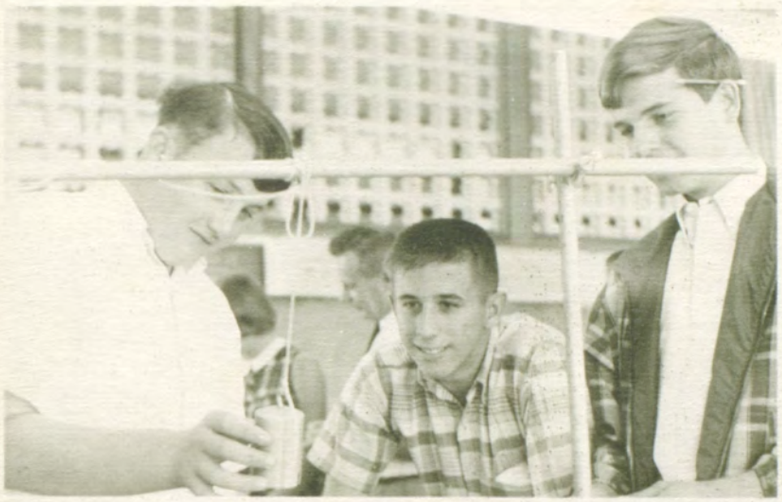
The 1966 CONCH

Key West High School
Volume 36

"The conch sounded. A deep, harsh note boomed under the palms, spread through the intricacies of the forest, and echoed back from the pink granite of the mountain. . .

. . . AND CLOUDS OF BIRDS ROSE FROM THE TREETOPS."

William Golding



Introduction

The conch has sounded. It has called together a symbolic meeting so that we may tell a story . . . a story of the events and people who together have made up a year's history of a high school . . . Key West High School, from 1965 to 1966. We hope that in the following pages we have accomplished our purpose: to record things as they happened, to photographically stop the major events, the faces and feelings of both the students and faculty and of all the others connected with an institute of secondary education.

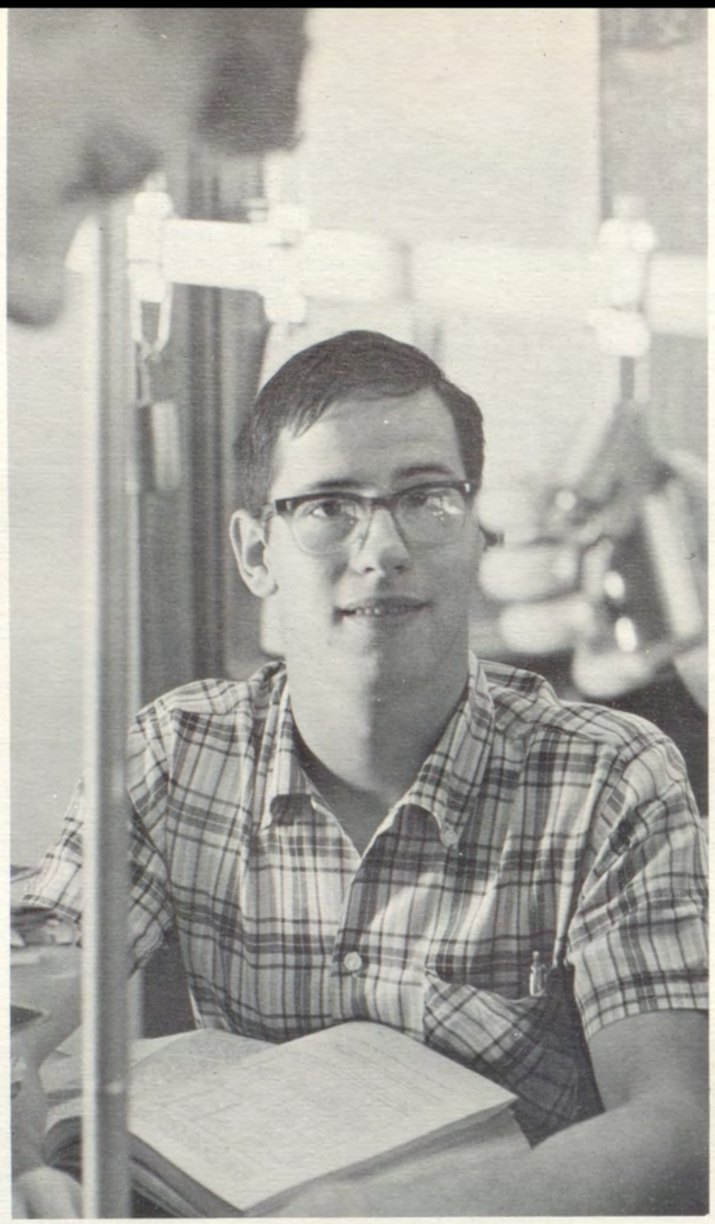
Faces

HIGH SCHOOL IS PEOPLE . . . a panorama of faces and emotions. The joy of homecoming, the struggle for recognition, the courage to achieve in spite of hardship . . . all of these are in some way a part of each of us. They speak for themselves.

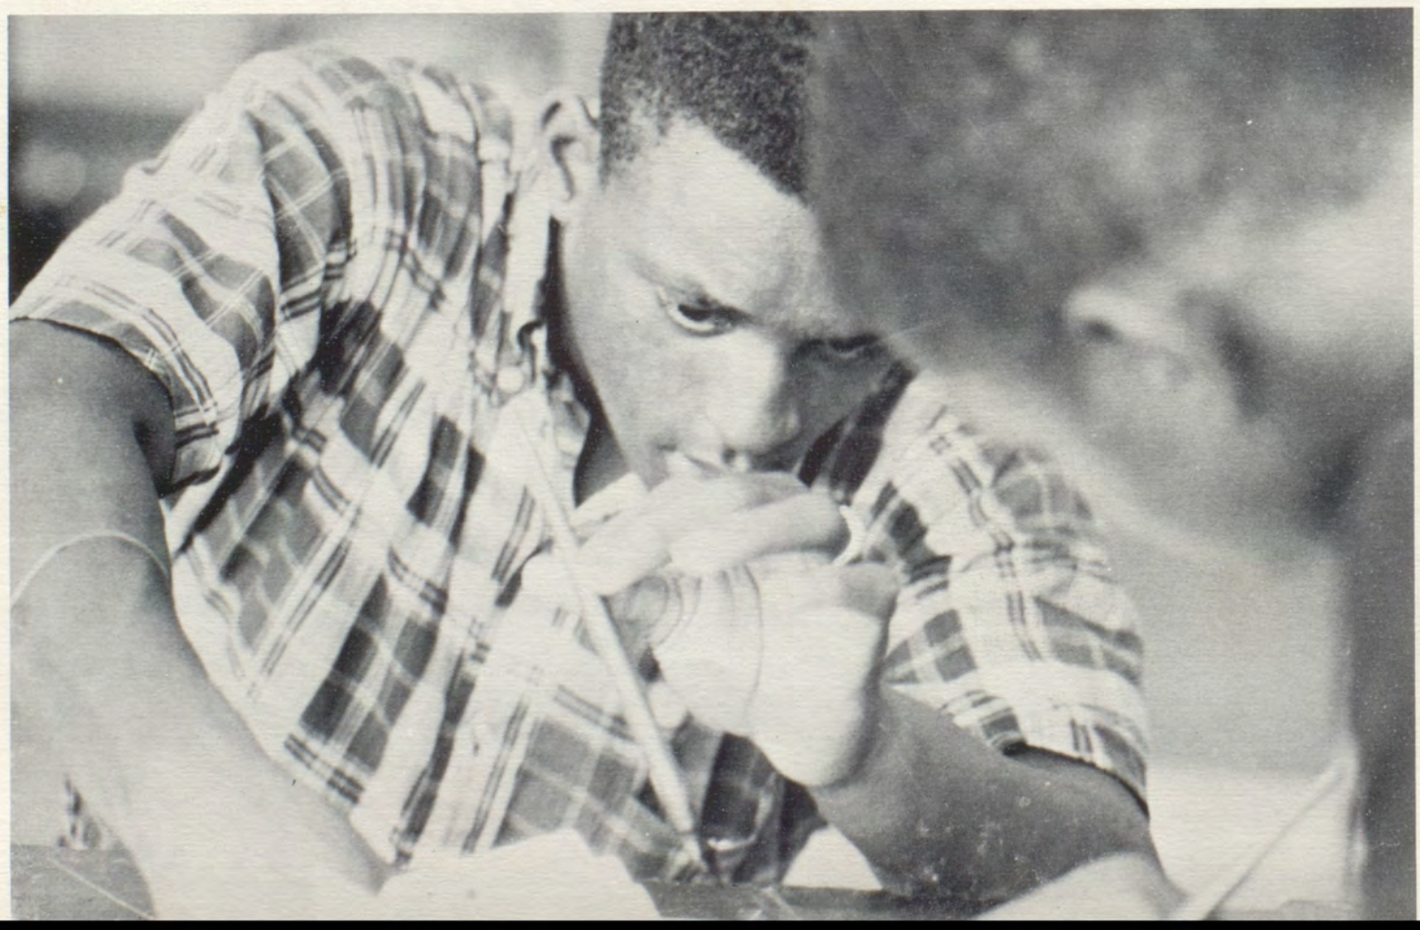
Joy . . . tears come as Helen Castra accepts homecoming crown.



Courage . . . Lawson Wolfe, near total blindness, continues studies despite handicap.

Responsibility.

Determination . . . a mechanical drawing student concentrates on a class project.



Mr. Hawxhurst and Mr. Whitley discuss the new humanities program during lunch break.

Humor . . . Dennis Keithley plays the "bad guy" for Beta club assembly.

Beauty . . . Joy Verduft, homecoming candidate and cheerleader, poses for camera.

Anxiety . . . like many Negro students, Mercedes Kee approached a new year and new social surroundings with apprehension.

Music And

Puffing, panting, the red-faced sun, with delusions of grandeur sets slowly into the sea while children played, ignoring him . . . as he put on his gaudy show.

stand at attention during the national anthem after a fine invitational pre-Orange Bowl.

Whether a sunset or the flash of a trumpet or a pretty smile, a taste for color and excitement was manifest throughout the year. Bonfires and beachparties, parades and dances . . . or the quiet enjoyment of red and orange hues across the surface of two oceans. These things, and the spirit that made them appreciated, add spice and seasoning to school life.

Karen Campbell, president of the student council and homecoming queen candidate, smiles warmly for photo during a break in her duties as head of the student body.

Classes were interrupted

New Year Sees Major Changes . . .

Grace Leggett, one of many Negro students transferred from Douglas to Key West High School. looks pensively at the camera during morning homeroom period.

when hurricane Betsy swept through the Florida Keys, leaving extensive damage to homes and property.

. . . And A Windy Lady

For the first time in Key West History, separate schools for white and Negro students were abolished. With the closing of Douglas High School, all Negro students were transferred to Key West High, with the Douglas buildings becoming the home of the new Florida Keys Junior College.

With such drastic changes, problems were bound to appear. May Sands Elementary School had to be converted into an annex for the high school to house the overcrowded ninth grade, and new scheduling for classes and study halls came into effect to avoid a "double shift."

But with all the physical and sociological adaptions, perhaps it is a credit to both the administration and the students of the area that a minimum of friction and confusion occurred. The relative ease with which the new program was carried out might well have been a model for other schools throughout the country.

Students congregate around the door of the east entrance to the new annex.

There Was Much We Did Together . . .

A policeman is surrounded by a happy but controlled group of students at the bonfire.

Man is a social animal, and much of the story of our year can only be told from the point of view of the group . . . the things that we did together. We cheered the football team together, we partied together and we had serious meetings together. We spoke and acted as the colonial sea animal, each separate individual doing his part to carry on the life of the entire organism.

Crowd of students file onto city bus for ride home after school.

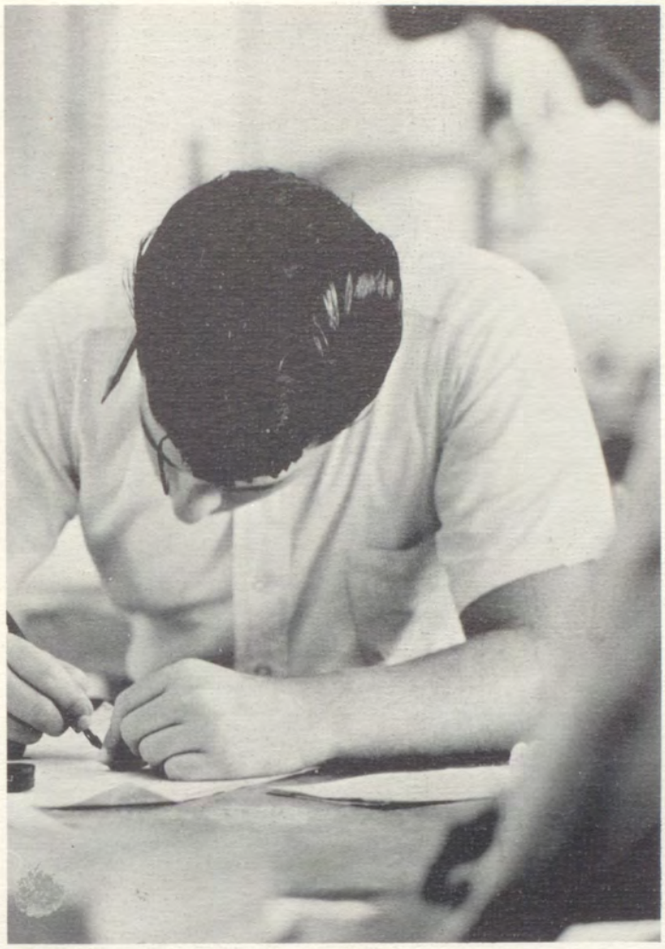
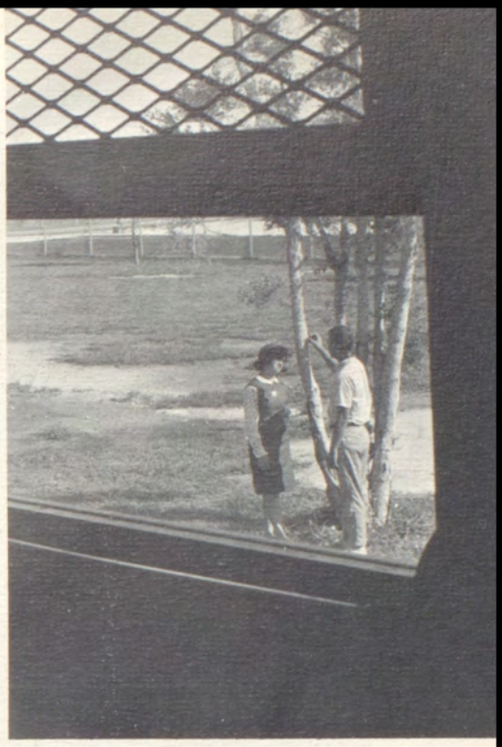
Between classes the hallway becomes a place of mass conversation and confusion.

. . . But At Times We Preferred Solitude



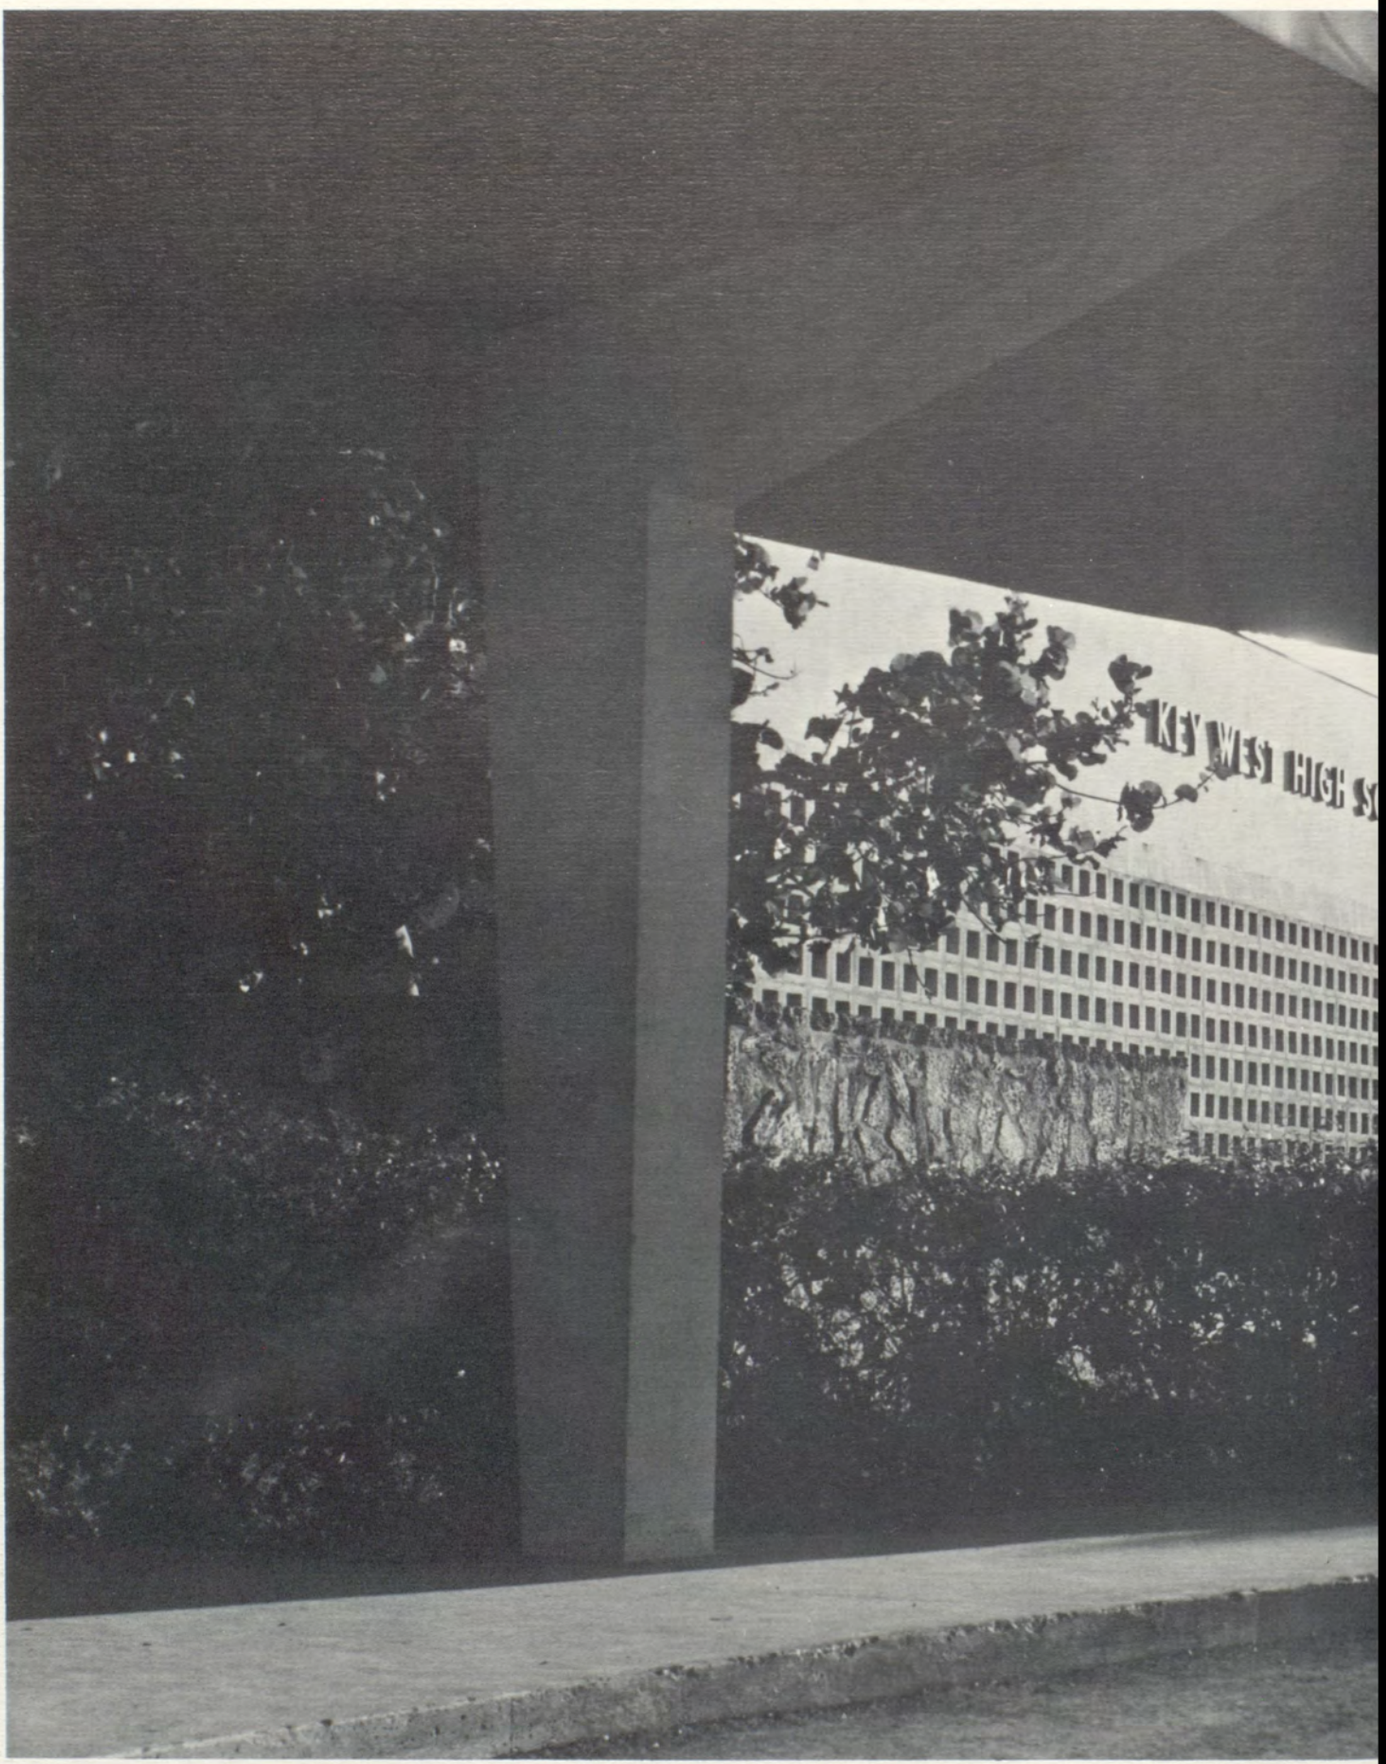
The quiet moments of creativity . . .



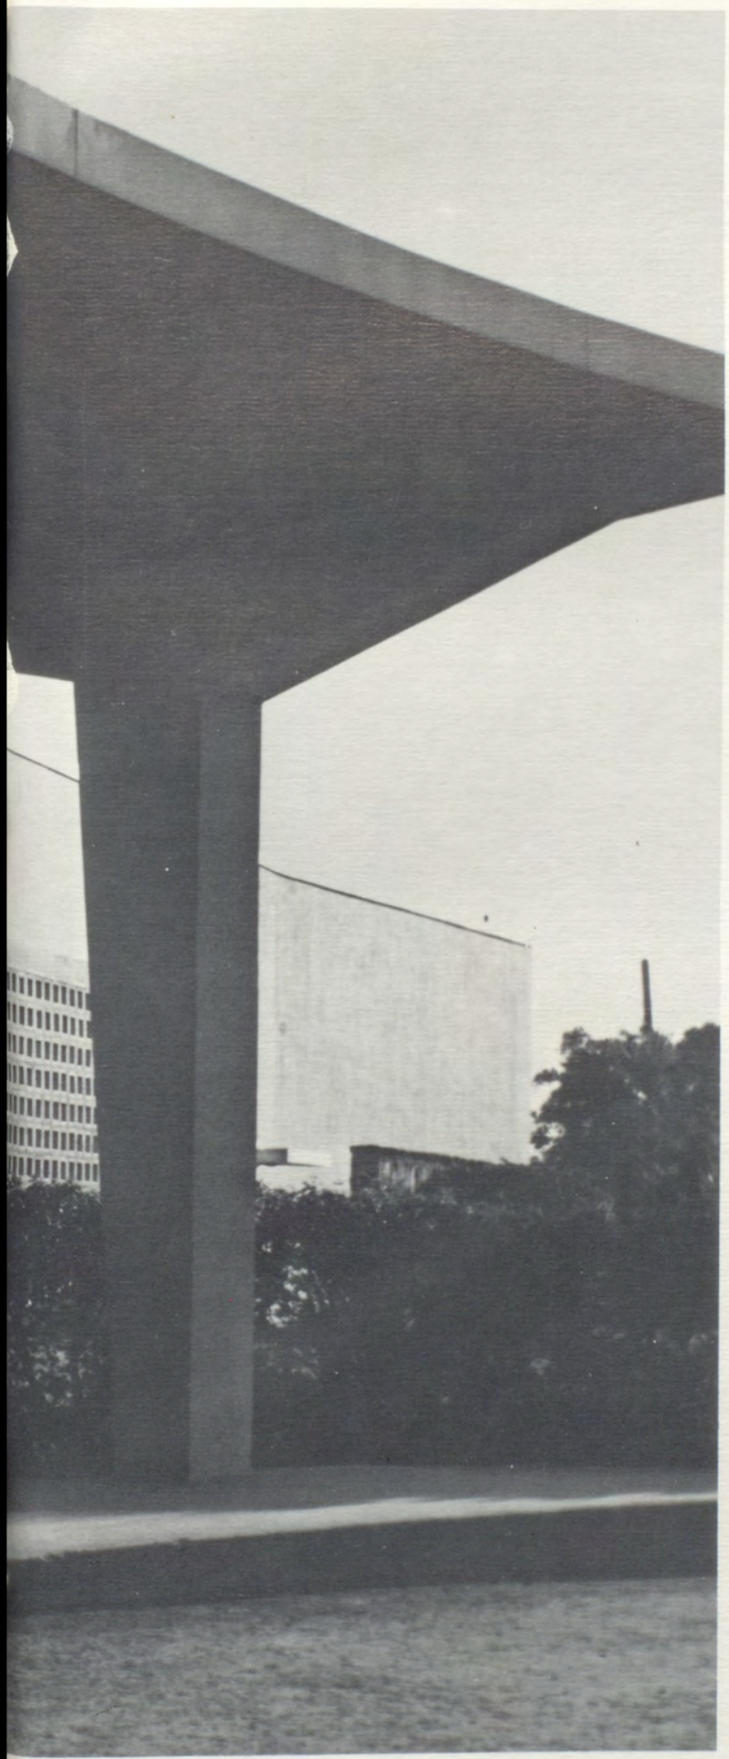
. . . of conversation . . .

Unlike the excitement of a hurricane or a pep rally, there is much of our story that can only be told in individual terms . . . the meeting of a new friend . . . the quiet moments that two people share together . . . the lonely hours of study and reflection . . . the solitude of creating with our minds and our hands. These are the things that are somehow lost in a large group.

. . . of study and reflection.



ADMINISTRATION



Problems, decisions . . . the responsibility of teachers and administrators to maintain a program of order and discipline and still impart knowledge and the desire for learning in their students. They fan the sparks of the mind and guide the misdirected toward a more sure understanding of the problems of living in a complex world. They play a great part, not only in a story of a year, but also in the story of our lives.

Glynn Archer, Jr. Takes Over Principal's Chair

Administration Saw Old Faces, New Places

Sociological change was only one of the many innovations in the Key West school system from 1965-66. An administrative shift also occurred which in itself would have made the year a memorable one. Dr. Harold Campbell was elected Superintendent of Monroe County Public Schools, leaving his post as principal of KWHS after eleven years of dedicated service. To replace him, last year's administrative assistant, Glynn Archer, Jr., was appointed our new principal.

In the shuffle the new post of Assistant County Superintendent was created to alleviate the growing administrative problems at the county office. The choice for the job was Armando ("Bookie") Henriquez who for years was both a teacher and a dean at Key West High.

All of these educators have done much to further the growth of Key West High in the past. With their experience throughout the school sysem we know that they will meet these new responsibilities with the same devotion and interest that was demonstrated here. We particularly wish to express our gratitude to Mr. Archer who, in his first few months as principal, has demonstrated his excellent ability as a leader and organizer. We feel assured that the future of KWHS rests in capable hands.

Dr. Harold C. Campbell

Mr. Armando Henriquez

Mr. Vernon Conner, administrative assistant

Mrs. Mary Lewin, Dean of Girls

With the creation of the KWHS Annex, the new administrative assistant, Mr. Vernon Conner, had his work cut out for him. It was his specific duty to supervise the staff at the annex as well as correlate the activities there with those at the main building. This often required being two places at once.

The deans and guidance counselors were also kept busy with an expanding student population on two campuses in addition. The guidance department was responsible in part for the success of the new "self-help" program. This program gave students a chance to improve themselves educationally and culturally by special sessions with teachers.

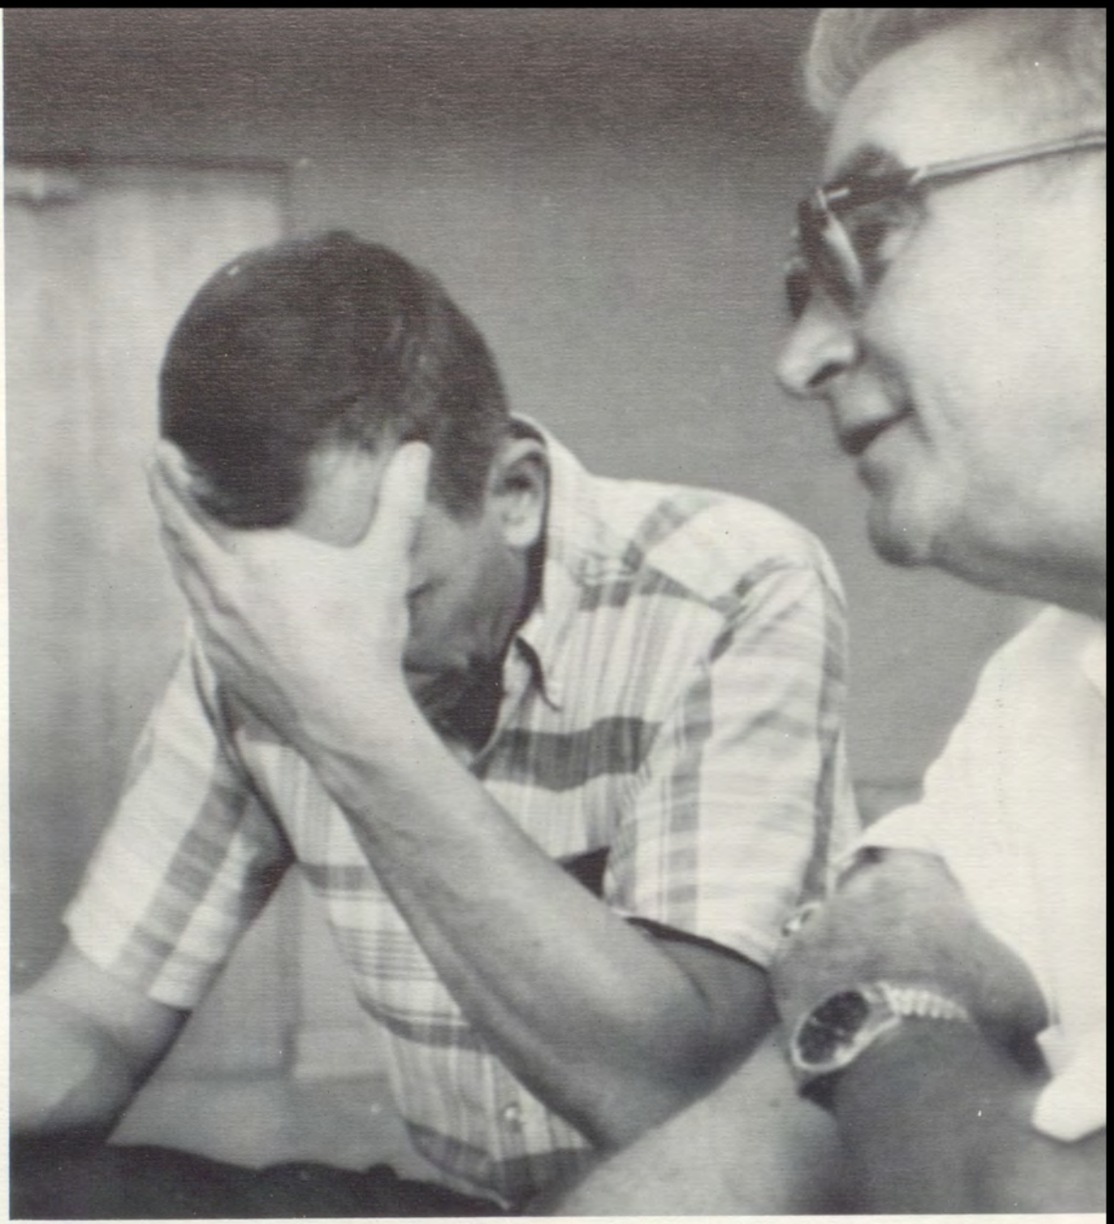
NEW HUMANITIES PROGRAM OFFERS STUDENTS INTRODUCTION TO PHILOSOPHY, ART AND MUSIC



Wayne Hawxhurst and Tom Whitley, teaching art and music respectively, puzzle over new approaches to the Humanities program.

Mrs. Marian Stark
Philosophy and Literature

An entirely new course of studies was opened as an elective subject this year for students interested in broadening their cultural background. Although not usually offered until the university level, it was felt that the Humanities program would fill a missing "gap" in the Key West High curriculum. The gap included such areas as art and music appreciation, as well as an introduction to the world's great literature and philosophy.

This first year was in a sense "experimental;" various methods of presenting each individual subject were tested and a study guide had to be created for future reference The success of the program was yet to be determined when the Conch was printed, but there was little doubt as to the value that the Humanities study contained in bringing a much needed understanding of man's cultural history.

The Music Men

The Key West High School Band and Chorus are two organizations that are constantly in the public eye. For this reason it becomes the responsibility of the directors to make these students as outstanding a group of performers as possible, both in talent and appearance. The band, under the direction of Bill Higgins, and the chorus, lead by "Uncle Tom" Whitley, are definitely a yearly proof of such effective leadership.

The music department, in addition to shaping top performing groups, also offers instruction for individual students in the wide field of music theory, solo instrument and voice, ensemble, and music history.

Tom Whitley, choral director, looks at the score sheet for possible use in a chorus production.

Bill Higgins, band director, pauses for a moment to talk over band problems with officers.

Science

Science is the gateway to the future. New doors are constantly opened to those who are adventurous enough to explore the unknown.

Biology, Chemistry, Physics, Space Science, and General Science are the areas a student can pursue in order to enrich his scientific knowledge. Under the direction of competent teachers, this program offers one of the most varied and beneficial studies at Key West High.

Mathematics

As one of the largest departments in the school, the math department covers a wide variety of preparational skills. Mathematical training for business and everyday life is dead with in the general curriculum, while more advanced theoretical skills are offered for the student preparing for college. The latter is covered in algebra, geometry and trigonometry courses.

The language department reaches into two major areas of study: Latin, which acquaints students with basis for knowledge of the romance languages; and the modern languages, Spanish and French, knowledge of which could give practical help in future travels and studies. Because Key West is a bi-lingual area, acquaintance with the Spanish idiom is particularly essential and is definitely in asset to community relations.

Regardless of what a student does after graduation, he will have to in some way communicate with other human beings. It is the job of the English department to teach the difference between effective and "ineffective" communication; this is accomplished by the detailed study of the processes of writing and speaking and listening. Perhaps, therefore, English is the most important of high school subjects, for without the ability to communicate clearly and effectively, whether a scientist or a housewife, the complex world around us becomes even more difficult to comprehend.

The Social Sciences

Through a study of the social sciences, the student begins to get an understanding of the environment around him. He begins to see the pattern of man's historical development and the methods by which various peoples have chosen to govern themselves. With this knowledge, the student can become a better informed citizen of his community and country and participate intelligently in the decisions of his peers.

Arts And Crafts

Arts, Crafts, and Woodwork are offered as elective courses. Students with manual skills and creative talent are given an opportunity to learn new techniques for artistic expression with basic materials.

The results of these classes were often seen in display cases and in decorations for the library and other classrooms. Such modes as sculpture, leather craft, and ceramics were only a few of the productive means for student creativity.

Physical Education

The late President Kennedy emphasized the need for an increased physical fitness program in the public schools. The necessity for this was based on the fact that the nation's youth was becoming "soft." At Key West High a strong physical education program has been put into effect that tries to accomplish the goal of producing the strength and endurance that will meet the nation's demands as well as create a healthful attitude for students that will carry on into later life.

Home Economics

STUDENT LIFE

The excitement of the bonfire before the first game, the pride of the coveted senior ring, the laughter, the hours of study before a mid-term . . . the moments of achievement and the moments of failure . . . All these are a part of our story. This is the way we looked and acted at a particular moment in history.

Seniors Complete Last Page In Twelve Year History

After twelve years of study, the members of the senior class are ready to say farewell to their childhood and take an active part in the society for which their education has prepared them. Four years ago, the class of '66 was freshman, uncertain, full of hopes and fears. But as time passed, so did they, as sophomores, then juniors, increasing in stature and maturity until at last they reached the pinnacle of high school . . . the Senior Year.

Now there will be new hopes and fears; new goals with new challenges will await them. Some will continue their studies at various colleges and universities; some will serve their country in the armed services or in social work; many will settle down at once and become a contributing part of the nation's economy. But whatever paths are chosen, the Seniors of '66 will travel them with the same spirit that made the completion of high school possible . . . a growing self discipline to learn and absorb the vast preparatory knowledge so necessary for the space age.

Beyond the learning of facts, however, are the memories of football games and Conch days, class plays and proms . . . the intangible things that made the year enjoyable as well as knowledgable. Whatever happens in the future, all of this will be part of the memorable past of a "mighty Senior class" . . . 1966.

One More Summer . . .

The patio is the scene of busy activity before morning classes.

Sophomores

SOPHOMORE OFFICERS: President Keith Soester, Secretary Jo Beth Geddis, Vice-President John Spottswood, Treasurer Ruth Ann Roberts.

A year's experience, one more rung up the ladder . . . a little bit of knowledge is a dangerous thing (and didn't somebody say that sophomore meant "wise fool?"). But from the confusion of beginning the second year of high school, the sophomores emerged with organized maturity.

A fine group of officers, led by Keith Soester, directed the class through a host of activities, including the charity drive and candy sales. In all, it looked like a good prologue of things to come in the next few years.

Helen Castra Accepts Homecoming Crown

This year's homecoming queen is a native Key Wester. Accept for a year spent at Reginald High School in New Jersey. Helen has been in the "southernmost city" all of her life. She belongs to the Elks 551 and Conchettes. When asked what her interests were, she replied, "Where the action is, I am!" That action includes swimming, dancing, and climbing an occasional fence "just for the mischief of it." When she graduates she hopes to be a musician.

Near the beach (where she admits spending much of her weekend time) Helen sits patiently for photographer.

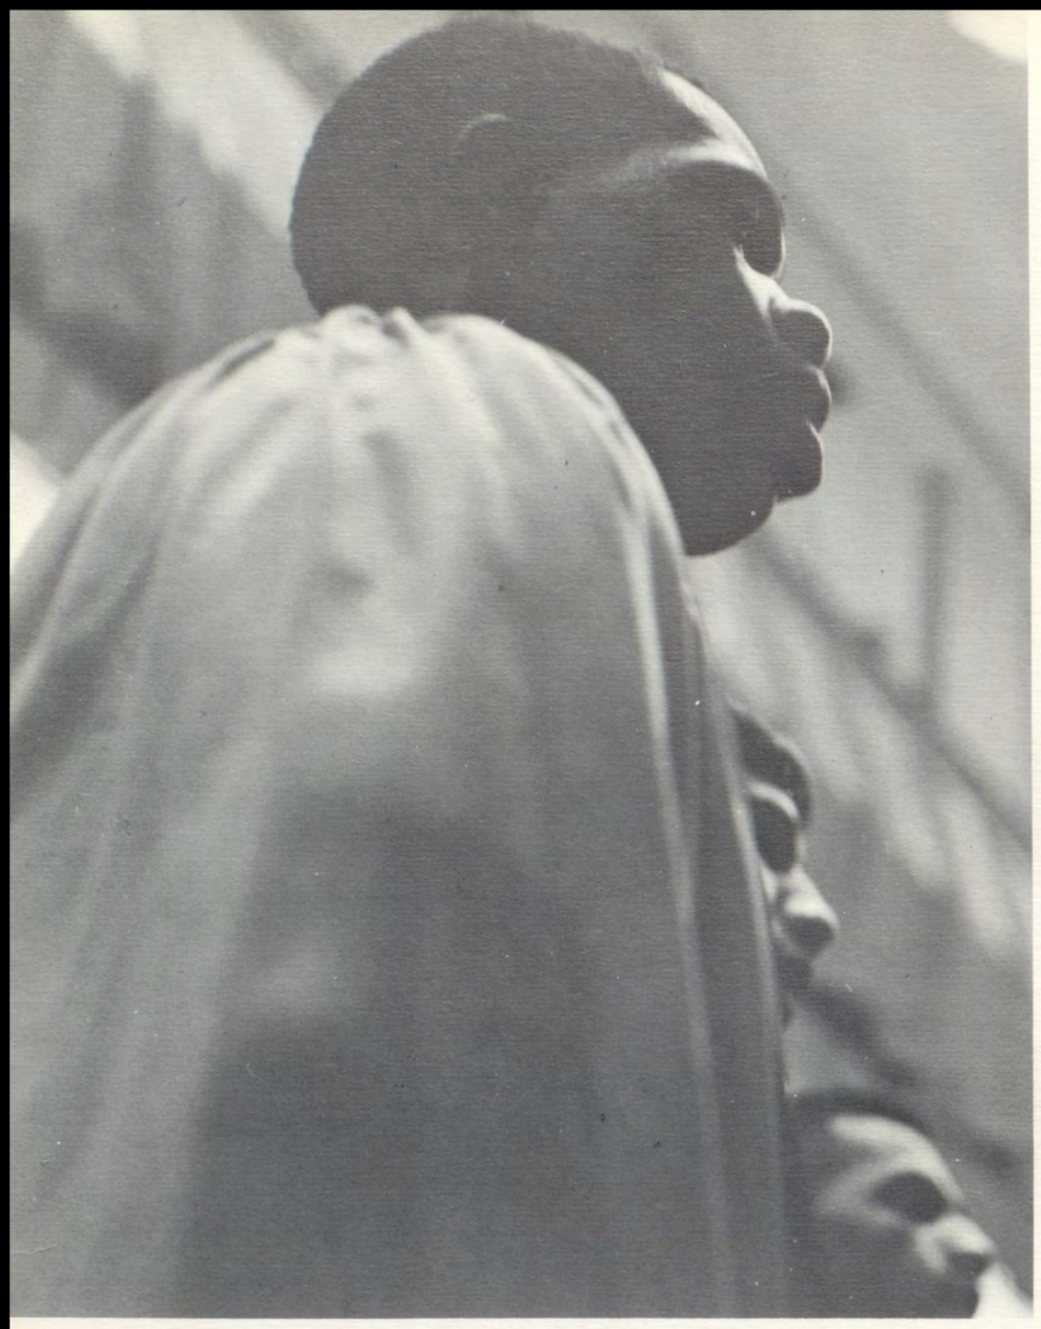
Gloria In Excelsis

Each year Key West High presents a Christmas gift to the community, a stirring concert of hymns and carols by the band and chorus, and an imaginative portrayal of the spirit of the season by the Conchettes and Majorettes as well as a host of other talented students.

This year the concert was presented in the auditorium for the first time. It was decided that the football stadium held too many production disadvantages. The many parents and children who attended found that, in general, it was much more enjoyable in an enclosed building and looked forward to next year's presentation under similar conditions.



A member of the chorus raises his voice in song during Christmas concert.

Boys' State

From July 27 to August 4 of last summer several representatives from Key West High School attended Boys State in Tallahassee. The purpose of this convention was to give students a real opportunity to study government in action by becoming the models of state government activities. The representatives were also addressed by Governor Haydon Burns and a supreme court judge.

During Boys State, there were elections held for county, local and state offices. Ronnie McKillip was elected to the House of Representatives as well as county commissioner. Charles Thompson was a party whip for the "federalists," the party which eventually won the race for governor. Charles was also appointed a member of the governor's cabinet. Steve Roberts also held an appointed post and was elected a city commissioner.

Darlene Glass brought a round of loud applause for her interpretation of a Tahitian dance.

Leading the student body in some cheers were the lovely (?) members of the Senior Class Cheerleading squad.

Talent A Go - Go

As usual, the Tri-M's production of the annual talent show was a roaring success of song and laughter. First place went to a vocal group, the "Cavemen;" Charlie "Toula" Lopez and Clifford Sawyer won second and third places respectively. The highlight of the show occurred at the finale when the Senior boys enacted their version of the Conchette routines and the homecoming coronation. All in all, it was an enjoyable display of student talent and humor.

The "Exciters," Ben Shoeneck, Reggie Paros, Bruce Lamberson and John Gilmore, provided some wild sounds with popular songs.

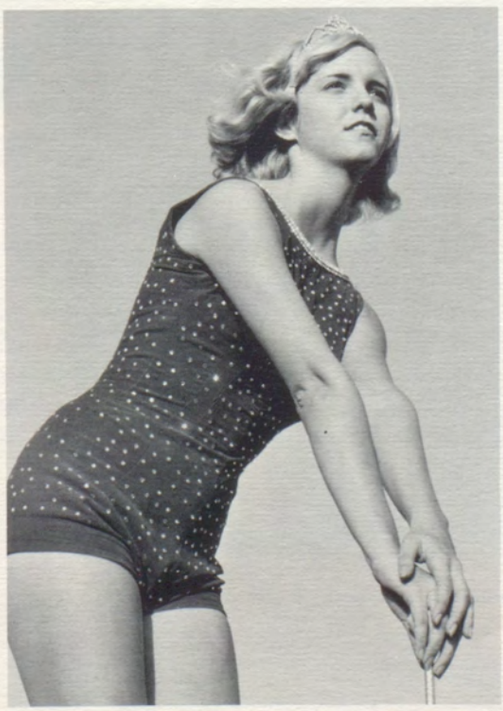
technique that requires hours of practice.

Key West High's six high-stepping majorettes add that extra sparkle to the band's performance during parades and half time shows. One of their most spectacular feats of the year was the "fire baton" twirling routine in the darkened stadium. This and many other fine shows pleased Coch fans at every appearance.



LINDA ST. PIERRE

Juniors Entertain With Fast-Moving Farce . . .
"The Nutt Family"

"Oogie! . . . . a pet snake! She really is a nut!" Linda Bosco and David Harris exchange dialogue in the second act.

No reflection on this year's Junior Class, "The Nutt Family" was an appropriate selection for a class play. Written by Walter Blake and adeptly directed by Klip Smith (the chief "nut"), the play managed to entertain both night's audiences with hilarious scenes. The Juniors did a fine job of reflecting the humor involved when a mix-up occurs about an insane asylum and a family named Nutt. As expected, there are innumerable puns on the family name as well as a confusing misunderstanding about certain marital plans. At the end, the audience had been treated to two hours of amusing farce-comedy that was a credit to the talent of all involved in the production.

New Track Team Begins Forming

Afer the Christmas holidays, training was begun in a new sport for the Key West High athletic department . . . track and field. Under the direction of Coach Leachman, assisted by coach Phillips, the new members worked hard to produce a team worthy of competition in state meets. The first meet was scheduled in Fort Lauderdale on March 19th.

Brett Merkey "opens up" at the end of lap practice.

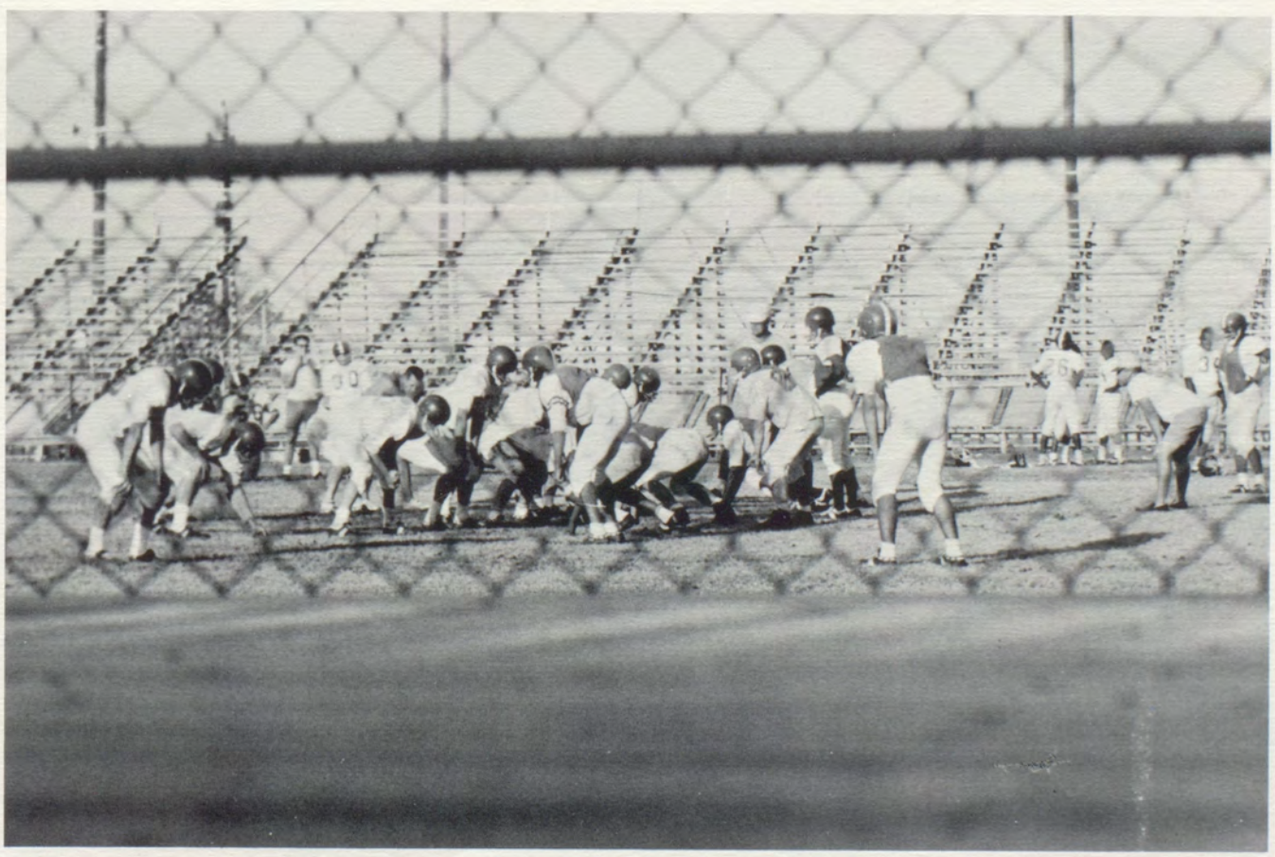
Muscles strain to hold push-up position during warm-up session.

Coach Joe Russo keeps a close watch on backfield positions as Conch squad runs through a difficult play.

Hard Practice Prepared Conchs For Rough Year

Early in the season, the KWHS football squad began arduous workouts at Wicker Stadium. Sprints, push-ups and knee bends loosened and then hardened sore muscles that would be used against the roughest games the Conch squad has had to face during a season. New plays were sketched out and drilled to perfection, defensive and offensive blocking was improved, and finally, full game scrimmages helped show the team's strengths and weaknesses before meeting their first opponent.

Towering over line during a blocking drill, coach Clarence "Skeeter" Phillips looks for flaws in defensive positions.



Despite hot weather and rain, the Conchs worked out daily, sometimes after dark under the lights to take advantage of cooler temperatures. Above, a full scrimmage gets under way.

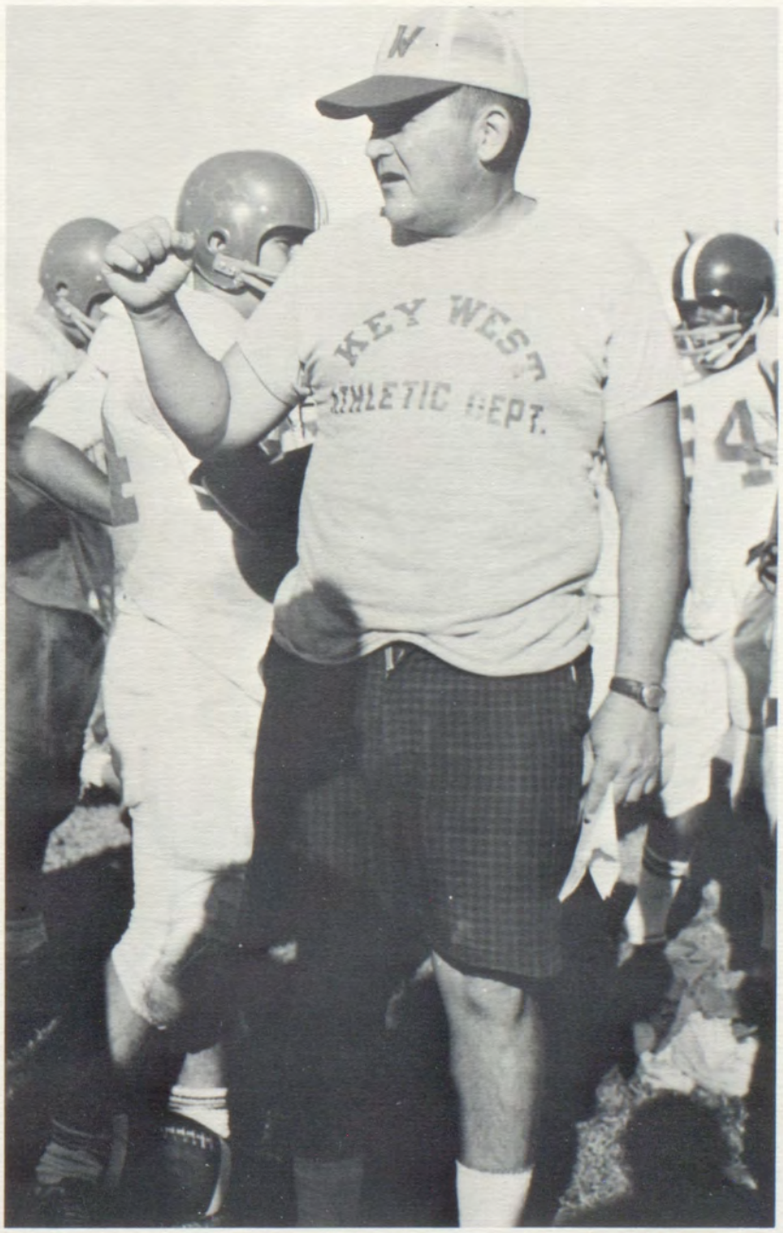
Leachman Joins Coaching Staff

Coming to Key West from a coaching position in Savannah, Georgia, Lemar Leachman added some much needed spirit to the Conchs backfield. In a booming voice which has become a trademark for fans, coach Leachman called both defensive and offensive plays during games, and sparked enthusiasm at practice sessions.

Gallagher Leads Conchs Against Tough Opponents

Up against new opponents such as Sarasota, and facing old rivals like unbeaten Coral Gables, the Conchs were in for an uncertain year. Coach Gallagher and his staff were apprehensive; practice injuries and illness sidelined several varsity players; the Miami high schools looked tough and would be hard to beat with a full team. There was no choice but to work hard and play well . . . and the Conchs were ready to comply with these demands.



Coach Gallagher yells out an order to the varsity linemen during afternoon practice.

Rushing attack is stopped by waiting Key West secondary.

Rain And Injuries

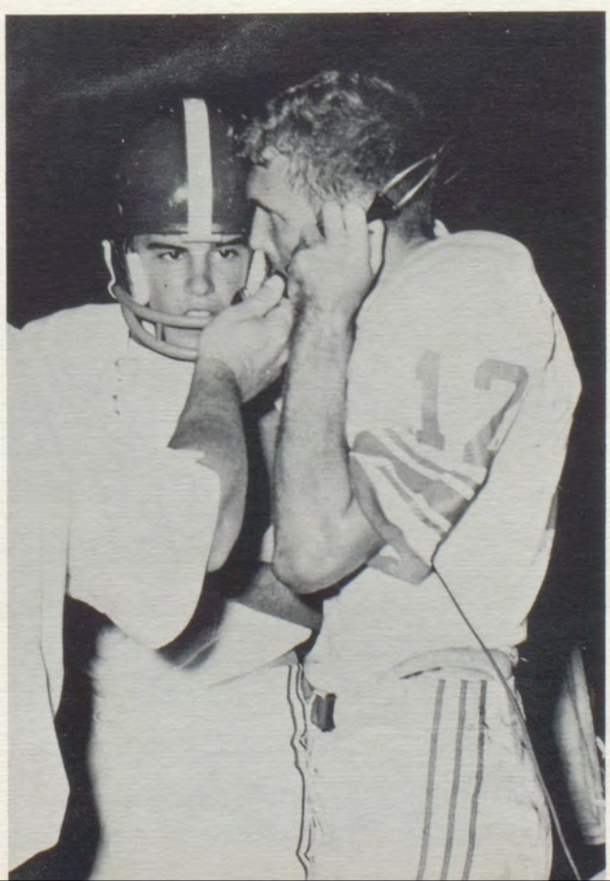
Plague Offensive Drive

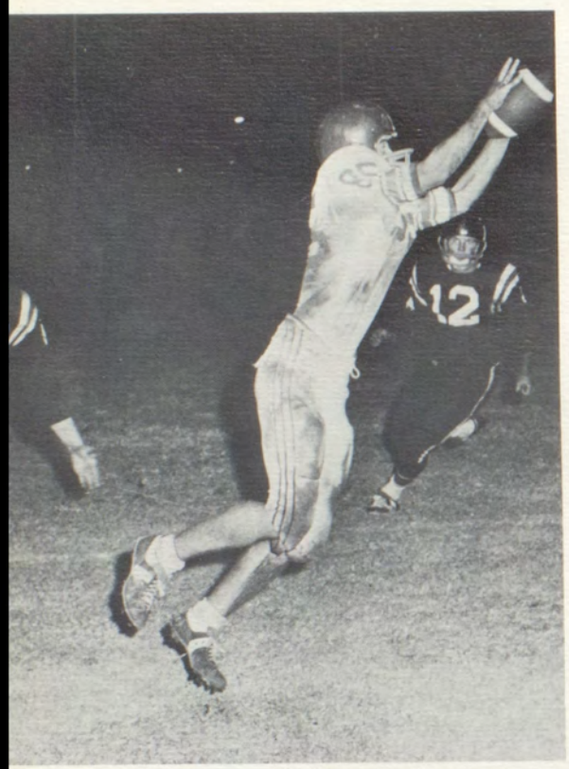


After a fine opening show of strength against Terry Parker, the Conch squad began to run into difficulties. Several first string players were sidelined with injuries, weakening the team's offensive play. Rain from Hurricane Betsy ruined field conditions and caused a cancelled game with Miami Beach. Practice sessions were held in the gymnasium.

Despite ill luck, however, the Key West varsity fought with spirit. In the second game against Coral Gables, the Conchs gave the state's No. 1 team a show of defensive power equaled only by the largest schools in the area.

Quarterbacks Dave Alea and David Harris receive instructions for the next play by phone from coach Leachman.

Conchs Take Final Game . . . End Year With 4-6 Record



Jim Babbit leaps for pass against Terry Parker.

With a final burst of energy, the '66 varsity squad downed Miami Beach with surprising ease, 13-0. Although it was the last game of the season, it was one of the only games in which the Conchs were able to take the field near full strength. Had they shown the same force and ability throughout the season, the win-loss record might well have been changed.

Charlie Walker dives for the first down.

In the locker room before the game, Mike Reader and other Conch players reflect serious intensity and excitement.

JV's Earn Tie Season

With a 3-3 record, the Conch junior varsity ended the year with the best football showing in the Key West area. Defeating such teams as Christopher Colombus, Naples, and Miami Edison, the young gridsters promise excellent matrial for future varsity lineups.

Strong Student Support Helped Boost Team Talent

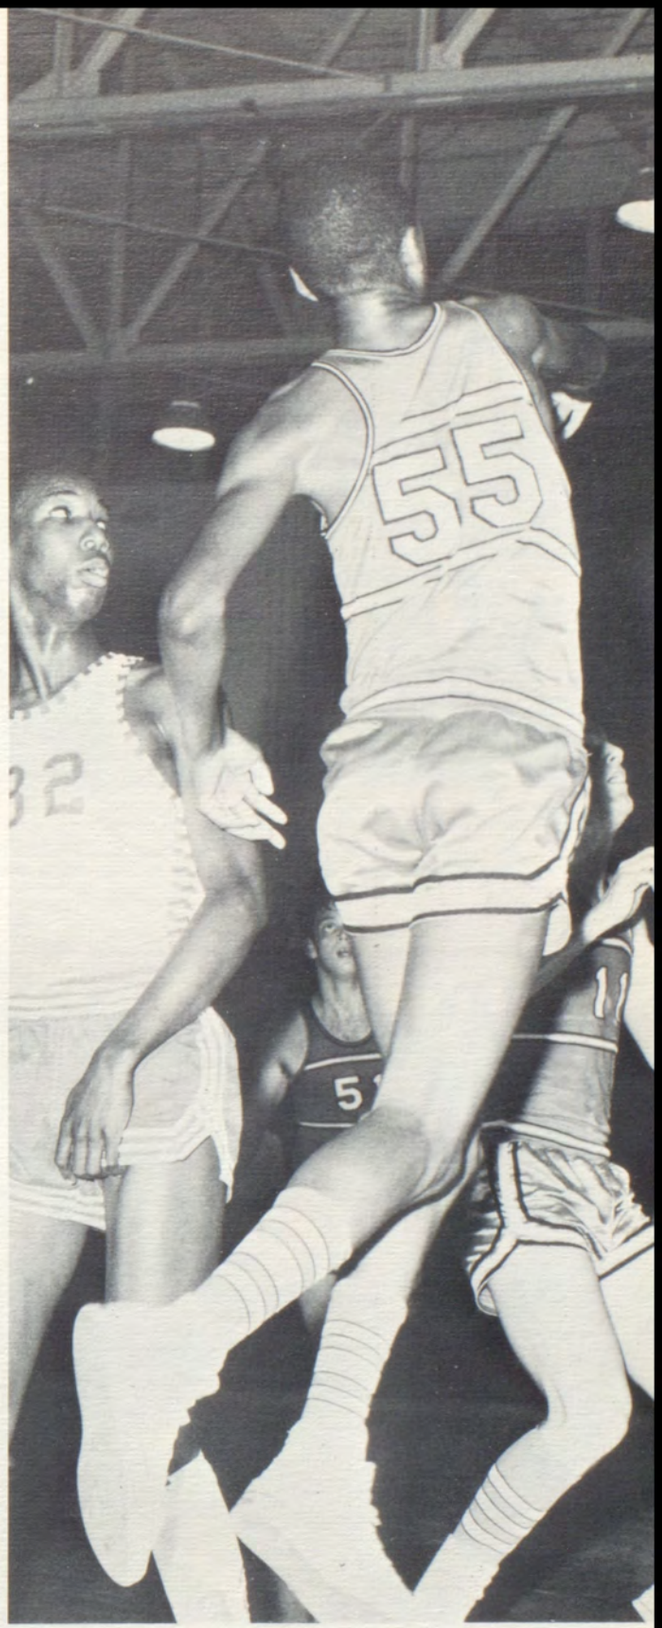
Managers Bill Gardener and Louis Hernandez were an indispensable asset to team's success.

After the opening game, there was no longer any doubt that this was to be a hot year for the Conchs. Students and loyal fans began to pack the gym as the team dropped one team after another in thrilling offensive play. Soon Coach Fedor's hoopsters were in 2nd place in the conference, with Bishop Curly the only team able to stop them. For the first time in years a Key West basketball team was ranked one of the top contenders in the state.



Issac Fisher watches as a Bishop Curly opponent sinks a long one.

In an unusual photograph, Ronnie Harris looks pensively at the net which he so often guarded skillfully at his center position.

Junior Conchs Walk Over Opponents

If Key West High School ever had a great varsity to look forward to, it was from this year's J.V. squad. With good height and ample skill in ball handling, the junior Conchs virtually swamped most of the larger Miami teams in the Southeast Conference. Sometimes piling up as much as a forty point lead against opposing teams, Coach Carmichael's starters looked more like a varsity club than most of the actual visiting varsities. When the Conch went to print, the J.V. had lost but one game out of eighteen: an impressive record for any school.

Coach Sam Carmichael yells instructions from the bench.

In every game, the J.V.'s were able to control the boards with height and hustle.

"Sea Hunt" Comes Alive For Key Mantas

Key Manta is an organization of students interested in the underwater sports of skin and scuba diving. Taking advantage of the Keys natural coral reef and clear tropical water, the members often take trips for exploration and spear fishing, recording their experiences with underwater photography. The club is also a good training ground for water safety methods in the proper handling of aircompressed diving gear.

Steady Aimers

Sportsmanship and skill in target shooting are part of the objectives of the National Rifle Association. As a member of this organization, the KWHS Rifle Club participates in many sponsored activities, including the NRA Junior Scholastic Sectional Match held in Key West on April 30 and May 1.

The club has 35 members and competes against other schools in matches as well as the annual Scholastic Sectional competition.

Student Council

Sponsor, Mrs. Nellie Panteleo

The Student Council is a congress in miniature. It has elected representatives from the school body who meet together and decide upon student policies and problems. They also serve as an arbitration board between the students and administration. When disagreements of opinion occur, it is up to the council to arrive at a solution using democratic and parliamentary procedure.

The sponsor of Student Council is Mrs. Nellie Panteleo, and it is on her shoulders that many problems of appeasement fall. This year's president, Karen Campbell, must also bear the weight of responsibility as the representative of the entire student population.

Student Council officers served returning teachers with refreshments of the first day the two week pre-school planning session.

Voices Ringing

Like the band, the Key West High School chorus is often called upon by the community to provide musical entertainment. Singing in local civic clubs, in churches, and for the Christmas show are only a few of these popular performances.

In addition to concert training, the chorus also stages an annual musical. When this book went to the printers, production was under way for the Broadway hit "Good News."

Tom Whitley, director, arranges the chorus before a concert.

Accompanist and student director Nell Rowe works on an arrangement to be used in the chorus production of "Good News."

The full chorus blends four parts of a hymn in preparation for a recital.

Tri-M Honors Music Maestros

The Modern Music Masters are perhaps best known for sponsoring the annual Talent Show Assembly, but their influence is felt throughout the community for leadership in several musical activities.

Membership in Tri-M is determined by a written and performance test in either vocal or instrumental music. Once accepted, the student automatically becomes part of a nationwide musical "honor sociey" which works throughout the country to promote interest in musical excellence.

Pep Squad

Organized last year, the Pep Squad has now established a reputation as a major boost to Conch spirit during football games. Each member sits in an assigned section on the student side of the stadium and helps the cheerleaders with songs and cheers. Membership in the club requires a "C" average and plenty of school spirit. Next year the members hope to add more activities to the club's schedule as well as increase the size of the cheering section.

Conchettes Spark Half Time

Football fans at the Orange Bowl were delighted when the Conchettes performed at pregame for the L.S.U.-Miami game. These talented young ladies, first organized in 1955, have performed at the Orange Bowl every year for several years. They are modeled after the Rangerettes of Kilgore College in Texas, and are the only group of this type in the state.

Their sponsor is Mrs. June Sanchez, one of the first members of Conchettes, and a former Conchette Captain.

National Honor Society

Leadership, character, scholarship, and service are the basic requirements for belonging to the National Honor Society. In addition to being an excellent source of recognition for these qualities in a student, the N. H. S. also gives the individual a chance to serve the school with worthwhile charity drives and campaigns.

Beta Club

The Beta Club is a service organization composed of students with a B average. Each year they sponsor the Christmas program and baskets, participate in the Charity Drive, sponsor dances and concessions, and serve the school in any way they can. One of the biggest projects this year was growing lime trees for the community. They are certainly an asset to our school and community.

Hablan Espanol

Because of Key West's large Spanish speaking population, an organization such as the Spanish Club has practical significance. Not only does it foster an interest in the Spanish language and culture, but it also gives students an excellent opportunity to use their language training in actual experiences throughout the area. This type of organization serves as an excellent linguistic bridge between school and community.

Cooperative Training A Dual Responsibility

"Learn while you earn" might well be the motto of The Diversified Cooperative Training (D.C.T.) students at Key West High. They have taken on the dual responsibility of carrying a class load of school subjects in the morning and of "on the job" training with a local employer in the afternoon.

The coordinator of D.C.T. this year Mr. Wayne Logan. Under his direction the organization took several prizes at a convention in Marathon of all the D.C.T. clubs of Monroe County.

Across The Desk

The Future Teachers of America, sponsored by Mr. McDonald, have tenatively decided to pursue a career of teaching. They have made a big step toward the profession by belonging to the F.T.A., an organization designed to give as much teaching experience as possible to members.

One of the greatest services rendered by the club this year was the help given to teachers in grading papers after school. This not only lightened the teacher's load, but also gave the F.T.A. an idea of the type of work that lies ahead in education.

Behind The Scenes

National Thespians is a new organization at Key West High School, but is one of the oldest dramatic clubs in the country. Its purpose is to promote interest and encourage participation in stage presentations as well as to train members in the dramatic arts.

In addition to presenting productions of their own, the members of Thespians also give invaluable help in staging and make-up to all school plays. The organizer and sponsor of the club is Mr. Klip Smith, himself an accomplished actor with many years experience in stage craft.

Staff members Joy VerDuft, Mary Cabanas, and Susie Gonzalez examine a newly published edition for mistakes.

Assistant editor Marilyn Pinder and editor Courtney Hackney check copy for Snapper deadline.

Stop The Press

Bulletin board announcements are posted by Ed Brost and Joan Zygula.

Staff artists Al Perkins and Al Soler work on preliminary drawings.

With copy deadlines and photography problems, not to mention the necessary proofreading and layout, putting together a newspaper can be quite a job. But once a month the Snapper emerged with entertaining news events and humorous articles. The school newspaper also commented on student problems with helpful editorials and suggestions for improving Key West High.

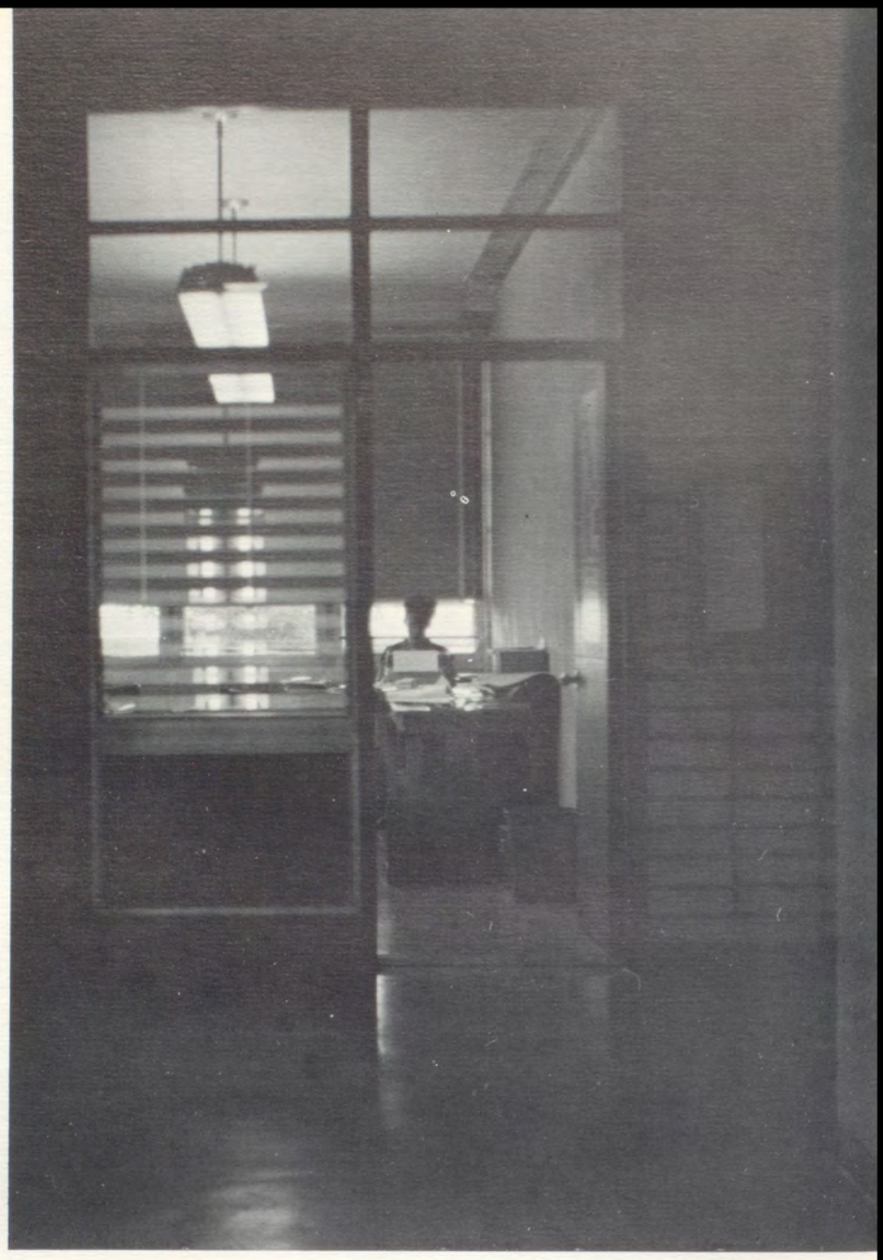
Frustration

An annual attempt to record an accurate history of a school year. This is often difficult when the year is one of many changes. For the Conch there were a host of problems in this respect. The new Annex caused a severe mix-up in scheduling and photography; the absorption of Douglas High School made enrollment zoom and thus the subsequent problem of allotted yearbook space; the staff was not elected until the Fall and few of us had experience in yearbook work, making it necessary to learn as we stumbled along.

But with all of this facing us, the Conch began to take shape and, after many late deadlines, was completed. Editor Angel Dussel and co-editor Paula Carbonell worked long hours to produce a quality book with the guidance of Mr. Lowery's critical suggestions. We hope it is a lasting record of an important year in our history.



Deadlines often meant late hours of typing and editing.

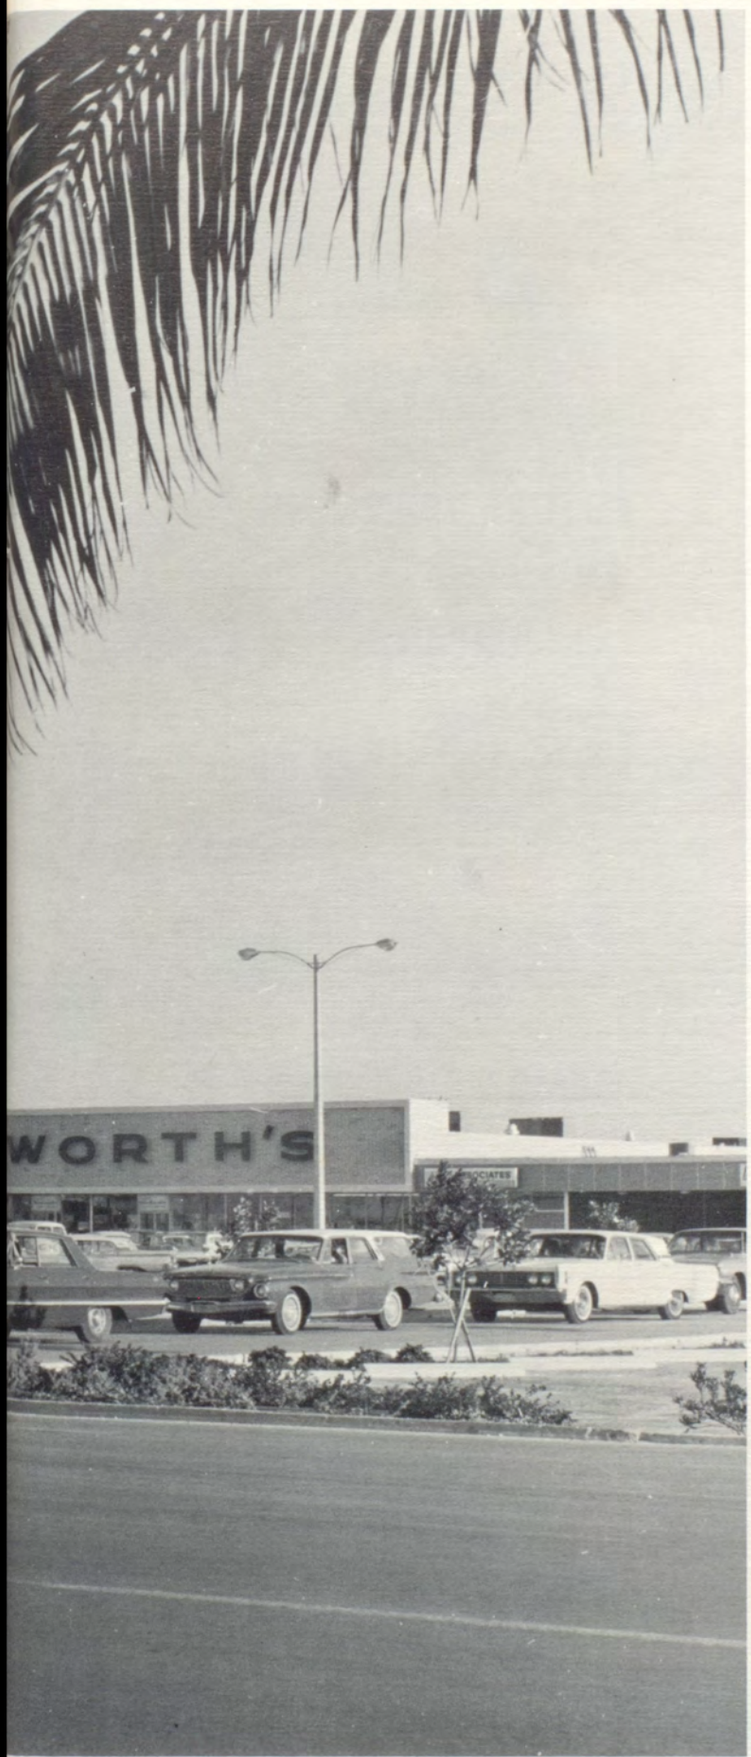
ADVERTISEMENTS



In any city there must be a close connection between the High School and local business. Because of our geographical location this is particularly true in Key West. Local businesses are dependent upon us to supply trained personnel and a demand for products, equipment, etc. We in turn depend upon their support in supplying and obtaining the needed materials and in backing the financial needs of the school through advertising. In the following pages are listed the commercial enterprises without whose support the CONCH could not be printed.

Science Fair

Olga Pendleton took top honors at the science fair on March 21. She was awarded the overall prize as well as taking first place in the physics category.

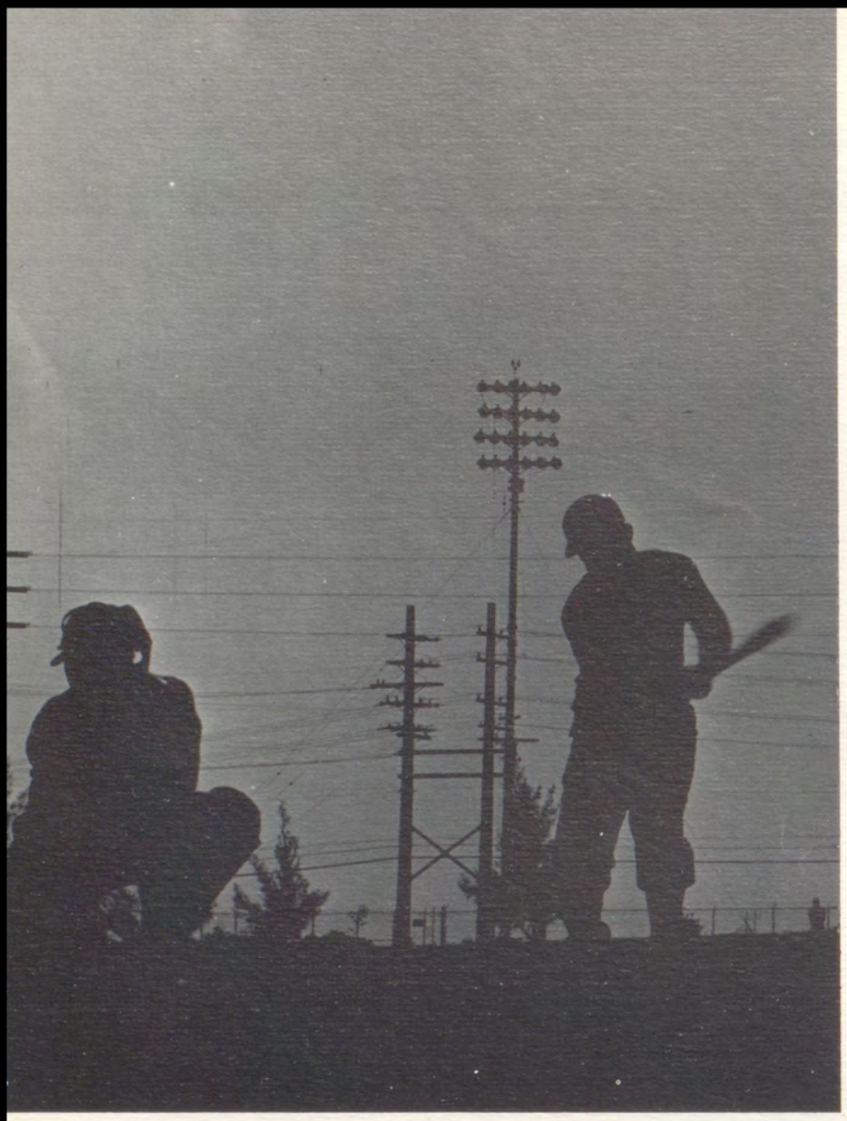
Other winners in the physics category were: Lionel Cobo, second place; Gary Dunlap, third place; Randy Fabal, Pete Weymouth, and David Alea received honorable mention.

In the chemistry category, Mary Wilson was awarded first place; Gaye Ciesinski, second place; Nancy Kirk, third place; Eric Ertley, Thomas England, Karen Kemp, and Elaine Weyrich were given honorable mention.

Olga Pendleton stands by her grand prize entry, an ionization cloud chamber.

Faculty Dumps Key Club

Key Club "Cheerleaders" Lionel Cobo, Steve Luoma, Marty Roselius, Bill Allen, John Spotswood (Seated: Steve Price). Their enthusiasm was commendable, but the faculty won the annual basketball game 74-36.



Batting practice continures into the late afternoon.

Baseball '66

With only three senior members remaining on the team at mid-season, the '66 Conch baseball squad had a rough season. After beating Plantation High in the first game, the Key West team had trouble getting the "breaks" throughout the remainder of the spring, although we did manage to drop such strong schools as Miami Edison, Columbus, South Dade, and Southwest.

Pitching was the major problem. The Conchs lost their only senior starter and had to rely on more inexperienced players to do the job. According to Coach Pannell, the 7-11 season was not bad at all considering the circumstances.

Coach Jim Pannell gives tips on hitting during practice.

Conchs Have Hard Season 7 Wins, 11 Losses

"The Wonderful World Of Seasons"

The boys got into the act with a precision rock and roll dance routine.

A popular number in the program was a rendition of "The Green Beret."

The annual Conchette Capers used for its theme an unnusual idea for the Key West area,"The Wonderful World of Seasons." The show was a great success thanks to some original choreography routines by Denard Haden, as well as many of the Conchettes own dance ideas. This year's show was under the fine direction of the Conchette sponsor, Mrs. June Sanchez.

An added attraction was an original narration by our principal, Glynn R. Archer, Jr., whose quips and comments sparked the continuity for the production.

School's First Magazine, Triton, Is Published

A "first" for Key West High was initiated by the Juniors this spring with the publishing of the Triton, an anthology of the best creative writing talent in the school. Open for contributions from the entire student body, the Triton exhibited excellent poetry, short stories, essays, and illustrations. The magazine sold for fifty cents and was an immediate success upon publication. This year's sponsors were Mr. Lowery and Mr. McDonald, and under their direction, the Triton became one of the finest high school publications of its kind in the state.
