school events. Not only did they keep spirit alive in the school, but in the community as well at events such as Children's Day and parades. With 21 members, the J.V. squad keeps the school rocking and rolling. Coach Amber Archer Bosco, Capt. Ashley Roberts, and co-Captains Shanel Pazo and Cristy Spottswood help the girls with their techniques and skills. That is what makes the J.V. Cheerleaders the best that they can be.

Ashley Roberts looks like she's deep in thought. H m m m ... what are you thinking about, Ashley?

Michelle Swartsel cheers on the J.V. boys as they crush the opposing team. Keep their spirits up, Michelle!

Front Row: Jennifer McLendin, Shanel Pazo, Marina Burton, Ashley Roberts, Christy Spottswood, Alison Pelletier, Jessica Sotis, Elaine Spottswood, Rosie Curry, and Erica Ernst

The J.V. Cheerleaders sparked our spirits as they performed at Children's Day. These young ladies put on a tremendous performance and made the crowd's spirits soar.

"We jam, we jam," you hear the cheerleaders roar in the gym, trying to spur on the enthusiastic crowd. They are very good at their job and always seem to get the crowd pumped!

J.V. Cheerleaders Andrea Alvarez, Andrea Gallardo and Erica Ernst cheer and shout in the cold night air. It might be cold, but by the end of the game those girls will be sweating.

These J.V. cheerleaders are getting ready for the kickoff at Tommy Roberts Memorial Stadium. The Conchs won the toss and have elected to receive. Cheer them on, girls!

Left, Christy Spottswood is being lifted into a perfect stunt. She looks confident that she won't fall. Hold on, girls!

"Go Conchs!" Lily Cohen yells triumphantly to the crowd. By the looks on their faces, both Allison Pelletier and her friend Christy Spottswood must think she's crazy. Hey, can I have one of those cute little footballs?

Pep Squad

'Bout it! 'Bout it!

Even though this is only Pep Squad's second year at Key West High School, it certainly has been an exciting one. From pep rallies to basketball games, football games to various parades, the Pep Squad has hooted and hol-lered for the Fighting Conchs. They never missed a chance to cheer at a contest and they never ever missed a beat! The Pep Squad also participated in many city activities such as Children's Day and Goombay, which kicks off the annual Fantasy Fest Week. A number of fundraisers help to raise enough money for new uniforms so they could continue their cheering ways. Captain Ayesha Osborne and Co-Captain Shamika Leland keep the girls full of spirit, which makes Pep Squad a great activity. The 37 members are proud of their quickly growing organization and intend to make sure that the Pep Squad is a part of Key West High School tradition for many years to come.

Arrioneci Adams seems so excited to perform in front of the student body. Stage fright, y o u think?

Latrice Pla and Larazia Brown break it down in the stands. Looks like they are enjoying themselves.

The Pep Squad rallies the crowd all the way to the Homecoming Game. Their outstanding spirit and enthusiasm helped the Conchs to win the game.

Pep Squad Officers: Vanessa Otero, Lawonda Peoples, Tacoya McIntosh, Chimere Jones, Latrice Pla, Anya Cruz, Tyresa Butler, Keleena Rod, Sasha Pinnock, Larazia Brown, Ayesha Osborne, Shamika Leland, Dawn Dumas.

Tyresa Butler and Rebecca Moreno showed us just how to move our feet. Everyone let loose a few ooohs and aaahs as they displayed their talents.

Are these girls just stretching, or are they really getting into the routine? A one, a two, a three! The world may never know.

Practice is a big part of success. On the left, you see the Pep Squad working on some fancy footwork for an upcoming game.

"Uh oh . . . Pep Squad," is what you hear throughout the stands at Tommy Roberts Memorial Stadium. This group certainly knows how to lead the call.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes

Ya Gotta Have Faith, Faith, Faith!

"In the way of righteousness there is life, along that path is immortality." - Proverbs 12:28

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is a non-denominational club that rejoices in the word of the Lord. Organized by Mr. and Mrs. Morgan McPherson, it was established so that athletes with busy schedules could set aside some time for communal prayer, but it is now so popular that it is attended by people from all walks of life. Guest speakers and community leaders are invited to attend to encourage both the young and the old alike. Each club meeting has a specific topic that is discussed, and this is usually followed by an outside activity such as racketball or other sports or games. In their spare time, club members also serve the community by offering dinner to the homeless and cooking up an old fashioned fish fry at the end of the year.

Mr. Michael McPherson reads himself for the sermon. A cup of coffee and a donut sure help.

Michael Lockwood pauses to consider the weight of the words in today's sermon.

Luke Lanasa, Elisa D'Amato and Bonnie Stump listen to a few comments from a club member. After all, fellowship is one of the main aspects of F.C.A.

Shamika Leland, Mrs. Gootee, and Sean Morales listen intently as Mr. Morgan McPherson delivers the day's sermon.

Left, Raeann Banks pays close attention to the words of the gospel. These words help to guide her through the many trials and tribulations you face daily at K.W.H.S.

Todd Means and Marcus Davila listen to the gospel with enthusiasm. "What happened next?" they both shout at the same time.

Mr. Morgan McPherson leads the club into the lesson for the day with a reading from F.C.A.'s textbook, the Holy Bible. With many wise words he concludes, "A great lesson once again."

Mrs. Christina McPherson is seen here holding her own small miracle, baby Shiloh McPherson, the official mascot of F.C.A.

Police Explorers

Bullseye!

The police have the job of serving and protecting the community. Some of the daily duties of a police officer include patrolling the city streets, making sure everyone is abiding by the laws, and keeping the peace. It's a hard job to do, but it is a necessary part of the community. Luckily, Key West High School has the Police Explorers program. Students can join this program to get an idea of what it is like to be a police officer. Explorers get to experience some of the daily trials and tribulations that a regular officer goes through. They also participate in community activities such as Children's Day to raise money for their club.

"Officer" Antwan Roberts pats down "Crook" John Padron while making a practice arrest. This is just one of the drills Explorers must practice in order to become a true member of the law. Hey, John, just what is Antwan looking for, anyway?

Sailing Club

A Pirate's Life For Me

A warm breeze, the splash of the waves, the smooth rocking of a boat. These sensations are something that Conchs tend to take for granted. Fortunately, some students have decided to take advantage of the pleasures of paradise. These students belong to the Sailing Club. The Sailing Club meets on a regular basis to practice the techniques of boating. They also compete in races all across the state of Florida. They participated in many regattas, both locally and in other regions. The 15 enthusiastic sailors take great pride in their abilities and are eager to learn new tactics. We're sure the Sailing Club is one that will continue to ply the local waters for many years to come.

Conch Pride never dies

There is a sense of Pride that dwells in the hearts of the athletes of Key West High School. Whether you are running for the track team, swimming on the swim team, or pitching for the baseball team, the Conch Pride always shines through. The many teams that are represented by the Fighting Conch had great seasons this school year. The Varsity Lady Conchs soccer team won districts and the Varsity Football team were this year's districts runners up. These are major accomplishments. And being on a winning team helps develop an even deeper sense of Pride. If you ever have the opportunity, talk to an athlete of Key West High School and you will see a gleam in their eyes. This shining stems from the Pride that is flowing through their veins. This is the same Pride that is evident in all the students of Key West High School. Conch Pride never dies.

Varsity Football

All of the fans that followed the Varsity Football Fighting Conchs should be very pleased. This year the team strived their hardest and played their best to make it the best year since 1989. The Conchs faced many tough opponents, but no matter what always managed to keep their heads up high with CONCH PRIDE! With the great strength and power that the Varsity team showed this year, they proved that they will always come out on top. The long, hot, strenuous practices during the summer and throughout the year paid off. These guys made their loyal fans proud.

Senior Leandre Washington is getting buff while Freshmen Patrick Lewin watches. Look out, ladies, here comes the L-MAN!

Junior Carlton Thurston (5) and Seniors Lamont Price (17) and Leandre Washington (8) take a second to comment on the last play.

Senior Ran Carthon shows his strength and dedication to the team and sport by not letting his opponent drag him down.

Junior Varsity Football

We all know that in your junior varsity year you are supposed to learn the most you can on how to be the best you can be. This year's J.V. did not have much to learn. They had a good season and reached many goals. They made their coaches and fans proud in many ways. They showed us they were determined, dedicated, and hard-working. They did everything they could to win, and did not let us down. Their season was an exciting one.

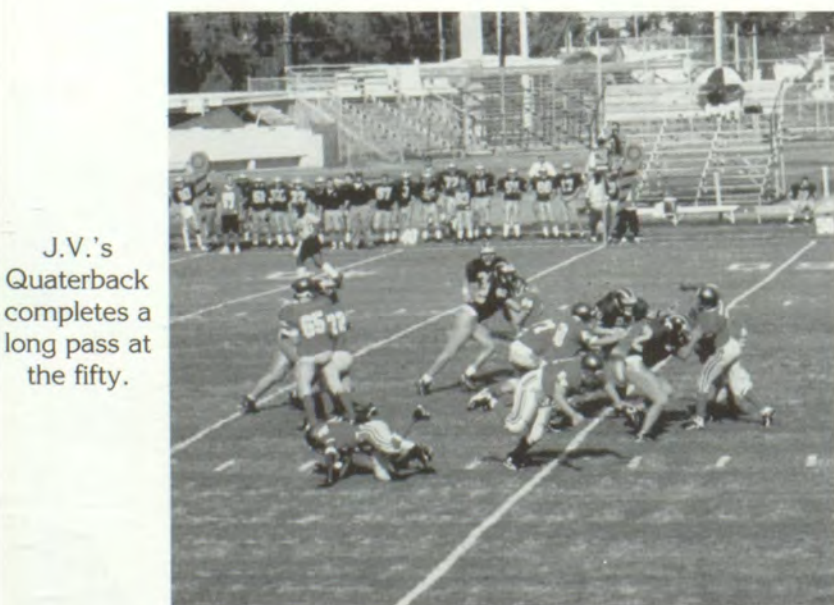

They pulled together with teamwork and gave us everything they had. Coach Hughes has an excellent team coming his way next year for Varsity.
Good Job, Guys!

Swimming

A more experienced swim team has returned this year to endure another season of competition. Although it is hard work, many of the girls enjoy practicing in the sport. Swimming is set aside from other sports because it uses every muscle throughout your body. To be a member of the team, you need to be in good health, have a good attitude, and be committed. You also need to be the best you can be in the water. Many of the upperclassmen would like to have a good team for the underclassmen to look up to. The coach and the team know that with dedication and teamwork their goals are not far out of reach.

Jessica Glenn gets a good head start with a beautiful dive.

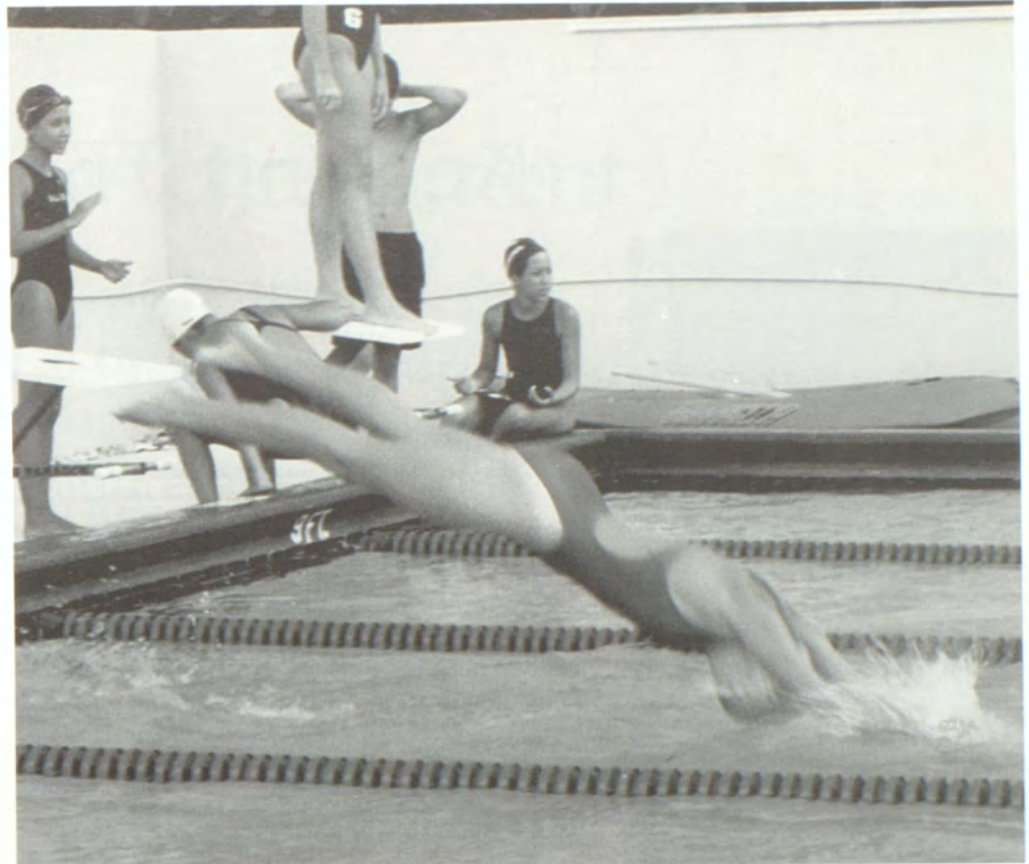

Tiffany Schaafsma is going strong. You're almost there girl, keep swimming!

Boy's Cross Country

Keeping The Pace

Cross Country is a tough sport and not everyone is cut out for it. It is becoming a growing sport each day. It is a great opportunity to have this team. This school year these guys have showed us their strength and determination. It wore us out just seeing them run. They were faced with many challenges throughout the year including losing some star runners, at some points, throughout the season. They all strived to improve through the year and did so successfully. They have made us proud of their achievements. It took a lot of sweat, but they hung in there showing great sportsmanship. Great job, guys! Thanks for giving Key West High School a good reputation, especially at the away meets.

Girl's Cross Country

Gleaming Achievement

Some people might think jogging three miles is tough, but imagine doing it every day in at least twenty-five minutes! That is one of the many challenges that these girls face. They strive to succeed, showing strength and sportsmanship throughout the season. They have improved tremendously throughout the year. These girls' determination and perseverance is part of what has made Cross Country a rapidly expanding sport through the entire nation!

Come on Girls, Charge!!

Junior Natalia Duke is fighting to keep that energy going.

Freshmen J.C. Cooke and Paul Woodfin race side by side toward the finish line. Run, guys, run!

More Girl's Cross Country

Junior Amber Davis cuts through the trees to try and beat everyone to the finish line. Looking tired, she continues to try her hardest.

As the race starts our team strives to get in the lead. The girls make sure to pace themselves to keep the lead and keep from getting too tired.

Juniors Rebecca Tarantino and Irene Crompt along with Sophomore Marina Burton take up the rear. Catch up, girls, if you want to win.

Junior Rebecca Tarantino speeds past the opposing team. As she approaches the finish line, she makes sure she picks up the pace.

Taking the lead, Senior Carly Bervaldi passes a South Dade runner and hopes to keep first place at this meet.

Varsity Volleyball

Spike It Up

The Volleyball team had high hopes this year. Although all of their dreams may not have been reached, they remained determined to win and make their supporters proud. They have great seniority and will lose some great players, but also have plenty of underclassmen to look forward to and depend on next year. They have greatly improved from the last couple of years because many girls' individual progress has strengthened. Volleyball takes a lot of teamwork and will hopefully get stronger as a whole.

Junior Ally Young practices on setting the ball to prepare for the big game.

Junior Varsity Volleyball

Ready, Set, Hit!

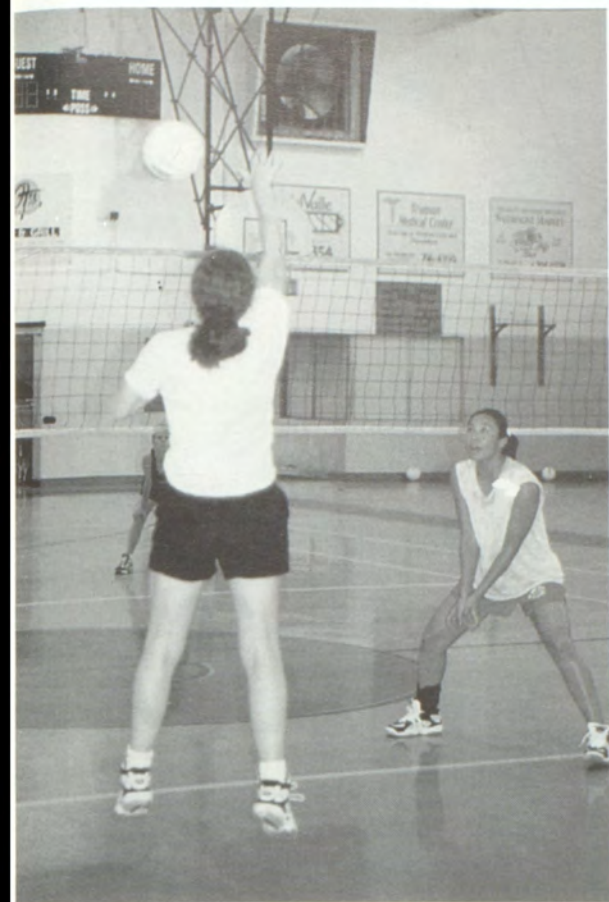

J.V. players struggle not to lose the ball. They need to take the ball back over.

This year's J.V. team had many hard times. Although there was a few sad times around campus, there were many bright spots, too. Those were the times when the girls realized that admirable growth and spirit was to come.

Support for the team grew throughout the season. Practice and dedication were the key for the girls to be the best they can be. They had to overcome many obstacles, including having a young team and a tough season. In the end, though, they pulled through and ended the season on a pretty good note.

Sophomore Lashanda Thompson reaches high to hit the ball back to the other team.

Good practice habits form from battling the Varsity team.

Two players wait patiently until the Varsity practice is over. They learn many skills and tricks by coming early to observe them.

Varsity Boy's Soccer

Reaching New Heights

Junior Peter Mychalcewycz kicks the ball into the goal net. By the look on his face, it appears to have gone in.

The Varsity Boy's Soccer Team consisted of a hard working and talented group of guys. They practiced really hard throughout the year and gave everything they had at every game. They set a good example for all of the J.V. team members that are to come up to the varsity team level. Soccer is a tough sport, but these guys knew what they were up against. Always keeping their perseverance, they never let us down. If they got knocked down, they would get right back up and act as if nothing happened.

These guys definitely showed great sportsmanship, concentration and devotion to the game. They were also truly "Reaching New Heights."

Junior Stephen Welsh kicks the ball and saved it from going out of bounds. As a veteran on the team, Stephen knows how important preventing the ball from going out is.

Senior Aaron Mills goes head to head battling for the ball.

Freshman Lee Baker blocks these players from getting to their goal line. Juniors Peter Mychalcewycz and Simon Lange watch in astonishment and await a pass.

Varsity Girl's Soccer

Junior Kim Clynes shows her good defensive skills by faking out a player from another team. Kim leads the defense with her leadership skills and good personality.

Sophomore Alison Pelletier rushes down the field concentrating on both the ball and her opponents. She knows how to run the ball down the field.

Sophomore Cerdewin Kelly stops the attempted pass by the opponent and passes the ball to another Lady Conch. Teamwork helps the Conchs be victorious.

Junior Jill Cranney is one of the most talented players on the Varsity team. She shows us how talented she really is by playing with her eyes closed.

Junior Diane Herlihy keeps up with her opponent. She is not giving her any room to score or pass the ball. Gumby, as they call her, is persistent and hard to beat.

Junior Diane Herlihy steals the ball away from an opponent and uses her muscular legs to swiftly work her way down the field and score a goal. Go Gumby!

Bottom Row: Cerdewin Kelly, Wendy VanLeuven, Kelly Thomas, Katie Gonzalez, Samantha Hart, Marina Burton, Jesse Brown, and Jennifer Everett. On ground: Lissette Cobo.

Sophomore Jessica Brown lands in a perfect position after kicking the ball down the field. Balance is important to have while playing soccer.

Sophomore Wendy Vanleuven takes the ball down the field proving that speed is an important quality to have in soccer. She likes to play midfield so she can run and defend at the same time.

Senior Jenny Costarino sneaks up behind a Coral Shores player to rob them of a goal that could have cost us the game.

Junior Rebecca Tarrantino head-butts the ball away from another player in order to get closer to the goal line.

More Varsity Boy's Soccer

Senior Zeph Allen receives the side out from Marathon and goes to the other side of the field to score the winning point.

Sophomore Steven Gannister looks at the ball intensely as he receives it from a team mate. Passing is a good strategy in winning the game. Even though he is a Sophomore on the team, he knows what it takes to win.

"I think we have a good team this year. Even though we have young kids on our team, we still work well with each other."
— David Brennan

"Being a freshman on the Varsity team I had the challenge of facing older, more experienced players. The challenge actually made it a lot of fun."
— Lee Baker

Junior Adam Jones heads the ball away from the Marathon goal net. He proves to us that with practice, anything can be done.

Junior Simon Lange gets ready for a defensive play. As a veteran on Varsity, Simon knows how important defense is on a soccer team.

Senior Aaron Mills fakes out his opponent, keeping the ball until a teammate becomes open to make a goal.

Senior Zeph Allen kicks the ball to a teammate for the assist on a goal. Zeph and his teammate scored the winning point that game.

Sophomore Steven Ganister steals the ball away from a Coral Shores player to kick it all the way to the end zone and score a point.

Freshman Lee Baker concentrates on the ball as he prepares to kick it down the field. Concentration and dedication are major keys to being a successful player.

"I feel that since this is only my second year playing soccer, I have a lot of room for growth. I feel the same way about the team- we have a lot of room for growth."

—Steven Gannister

"We are doing pretty well this season. We do well in practice and in games. We also have good coaching to further advance our skills."

— Aaron Mills

Before each game the referee checks each boy's uniform carefully to make sure they play a safe game.

More Varsity Girl's Soccer

"Being the only Senior on the team, they expect a lot from me. I am glad that I didn't let them down."

— Jenny Costarino

Junior Rebecca Tarrantino stays up with the ball even when her competitor steps in her face.

"Playing Soccer for 10 years I know a lot about the game. We have a good team with many new players. We did extremely well this year."

— Marina Burton

Junior Kimberly Clynes dribbles the ball down the field and into the goal net for the winning point! Kim was out with an injury, but made up for it when she got back into the game.

Senior Jenny Costarino blasts a beautiful shot to a teammate. After practicing day and night, Jenny has this shot down. Jenny is one of the most competitive players on the team.

Freshman Amanda Phelps charges at her opponent with Conch Pride in her eyes. Her aggressive playing allows her to do her best.

Senior Jenny Costarino shows off one of her many talents and does a flip-throw-in to start off the play. She is the only one on the team that can do this talented move.

Junior Diane Herlihy yells for another player to get in her place. Being a veteran on the team, Diane knows a lot about soccer and can give a command like that.

"I think we are doing well because we are a veteran team and we work well with each other."
— Diane Herlihy

Junior Ysla Bruggerman runs up behind a Coral Shores player to stop her from head-butting the ball to another play.

"Being out with an injury, I have seen a lot from the sidelines and I think we are a good team. I am glad I'm back in the game."
— Kim Clynes

Junior Kimberly Clynes saves the ball from going out of bounds and passes it to another teammate. Kimba knows that teamwork is what soccer is all about.

Sophomore Jessica Brown kicks the ball down the field and keeps it away from Belen's goal net. In order to make sure that the other team doesn't take the ball away from her, Jesse keeps it close to her feet.

Aggressive Attitudes

J.V. Boy's Soccer

Freshman Owen Poole tries to keep the ball in bounds and in play. He proves himself worthy of wearing that Conch uniform.

The 1998-1999 Conch Junior Varsity Boy's Soccer Team consisted of a young team. It was made up of underclassmen and new, inexperienced players. Under the coaching of Mr. Clifford, the team achieved strong dignity and showed dedication. To prepare for the season the team leaders stressed the fundamentals of teamwork and will reap the well-deserved benefits. This team has all it takes to become number one. With practice, next year's season is promising.

Freshmen Eli Gutman fights to win the ball from an opposing team member. From the looks of it he's concentrating hard. Eli knows that soccer takes concentration to be successful.

Freshman Eli Gutman kicks the ball up the field to a teammate. Teamwork is another important asset in the game.

Sophomore Jose Rodriguez assists the kick and passes the ball to the player ahead of him.

Sophomore Phillip Kirouac keeps a close eye on the ball making sure the opposing team doesn't take it from the Conchs. Eye and feet coordination is essential to be a good player.

Goal Keeping

Sophomore Justin Smith gives Freshman Owen Poole the "eye signal" to let him know that if he needs help, he is open and ready.

Freshman Eli Gutman shows off his fancy footwork to distract his opponent.

JV Girl's Soccer

The Junior Varsity Girl's Soccer Team is a very talented and hardworking group. These girls possess great skills, confidence and understanding of the game.

They have showed strength and perseverance throughout the year. When knocked out, they get right back up and tried harder! They have won many and lost few, but have always shown great sportsmanship and a positive attitude. Soccer is not an easy sport and it takes a lot of practice to master it. Always striving to be better, the Lady Conchs have greatly improved and made Key West High School proud!

"We haven't done too well in the past, but with a great coach, we are hoping to go all the way." - Kim Gladding

Sophomore Jessica Swaney throws the ball to her teammate down the field. She has to be sure to keep her feet down or the ball will be given to the other team.

Freshman Sara Fithian is ready to block an oncoming opponent. Defense is a hard position to play, but Sara has the dedication and strength to be one of the best defensive players on the team.

Goal Keeping

"We work well as a team, and we are all dedicated. Our positive attitudes and thoughts enable us to work hard and play great." - Teresa Miller

Sophomore Christina Buckmaster blasts a corner kick in hopes of scoring. Strong kickers are a powerful asset for the J.V. team.

Freshmen Asia Orofino uses her head to keep the ball in her zone. A steady head butt sets the ball up for a great kick.

Junior Kim Gladding tries to stop the ball from going out of bounds. Although she fails, we get the ball back and win the game!

The J.V. Girl's Soccer Team scores their first goal of the season against Marathon, which we later beat 3-2! This was the beginning of their winning streak.

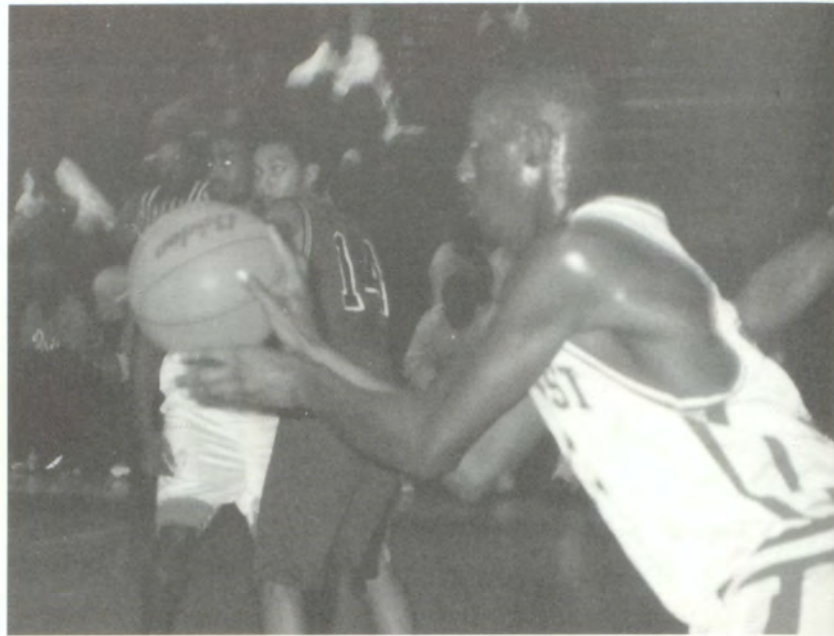

Freshman Amber Elkins fights to win the ball back from the Marathon girls while Sophomore Emily Heinrich looks out, being prepared for anything.

Varsity Boy's Basketball

Senior Calvin Moore shows his lay up abilities during practice before a game. He gots skills. He gots it goin' on!

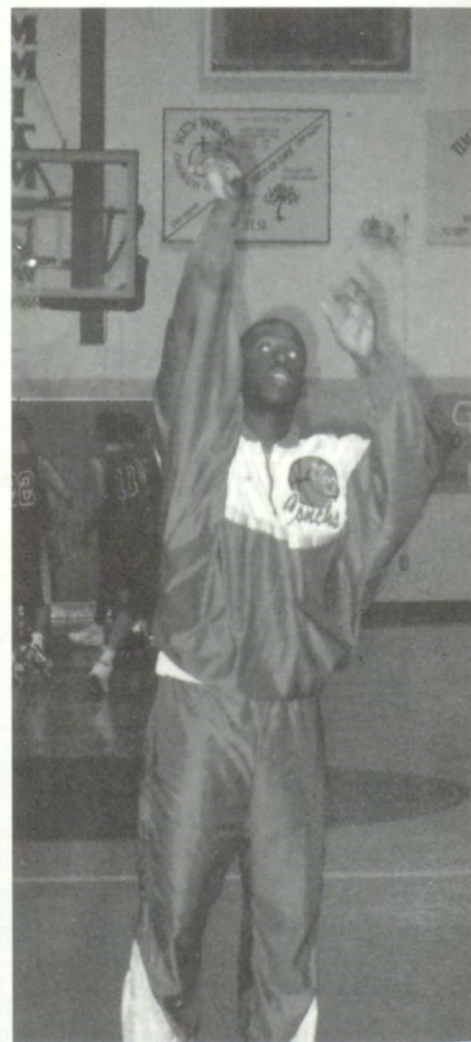

Once Junior Carlton Thurston gets a hold of the ball he knows exactly where he wants it to go. Whether it be passing or shooting, he makes it happen.

Juniors Carlton Thurston and Doug Meeker prepare for that rebound. These guys have the height that it takes to be a good rebounder.

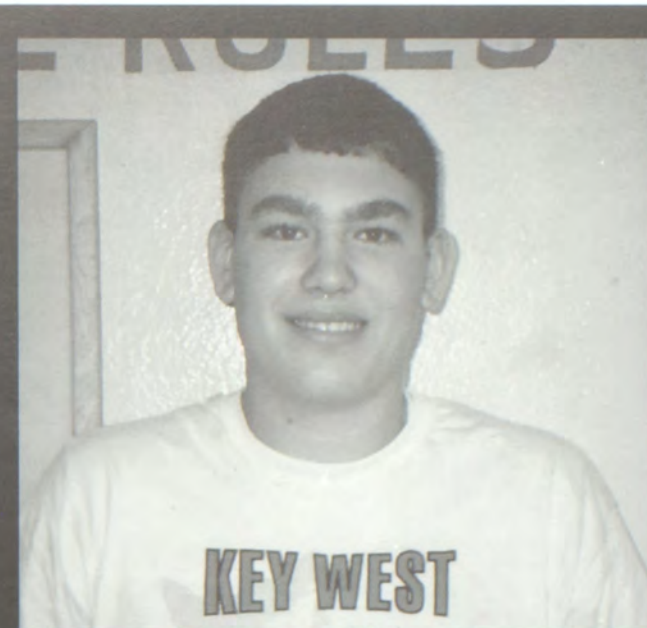

Junior Malcolm Munnings looks determined to beat his opponent. With his speed and agility, we can be assured that he did.

Senior Leonarldo Robertson warms up before a big game. He showed off his skills that he mastered during all of those long, grueling practices.

"I'm proud of the way we preformed this season. Even though we can improve, overall we did well. I am going to practice on my weaknesses and hopefully next year the team and we will go all the way."

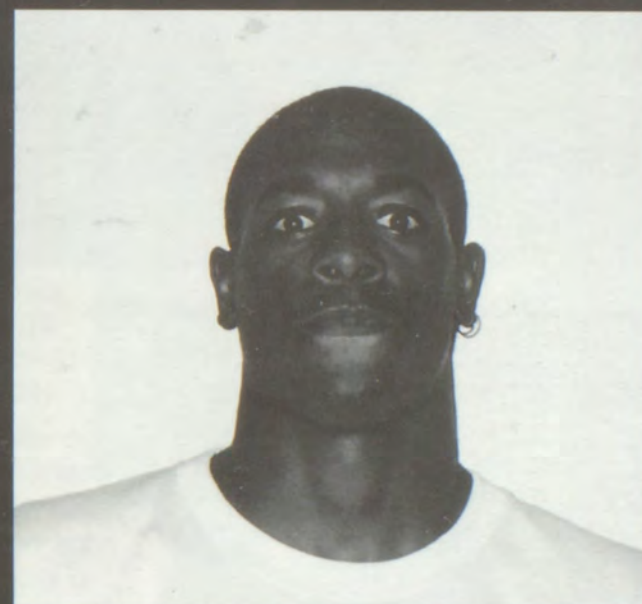

— Doug Meeker

Junior Donteau Williams gets ready for his next free throw. Being a veteran basketball player, Donteau scores many points for his teammates.

Junior Doug Meeker receives a pass and lays it up during practice.

"We didn't do as good as we could have this year, but we all are going to work hard next year to show our fans what we are truly made of."

— Carlton Thurston

Junior Andy Morey waits in anticipation for a pass to come. Being a good passer, Andy has an advantage.

Juniors Doug Meeker and Carlton Thurston run down the court to play some defense after scoring a hard earned point.

Up with Victory, down with Defeat!

Seniors Curtis Butler and Leandre Turner use teamwork to try to stop Pace from scoring. These guys know how important defense is to the team.

Junior Doug Meeker sets up for a throw. His teammates wait in anticipation to see the outcome so they can get ready for the rebound.

Senior Leandre Turner runs out of the locker room with his teammates close behind. He has that game face on because he is about to let the other team know who is boss.

The Key West High defense prepares to stuff St. Brendan's offense at a recent home match. Looks like coach had them well-prepared for this game! Go, guy's.

Junior Lavel Lake covers one of the toughest Pace players on the team. As he runs up and down the court, he does not let a point score.

Junior Jonathan Gonzalez warms up at the free throw line before the game. He shows his opponents what they are up against.

The boys show their talent and strut their stuff by setting up around the court. They get warmed up before every game by practicing shooting.

Senior Curtis Butler goes up for a lay-up and succeeds to score the tie-breaking point.

The 1998-1999 Varsity Boy's Basketball Team show their spirit and get fired up at the Pep Rally before the big game.

"I am very proud of us. We did pretty good. I am satisfied with the outcome of the season but I wish we could have gone all the way. My senior year was pretty successful."

— Curtis Butler

"I am proud of what I did for the team. I feel I contributed as much as I could. I had faith in my teammates and they had faith in me. Teamwork and trusting each other is what it's all about."

— Malcolm Munnings

Varsity Girl's Basketball

The Conch's Girl's Basketball team plays every game with the heart and soul that it takes to have a promising season. Once again they have left their mark. The strength of each girl on the team is unparalleled to any other when they are at their best. They played very well this season. Although they suffered a few losses, the team achieved many of their goals. Many of the girls that moved up from the junior varsity were well prepared and did exceptionally well. Because of the Conch Pride that is in every girl's heart, they had a wonderful season.

Rebound! Junior Keia Hughes listens to her coaches and blocks the throw from the other team. The varsity team really relies on Keia's skills to win a hard game.

Coach gives a pep talk before the game to get the player's blood pumping with determination. The starting players on the varsity team all await the rebound. All of the players are ready and determined to keep the ball in Conch territory.

Junior Larazia Brown helps out the team by quickly changing her direction and sprinting backwards down the court. She learned that useful skill by being dedicated and going to her practices.

Senior Alvarez Rice concentrates as the crowd becomes silent. Foul shots are an easy way to score points. "Come on, Alvarez, Sink it!"

Shooting For Victory

Junior Keia Hughes has to make a quick decision on whether to pass the ball or use her great speed to fake out her opponent. Quick thinking and even faster speed is essential to play basketball.

Seniors Crystal Hauge and Patricia Chidester come out to warm up with smiles and enthusiasm all over their faces. Running into the eager fans gets you pumped up and ready to play some hard ball.

At an away trip the girls look at the score board and cross their fingers in hopes of another win. They have faith in their teammates.

Junior Thomika Taylor drives the lane, showing off her skills and proving that she still has it from last season.

Senior Fawn Mokulis makes the block and prevents Ransom from getting ahead of us.

"I am proud of our team this year. We worked together and practiced hard. I am going to miss being a part of such an awesome organization, but I'm glad we did as well as we did for my Senior year."
— Crystal Hauge

"I think we improved a lot this year. We worked together and practiced hard. That is what it takes to be good."
— Keia Hughes

Senior Alvarez Rice looks as if she is in hostile territory as she tries to get the ball to one of her open teammates. Being a veteran player, the team is in good hands.

The Lady Conchs played awesome defense in this game. They stopped the other team from scoring on almost all of their shots.

Senior Crystal Hauge and Junior Larazia Brown play defense as the opposing team soars above them to score two points. Sometimes the other team is just too good.

Senior Fawn Mokulis shoots above the opposing team in hopes of earning her team two points. Fawn was blessed with the gift of height which later came to our advantage.

"I think we did better this year than last year. We got along good and practiced a lot. I am proud of us."
— Ayesha Osborne

"This year we improved a lot. I think that the dedication and endurance that we practiced, helped us become better. I hope we made our coach proud because all of the teammates are proud of each other."
— Fawn Mokulis

Junior Keia Hughes shoots past the opposing team in hopes of earning the Lady Conchs some hard-earned points. With her talent and speed, it is almost certain that she made it.

Our Lady Conchs Basketball Team appears to be very tired from the looks of this picture. Playing at this level of competition takes a lot of energy and practice.

J.V. Boy's Basketball

The J.V. boys this year have without a doubt exceeded all expectations. Even though the team has some inexperienced boys, they were willing to give up their time to practice with their teammates. They practiced on how to work together and to improve their jump shots. Their coach hopes that he did everything he could to give them wonderful memories and a victorious season to look back on. These guys have a lot to look forward to as they approach the varsity level.

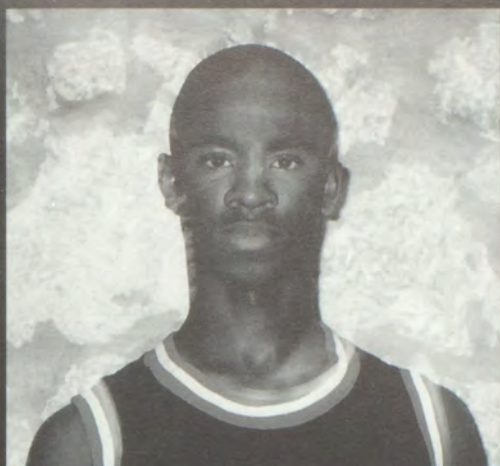

Frozen in time, both J.V. teams crowd the paint in hopes of rebounding the ball. By the looks of it, Pace has a height advantage over our J.V.

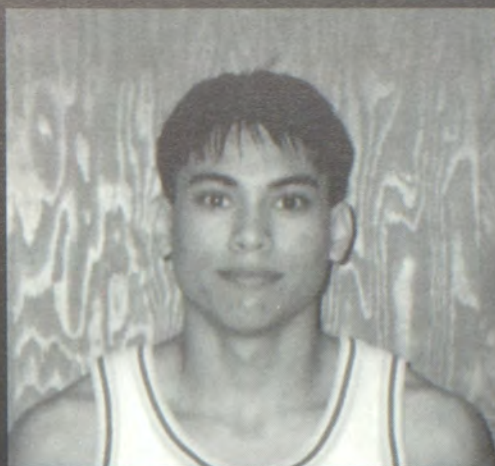

Freshman Ricky Clay thinks ahead and runs up the court to be open for his teammates and be ready to receive a pass.

"We practiced hard this year and it paid off. I'm glad we did as well as we did."
— Bubba Butler

"We did not go as far as I'd hoped, but we did pretty well. Next year, we will hopefully do better."
— Nathaniel Tinaya

Future Rulers of the Court

Sophomore Colton Butler soars over a player to get the ball from him. Colton turned over the play and scored some points for his team.

Sophomore Pedro Lara takes his free throws with everyone watching and hoping to get ahead by two.

Junior Nathaniel Tinaya uses his fancy footwork to fake out an opponent. His energy gives him the strength to play hard. He hopes to improve his skills so next year he will be ready for anything.

J.V. Girl's Basketball

L-R: Yanaris Presilla, Ashanti McIntosh, Marquita McIntosh, Elizabeth Skaggs and Miriam Cleare.

Freshman Ashanti McIntosh soars through the air hoping to score her team two points. Michael Jordan doesn't have anything on her.

A J.V. girl is swarmed by Ransom players. She remembers what she practiced and passes the ball to a teammate.

Freshmen Miriam Cleare, Elizabeth Skaggs and Yanaris Presilla play hard defense.

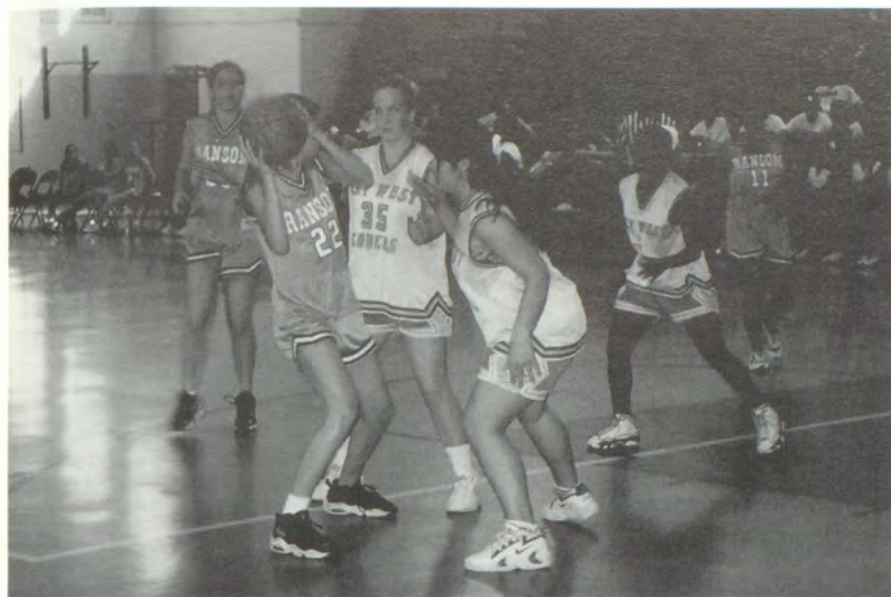

"I had a hard time this year with my grades, but with a lot of determination I still got to play. I feel that I am a strong leader."
—Elizabeth Skaggs

"Being on the J.V. team was an inspiration for me. I enjoyed the fun times I had on the team."
—Marquita McIntosh

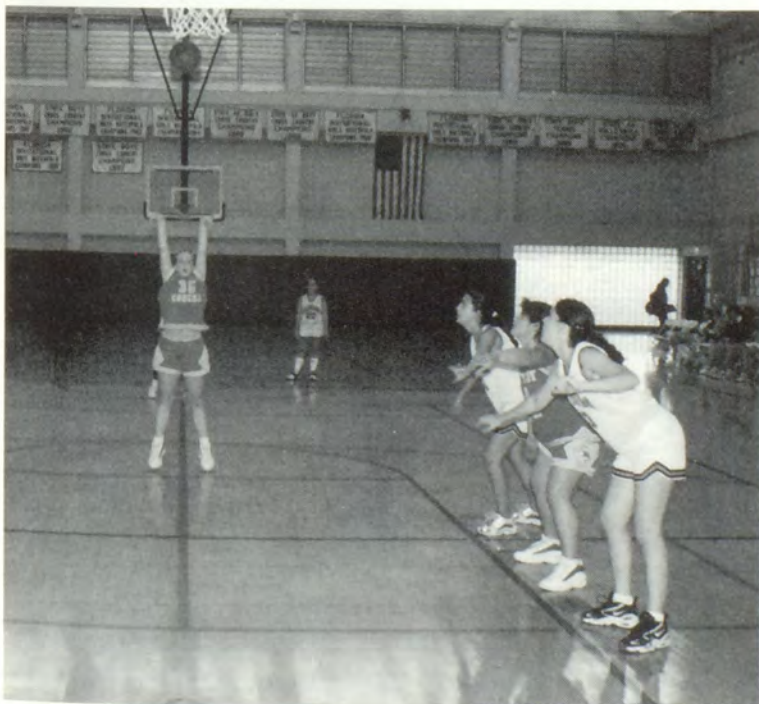

Junior Becky Gonzalez plays strong defense against the opposing team. Defense is very important in basketball.

Freshman Marquita McIntosh makes a throw to score a winning point. Accuracy is hard but necessary to win.

“There is no I in Team.”

This year's Junior Varsity Girl's Basketball Team did better than they thought they would. They had their share of bad luck for the season. This team started off with only seven girls, which gave them no room for injuries. This also meant harder work and more endurance. But no matter what, our girls always came out on top. These girls showed how determined they were and how they wanted their wins. This is what kept the girls together. Practicing every night helped raise their self-esteem and gave them the hope when things were low.

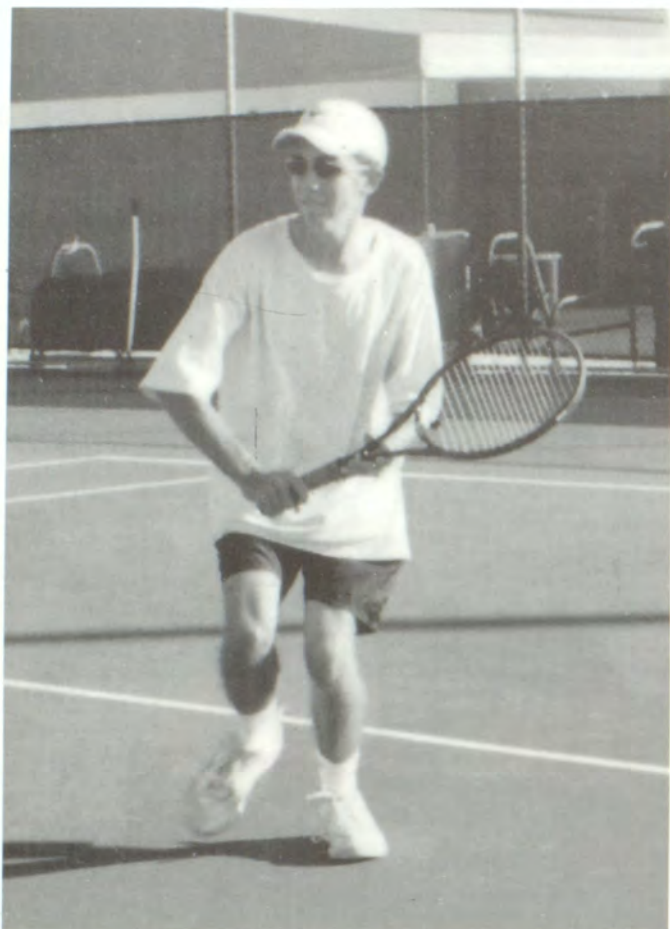

Sophomore Elizabeth Skaggs shows her stuff at the free throw line, by gaining an extra two points for our team.

Freshmen Marquita McIntosh keeps an eye on the ball in hopes of rebounding the ball against Ransom Everglades.

Boy's Tennis

Junior David Jackson uses his strong body to powerfully return the ball back to his opponent. Being in good shape is essential in order to keep up with the fast-paced action in tennis. David meets the physical standards needed to be good in tennis.

Junior Darrow McKnight puts all of his might into his serve. Being a veteran on the team, Darrow knows how to control his agility and he has a strong advantage over the other players.

The 1999 Boy's Tennis team is once again looking for a winning season. The team practiced hard to maintain their rankings against one another and to ensure top performance against other high schools. Throughout the season there was much competition between the players to reach a higher level of play. The boy's tight relationships with each other helped to keep the team alive. This year the team had many players with a lot of experience. Team chemistry made them a strong contender for the district title. The expectations for the boys were high, and they certainly tried their best to live up to them.

Junior David Jackson watches his teammate return the ball to his opponent in a highly-contested doubles match. Doubles games are fun to watch because an added player on each side increases the excitement with each stroke.

"We did very well last year and hopefully we can go just as far this year."

— Darrow McKnight

Senior John Sweeting prepares to return this volley during one of the many practices held at the Florida Keys Community College.

Junior Chaz DeCremer gets set for a smashing backhand. Even though they are hard to learn, backhands help out tremendously on the court.

Senior Michael Ferrin shows excellent form as he follows through on this return. Mike chose to return the ball to his opponent by using a smashing forehand.

Junior Vanessa Perez is one of the best players on the girl's team. Here she waits for her opponent to return her smashing serve.

Senior Jennie Stephenson practices her forearm swing at the girl's tennis practice. Good form plays an important role in order to score a winning point. Practicing hard is very important if you want to be the best. Jenny is one of the best players on the team because she knows how important practicing is and is very dedicated to the team.

"Tennis is my favorite sport to play. I'm glad that I'm captain of such a good sport in my Senior year. Dedication and practice are what help you become a good player. Since our team has both of them, we should do pretty well this year."
— Jennie Stephenson

On the other side of the net stands the Key West High School Girl's Tennis team. The girls have a passion and love for tennis. With this in their hearts and minds it makes them willing to do whatever it takes to win. They practice hard to maintain their rankings because tennis is a very competitive sport. The girls came into the season full of spirit and ready to reach their goals. The 1999 Girl's Tennis team is composed predominantly of underclassmen and they have many new things to learn. However, with their great attitudes the girls have no worries. The team's determination is amazing. They keep their spirits and hopes high even when things start to look negative. The girls know just how to turn their attitudes around and return to positive playing. Key West High School is very proud of their girls tennis team.

Junior Joyce Ho practices her form at the tennis courts of Ocean Walk. Proper form is a crucial asset to have in tennis.

Sophomore Kristen Scott prepares to return a forehand shot back to her opponent. You need a lot of endurance to repeatedly practice that move and Kristen has it.

Junior Alison Greene practices her serves at the FKCC tennis courts. If you have a hard, accurate serve in this game you are virtually unbeatable.

Golf

The Key West High School Golf team had many goals this season. Among them was a district win. A person does not need much experience when it comes to playing golf, but it sure does help to become successful. The short season puts pressure on the players to be good and consistent. They have to practice with the team as well as on their own time. This team practiced very hard through the pre-season and continued to do so during the regular season. This year's team was been blessed with a well-rounded group of guys. They have both the talent and experience. Because of this, the district win of their dreams is not far out of reach. If these boys keep their hopes up and concentrate at every match, then they will be on their way to a district title and maybe even a state one. Once a small, fledgling program, the Key West High School Golf Team has grown and developed into one of the most successful of our sports programs.

"Being a captain, I have to set a good example for the rest of the guys on the team. We are hopefully going to practice a lot and make it to finals. If we all just work on our weaknesses and use our strengths to our advantage, we might even make it to State!"
— Todd Means

"We had a lot of underclassmen this year. However, we had good leadership by Junior Todd Means. Since we all worked together and played well, we gave Key West High School a good reputation at our tournaments."
— Greg Oropeza

On the Green

Freshman Nick Bentley follows through as he hits a beautiful shot on the driving range. This is a popular spot where the guys go to perfect their drives.

Sophomore Matt Krathen practices his shot at the Key West Golf Course's driving range. Matt goes to the driving range a lot to practice, and it shows.

Senior Erik Lemon tries to line up his club for a long drive down the narrow fairway. This is a hard skill to master, but it looks like Erik is getting the hang of it.

Coach Clifford explains to Junior Jon Krathen the proper stance for an accurate drive. Jon has good form and concentration. He wants to be the best golfer he can possibly be.

Junior Todd Means and Sophomore Greg Oropeza practice their putts on the green. Both being captains, they need to set a proper example for the team.

Sophomore Phillip Kirouac makes his last putt of the day. Good form is crucial to the game of golf. Nice shoes there, Mike!

Boy's Track

Track is one of the most popular sports here at Key West High School, and it is also one of the most competitive. This year the Boy's Track Team was coached by Mr. Perkins and Mr. Mathy. Before the season began, the two coaches had the boys doing conditioning practices that included weightlifting and calisthenics. These were designed to strengthen the boys and make them more agile and swift. However, running is not the only thing to do in track. There are many other events. For example, if you have more upper body strength you might try your hand at the shot put or javelin. There's even pole vaulting for the very courageous! While this is only the boy's second year for having a team, they compete extremely well together and it looks as they have been at it for years.

Training and Trials

Sophomore Chris Ferrin uses his speed and high endurance to run around the track during practice one day. Practicing pacing yourself is also important in track.

Sophomore William Niblack takes his leap and hopes for the best. With those long legs, we're sure that he will vault himself far into the pit.

These two track members pose for the camera while stretching out their muscles under the blistering heat of the Key West sun.

Junior J.P. Brennan tosses the discuss far into the field. With hard work and practice, those throws will get farther and farther.

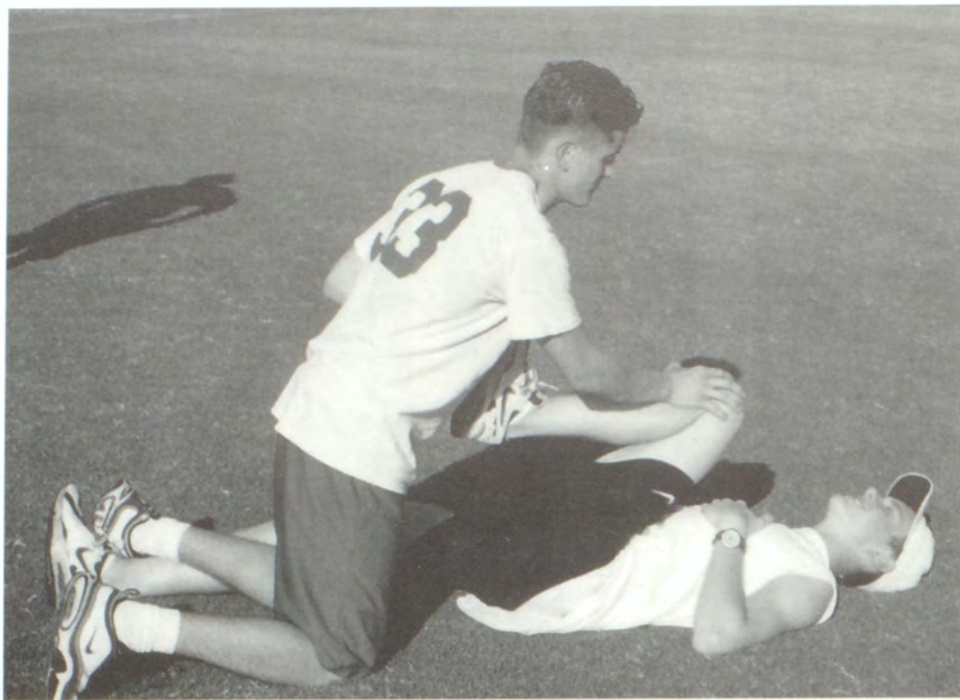

Senior Ran Carthon puts his feet into the blocks as he prepares for his popular, fast start in the 100 meter dash.

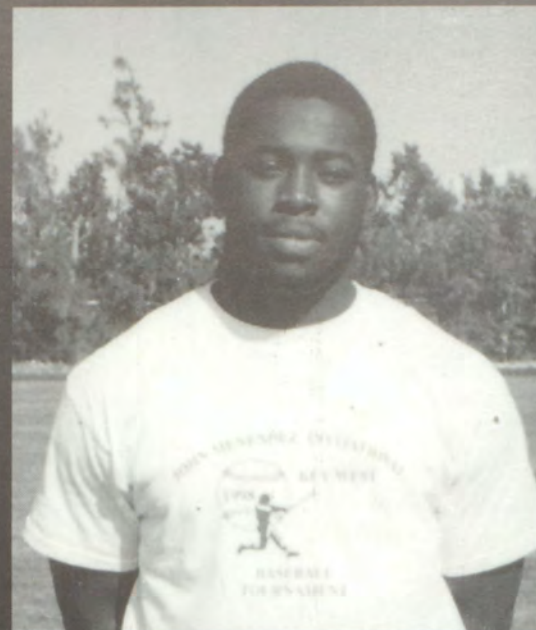

Senior Tobias Peters stretches before his final shotput throw of the day. Continuous practice like this will help him achieve victory over his opponents.

Senior Chay Poller goes up and over the bar in the pole vault event. The quick run, the plant, the turn, and the handstand on the pole are all essential elements of a successful pole vault. Of course, as Chay demonstrates, tremendous upper body strength is also necessary to clear the high bar.

Junior Justin Cisneros appears to be torturing Junior Nick Lehmann, but they are actually doing a stretching exercise that will help them increase speed and agility.

"As a senior, I can't let myself or my teammates down. I had an excellent year last year and I hope I do just as well this year."

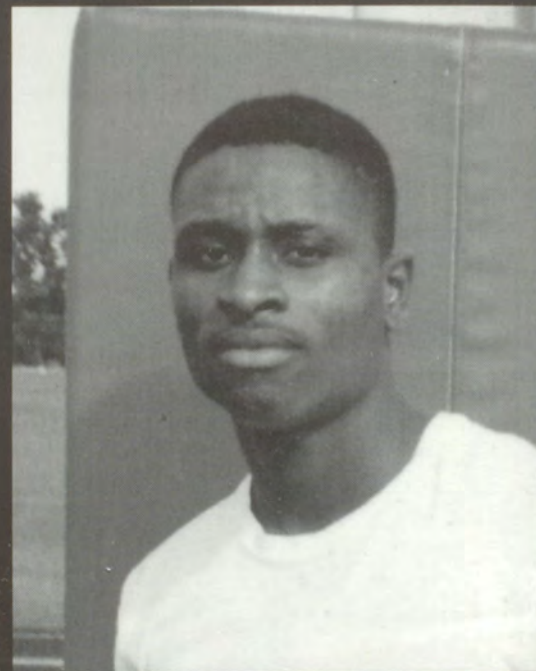

— Ran Carthon

Junior Michael Whyms clears the bar on this practice attempt at 5'7". Note the nice form as he arches toward the mats. His goal for this year is to clear six feet even!

Senior Raphael Wright paces his way toward his teammate as he prepares to hand off the baton in the 800 meter relay race.

"I am going to try to run hard and offer good leadership, being a senior. By the end of the season, I hope to improve my endurance. It should be pretty easy because... I love this game."

— Tau Smith

Senior Eddie Williams grimaces as he clears the bar at 5 feet even to take the lead in the high jump event.

"Since it is my first year on track, I hope I can meet my coaches' expectations. I've been doing pretty well at practice so I feel I will do well at our meets."

— Chris Ferrin

Girl's Track

The Key West High School Girl's Track Team (l-r): Back Row: Mr. Mathy, coach, Rachael Sommers, Amber Davis, Kim Ganem, Shequila Jenkins, Michelle Oden, Olitha Mumford and Fawn Mokulis. Middle Row: Madeline Sommers, Amber Rose Mulcahy, Renee Phillips, Sara Deg, Emily Murray, Irene Crompt, Rachael Bender, Natalia Duke, Shelly Bair and Kit Stine. Front Row: Miriam Sommers, Jesse Webster, Maya Nelson, Asia Perfeto, Dara Arnold, Ashley Payne, Lacy Pischke, Michelle Moore and Carly Bervaldi.

This exceptional group of girls have given their all on the track this year. They are the Key West High Girl's Track Team. With their motivation and dedication to the sport, they have surpassed many goals and showed their improved skills. Their spirit has led them to victory many times and their sportsmanship has helped them when challenges arrived. These girls didn't only participate in running, but they also saw action in many different events throughout the season, including shot put, long jump, triple jump, high jump, hurdles, discus, javelin, and relays. All these events take great skill and concentration. These girls truly work hard and they've set a good example for years to come.

Training and Trials

Junior Amber Davis struts off her stuff by lifting weights and helping her strengthen her endurance. This exercise helps her make her hamstrings stronger and which in turn helps her pick up speed.

Junior Bonnie Stump spots Junior Shelly Bair as she gets herself in shape for the track season. Come on, Shelly, only three more.

Senior Carly Bervaldi makes sure her muscles are well- stretched before she begins her run. Carly knows being flexible prevents injuries and helps her finish with a better time.

Sophomore Shequila Jenkins shows off her stuff as she jumps the high jump at 4' flat.

This group of Key West and Coral Shores runners listens carefully for the sound of the gun at the start of the 100 meter dash.

The Key West girls take the lead in the 110 meter hurdle event, with the Coral Shores runner lagging behind.

"I am glad that I can be a part of such a wonderful organization. I enjoy running and I will try to help out as much as I can to make this season a successful one."
— Lacy Pischke

"Girl's track is an awesome sport. I know that I will not let my teammates down and I will have fun while making this team go all the way."
— Ashley Payne

"This is my first year on track so I hope I do as well as what is expected of me. I think we are going to do very good this year and I hope that we make it to finals."
— Bonnie Stump

Senior Carly Bervaldi cruises to the finish line in the 800 meter relay race. Good form, good time, good goin'!

Sophomore Chelsea Caffrey leaps up from the blocks in the 100 meter dash. With that look of determination in her eyes, Chelsea surely won that race!

Junior Cathi Hart takes the baton from Junior Sara Deg in a classic "blind" hand-off in a relay event. Smooth transitions like this helped the girls win the race!

With Coach Price in the background, Junior Dara Arnold sprints over the first hurdle in the 110 meter race.

Senior Fawn Mokulis throws her discus high into the air. She has strong arms and a great technique which help her throw as far as she does.

Junior Ashley Payne makes sure to build up enough speed in her run up to the bar. Ashley just made it at this jump, but she definitely cleared a personal best 5' 1" later on during this meet with Coral Shores.

Varsity Baseball

Batter Up!

The 1999 Key West High School Varsity Baseball Team has hopes of repeating another State Championship this year. In order for them to be successful, however, they will have had to overcome some early-season adversity. Thankfully, the talent to achieve this goal is in every player on the team. Everybody has been willing to put in the hard work that is needed to win again. This year the Varsity squad has 14 returning players from the 1998 State Championship team. To go along with this, the team has a coaching staff with major league know-how. Coach Brooks Carey, Assistant Coaches Chris Valdez and Ralph Sanchez, and Pitching Coach Randy Sterling expect nothing but the best from every member of the team. We're certainly looking forward to another exciting season from the Fighting Conchs. The games will be exciting, the food will be great, and the stands will be rockin'! See you there!

The calm before the storm. In just over an hour or so this field will be full of players, coaches, and umpires. But seldom do we recognize those who made all this happen. Although rarely seen, the field crew spends long hours prior to each game making sure everything is just so. We salute you, field crew!

The Key West High School Varsity Baseball Team, shown left to right: Top Row: Coach Valdez, Coach Carey, Coach Sterling and Coach Sanchez. Second Row: Ben Harrison, Brian O'Connell, Billy Spottswood, Marcus Davila, Clay Fraga, Ryan Baker and Luis Leal. Third Row: Troy Phillips, Michael Anderson, Daniel Hersey, Dane Artman, Juan Menendez and T.J. Niles. Bottom Row: Michael Heller, William Grooms, Michael Edwards, William Francis and John Paul Castro. Not pictured: Aaron Marn and Leandre Washington.

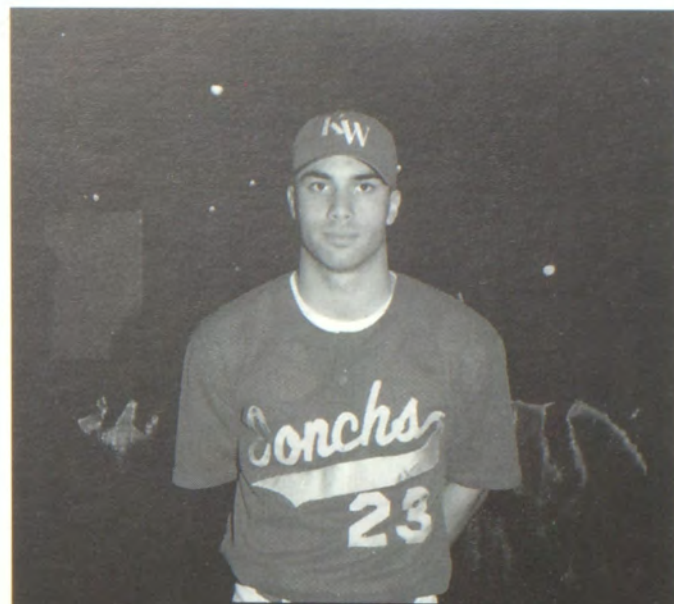

The Key West High Conchs are congratulated by their Coral Reef rivals after a 10 - 0 victory. The Conchs were once again victorious because of strong pitching and superb hitting!

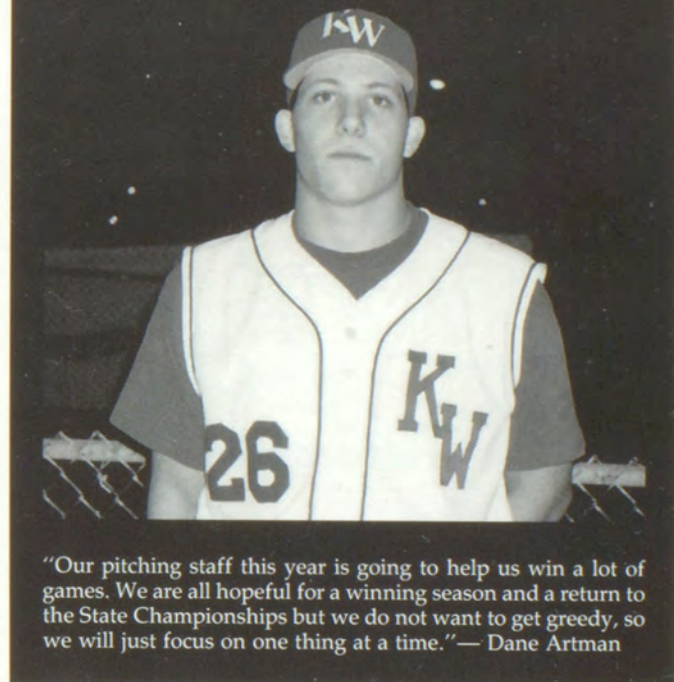

These four baseball players engage in what is known at the "Flip Game." This agility drill is designed to promote hand-eye coordination while warming the players up for the game.

Just before every baseball game the players bow their heads in prayer. They ask that everyone play a safe game, one that is free of injury. They also secretly hope that victory will smile upon them once again.

"I think we have a great team this year. I'm looking forward to the challenges of playing. We have great coaches and players so we should do well. I would also love to have another State Championship ring since it is my last year here."—Aaron Marr

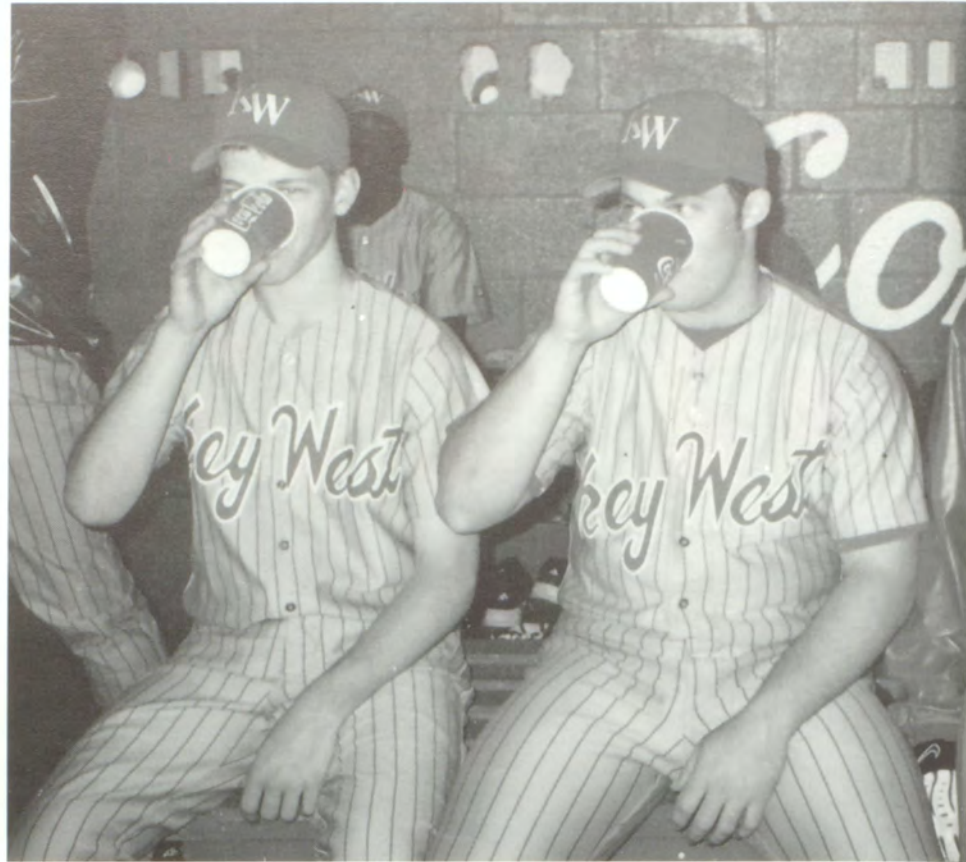

"Our pitching staff this year is going to help us win a lot of games. We are all hopeful for a winning season and a return to the State Championships but we do not want to get greedy, so we will just focus on one thing at a time."—Dane Artman

Junior Daniel Hersey warms up prior to the Coral Reef game. That ball sure has some smoke on it!

Safe!!! With the throw to first sailing high, Sophomore Michael Edwards races toward the bag for an infield hit. Michael's exceptional speed has helped the Conchs not only along the base paths, but in the outfield as well. We sure hope to see more of Michael and the entire Conch team as the season progresses toward the district and state level of play.

These two shy Key West High School ball players (T.J. Niles and Clay Fraga) appear to be hiding behind their Coca-Cola cups as they slake their thirsts. After playing hard out in the field for a few innings, these two Fighting Conchs deserve a thirst-quencher! Hey, guys, what happens when the concession says, "No Coke. Pepsi!"

Rallying themselves prior to each game, the team prayer is followed with a huddle in which all players gather and raise their hands to unite their spirit. After a cheer or two, the Fighting Conchs race onto the field to take their positions.

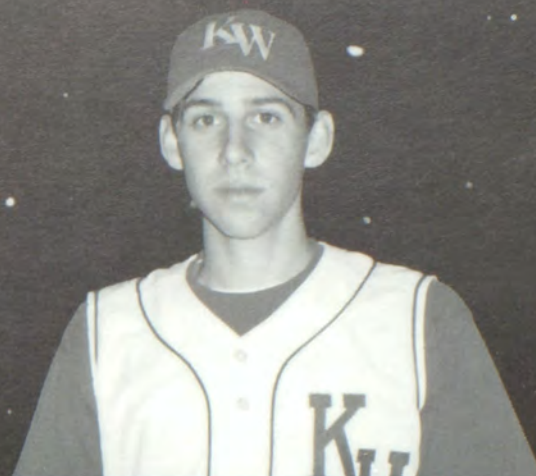

In one of the season's lighter moments, Freshman Michael Heller is seen here seemingly crawling to home plate on his hands and knees! And, yes, he made it. Safe!

Sophomore Mike Edwards takes a big cut at this ball and line drives a shot out to the left field wall. As a veteran player, Mike leads by quiet example and shows all the younger players just how the game is won.

"Hey, mira! Our team this year should be very good. We all play together well and we all strive to win. Hopefully it will lead to another State Championship. We all want to do as best as we can for our coaches." - Daniel Hersey

"With fourteen returning players from last season and great team chemistry, we should have a good shot of repeating as the State Champions. Hopefully we will get there." —Luis Leal

After a screaming line drive up the middle, Senior Troy Phillips turns and races his way toward first base in hopes of a hit. With all that dirt flying up, Troy looks like the Road Runner out there!

Senior Juanito Menendez just barely beats the throw to first and is called safe on the play! The speed and ability that Juanito possesses contributes to the Fighting Conchs' all-around success on the field.

Senior Catcher Juan Menendez, one of the most experienced players on the team, closes his mitt on the ball as the opposing player strikes out on the pitch. Keep a close eye, ump!

Displaying a perfect stance, Junior Michael Anderson prepares to take his cuts at the ball while standing at the ready at home plate. Michael, one of the team's best hitters this year, went on to loop one over the short-stop's head and keep the Conch rally alive.

With perfect form, Senior Aaron Marn steps up to bat for the home team and cranks a line drive up the left-center gap. We believe Aaron made it all the way to third base on this hit. Way to go, boy!

With the Umpire looking on, Junior Billy Spottswood is seen here skipping his way to home plate after being brought home by another Conch hit!

T.J. Niles congratulates Ben Harrison after knocking in a few runs for the Fighting Conchs. Helped by Ben's outstanding efforts, the Conchs went on to win the game!

With a cloud of dust surrounding him, Junior Dane Artman tries to tag out a Rockledge player at first base during a pick-off attempt.

These members of the Key West High School Fighting Conchs Baseball Team watch one of their own up to bat at the plate, hoping for the one small spark that will ignite the team. Get those rally caps on, guys!

With an opposing batter crowding the plate, Junior Marcus Davila shows us his skill as he throws the heater toward the inside corner. With stuff like Marcus has, it's no wonder the Fighting Conchs are so good!

Junior Michael Anderson watches his hit soar through the sky as he runs toward first base and beyond. Way to go, Mike!

J.V. Baseball

Play Ball !

Led by second year head Coach Mike Michaud, the Junior Varsity team is looking forward to another successful season on the baseball diamond. The team returns several players from last year and also has many new, talented players that signed up this year. Joining Coach Michaud for the run at the title are his two outstanding assistants, Peter Fraga and Carl Csombok. Together, these three hope to develop the skills of their players and elevate their game to the Varsity level. As for the players, they're sure to respond. After all, who doesn't want to be on a Varsity Fighting Conchs State Championship team! Reaching this goal takes a lot of hard work and dedication. Long hours of practice, which includes hitting, throwing, and fielding, are what is needed to win. In the end, however, the players know it will all be well worth it. If everyone puts forth the necessary effort and works as a team, they will surely meet their expectations and desires. We look forward to seeing these players this year at their current Junior Varsity level, and fully expect to see them all in the coming years on the Varsity. Good Luck and Go Conchs! Hope everyone will make it out to the games.

Pitcher J.J. Fallon and Catcher Michael Heller confer on the mound concerning the signs and the next few pitches to throw to the opposing batter from Pace. Turns out they planned ahead well, as the batter was called out on strikes. You're out!!!!

The Key West High School J.V. Baseball Team shown left to right. Top Row: Coach Fraga, Coach Michaud, Edward Roberts, Matt Jones, Keith Hernandez, Jason Mechalske, Jesus Blanco, J.J. Fallon, Xavier Perez and Coach Csombok. Second Row: Matt Harris, Brooks Ortega, John T. Davila, Tommy Bouchard and Louie Paez. Bottom Row: Jeremy Edwards, Josh Yarbrough, Marko Palazon and Chris Gibson.

Sophomore thrower J.J. Fallon, displaying near-perfect form on the mound, rifles the ball toward home plate. It's easy to see that J.J. has a lot of power behind that right arm of his, and he definitely uses it to his team's advantage. The Pace batter never had a chance! Strike one, two, three. You're out!

Sophomore Keith Hernandez winds up and tosses a beautiful curve ball toward home plate. The batter from Pace never even saw it! Way to go, Keith!

The Key West Junior Varsity Baseball squad chills in between innings, as players prepare to step to the plate and take their swings at a few pitches. Get your game faces on, boys!

"I'm looking forward to playing for Coach Michaud this year. I think we have a good team, and with his direction we should go far. Of course, we need the team as a whole to play well." - John T. Davila

"Playing as a pitcher and a shortstop, I have two important things to do for the team. Hopefully I will do okay and help the team when they need it." - Jesus Blanco Sophomore Marko Palazon goes down for the tag on the runner from J.V. Baseball Pace.

Girl's Varsity Softball

Covering All Bases

Now that he is a three-year veteran as coach of the Key West High School Varsity Fastpitch Team, Coach Steve Vinson has gained the trust of many of the girls. They look to him for guidance and leadership. He has taken the team far over the last few seasons, and he looks forward to another successful year. And because of that the team now has high expectations for this year's season. Add to this the fact that the softball and other fields at the back of the school have undergone major renovations, and the varsity fastpitch program is sure to have a banner year. Senior Manager Christian Maribona, a.k.a. Chima, told us that the girls look good and are really dedicated to the sport. With practice nearly everyday, both on the field and in the batting cages, the girls are learning the skills they need to compete. And because they are proud Fighting Conchs, they are ready to stomp on anyone who enters "The Backyard." Go Lady Conchs!

"Good luck!" The Key West High School Varsity Softball Team yells in unison as they prepare to take the field for the start of play. With talented girls like these, who needs luck? Go get 'em, girls!

The Lady Conchs break after a pep talk with each other on the pitcher's mound. They appeared to discuss the strategy for the next few plays, as the opponent's batter was a tough one to get out. These little talks can make a big difference in the game, as pitcher Holly Schmidt knows.

Senior Shannon O'Keefe prepares to catch a line drive. This ball never got past her. Errors seldom occurred on this year's Lady Conchs team!

"I believe our team has tried so hard this year. We have little experience, but we are determined thanks to Coaches Vinson and Van Loon." - Jessica Cranney

"Coach Vinson inspires us to play at our best. I want to do well for him because he's worked so hard for us." - Ashley Spoto

Returning to the field after their turn at bat, Varsity Fastpitch players Ashley Spoto and Jessica Rivera seem to have that disgusted look on their faces. They are probably wondering, "Why is this team so easy to beat?"

Sophomore Jessica Rivera catches as she warms up with the pitcher between innings.

Junior Jenny Sterling, displays rare talent as she stretches high to catch a ball that was thrown to her by a teammate. This throw and catch combination enabled the Lady Conchs to get the last out of the inning!

Senior Monique Theil swings her bat beautifully as she clobbers the ball over the shortstop's head. Monique is one of the best examples of a strong, dedicated player on the Lady Conch's team who shows leadership ability.

Freshman Mejoy McIntosh steps up to the plate and gets ready to slam the ball into the outfield. Mejoy has both strong hitting and fielding ability, which helps the team win close games.

Junior Donnice Deihl smiles proudly as she watches the ball she just hit sail straight over the opposing player's head and into the outfield.

Sophomore Lissette Cobo, with determination written all over her face, stares down the opposing pitcher as if to say: "No pitch gets past me." Lissette hit the next ball straight into the outfield for a hit!

This group of Varsity Fastpitch bench-warmers are cheering on their team! "Give it to me, baby! Uh huh, uh huh!" The Lady Conchs were up to bat and the mood was tense. They were down by one run and it was late in the game. And just as they were in the middle of the cheer, you guessed it. We scored!

Pitcher Erica Gates, a senior with four years of softball experience, winds up to throw the last pitch of the game. That pitch was called a strike and helped the Lady Conchs be victorious again!

Senior Monique Theil turns and gets some last minute instructions from Coach Steve Vinson, as the rest of the team cheers in the background: "Hit it! Hit it! Up the middle! Make the pitcher shake a little!"

Girl's J.V. Softball

Swinging to Victory

The Key West High School Junior Varsity Fastpitch Team has been crafted from the finest selection of girls available. While they have a lot of old talent returning, Coach Dave Van Loon has recruited some fabulous new stars. And with the oldsters providing the experience and leadership, this team now knows exactly what it takes to win. Coach Van Loon tells us that many of the veteran players are ready to step up and take charge of any game situation. By doing so, they will also be instructing the less-experienced ones on what to do. Using this method is how coach expects his team to continue through the rough times that all teams go through. While Coach Van Loon continues to insist that this is a rebuilding year, we know that he expects the best from his individual players and from the team as a whole. We think that they will have a fine season! And we hope to see everyone out there watching at "The Backyard."

The Junior Varsity Fastpitch infielders prepare to catch a grounder, but they needn't have worried. Pitcher Zuki Hernandez threw some heat down the middle of the plate and the opposing batter went down on strikes. "One, two, three. You're out!" says the umpire.

Top row L to R. Head Coach Van Loon, Pauline Patterson, Tiffany Shaafsma, Christina Walterson, Courtney Abbott, Rebecca Berger, Lisa Jones, Frankie Webb, Asst. Coach Kim Heatherington. Bottom row L to R. Asst. Coach Vinson, Danielle Avel, Karen Badgett, Jessica Sawyer, Nikki Sanchez, Ashley McCauley, Shanniele Ward, and Asst. Coach Tiffany Preston.

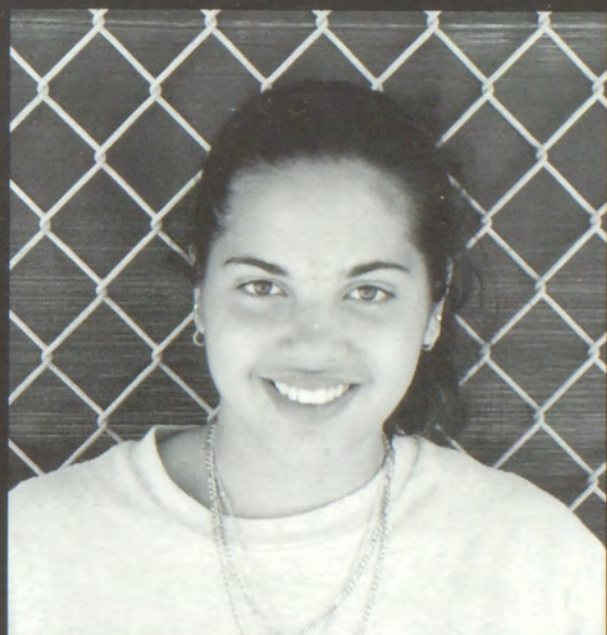

Junior Varsity Fastpitch catcher Melissa Malone, shown here fully-padded and displaying perfect form, feels the burn on her palm as she catches a strike from pitcher Zuki Hernandez. Ease up a bit, Melissa must be thinking. How about a change up?

Pitcher Zuki Hernandez winds up to throw the heat down the middle of the plate. Although this pitch was called a ball, Zuki's determination allowed her to come back from deep in the count to strike the batter out!

"Our new players and the old players all combine to make a great team. We lost a few good players to varsity, but we'll still be good." - Danielle Avel

"We have a good team and we play well together. I think we will have a great year. We play hard and have fun." - Zuki Hernandez

Second base player Danielle Avel gets serious! It's late in the game and the Lady Conchs are down by three runs. Hey, let's hear some chatter out there!

Pauline Patterson steps up to the plate and prepares to line another one to the gap!

a future of Leadership

The Seniors of the Key West High School graduating class of 1999 represent what is in store for the future of our great nation. As you look through the pictures on this page, and in this book, you can't help but see the Spirit, Uniqueness, Excellence, Service, Pride, Leadership and Commitment that is flowing through our veins. These characteristics are what make this class particularly exceptional. It has been said that the class of '99 is the best class that has ever graduated from Key West High School. Personally, I can't help but agree. And because of the characteristics that these young adults possess, our future is in good hands.

Winds of Change

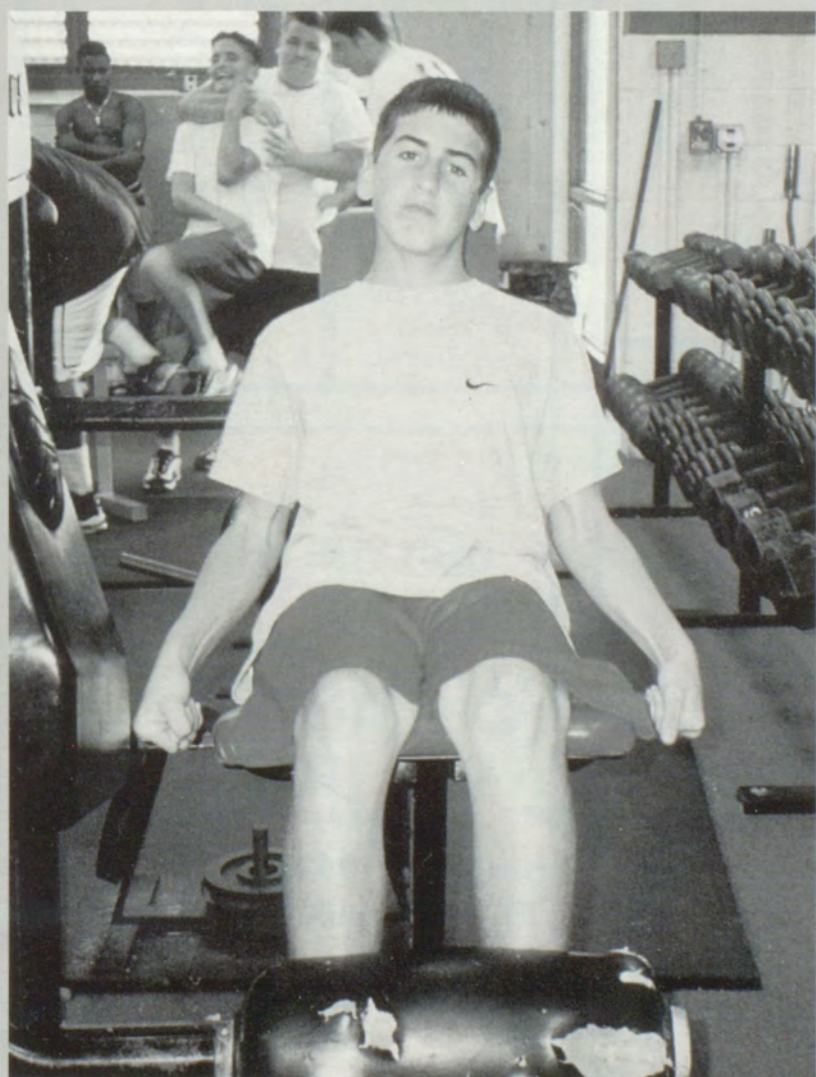

September 25, 1998, was a day we hoped would never come. With winds well above a powerful 100 miles per hour, Hurricane Georges destroyed many homes, businesses, and lives throughout the once beautiful Lower Florida Keys. Georges tore a path of destruction through the heart of the Keys, destroying both objects that can be replaced with money and precious belongings that will never be seen again. President Clinton declared Monroe County a "National Disaster Area" shortly after the storm passed.

As you can see, while some made Georges an excuse to have a party, others ended up paying the tab. Houseboat Row was decimated. Although no one in the Keys lost their lives, the ravages of Georges continues to be felt.

*The Poppies are in bloom and the Lotus come in May,
The smell of life seems to surround us each and every day.
The wind is swirling fierce and fast, I know this tone of song,
When houses fly and comets fall,
My god! what's going on?*

*The earth, she weeps, in pain I fear, from damage to its heart,
The pain of war and endless years are tearing her apart.
Then the marching, stamping, roaring of our armies in full force,
Don't seem to sooth her aching heart, but bring her more discourse.*

*And when winter falls like burning rain, we know the end is near,
When soon the Earth finds it hard to shed a single tear.
We look to her for signs of life,
but sadly there come none,
And that's when we first realize that we caused it, each and every one.*

*Remember this as you wrote it and you'll always remember how important life is and that for every action there is a consequence. I am so very proud of you and know that you will achieve much more in your lifetime. Congratulations.
I love you, Mom.*

HOLLY M SCHULTE

To my little Punkin,

It seems like yesterday when you were born. I watched you grow and mature as the years went by. You were always an angel in my eyes.

Your understanding, sensitivity and humor have combined to make you a unique woman. I respect and admire your courage and independence. I am so proud of the way you have grown up.

Remember, no matter what life brings, you'll always be my daughter, and I will always love you.

With love,
Mom

Andrea Michelle Wiltsey

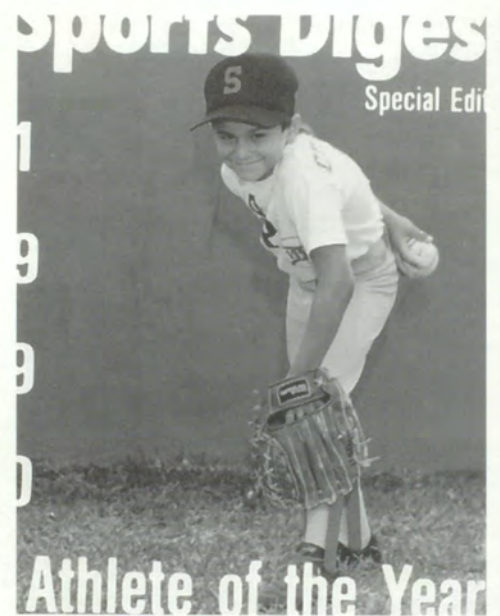

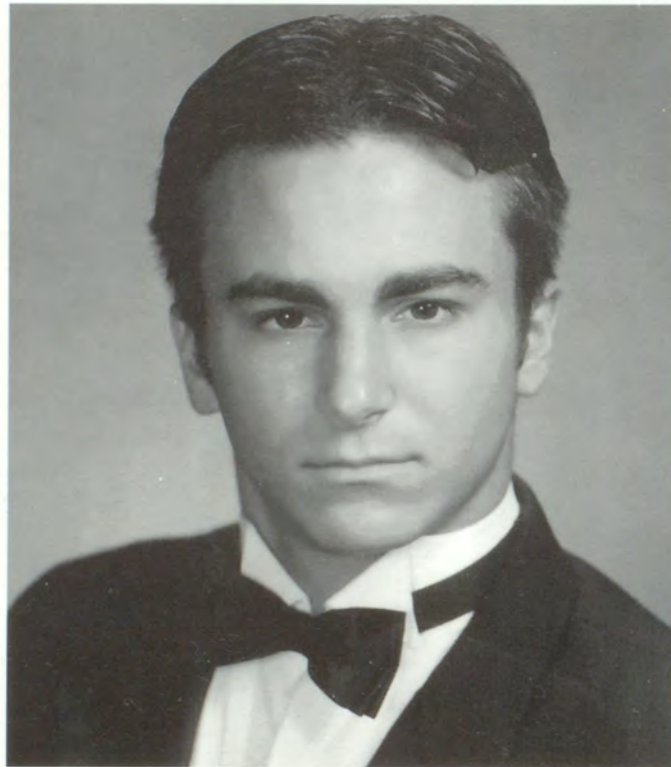

I said a prayer for you today
And know God must have heard-
I felt the answer in my heart
Although He spoke no word.
I didn't ask for wealth or fame,
I knew you wouldn't mind.
I asked Him to send treasures
Of a far more lasting kind.
I asked that He'd be near you
At the start of each new day,
To grant you health and blessings
And friends to share your way.
I asked for happiness for you
In all things great and small,
But it was for His loving care
I prayed the most of all.
— Mema

To my daughter, Andrea:
There are so many things I could say, but I'm not writing a "life story" (although it might be an interesting one, huh?). I just want you to know how much I love you! I'm proud of your accomplishments thus far, and pray that you will strive with a vengeance to make your future happy and prosperous. I have always enjoyed your wit, bright smile, and loving support through my good and bad times. Step into the "real world" now, and know my love and support will always follow you no matter where you are! Congratulations!! Mom

Brian Patrick O'Connell

Dear Kelly-
We are so proud of you. We always knew you could achieve whatever you set your mind to. And this is just the beginning for you. No matter what path you choose to take remember to enjoy life. Parents are supposed to teach their children, but you have taught us so much. The way you embrace life, your cheerful personality, and your thoughtfulness for others have really inspired us. Thank you! We love you.

Vivian Tapia

Dear Vivian,
I am so proud of the young woman you have become. You always work hard for what you want and never give up. I know you have the strength and determination to accomplish anything you set your mind to. Like me, I know your mother is very proud in seeing her daughter's accomplishments. Always remember that she will continue to look after you from Heaven. God bless you!

To Our Daughter, With Love

Here is our recipe for a happy life; the ingredients are simple. First, know yourself; you'll always know what to do next when difficulties arise. Second, live in the present; savor every minute because time is what we have the least of. Third, never stop learning. One of the surprises of growing older is that the mind doesn't. Fourth, remember that we will always love you and be here for you if you ever need us. God gave us a special gift when he gave us you.

Love always,

Jennifer Buitrago

Jennifer,
The care, understanding and genuine love you display to all are a rare gift. The future holds infinite goals, which you will attain through perseverance, compassion, hard work, and intelligence. But best of all is your common sense, which allows you to utilize all these gifts harmoniously. From very early, you have displayed maturity beyond your years. The foundation, which you have built, will forever support and nourish you as you continue to grow. Your academic accomplishments mirror those cultural and spiritual ones which have naturally evolved in your growth. You are the joy in our lives, all a parent could ever ask for in a daughter. We are blessed in sharing this growth with you. With extreme pride and love we stand by you as you continue your quest to be the very best you can be.
With love, pride and joy,
Your loving parents, brother Alex and sister Leslie.

Crystal,
You're my first Granddaughter. You came from afar, and came into my life at two and a half years old. You became the joy of my life. I watched you grow before my eyes to become the most warm-hearted, loving, and beautiful person I know. You'll always be my little princess.

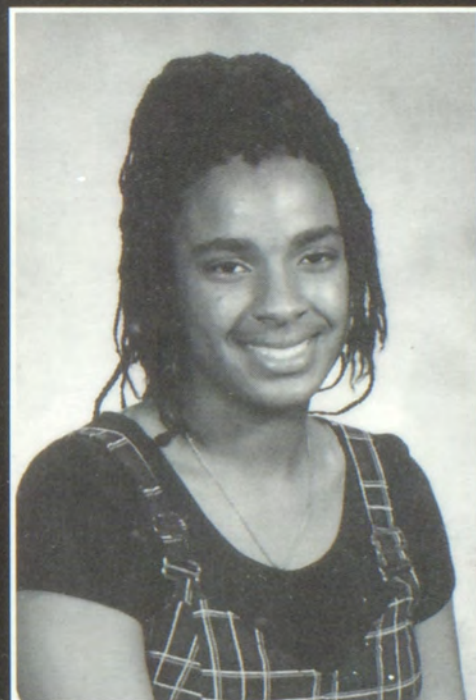

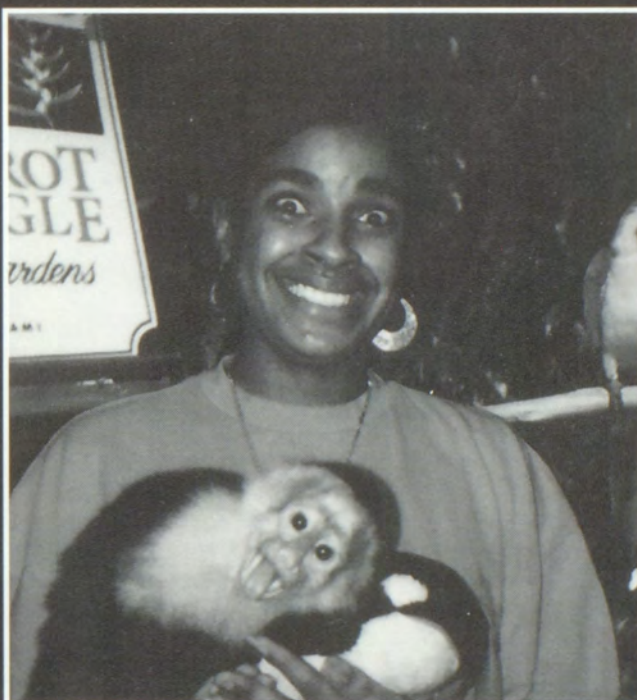

Loving Always,
Grandma Paulina

Angel Baby,
I remember...
...My infant little girl with big brown eyes that would light up a room with her smile.
...My little girl with no front teeth, a crooked ponytail and a laugh that was joyously contagious.
...My little girl dressed for her first day of school and the next day dressed for her first prom.
I don't remember...
...When my little girl traded in her tricycle for her first car.
...When my little baby grew up to be such a beautiful woman, where did the time go?
I know...
...My little girl is strong and proud.

...My little girl will be able to achieve every goal that she may set for herself.
I will...
...Be here forever to watch her to continue to grow.
...Watch her venture into the world as a young adult with confidence and assurance.
And you my daughter,
...Remember, that you are never too old to need a hug from your mommy.
My Crystal, my baby, my angel...
...My heart is filled with love and pride for you whatever road you choose in life.
Congratulations my little graduate...my little girl.

And Suddenly

And suddenly a child is born,
A gift from God to you.
He learns to walk, he learns to talk,
And suddenly-he's two.

As years go by, a young boy grows,
All bright, alert, alive.
He starts to learn, to read and write,
And suddenly-he's five.

And all the time it seems to be
He hardly changes when,
He wants to borrow Dad's new tie,
And suddenly-he's ten.

And through it all, you watch this child,
The years have gently flown.
He starts to turn and wave goodbye,
And suddenly-he's grown.

Juanito, we are so very proud of you and we love you very much!

To my friends,

Take these words into consideration: live your life with no regrets. You can't change the past, but you have time for the future.

To my friends in Miami: I want you to know I didn't forget about you. You're in my heart.

To my "special" friend: Thanks for making my senior year complete.

And to my family: Thanks for that little push. It helped. I couldn't have done it without you.

Dear Jessica,

I'm so proud of you. You have always been strong, independent, and very unique - which has gotten you where you are on your own. I love you. Congratulations.

Christina Stout

Dearest Christina,
 Much too soon high school graduation has come. It seems at times we should still be deciding what project to do at preschool, hunting Easter eggs, selling Girl Scout cookies, marching around Bayside singing songs, celebrating holidays at school parties and the Scanlon's, going from activity to activity with Raffi songs filling the air! Too soon you're driving yourself to school, around Key West, and beyond. Much of your time you spend with your friends. And what great friends you have!
 How soon you'll leave for college and life will change once more. But forever we'll have wonderful memories, from the day you were born, to graduation day, and more to come. Each day made special because of you...the focus of our love and attention, the ultimate joy in our lives. We'll miss you deeply. But, as a famous first grade teacher once said, "Nothing is ever lost in the universe," and not a day with you or a memory of you will be lost either.
 Be happy in your college years, enjoy the knowledge you'll gather, and hold dearly each day you've experienced thus far. Know you will be in our thoughts and hearts every minute!
 We love you now and forever,
 Mom and Dad

Samantha S. Fredericks

Fawn Mokulis

*You came into our lives one Memorial Day morn, Small angelic face, tiny fists and squirming legs...
When we brought you home you grew adorned
In pink lacy wisps just off layette pegs.*

*Soon you were raising yourself, and then you stood,
And little by little, scooted around your new world.
Next came those first unsteady steps - oh, good!
Then out the door running, a bright flag unfurled.*

*You were a toddler, a gymnast, and a fish in the pool.
You danced, sang and clapped, blowing kisses galore.
A serious little student, concentrating at school...
Later, back in our arms for warm hugs once more.*

*You've been our joy; our hearts' steady sunshine.
You are laughter and mirth - yet have a solemn belief
In life's treasured lessons, as they unwind -
You face them all with a sense of comic relief.*

*Fawn, we adore you - your spirit won't change.
You are our "love walking," our greatest pleasure...
You are a beautiful, wonderful young woman and
We congratulate you now and love you forever!*

Hues of different colors streaming across the sky, rays of light shining through the clouds, an orange circle slowly descending into shimmering water... this is a traditional Key West Sunset. There is just something about it - the sight of it has an ability that can excite someone and calm them, simultaneously.

This is more than a sight. This is an experience. It can only be witnessed by those of us who are fortunate to live on or near this tiny Island Paradise. This traditional experience is very much like the traditional experience at Key West High School.

Each sunset is so similar, yet so different from the one before. Each one is unique. Our experience here at Key West High School is also unique. The students are unique. Each day is unique. Each year is unique. Each sunset has a story to it - a day's story. Each student also has a story - a goal.
The experience of sunset and that of our school are both short lived. A sunset lasts only one minute out of each day, just as our high school years seem like only one minute out of our lives.

We must make our years here at Key West High School enjoyable, so that we may carry on the Traditions, the Spirit, Uniqueness, Excellence, Service, Pride, Leadership, and Commitment, in which Key West High School represents.

And as The Tradition Continues through us, every sunset here in Key West goes on to become a sunrise, shining brightly somewhere else in the world. -Carly Bervaldi Assistant Editor

“Conch” is a word that stands for many things. On our tiny island paradise, natives are called Conchs. The sports teams of Key West High School proudly bear the name of the “Fighting Conchs.” The yearbook here at Key West High School has been called “The Conch” since it was started in 1931. And finally, it is a shell, beautiful to look at and very strong. At Key West High the Conch shell symbolizes Spirit, Uniqueness, Excellence, Service, Pride, Leadership, and Commitment. These characteristics are the everlasting tradition of Key West High School. Every class that has dove into the deep sea of traditions that is synonymous with the words “Key West High School” possesses these qualities. My only wish is to be able to give a Conch to every member of the Senior class of 1999, so that the legacy - the traditions - of the Conch will go on forever. So, that is exactly what I am going to do.

The editorial staff of the 1999 Conch does hereby dedicate this Conch to the entire Senior class of 1999. This may be the end of many things, but it is also the beginning of the rest of our lives. So always remember to keep the memories near you forever. And never let the characteristics of the Conch sink beneath the surface of the rough waves of life. Because through us the qualities of the Conch will live on forever and never become extinct. With us,
THE TRADITION CONTINUES.

The Tradition Continues, Conch 1999, was produced by the Key West High School Yearbook Staff at 2100 Flagler Avenue, Key West, FL. Production was headed by Mr. John Spence, Adviser. The book is 9 x 12 with a press run of 750 copies, 384 pages of 80 lb. matte paper. The 1999 Conch was published by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas, represented by Ken Thornberry of Fort Lauderdale, FL. The cover was designed by Christian Maribona, Editor-in-Chief, using 160 point binders board, Black 915, Red 804, Grey 900, embossed on white lexatone. The endsheets used Red Foil and Silver 81. Fonts used throughout the book were Rinna, Fenice, Gourmond and Malibu. The folio is in the design of a sunset. The yearbook staff would like to thank the faculty, staff, student body and the community of Key West. All of your contributions make this a tradition that will go on forever.
