Embarking on the next phase of our lives, we try to live up to the expectations set by those that came before us and wonder how to set ourselves apart from the rest.

Storms hit, athletes excelled, and students became accustomed to the new environment. Now, the concentration shifts to the next level. The student body strives for success; hoping to surpass the accomplishments of their predecessors and become the next big thing. As we focus on the everlasting horizon, the question at the forefront is What's Next...

What's goin' on

High school is a once in a lifetime experience. These memories will be carried with us through the ages. School isn't just tests, projects, and homework; it's what's happening with the student lives. It's about style, homecoming, clashes, and spirit. It's about what's goin' on...

Looking Back..

These two friends, Breanna Escobio and Jacqueline Goldstein, take time out of dinner to pose for a picture at Benihanas.

After an easter egg hunt Tiffany Albury, Katie McCord, and Marisa Arencibia play around before counting their eggs.

After a long weekend at Disney World, Nick Monsalvatge and Andrew Toppino are caught by the camera while eating.

Aren't they cute? Amanda Hawthorne, Daniel Garcia, David Gootee, Kevin Degraffenreid, and Tyler Leto are all dressed up, ready for Halloween.

Long time friends Roman Orofino and John Alexander play in the sand while at the beach.

Wow! Rachel Krathen tries to stuff her mouth with an over-size burger as her friend Kaley Green observes.

Dressed up for St. Patrick's Day, Danielle Kehoe and Mercedes Reger stand together at a girl scouts meeting.

Looking back throughout the years, time has altered many things, including friendships. While some of us have grown apart, many of us have remained friends. "It's funny when we look back because we're all still good friends so many years later", says Ciara Moore. Growing up together all our lives we've shared many memories and good times and hopefully there will be many more to come.

Playtime is a must for Alyse Stehly and Amaris Lopez at Reynold's pre-school.

Juniors Arlette Rodriguez and Angelica Domenech compliment each other on their similar tastes in belts.

Justin Alce wears his Fossil sunglasses while carefully concentrating as he opens his locker after school.

Fashion is something that every high school student deals with. Picking the perfect outfit for school can be quite challenging at times. Many focus on "what's hot" in the attempt to leave their mark. From poodle skirts to leather jackets, from sequenced tops to long satin skirts, fashion has changed through-out the years. Fashion is influenced by music, celebrities, magazines, books, videos and television. As students focus on setting the trends, they find themselves following the very same styles as those before them.

Christian Gatti shows off his buffalo belt buckle while walking to choir fourth period.

Fashion Flashback

Shayne Sangerman plays a song from the jukebox after rummaging through her black sequenced purse for a quarter.

After a long day of dancing in her lime-green stilettos, Victoria Phillips rests her tired feet while waiting for Mistys to end.

In the attempt not to dirty her black skirt, Chelsea Pearl-Mihalinec carefully folds a polo shirt.

Tiffany Albury wears a scarf in her hair as she listens to the announcements during a Senior executive board meeting.

Deashyia Fernandez, Ivy Anderson, Venezia Moreland and Tianna Waldon stop for a quick pose before taking a splash in the pool where they spent the day relaxing and working on their tans.

Making a mess, best friends Cynthia Sellers and Marissa Lockwood embark in a fiesta of shaving cream late on a Saturday night.

Gather round the good stuff, members of 2007 class stop for a quick pose after eating at a local restaurant.

Lets all celebrate! Out in full force students flocked to the Tommy Roberts Memorial Stadium to enjoy a night of conch football.

Good times!!!

At what used to be the Holiday Inn Beachside, Senior Kristin O'Neil paints a beautiful mural of ocean life on the wooden wall.

At the sound of the bell on a Friday afternoon, the well anticipated weekend begins. There is always something special planned on each and every weekend. Whether it is a night on the town, spending a warm afternoon on the beach, or having breakfast with friends. Weekends are well accounted for and definitely taken advantage of. No matter the time of the day the weekend will forever be remembered as the good times.

Talk about school spirit, these students know all about conch pride as they show off their interesting body art at the first football game of the 2005 season.

As senior Alisha Machado admires the Bahia Honda surf, her sweetheart Juan Valdes dawns her with a peck on the cheek.

Sophomore Alicia Peteck and Junior Dylan Snider enjoy a cloud free day of Parasailing in the keys.

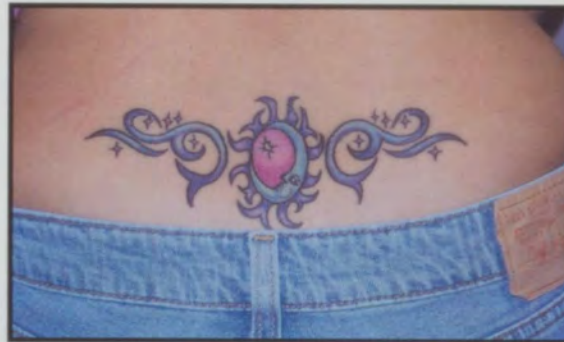

As the years go by and young people mature they develop different interests in their lives. Some develop an interest to get tattoos and others get piercings. When young people decide to get piercings or tattoos, they get them for different reasons. Some get tattoos to remind them of a loved one that died, others get piercings because they like the style.

In English class, Dustin Viveiros poses for a picture with his tattoo that he got in memory of his grandparents.

Here's Gabriella Gonzalez during concert choir with her moon tattoo that she decided to get because she liked it.

Here's Alexandra Castillo with her eyebrow ring that she got on the spur of the moment.

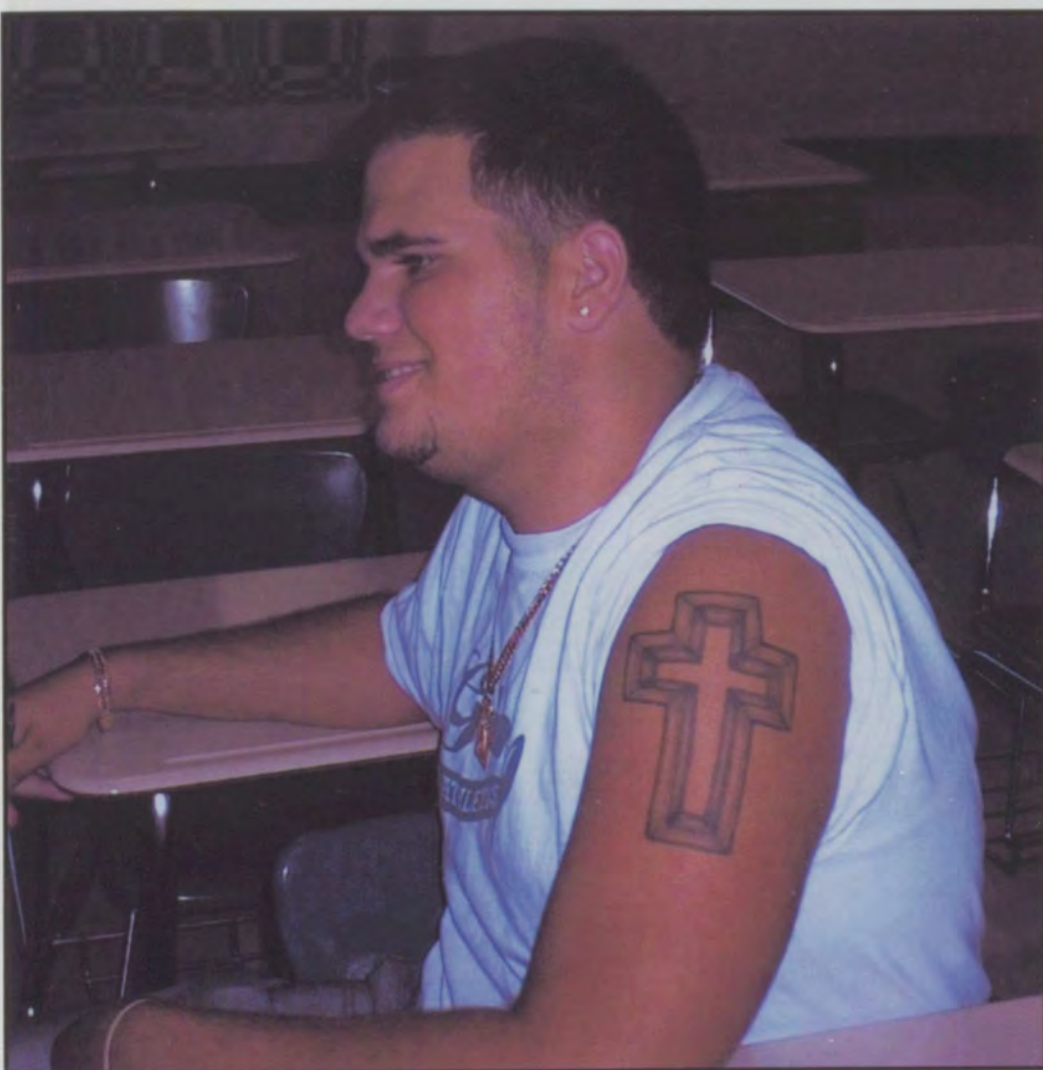

While they were working on the senior float, Tiffany Albury and Marisa Arencibia show off their piercings.

To show off his individuality Joseph Marshall, decided to get his lip pierced.

While in yearbook, Breanna Escobio shows off her tongue ring that she has wanted since 7th grade.

Bringing Art to Life

Let's Go Conchs!

During their final year of pep rallies, these seniors will be sure to raise their fingers high to show their pride in their Alma Mater.

With flying stunts, the cheerleaders pump up the crowd during a pep rally.

With their saxaphones in hand, band members Claire Dolan-Heitlinger and Nicki Roman bring jazz tunes to the band.

The crowd gives the marching band support during half time by showing they are number one.

The sophomore class knows how to show their spirit when their class name is called.

Football captains for the first home game, Louis Pazo, Devin Genchi, and Laurence Marius, are called on to the court by their coach to pump up the team.

Swim team captain Erika Stokes is proud to announce the swim team to the crowd at the first pep rally.

"Exciting" is the first word that comes to mind when senior Patrick Samson thinks of a pep rally. Pep Rallies have been a Key West High School tradition for many years. "I like how they bring everyone together and pump them up for the game," says Samson. This year's pep rallies consisted of pumped up football players, excited cheerleaders, dancing Conchettes, and a musical band. The cheering will go on with many pep rallies to come.

The Varsity football players huddle up to do their traditional conchs on 3 chant, "1-2-3 Conchs!"

Conch Pride....

Nice threads! Nestor Feliciano waits to do his work in discrete math class.

As they wait for their ride to school, Lauren Roberts and Leah Etmanczyk have a chat about what their day will bring.

Even teachers get into the Homecoming spirit, like Mrs. Maxwell in her floral pajamas.

During Pajama Day Alison Tejeda, Alison Leamard, and Amanda Gibson chat before singing in choir class.

It's Carley Rivet as the impersonator of her idol, the beach volleyball player, Kerri Walsh.

Oh my, here is Jessie Hammers as Michael Jackson as he is walking through the cafeteria during lunch.

As the impersonator of Marilyn Monroe, Ashley Johnson starts to apply her lipstick while she waits to go to class.

Spice up your life! Here are Seniors Carleigh Kruzick, Jill Case, and Jessica Phelps as they portray the Spice Girls.

Walking to class, juniors Deana Mercado and Patrick McCarthy show their feelings towards each other.

Awaiting the sound of the bell, juniors Kevin McChesney and Andres Ceberio post themselves on the lockers to show off their creativity.

Before class, senior Amanda Hawthorne stops to adjust the bandana on Christian Gatti's neck.

During lunch, sophomores Jessie Johnson, Harlee Anderson, and Jianna Hernandez enjoy their free time to chat.

Let It Show !

Excited about senior toga day, Carlos Valdez walks happily to class.

Spirit Week is the time for students to show their conch pride. Whether its dressing up in togas, being twins with friends, becomming your idol, wearing your favorite pajamas, or showing your class pride all students anticipate this week.

As the tradition continues the seniors of 2006 show off their togas while taking a group shot.

By sporting her unique toga Heather Green shows off her spirit of being a senior.

Before the senior toga picture Jill Case puts the final touches on Gabriella Gonzales's toga.

Over the past four years, the Class of 2006 has learned the meaning of teamwork. "Our class is known for redefining what is possible. Being our last year, we had to create something that would never be forgotten. Our rendition of Tim Burton's 'The Nightmare Before Christmas' allowed us to once again think outside of the box. This left us wishing that this would never end," says Paul Depoo. Being that it was their last year, the seniors made sure to express how much they will miss things at KWHS. This is why they chose to tell a story of how homecoming began.

Hard work is all it takes! Daniel Garcia works vigorously on finishing up the tower.

It's show time! Spencer Gates, dressed as the town mayor, uses his acting skills to perform for the crowd.

Observing one of the moving platforms, Daniel Pumar and Paul Depoo take a brief timeout to discuss what to do next.

Anxiously awaiting the start of the parade, Cody Vildostegui, Sara Rodriguez, and Martha Hooten get into their position.

Teamwork is what it's all about! Amanda Hawthorne, Jacqueline Goldstein, Madison Labrada, Jaclyn Gilman, Alison Tejada, Lauren Pazo, and Ashley Thompson work hard to paint wigs and glitter letters.

As the set changes from Homecoming to "Conch Land," a group of seniors hold up signs indicating the switch.

Catch that mascot! The Pembroke Pines mascot, played by Christian Gatti, tries to out run Chelsea Pearl-Mihalenic, Lauren Pazo, and Monet Davila.

Finishing up forming the chicken wire, Jacqueline Rodriguez prepares to begin paper macheing.

Stealing Homecoming

Following the Road to Victory

Eagerly waiting for the parade to begin, Justin Budde, Steven Monsalvatge and Jenna Moeller nervously sit on the yellow brick road.

Covered in peach paint, Robert Hogan smooths out the streaks of Dorothy's Conch House.

Approaching the judge's stand, the junior class awaits their turn to perform their well-worked skit.

Working together, everyone pitches in to create the finishing touches for the "Oz" scene.

Having a blast, Samantha Robbins, Morgan Meyer and Amanda Stanley work together on painting the football scene.

Showing off their trophy, Kendal Harden and Kevin McChesney celebrate their win.

After two years of waiting, the Class of 2007's hard work finally paid off. Dedicated to the theme, the juniors used "The Wizard of Oz" to put together their colorful exhibit. "We created the float we had always planned for," said Vice President Jenna Moeller. The juniors made a place for themselves in Homecoming history, and one truth will always remain; "There's no class like 2007."

Caught in the celebration, the class of 2007 shows their excitement of winning first place.

Make it sparkle! Sophomore Nicole Mongelli glitters the words that go on the front of the float, then sprays them with concealed to make sure the glitter stays.

Hard at work, Richard Cormack and Briana Bosco paint the castle which was a major part of their float.

Looks like the class of 2008 is having fun! Sophomores have a blast singing and dancing down Flagler during the Spirit Day Parade on Monday evening the 17th of October.

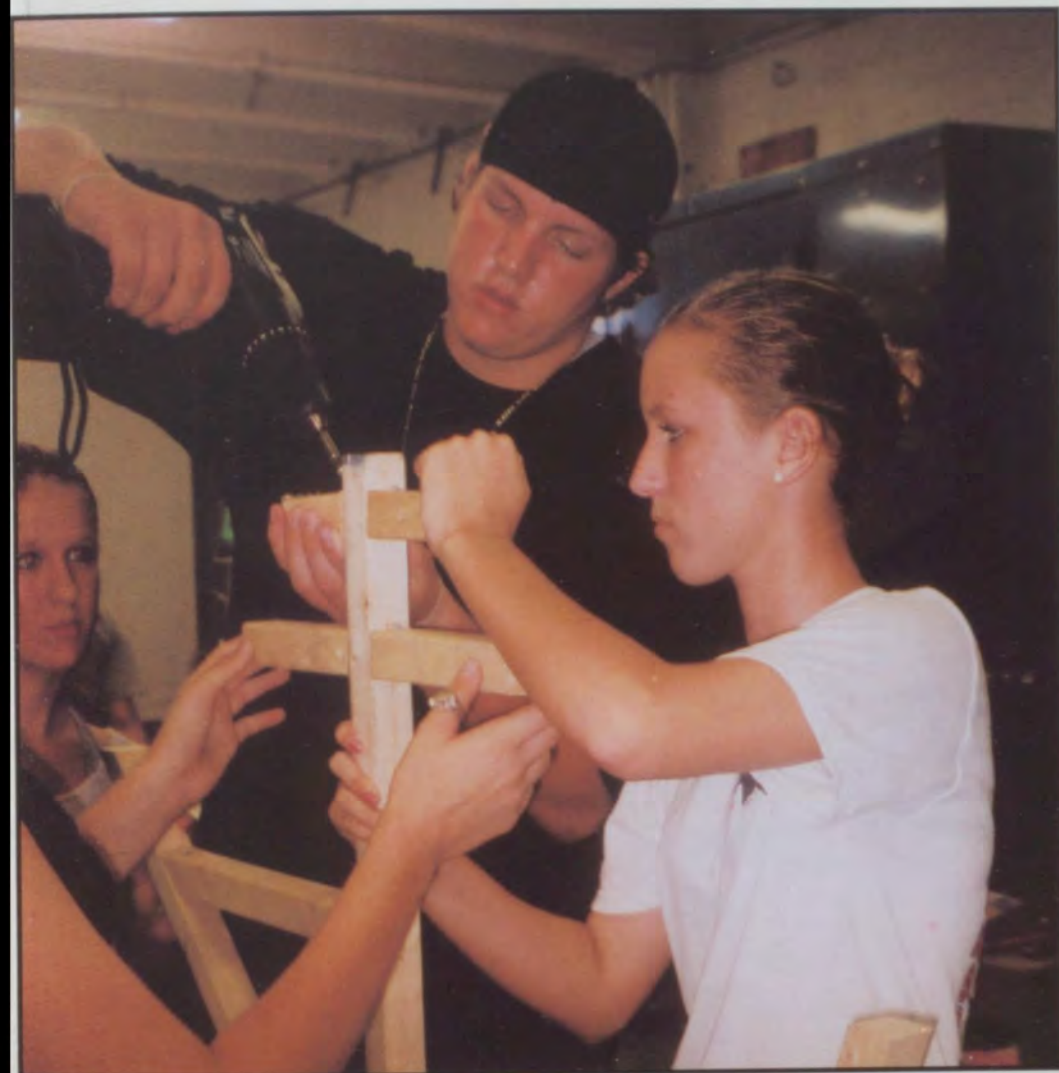

This year's homecoming theme was "Dreams". This being Key West, the sophomore class decided to do "Where Dreams Come True..." Their float was based on a young girl who attended Key West High, and dreamed of being the Homecoming Queen. When she got knocked out by the conch football players, she had a dream of being on court with four of the disney princesses, and was crowned queen. The class of 2008 came in third place, "I really don't care that we came in third. We had fun making it and riding in the parade," said sophomore Briana Bosco. Having a good time was all that counts and thats exactly what they did.

Touching up the night sky, Elizabeth King and Laura Kaczowski make sure they don't miss an inch of wood the day before the parade.

Where Dreams Come True...

Working hard, Richard Cormack and Kaitlin Hopkins screw on the pieces of wood together to make the base of the conch that goes on their float. Their hard work paid off, the conch looked amazing in the middle of their float.

Working together, Ashlie Hernandez, Brandon Martin and Roland Flowers work on wrapping the sheets around the chicken wire to form the the conch.

Don't get me wet! Amanda Alfonso, Kristen Babich and Desiree Pelletier gang up on Briana Bosco while their trying to wash the paint brushes they'd been using.

Don't let the paint drip! Working hard on the Tommy Roberts Memorial sign, Megan Malgrat and Amanda Malott try to not let the paint drip on the wood.

The freshmen walk away as they finish performing their skit.

The members of the freshmen float anxiously wait for their turn to perform their skit.

Helping build the float, Callie Ford and George Garcia paint boards for their backdrop.

Living in a dream

Kaya Lydamore, who played Genie on the freshmen float, greets the crowd with a princess wave.

Class of 2009 made their debut in this year's homecoming parade. the freshmen float was based on "I Dream of Genie" with a story line that connects it to Homecoming at Key West High School. They came in last place but they still had the spirit to go on and lots of fun building and being on the float.

Freshmen Devon Marlow and Megan Gomez paint letters for the float.

During the freshmen skit, the cheerleaders cheer on their homecoming court of three.

"Lets go freshmen!" yell the members of the freshmen executive board to the on-looking crowd while riding on their float down Flanger Ave.

and Brenden Lee.

A Crowning Moment !

After being crowned Homecoming Queen, Cierra Walker stands with her escort, Paul dePoo, and captures this memorable moment.

Every year, the senior class nominates five girls they think deserve to be on the homecoming court. Each year it's a major event for the senior class, as well as the community. This year was a little different from the rest. With hurricanes postponing the festivities, the girls were left waiting weeks to know who would win the crown. The location for the crowning was changed and it didn't include a football game, but the girls looked beautiful in their white gowns, and the community was there to support them.

This year, homecoming came late for the students of Key West High because of Hurricane Wilma. No worries though, because homecoming still took place at the Grand Key Hotel on November 10th, with the theme "Dream". Everyone came in their best, looking for a great time with friends and that is just what they found. They danced the night away until it seemed but a dream. Homecoming '05 is for sure, a night that will never be forgotten.

Lauren Roberts and Carly Rivet help Leah Etmanczyk get her hair done in time for the dance.

Dance Heather Gummi! Show these people how you move!

Friends, Alexis Williams, Dawn Robbins, Christina Kemp, and Brooke Oropeza, take a break from dancing and cool off.

Ciara Moore, Lauren Pazo, Brittney Taylor, Michael Mingo, Jasmine Stafford, Sele Gordon, and Michael Hill eat at TGIF before going to the dance.

Angela Perez and Kelly Miller have a time that they'll never forget.

Go Colonda Brown! She makes sure she gets some dancing time in.

Junior, Blair McCarthy is ready to go inside and dance!

Samantha Campbell, Tianna Waldon, and Kimisha De Roche stop to take a picture to remember the great time they had at Homecoming.

Dance Inside a Dream

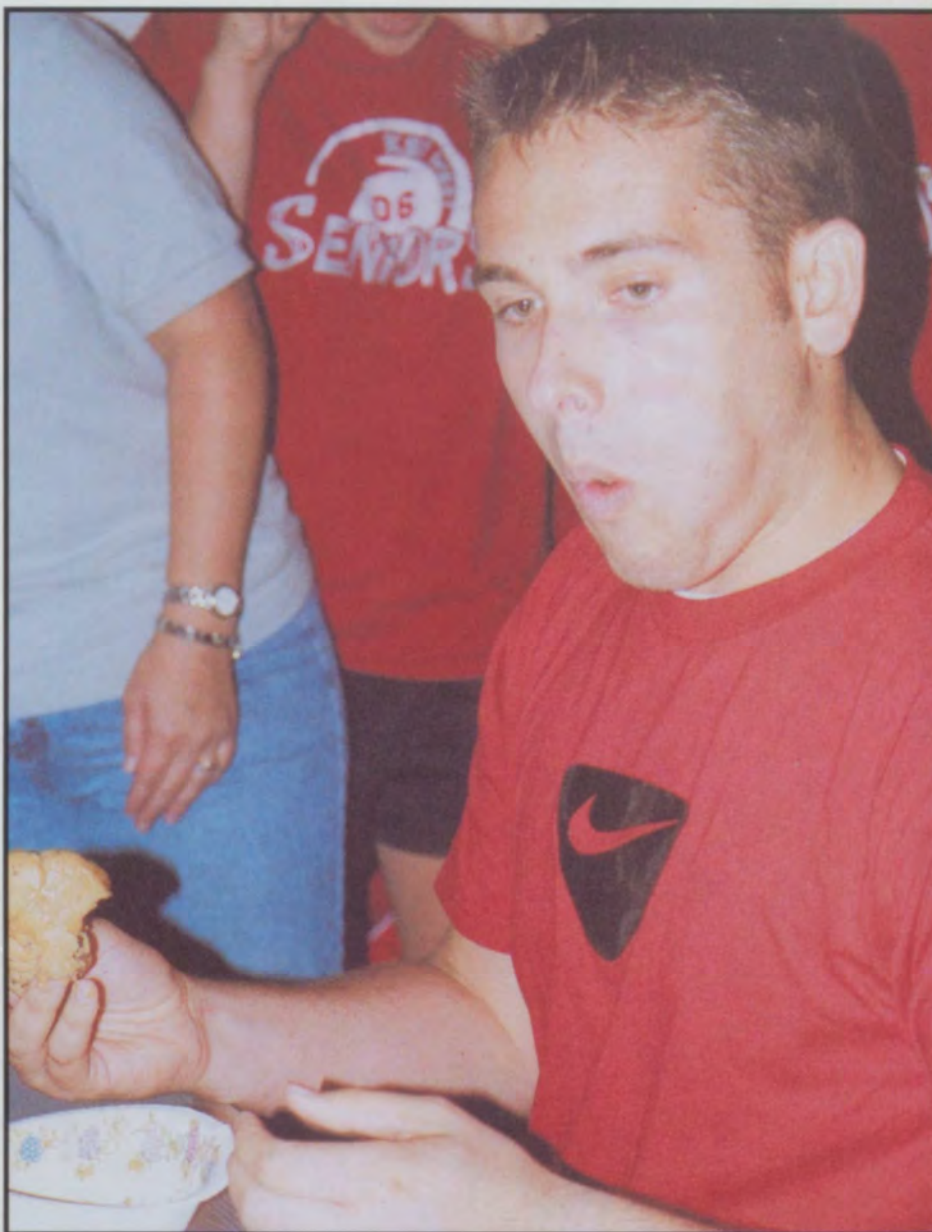

A Classic Clash !

How does that taste?
Madison Labrada eats an onion after swallowing tomato sauce
in the eating contest.

What a face! Senior class
President Paul dePoo eats a ball of cookie dough as fast as he can. He takes the win for the Class of 2006.

Faster! The seniors go as fast as they can to pass the balloon under during the over under contest.

Chug It! Ashley
Johnson chugs a bottle of tomato juice for her class.

Tomato sauce on the side. Michael Hernandez slurps down the sauce in the spaghetti dinner contest.

Trying to catch up to the seniors, Kristin Baumgarten drinks a can of V-8.

During the over-under, Steven Monsalvatge watches Ashley Henriguez pass the balloon over her head.

Cheering them on. Megan Turso, Reinaldo Suarez, Justin Budde, Arlette Rodriguez and Janice Sanchez-Ruiz have the best view as their team competes in another task.

Trying Their Best!

Danielle Hills, Victoria Jankowski, and Yanessa Barroso cheer on the sophomore class.

Richard Cormack tries not to think about what he is eating for his class.

A group of sophomores wait in anticipation for Francesca Phillips to pass the balloon on.

Hurry! Michael Hartley ties a balloon for the balloon popping contest.

Eat up! Freshman Cassia McGee eats onions in the eating contest. It doesn't look like she likes the taste of those.

Passing her balloon back, Amanda Talbott makes sure Briana Marinitti gets it fast.

Pace yourself. Freshman class president Alexia Degraffenreid eats chunks of cookie dough and competes against the other class presidents.

This year's Clash of the Classes almost didn't happen. Thanks to Interact, the clashes went on. Clash of the Classes was held in a new location, the high school court yard. Thanks to Hurricane Wilma, the football field and the bleachers were in no shape to hold an event. The classes went head to head to see who was the best. Events included an eating contest of things you would put in spaghetti, over-under, balloon popping, drinking contest, and the class presidents eating chunks of cookie dough. The senior class took the victory. The juniors and sophomores had to go against one another to see who would come in second. the sophomores won the tie breaker coming in second followed by the juniors then the freshmen.

Go Freshmen! The class of 2009 celebrates after their first victory in the under-over contest.

Phillip Baucom carefully organizes the DVD section at Blockbuster Video.

Need a shampoo? Gabriella Gonzalez washes a clients hair at Hot Cuts Saturday morning.

Jill Case calls for assistance while restocking clothes during her shift at Express.

Pier 1 Imports employee, Irina Baker, assists a customer on making a decision on a Christmas ornament.

Out in The World

While many athletes spend their time running through endless drills after school, other students take part in after school jobs. Whether it's washing hair, scooping ice cream or making reservations at Days Inn, a little extra spending money is always good to have. Students who participate in after school jobs learn to balance their time between both work and school. They are exposed to real life situations, thus preparing them for the future.

While working at Margaritaville Cafe, Caryn Desatnick carefully checks her list as she seats her parties.

Daniel Garcia answers the phones at Days Inn while booking hotel rooms.

After mixing strawberries, bananas and orange sherbet at Planet Smoothie, Naomi Andrews pours the mixture into a cup.

Kaya Lydamore adds whipped cream to her hot fudge sundae while working at Mattheessen's the 4th of July Ice Cream Parlor.

Leaving Their Legacy

What will you miss about Key West High School?

1. "All of my friends, since we are all leaving." Andrea Dean
2. "All the fun times and memories." Tiffany Albury
3. "Friday night football games and my dad announcing." Jacqueline Goldstein
4. "I will miss FCA, memories and lessons I learned along the way." Danica Doctoche.

How do you want to be remembered?

1. "As the kicker on the football team." Westley Muir
2. "The loud one who yells at everyone." Jaclyn Gilman

How do you remember your first day of High School?

1. "I was scared." Alison Tejada
2. "I felt alone." Alison Leamard
3. "Everything was really big, old and nasty." David Fraga
4. "Everyone thought I was in sixth grade. It was just bad." Matthew Vison

If you could change one thing from the past four years, what would it be?

1. "I wouldn't of skipped so much class." Ivy Anderson
2. "I would want to be involved in more sports." Alyse Stehly

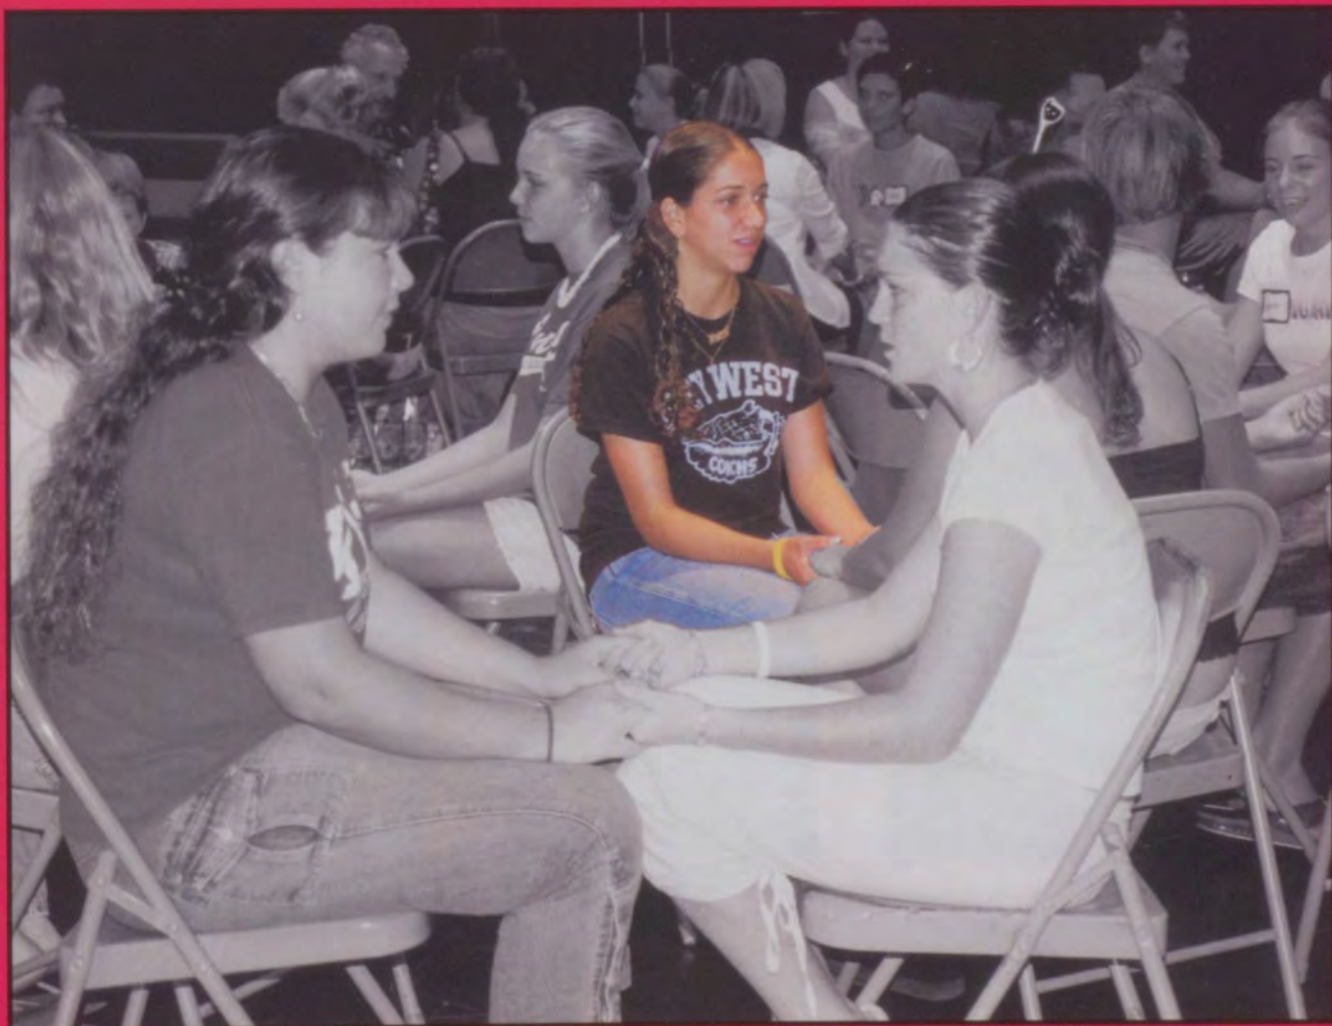

The time has come for the class of 2006 to look back on what they have done over the past four years. They have memories ranging from flawless victories to devastating defeats. Now it is time for them to leave their legacy. Now, looking back, here is what they have to say.

The next generation

On the first day of our high school careers we wondered what our classes would be like, who our teachers would be, and how much homework we would have. But most of all we wondered what the other students would be like. Most of our unforgettable memories will be of friendships made over the years and how the next generation has made a powerful impact on our lives, from helping us in class to making us laugh.

The next level

A large part of who we are and what we accomplish is reflected in the challenges of academics. Our studies lay the foundation to the path of our future. The demand of knowledge creates character of mind, body and soul that leads to our quest to the next level.

Testing, Testing, 123

Junior Tessa Scribner hurries to complete her task before the end of class.

Shh! Andy Mendez needs quiet to concentrate and pass his AP Government quiz.

Being a high school student, one would notice that tests are a major part of ones school career. Tests help determine ones overall grade in a class and shows off the progression one has made. It exhibits the determination of students and illustrates the unfortunate stressful side of school. Tests, whether wanted or needed, are a part of school we all have gotten used to.

Principles of Technology teacher Mr. Ray concentrates on grading papers so he can get them back to his students.

Beyond expectations and above average refers not only to students but to teachers. Their lessons are planned to perfection with every inch of educational material forced into a fifty minute period. In chemistry, labs are performed and new creations are analyzed and in biology the Earth's adventures are explored. The teachers are determined to make sure the students completely comprehend the lesson before another begins. Above the normal and beyond limitations, teachers definitely deserve more than they receive.

Coming out on top is what everyone would like to do. Our futures seem to be shining as brightly as the sun with thoughts of attending college, vocational and even technical schools. As we leap forward in our lives, we come out ahead of the rest; going beyond expectations and beyond our wildest dreams.

Senior Sarah Frederick pays attention and stays on task in class. Distractions take away from understanding.

Sitting back and relaxing, Carlos Villegas briefly looks through his textbook before intense class activity begins.

Speak slower please! Mr. Clearman lectures in his physics honors class while the students briskly take notes.

Ahead of the rest

Through all of life's experiences, the best is yet to come. Sometimes we have had bad days while others are simply great. The unforgettable moments of high school could never be relived but always be remembered. But for the most part, we try to enjoy our days with our peers and live our lives to the fullest.

Chemistry can be so much fun! Juniors Alison Baker and Sharmika Brooks find a laugh in the wild world of science.

Senior Irina Baker seems to enjoy physics more than others. Irina always seems to have a positive attitude in class and a willingness to learn.

Although this year has been filled with a series of unfortunate events, progress still continues. With events such as hurricane Katrina, Rita and disastrous Wilma many days of the physical school year has been taken away. Even though these events plagued the Keys with many students and teachers losing all that they own; nothing has stopped the Conchs. We continue to remodel and remake our lives the best way possible. Conch pride and true school spirit continues and shall forever stay.

What we do

One part of high school is joining clubs. In this southernmost city, a club is provided for just about every activity students enjoy doing. The clubs cater to the individual interests of the diverse population at our school. There are clubs for community service, music, dance, and spearfishing. At Key West High participating in the community is what we do.

Treasurer Kristin Baumgarden takes attendance before a meeting

With class leaders involved, Student Council embarks on their decision making process. They have done things from the crown for homecoming queen to always having anticipated pep rallies. But this year was not without it's setbacks. The hurricane postponed the homecoming dance and game. Cierra Waker says, "Many issues had to be tackled in a short amount of time; however the members, with their immense Conch spirit, were determined to make this year the best it could, considering the circumstances."

Seniors Alee Stehly, Brittney Taylor and Jasmine Stafford work hard on building their float.

Having a hardworking, dedicated group of executive board members is an important part of senior year. The class of 2006 comes together every year to raise money for the class, make spectacular floats that awe the people at the Homecoming Parade, and make great decisions in determining class privileges and events. Knowing you can depend on your classmates to always come through is a wonderful advantage for this graduating class.

The seniors yell out a triumphant battle cry after finishing before the juniors at Clash of the Classes.

Forth row: Sponsor Mr. Witt, Rudy Wilder, Zachary McGrow, Ezra Josephson, Joe Wells, Robert Lamberson, Edward Cuneo, Nicholas Batty, Sara Rodriguez, Erika Stokes, Christian Gatti

This year the Junior Executive Board was very successful. They all worked together in creating a beautiful float to amaze the judges. Much hard work was put into their intricate masterpiece, which helped them to win first place in the traditional homecoming parade. Even though at Clash of the Classes they came in third place overall, they were able to win first in the "Chug-A-Lug" competition. All in all, Junior Executive Board had quite a successful year.

Chug, Chug!

The Sophomore Executive Board is a group of talented and bright students. The class of 2008 has done an amazing job this year. The "Where Dreams Come True" float they put together was great. They also came in second place, beating the junior class in Clash of the Classes. People haven't expected much from the 2008 class, so far we have surprised them all. With two more years to go, the class of 2008 will do many more great things.

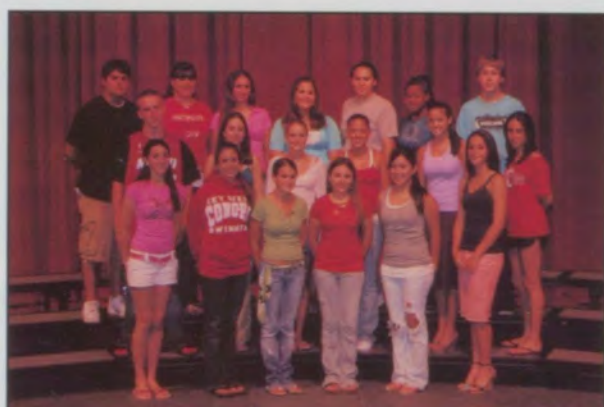

The Freshmen Class Executive Board is a hard working group. Being Freshmen isn't easy. But they have done it, with their skit during the Homecoming Parade and all of their school spirit during Clash of the Classes. This class has really shown what it means to work together and have Conch Pride.

With lots of excitement the freshmen class cheer when their class is called.

Front Row: Sarah Rodriguez, Noelle Lark, Alexa Walterson, Christine Leonard, Callie Ford, Kaya Lydamore

Second Row: Jesse Hammers, Chelsea Niles, Jamieson Little, Scarlett Williams, Amanda Talbott, Alexandra Hagel

Third Row: Pedro Arencibia, Brianna Masiello, Briana Marinitti, Alexia Degraffenreid, Cassandra McGee, Jaquilla Johnson

Making the Difference

A group of freshmen, come together to let each other know how they are there for one another.

Sophomore Janea Peterson makes an open apology to a friend.

Freshman, Shea Reger, jumps up in excitement when he is complimented on his good qualities.

In a school where everybody has their own cliques, it is hard to make new friends with different people. Be the Change Club is trying to change that. The students of Key West High go to meetings and once a year in September, have a Challenge day. Students from our school and grown-ups join in activities to make new friends with people that they normally won't give a second glance at and help them speak their mind and share their pain. When asked how Be the Change changed him, Shea Reger answered, "I feel it has made me more open with my feelings and easier to talk to my friends and others." Be the Change has touched almost everyone.

Among the many students at Key West High School are the academically motivated members of National Honor Society. NHS is a service based club, in which the students help out the community in exchange for community service hours. Members have to maintain an unweighted grade point average of a 3.5 to stay in the club." NHS gives you good experiences to carry through life and it also makes you a well rounded person," says Dillon McLean.

Two years ago, Mr. Fant started the Literati Club and now is turning it into a National English Honor Society. Protecting Freedom

While hanging posters around school, junior James Riley spreads the word about upcoming Amnesty activities.

Planning this year's activities, Trisha Lowe discusses how the freedom of a captured journalist should be the club's main goal.

Officers: Vice President - Hannah Hjerpe-Schroeder, President - Trisha Lowe, and Club Sponsor Mrs. McGill.

There have been several new clubs established at school this year and Amnesty International is one of them. Amnesty International is an organization dedicated to lobbying for human rights world-wide. The student group at KWHHS is working on several projects in an attempt to help those who are being deprived of their human rights. These projects include the freedom to be happy, fair trials and the practice of freedom of speech.

Carpe Historium is composed of students who travel overseas to appreciate other nations cultures and histories. This year, the group traveled along the Danube, visiting six countries over a two week period. "The trip was amazing we visited numerous castles, churches, and memorials. It was a great experience, and it really opened our eyes to how different America is compared to other countries," said senior Lauren Roberts who attended the trip last summer.

While on the oldest fairest wheel in the world, the students pose for a quick snap shot.

Discovering history

With hopes of becoming a police officer in the future, being a member of police explorers starts the students off on that path. They work out scenarios in their community. The group also travels to state conferences, week long competitions and practices at the range. There are six members in this career starting group. "We all have a lot of fun and are very close. This is something we all love to do," says Kieman Blasberg.

Mistys are an elite group in our high school choir. They are consisted of all girls and are well rounded in singing, dancing, and choreography. They performed at all the eight choir concerts and at the Noon Rotary. This year all the girls have really bonded together. "We really have united as a whole, in class, off and on stage, and it has helped us to perform better," says Katelyn Oropeza. We will be looking forward to many more great performances.

While singing the melody, Randi Reams, Gabrielle Lopez and Stephanie Wade show off their dancing abilities.

Starting off fresh, this years concert choir is made up of sophomores, juniors, and seniors. They sing songs that consist of show tunes, religious pieces and cultural arrangements. Not limiting themselves to just singing, the choir is also known for their dance numbers. "It's a nice balance of the serious and fun aspects of stage performance," said junior Brett Estenoz.

To start off the show, the concert choir sings as the first of six groups to be on stage.

Singing their hearts out, Megan Malgrat and Kayla Rivas show the crowd how good the sophomore choir is.

Sophomore choir is a mix of guys and girls from last year's freshmen choir. Being in choir this year is a lot different then their freshmen year. Amanda Malott says "There were only girls in one class, guys in another, and now we have come together to show each other and the community our talents."

The Next Big Thing!

The girls freshman choir got off to a great start this year. They had lots of girls willing to sing their hearts out for everyone to hear. They went the whole year without a glitch and were fantastic in the concerts. They had a great first year of choir at Key West High School and hopefully, we will see more of them in the future.

No matter what happens, this squad sticks together. This year the Key West Competition Cheerleaders have overcome many obstacles. Having half the squad quit on them and reworking the routine two days before going away to a competition because a member got sick, are just two of the many disadvantages they faced. The squad went from 22 girls to 14 in just one day. With that happening, they had to rework the whole routine to run with only 14 girls. It was hard work but they pulled it off with early Saturday morning practices and double practices after school. The KWH competition cheerleaders give it their all. It doesn't matter how many bruises they get, these girls don't give up. They might get hurt, they might get tired, they might get frustrated, but one thing is for sure, these girls do it BIG!

Flyers Alyssa Averette, Joelyn Gilman, and Ashlie Hernandez, cheer in the air. Being a flyer is hard work, it takes a great deal of balance and concentration.

Developing Leadership

The next big thing

In Key West, playing sports is a conch tradition. It brings friends, family, and the community together to cheer and celebrate success. Our school is composed of athletes driven by determination and desire that will guide us to the next big thing.

No "I" in Team

The Varsity Football team comes in for a huddle to discuss the next play.

Running back Laurence Marius explodes downfield making a great gain for the Conchs.

Coach Robert James and quarterback Arthur Grizzle have a short discussion with the team during a timeout.

"Tackle 'em!" To make sure the opponent doesn't get the first down, Devin Gilman makes a great tackle.

Quarterback Arthur Grizzle pitches the football to one of his teammates.

The Varsity Football team saw many new faces this year, but managed to come together as one. They started out a little rough, but ended the season on a good note. Furthermore, the boys were able to win games by devoting much of their time to the sport. Whenever the players weren't practicing they were either working out or watching football tapes.

"Out of bounds!" Junior Avery Gardner tackles a player from the opposing team with full force.

The defensive line for the Conchs gets down and ready to tackle.

With having mainly freshmen, Coach David Gootee says, " Now is the time to prepare for varsity." With new plays and tactics, the team is working hard for a successful season. " We are a young and improving team. " The hard work that they put in this year will pay off in years to come.

Come on girls, you can do it! Juniors Lauren Arise and Erica Lipner-Bernstein go to save the ball.

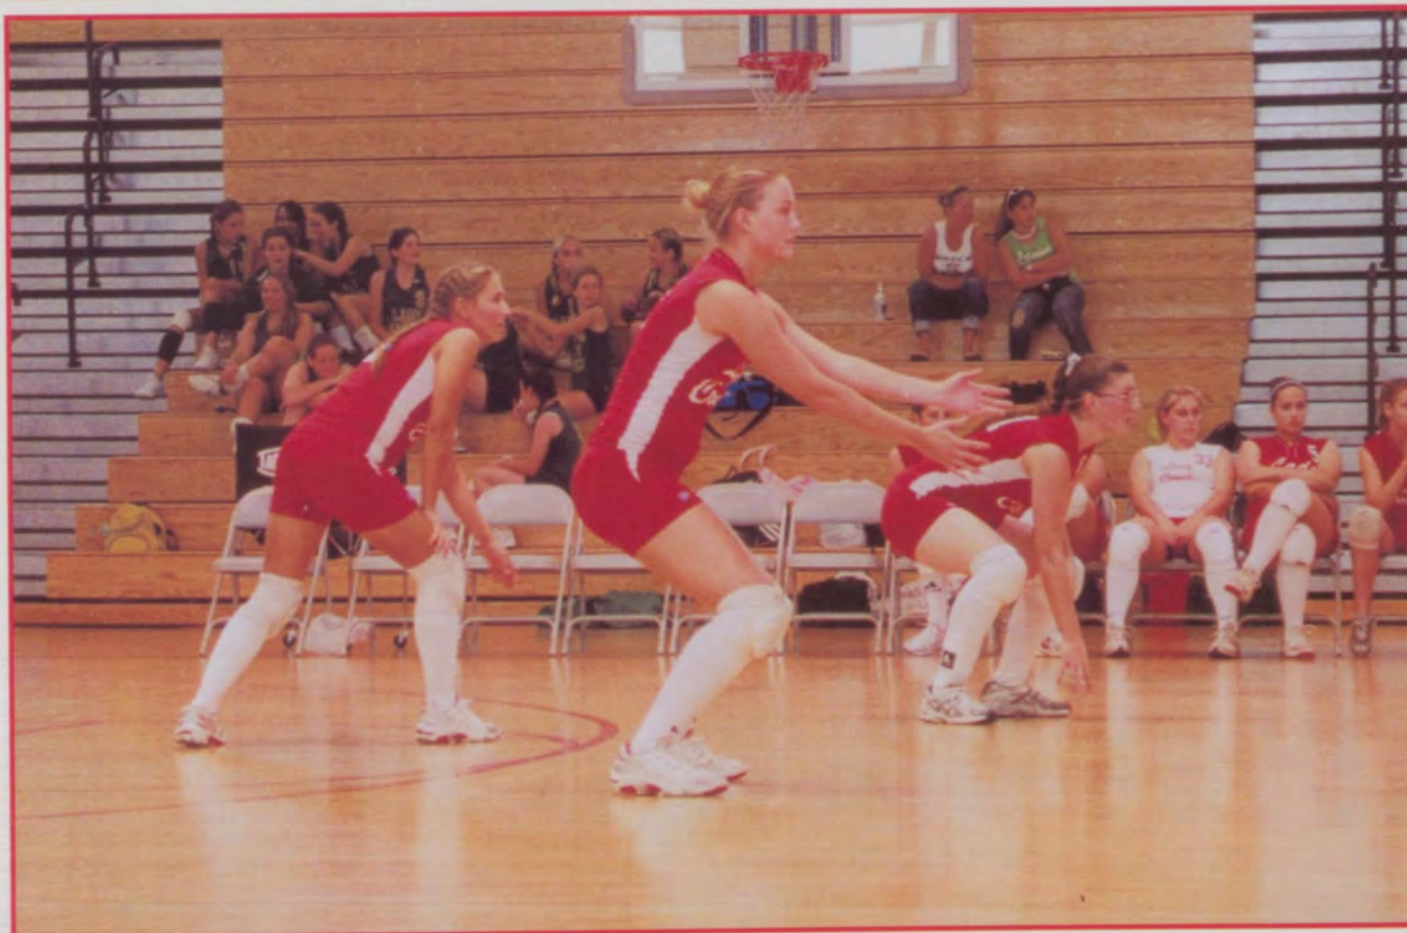

This year the Varsity volleyball team has shined through by showing leadership and having fun. With all their effort, they pulled together and proved to all of us that the Lady Conchs can accomplish their goals. With determination, dedication and hard work they can do anything they set their minds to.

Serve it Up! Erica Lipner-Bernstein goes to serve the ball for the Key West High Lady Conchs.

Get Set! Samantha Parker, Carly Rivet, and Lauren Arise get ready for the serve by the other team.

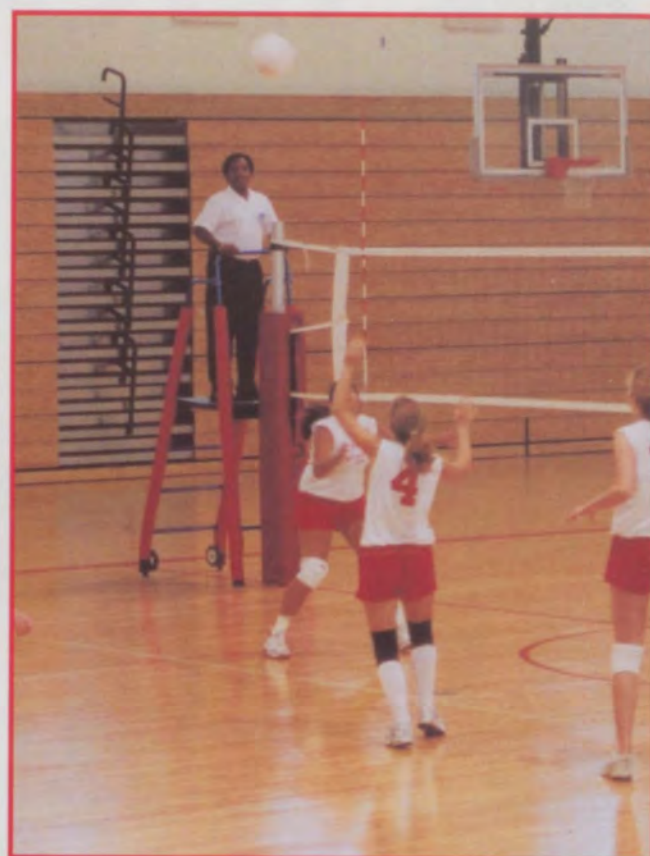

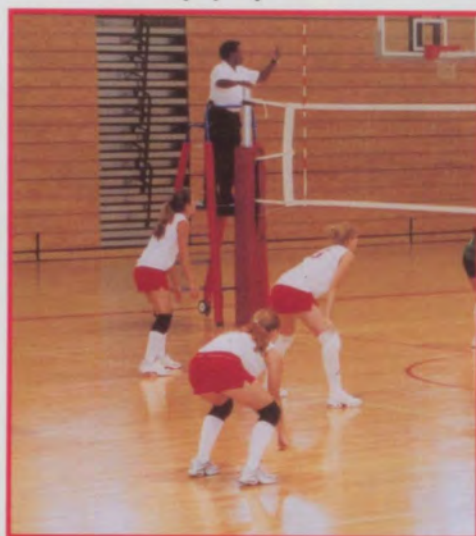

Despite all of the odds the girls of the JV Volleyball team faced this year, they had a lot of spirit and chemistry to get through and play out the season. "JV actually had their own coach this year, which was so much better because we could work more on our skills," says team player Jessica Carey. "Practices were really tiring though because the coach wanted us to work really hard to get the skills down." Hard work and persistence really pays off.

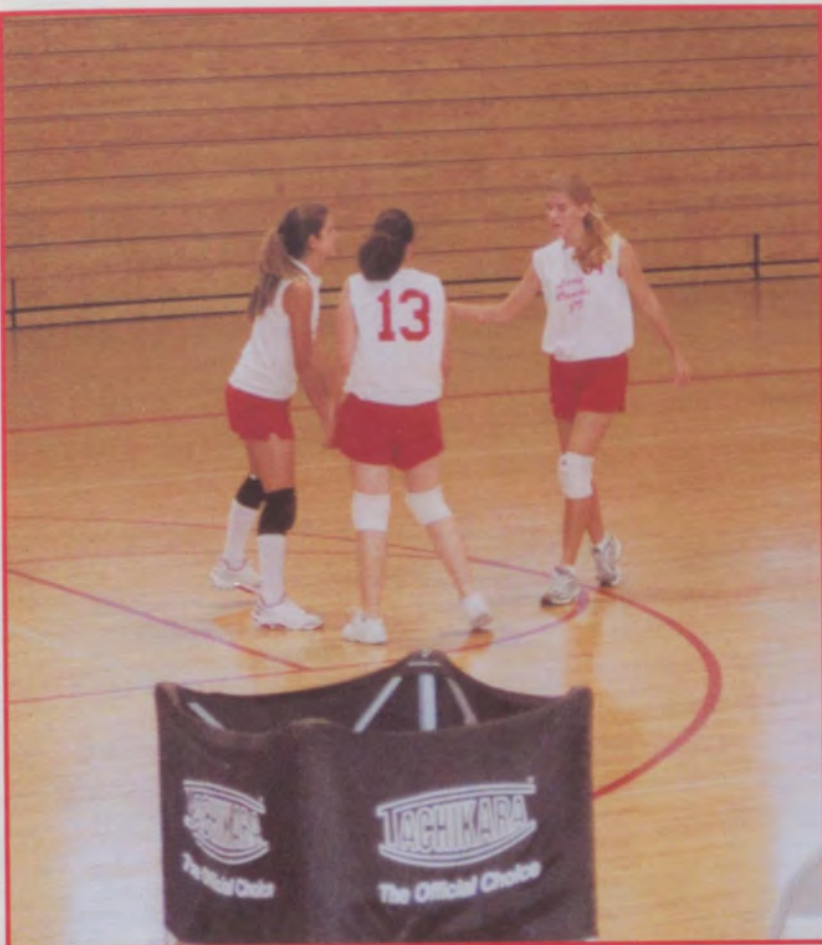

To make sure they stay on top, the girls get set and wait for the serve.

"1, 2, 3...Teamwork!" The team comes together to discuss their next play.

To make sure the ball gets over, Jaclyn Arias & Chelsea Moody both attempt to make the shot.

The golf team this year is now a combination of boys and girls. Arlette Rodriguez says, "There are six girls and we are building up a good team." They had high hopes with returning seniors and promising freshmen. Junior, Benjamin Blacow says, "We didn't have as good as year as we expected, but it was still fun." In all the golf team really tried and had a good time doing it.

Junior Victoria Phillips is showing off her strength at butterfly stroke.

During the backstroke competition, Jenna Moller tries her hardest to beat her opponents.

Key West High is definitely making a splash this year. With new freshmen, the swim team is better then ever, especially with the older classmates' experience to teach them. The swim team is making their best appearance and is energized and ready to swim. They are ready to show their skills. These swimmers will leave the other schools in the mist.

Christian Gatti finishes the first leg of the relay as his teammate waits on the block for him to touch the wall.

Our boys varsity soccer team is one of a kind. This year's team is made up of all grades with lots of talent. They have no problem showing off their talents and practicing everyday. They work really hard and it shows in their games. They should go really far this year.

Stretching for the ball,
Brooks Saunders takes the ball away from the other team.

By making a human wall,

Second Row: Monica Bertrum, Patricia Wise, Katly Hopkins, Victoria Commander, Chrissy Mendez, Hannie Blindenbacher, Zoraida Vincent, Kara Haack.

It's Zoraida Vincent getting ready to kick a practice goal before the game.

The Varsity girls soccer team has lots of talented players. The team has lost some key players from last year, but that is not going to stop them from winning every game. Last year's season was one of the best they have ever had. They went the farthest in girls soccer history, but this season they also have a good chance to make the final four in regionals.

Making it look easy, Amanda Alfonso swiftly maneuvers the soccer ball between the opposing team.

The Junior Varsity girls soccer team has lots of fresh new faces this year. This team practices long and hard, with full determination to succeed on and off the field. They work very hard while they achieve their goals for the season to win as a team.

Patently waiting to receive the ball, Katrina Dovale gets in her position.

Going for the Goal !

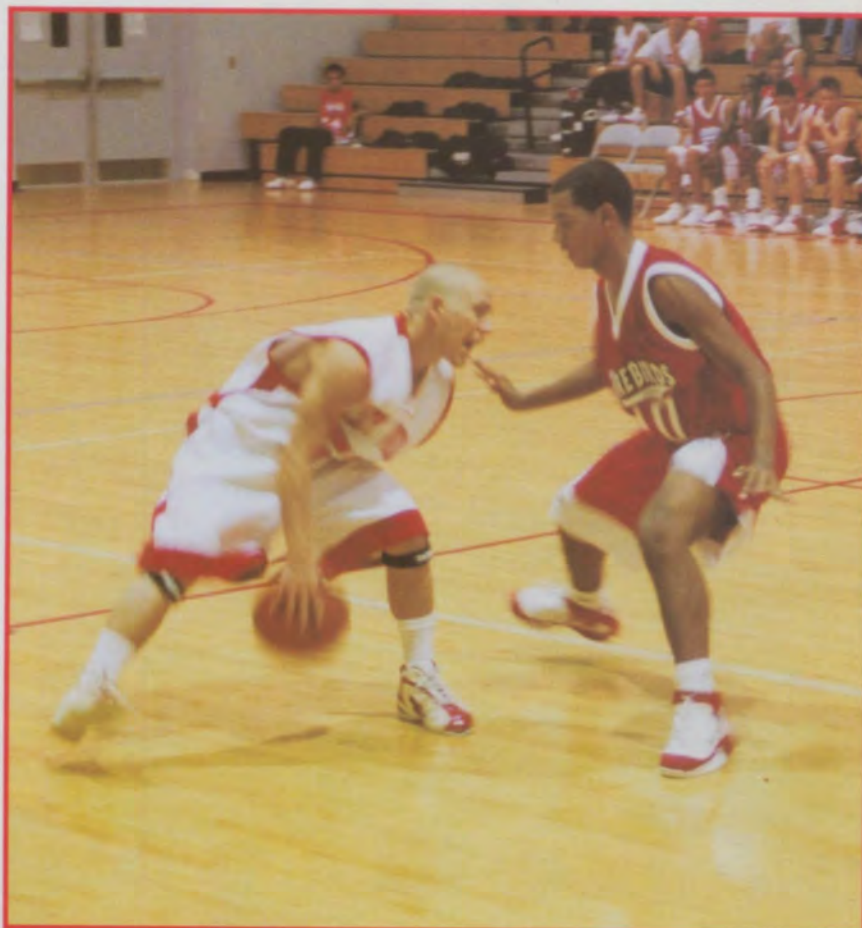

Take That Ball To The Hoop!

Junior Michael Gallagher hustles down the court in an attempt to put the Conch's ahead.

Playing intense offense, Cole Mayer attempts to go around the opponent and keep possession of the ball.

At the top of the key, Senior Robert Spottswood searches for a teammate to pass the ball to.

Two Points! Senior Ian Shine makes a great shot.

Junior Ronald Balden goes up to try to retrieve the rebound.

The varsity boys basketball team faced two difficult challenges this season. They got a new head coach and started with a brand new team with only one returning senior to lead the way. Their strategy was not to win, but to form a team and a bond. They won games, but most of all they learned how to be a team!

Waiting for the right time, the three point shot is in his sights.

Juniors Michael Gallagher and Fidel Multy try to block the opposing team from making a basket.

The junior varsity basketball team has done better than anyone had expected. They practice constantly, everyday after school. Running up and down the court and going over drills, takes a lot out of them, but the don't complain, because they know they have to get the job done. They play great games that are exciting to watch. With all their talent, we wonder what they're going to do next.

Huddle In Boys! Coach Clark calls in the team during the time out to go over the teams strategies to win the game.

Making his way down the court, Jonathan Daza dribbles the ball down the court pass the Firebirds.

Throw It In! Sophomore Jaxon Coleman looks for an open teammate so he can throw the ball in and keep the game going.

Shoot It Through The Hoop!

Freshman Phillip Spottswode dribbles the ball down the court, while Josh Berkenmeyer blocks a member from the opposing team.

Take that ball to the hoop! Freshman Darius Durdin hustles to the hoop to make a basket.

Pass It! Freshman Brianna Masiello passes the ball so Highland Prep Can't get the ball.

Get it Through the Hoop! Kristen Babich jumps and shoots the ball, making it in, and scoring two points for the Conchs.

Lady Baller's

Get It To The Hoop! Tiana McIntosh works her way to the basket but the opposing team gets in her way.

Free Shot! Samantha Campbell shoots the ball from the foul line after being fouled by the other team. Samantha was successful and scored an extra point for the Lady Conchs.

Dribbling down the court, Arquedia Bousquet passes an opposing player, running towards the basket.

The starting line-up sprints onto the court. With determination in their eyes, the varsity girls basketball team isn't looking for a win. Knowing that winning isn't everything, the team practices on great teamwork and dedication. "Without the effort the win is worthless," says junior Kiara James.

Huddle up! Coach Ferebee brings the girls together for a quick talk about their offensive attack.

The talented Junior Varsity girls basketball team was a very hardworking and dedicated group of girls this year. They practiced hard and in those games when they really needed to push, it paid off. Having a small team leaves only so many options during games, but these girls expressed spirit and unity consistently throughout the season.

Foul! Daphne Barnett, looks at the referee in hope that the call wasn't against her.

Not letting the tough defense phase her, Alicia Arrazola runs right past her match.

To get his opponent onto the mat sophomore Ralph Major goes for a tackle and arm chop move.

Junior Jack Walker uses his body strength to back his opponent off of him.

With both returning and new team members, the wrestling team set forth all their efforts to make this a successful season. "After months of training in the weight room and practice every day, all the sweat and hard work pays off when you are able to pin down your opponent within seconds of the whistle being blown," says Jack Walker. With victories, losses and only one home tournament, the team would agree that they had a successful and fun season this year.

With just seconds until the buzzer, Derick Rhainge tries to quickly flip his opponent over him and onto the mat.

Waiting for the whistle to blow, freshmen Brian Lynch keeps his opponent in a sturdy head lock.

The boys tennis team is composed of talented young athletes who are adamant about practicing everyday for hours to become the best players they can be. The coaches looked forward to the season with high hopes and were not disappointed in anyway, when the team won the Conch Classic for the first time since it was created.

In Side The Line

With her strong backhand Katherine Tycoliz leaps for the ball and hits it hard over the net.

Before their game, Gabba Scammacia and Hannah Findlay practice their service plays.

Samantha Parker stocks up on balls before she starts her vigorous practice.

With strong girls who have the determination to win, the tennis team was able to conquer another successful season. This year the girls worked hard to do their best. With every victory their game became stronger and they proved to be the best. They practiced everyday and never gave up. All their hard work payed off and the girls proved to be a tough team to beat.

As this years track season approached, several concerns filled the air. After losing most of their top runners, a lot was expected from the returning and new members. Accepting the fact that it was going to take hard work to get them where they needed to be, dedication was their top priority. Conchs are known for being very competitive and it all showed when the meets began.

Senior Laurence Marius takes it for the team as he runs top speed to the finish line.

Ryan Gomez throws the shot put. He uses all his might to achieve a great distance.

Obviously giving it his all, Clayton Strachn clears the next height during the high jump.

Showing great endurance, senior Zachary Black keeps a steady pace in his long distance event.

Freshman Jason Morales and senior Roman Orofino run their best in the 200 meter dash in attempts to get first place.

Running for the gold

Putting their best foot forward

Using amazing strength, Hali Lombardi makes her ascent over the bar in the pole vault.

Athlete Karolina Nowak propels herself over the high jump bar.

While Ivy Anderson hands the baton off, Sele Gordon starts to run to catch up with her opponents.

Senior Chelsea Pearl-Mihalinec completes her hurdles while Lea Moller flies over hers to catch up.

Sophomore Gianna Orofino strides ahead of her teammates dominating in the 400 meter dash.

Every stride taken is backed up with hours of practice and dedication. "As a team we are doing better than many predicted," says Senior Sele' Gordon. The girls track team dominated in the field events and blew the competition out of their blocks in the running events. The team puts their best foot forward at every event in which they partake, and run for the gold.

Here Dillon McLean and Aileen Garrido demonstrate their stamina as they compete in one of many distance events.

Going the distance Kaley Green, Noelle Lark, and Arantzazu Cruz make their way to the finish line.

Baseball has been a longtime community favorite. Key West is known for its success and the hard work to achieve it. Coming into a new season with a new head coach, Coach Menendez, the boys practiced long hours every day. Before the season started, they were up at 5 o'clock before school to lift weights. Their hard work pays off during the games. They show their skills in front of all their fans that come to support them. These boys have high hopes and with their skills and talent they can make it happen.

Running into home, center fielder Anthony Lopez scores another run for the Fighting Conchs.

Santi Arencibia makes eye contact with the catcher before the pitch. He came on strong after sitting out a few games due to injury.

Junior Louis Pazo prepares to receive the pitch. Catching is one of the hardest positions in baseball, but Pazo is great at it.

Going under the ball senior Matthew Roberts catches a pop fly, getting the first out of the inning.

Out Of The Park!

Batter Up!

Waiting for the wind-up, Radier Gonzalez takes his position in the batter's box.

With a hit into the outfield, Kyle Lupine rounds first base and checks to see if its safe to continue to second.

Freshman Noah Josephson fields the ball at second base during game.

The junior varsity baseball team is a group of talented boys that work hard. With practice every day, they work to get better for the games on the weekends. They may be young, but they have a lot of talent, and with the coaches pushing them to do their best they will only improve. Coming from little league and going to the high school team is a big adjustment, but with time the boys will show us what they've got. With determination, experience and encouragement, the junior varsity is sure to have a great season.

An established freshman on the team, Lindsay Yochum practices with Coach Mike Commander prior to a game.

After months of preparation - even years for some, the varsity softball team embarks on a new season filled with hope. "I am very proud of the team and the progress we have made throughout the year. We plan on doing big things this year with our new found squad," said senior starter Mariana Cardoze.

Right Fielder Jacqueline Smith practices her swing.

Safe at home! On a passed ball, Brianna Masiello steals home plate.

Busy working on a strategy for the next set of pitches, Kayla Reams meets with Mary Gaston on the mound.

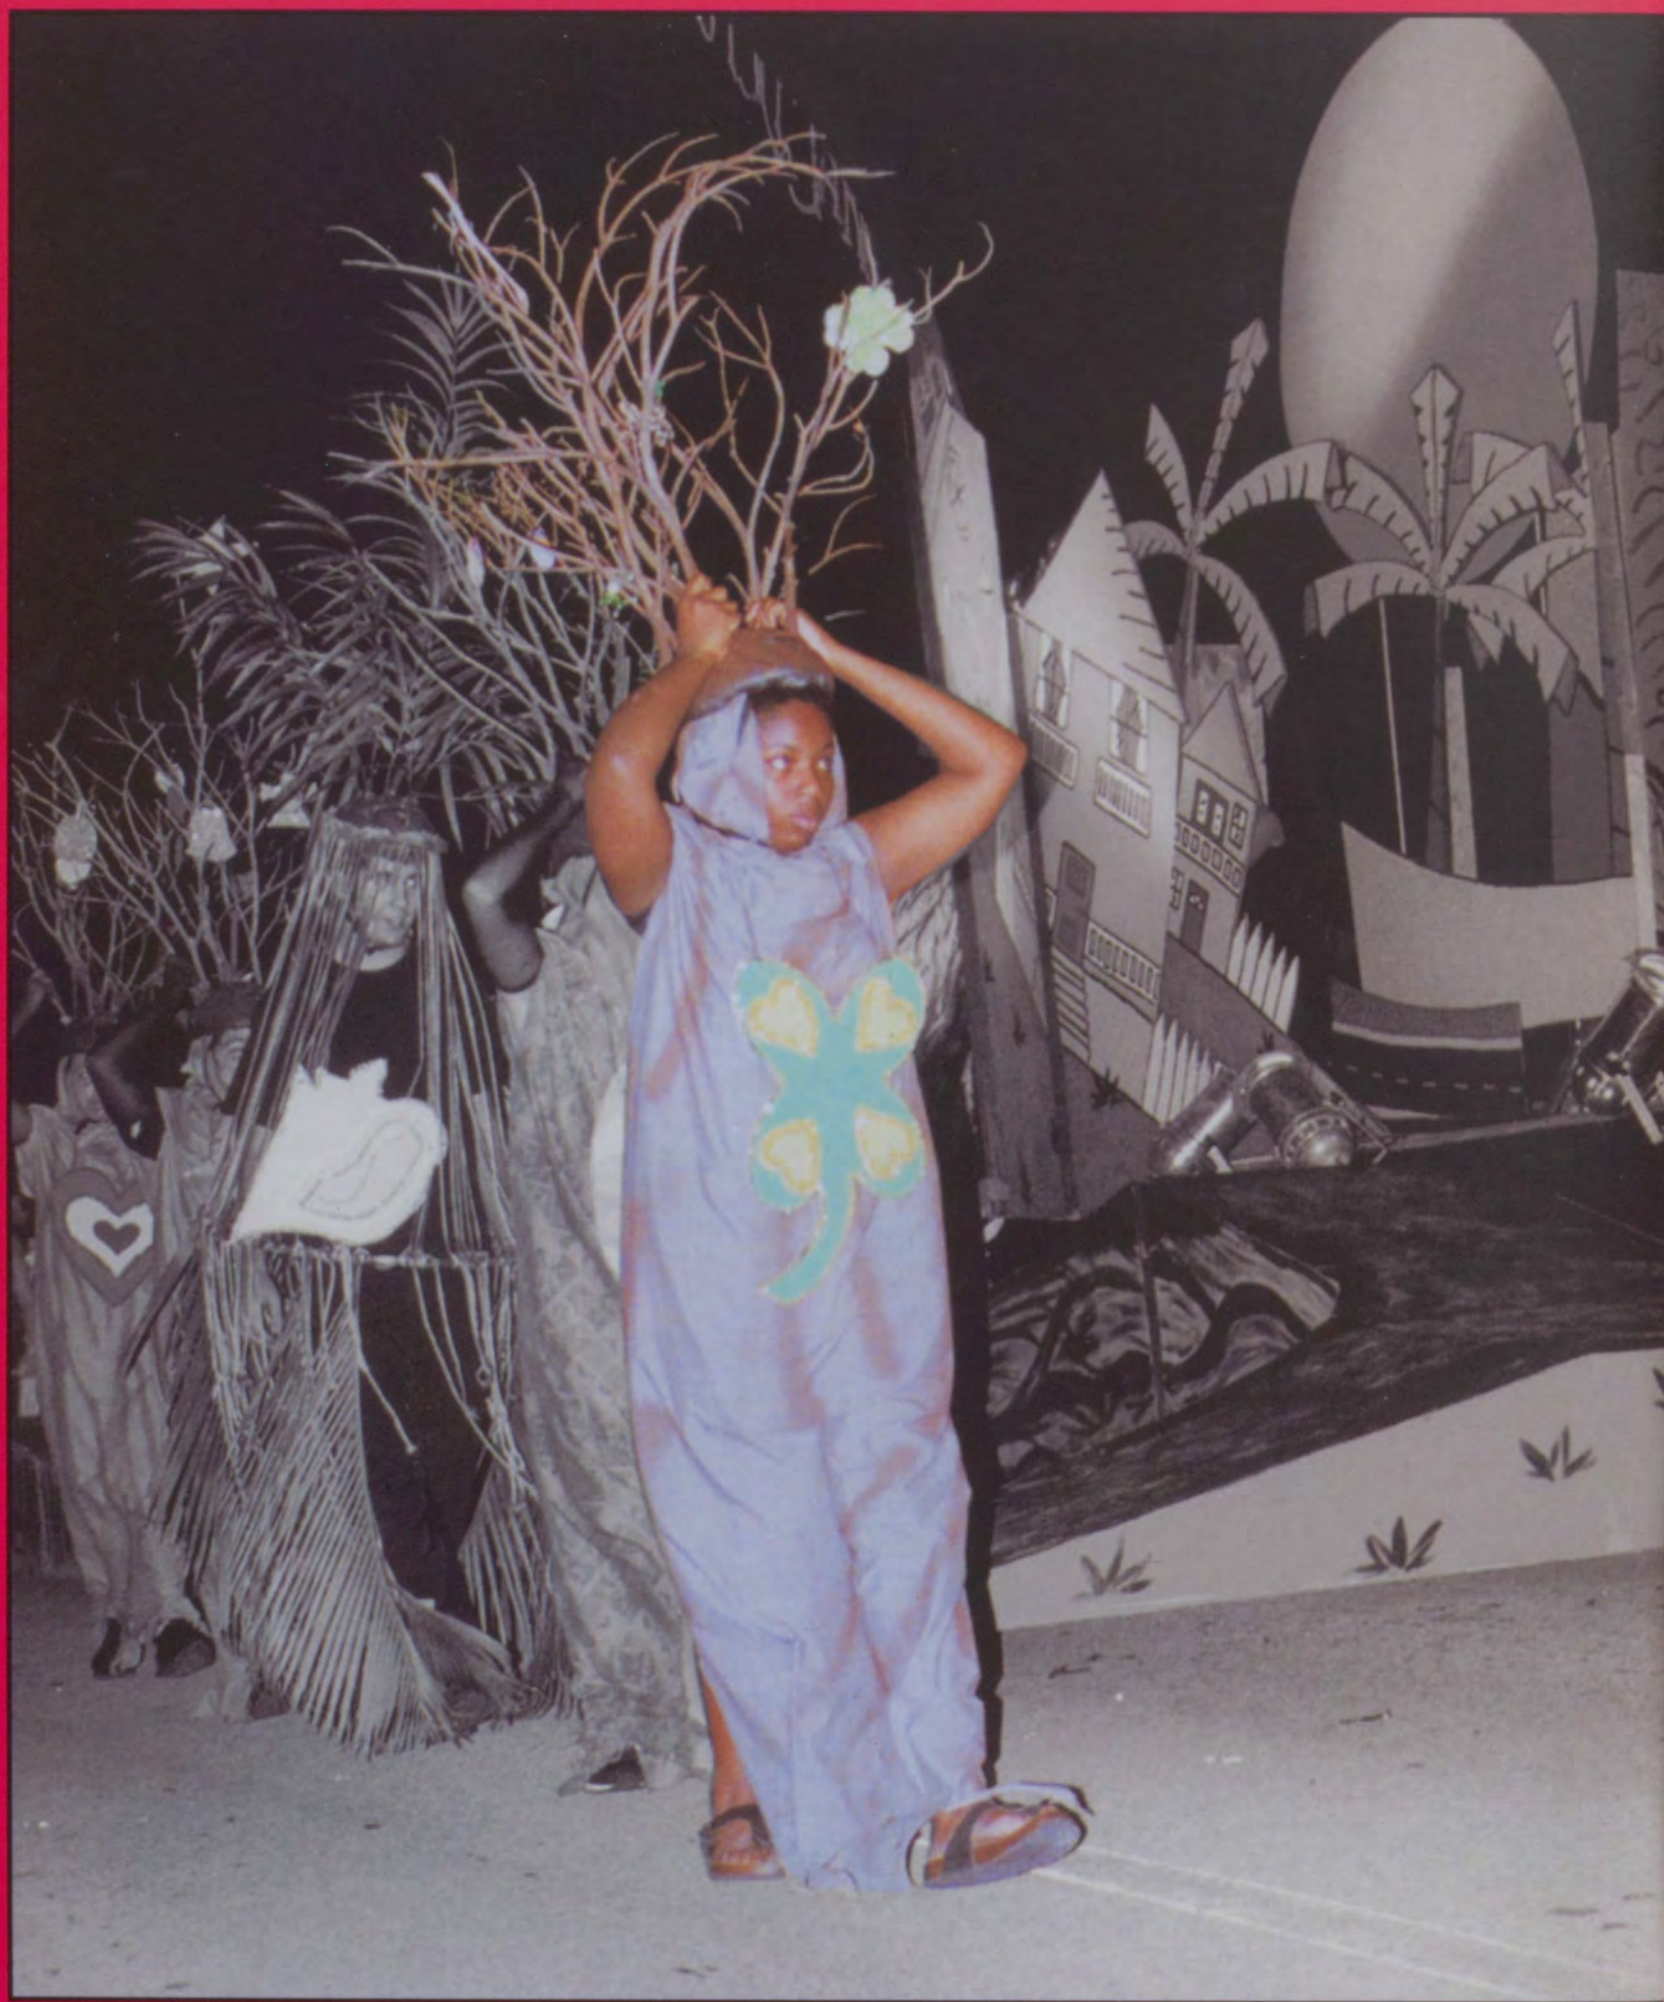

This year the junior varsity softball team has come a long way. With a majority of the team being new, the veteran players worked hard to make everyone have a close bond. Throughout the season the girls worked together to win many games. In all, the team had an extremely successful season.

Captains of the game, Alicia Arrazola and Brianna Masiello wait to meet with the umpire and members of the opposing team.

It's game time! Pitcher Kristen Babich works hard to strike out the next batter as her teammates prepare their defense.

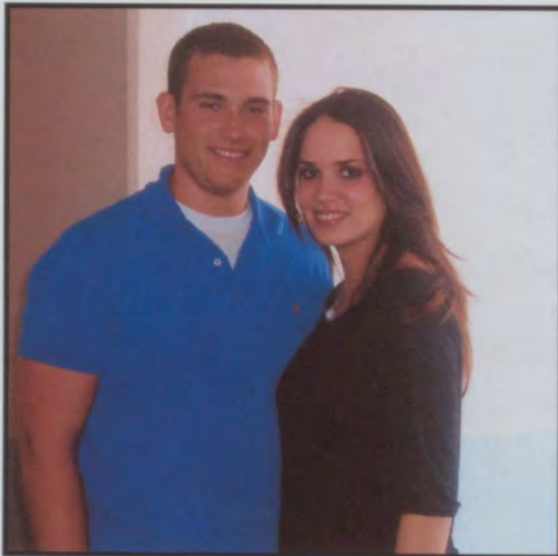

What's next for us

Our senior year at high school has ended. We sit and wonder about the last four years. As freshmen we scrambled around campus, half excited, half scared to find a familiar face or a friendly smile. In our sophomore year we were concerned with choices and direction, and of course making the grade. By the time we were juniors, our focus turned to the future with so many opportunities ahead. Now, as seniors, we look back on friendships made and lost, sporting events and concerts attended, and every spirit week and dance. Now that we're moving on to bigger and better things we stop and wonder, what's next for us.

David Kolhage

David, It seems like just yesterday we were rocking you to sleep. You have grown up so fast into a wonderful man before our very eyes. You have a big heart and a great sense of humor. Hold on to that and you will go far. You have made us very proud to be your parents. I know you don't always agree with everything we say, but just like we came to realize our parents were right, so will you. You'll see that we only wanted the best for you, you deserve nothing less. All our love, Dad, Mom and Taylor

Danica,
I have seen the many ways that God has been faithful to you throughout your life and I know and believe that he will continue guiding you. I am very proud of your accomplishments but most of all I am proud of you!

"God is in front of you as your Guide...
He is behind you as your Protector...
He is beside you as your Friend."

It's funny how fast time has gone by and the people who have crossed your path, your teachers, family and friends. You sure have had great ones; all special in their own way, just like you.

We love you so much!

Aileen Garrido

Dear Aileen

When you came into our lives, you made our family complete. Since then we have had the most wonderful times seeing you grow and become the beautiful young woman you are today. Your smile and laughter are contagious and make it impossible not to laugh with you. You have grown into a sensitive, and caring person, always trying to go beyond what you are asked to do.

You have always made us proud with your achievements and dedication. Your love for school and sports always shows and you always have known how to balance them to get the best of both. You have worked so hard to be where you are right now.

Your goals have taken you through a path of hard work and dedication, now that you are starting a new phase in your life, remember all the hard times and, Never give up!

The future you have set for yourself is bright and wonderful. Work hard for it, and know that we will always be there for you and by you.

Remember that you can go as far as you want. We know you will go far and will reach your goals.

Congratulations on your achievements!

We love you Baby.

All the Tios, Tias, and cousins

Katie Lynn

Dear Katie,

Graduation is not the end, it is the beginning! It is also a time to reflect on your achievements. Watching you grow into the loving, caring and kind person you are is one of the most rewarding and fulfilling experiences we have ever had. Your creativity astounds us both and is a quality that will help you go anywhere your heart desires. Never stop looking to the stars! (There is more there than meets the eye). Always look for; and strive to be; positive. Your artistic abilities WILL make the world a better, more beautiful place. Keep in mind, "Success" is defined as the pursuit of a worthy goal, not actually achieving it!

Love
Mom and Dad

My Dearest Ali,
I can hardly believe that your graduation day is so near. It seems like yesterday that you were graduating from pre-school without a care. I will always cherish and treasure those memories dear and close to my heart. You have become a beautiful and courageous young woman that I love so very much and have made me so very proud. As you take your big leap into this world, fulfill all of your dreams and life long ambitions and always carry that big smile and ray of sunshine with you. I know that you will achieve and conquer whatever you set out to do. Always remember "You are my Ali-Gator". I Love You Girl!!!!

Andrea,
Congratulations you're the best sister a girl could ask for and I'm so proud of you. This is the closing of one chapter in life and The beginning of a new one. I know you'll do great things.

Have fun,
Love you,
Your big sister,
Ashlie

Andrea,

My sweet baby. The day you were born our family was complete, your smile has made the darkest times brighter, and the hardest times easier to accept. You are such a special gift from God, and I thank him daily for blessing us with your light. Always stand tall, hold your head high, and be true to your heart and the world is yours.

My Love Always, Mom... (AKA=MD=)

Andrea,
I am so very proud of you, I know your Granddaddy is watching you from above and is VERY proud of you too!! God bless you as you embark on this next chapter of your life.

Love always,
Grammy

Andrea,
Congratulations you're the best sister a girl could ask for and I'm so proud of you. This is the closing of one chapter in life and The beginning of a new one. I know you'll do great things.

Have fun,
Love you,
Your big sister,
Ashlie

To our granddaughter Andrea,
You have always melted and tugged at our hearts with your smile and that special, sweet voice calling Papa or Mema. Cuddled on our lap or today in our arms you are very dear and precious to us. May your graduation be just a stepping stone to greater and better things in store for you.

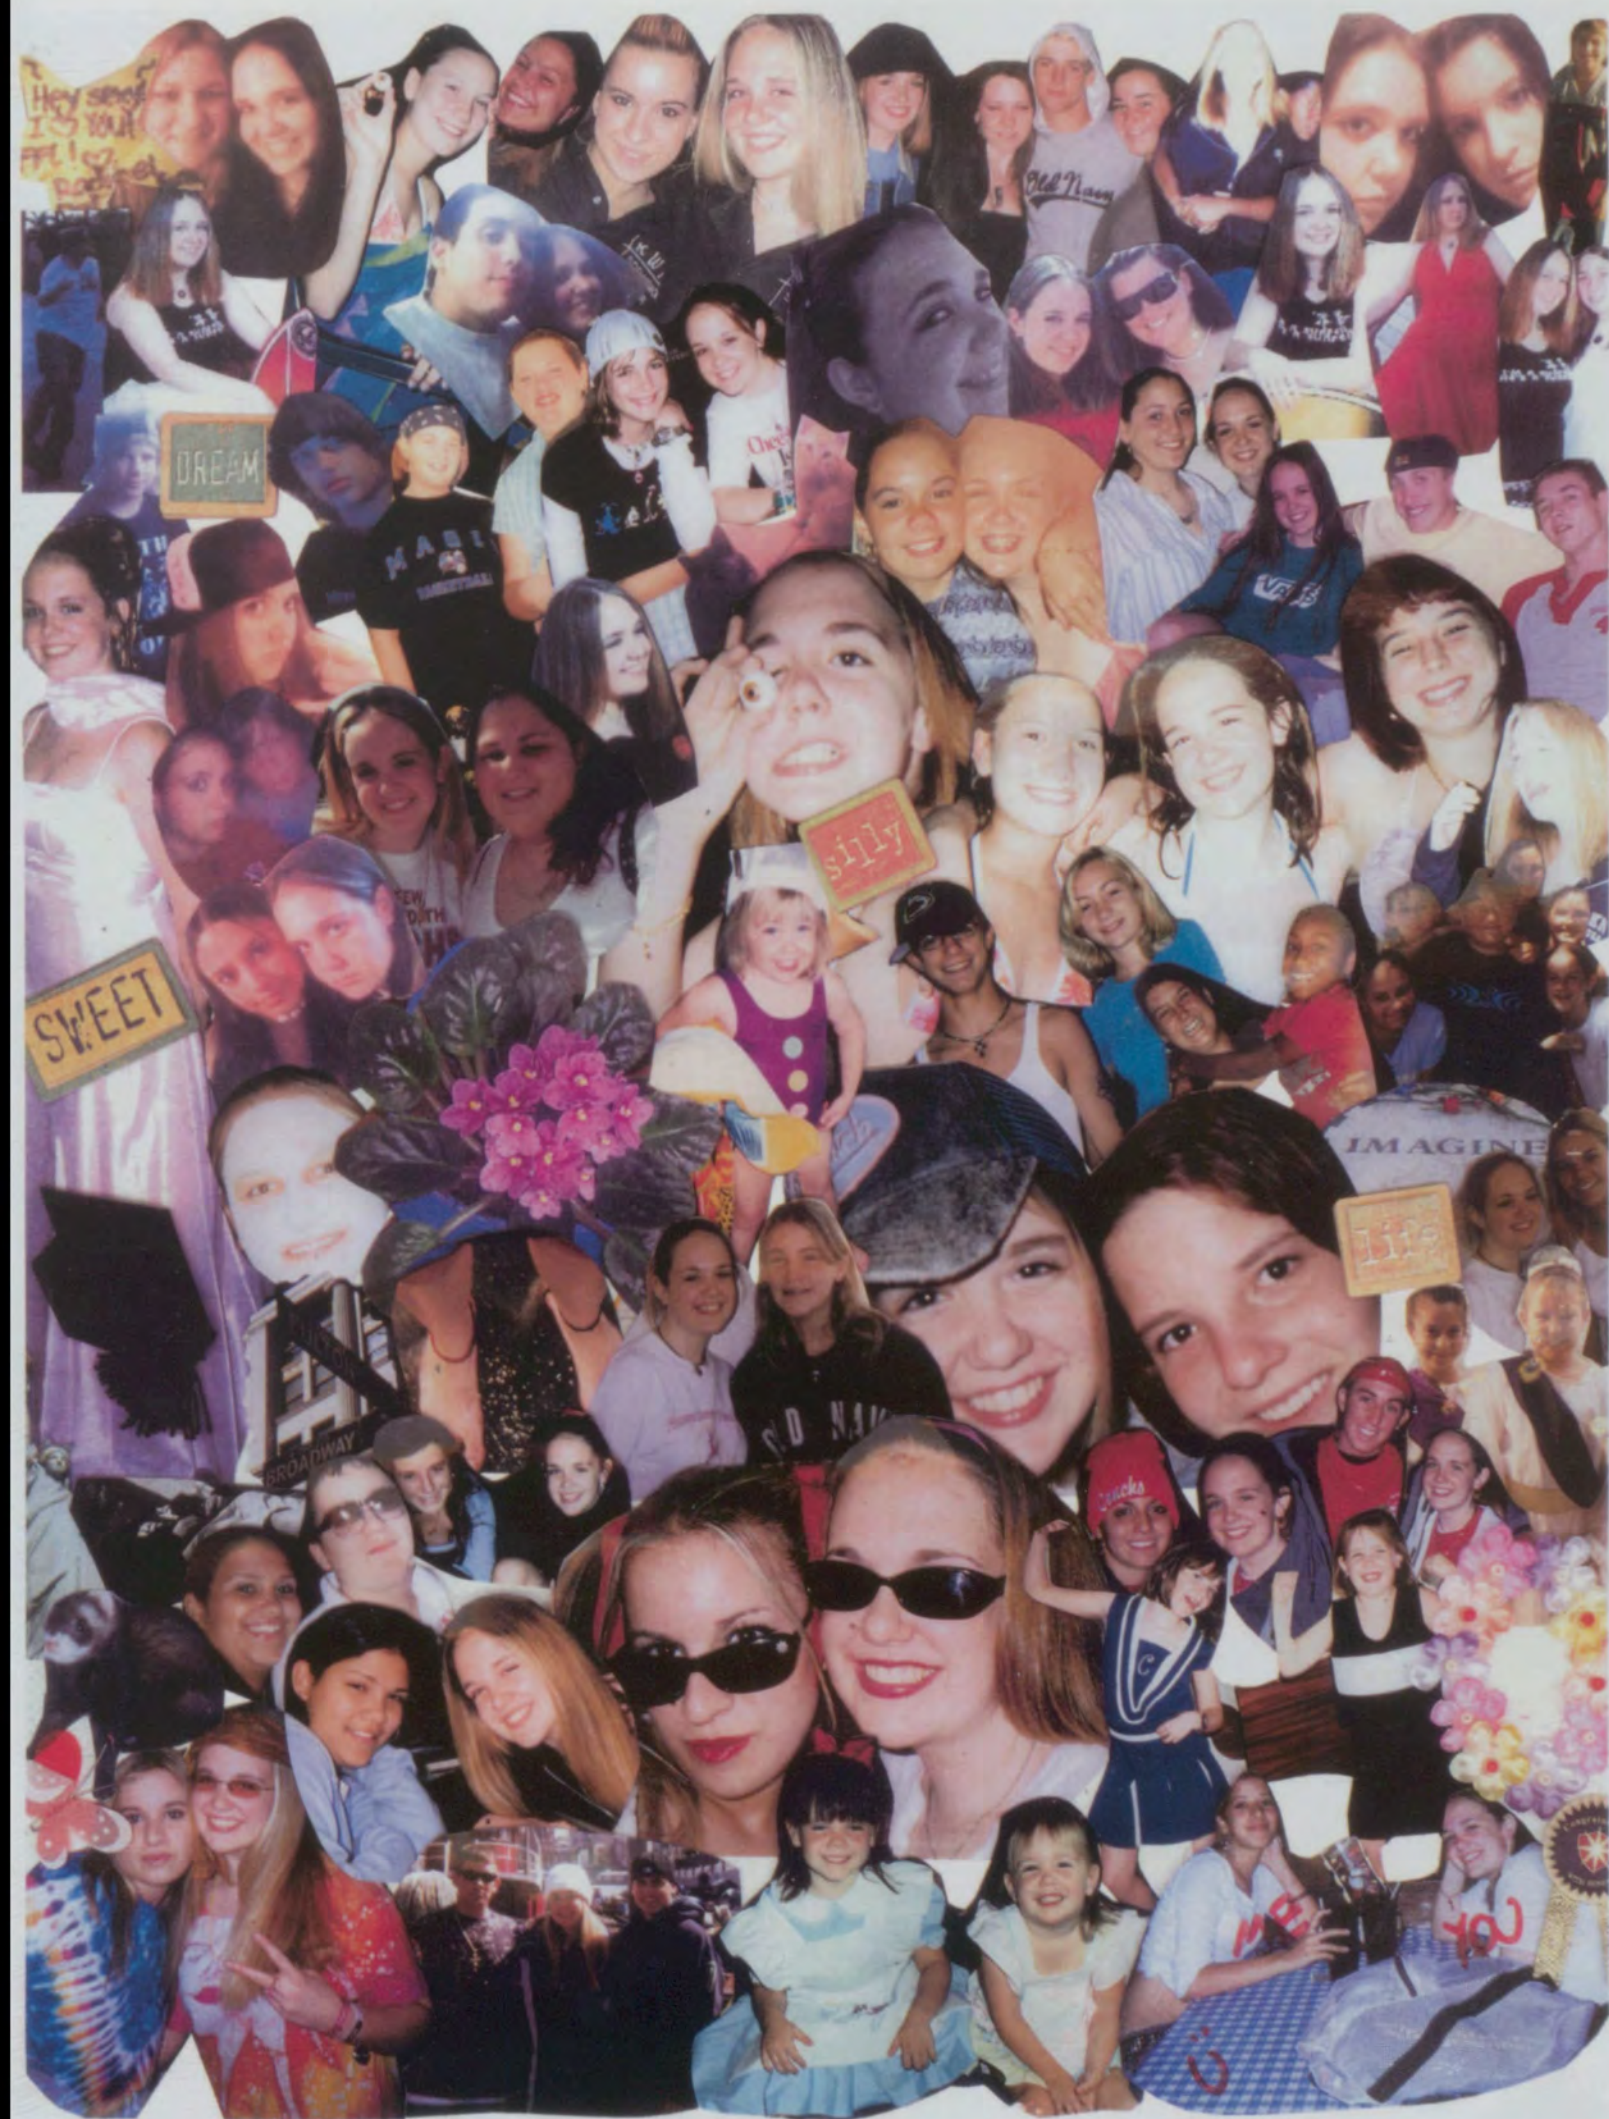

Much Love and Hugo,
God Bless you,
Mema and Papa

SHE'S BEAUTIFUL, INTELLIGENT, FUNNY, AND RESPECTFUL IF SHE'S YOUR FRIEND, YOU'RE ONE LUCKY PERSON. I KNOW I FEEL FORTUNATE AS A PARENT TO HAVE SUCH A SPECIAL DAUGHTER, YOU HAVE BECOME WHAT ALL PARENTS HOPE FOR, AND I AM SO PROUD OF YOU. WITH THESE QUALITIES THE FUTURE IS YOURS AND YOU DESERVE ALL THE BEST LIFE HAS TO OFFER. ALL OF YOUR YEARS OF HARD WORK HAVE PAID OFF!! CONGRADULATION SWEETIE.

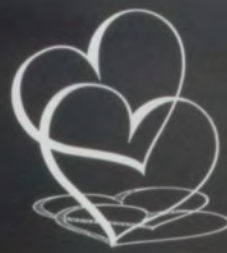

LOVE ALWAYS AND FOREVER,
YOU'RE FATHER (DADDY)

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE CLASS OF 2006!

My dog ate my homework. • My locker wouldn't open. • I brought the wrong book by mistake. • The file was erased before I could print it out. • My printer ate it. • My mom formatted the disk by accident. • My printer died. • My little brother colored all over it. • The librarian thought it was an overdue book and took it. • It was blown up while I was in Basic Training. It was stolen by the homework fairy. • It's being held for ransom and I refuse to pay. Scotty beamed it up. • My science project is living on it. • Somebody tore out the pages and used them as toilet paper. • Scotty beamed it up. • The FBI confiscated it. • Four out of five voices in my head said not to do it. • I got Cheez-Whiz on it. • My answers were so brilliant. I didn't want to make anyone else feel bad. • Dude, the vibes just weren't right. • Nice weather we're having, isn't it? Except, of course, for the swarms of Trigonometry-Eating Beetles. • My, that's a lovely sweater you're wearing. • Homework? Look, I'm not even a student! In fact, I'm 43 years old and I just came into this classroom to fix the thermostat! • [absent from class] • I didn't know about the assignment, I swear. • The lady who usually does my homework died. Everyone else can see it but you. • My alarm clock caught on fire and destroyed my homework. That's why I was late, too. My homework ate my dog.

YOU'VE COME A LONG WAY, NOW IT'S TIME TO CELEBRATE!

As the school year comes to a close, we remember the unforgettable moments of the past ten months while looking forward to tomorrow. Now, we forge on in our journey towards the future. It is our hope that our endeavors will lead us in the direction to fulfilling our individual goals, dreams and desires.

This past year has been wrought with hurricanes and other school interruptions. However, this has not deterred our ambition. Although it has been a memorable year and we wish it would never end, we must say goodbye and move on to what's next.

Throughout the school year, we have grown and developed many realizations, one of those being that our time in high school has been influenced by a number of people.

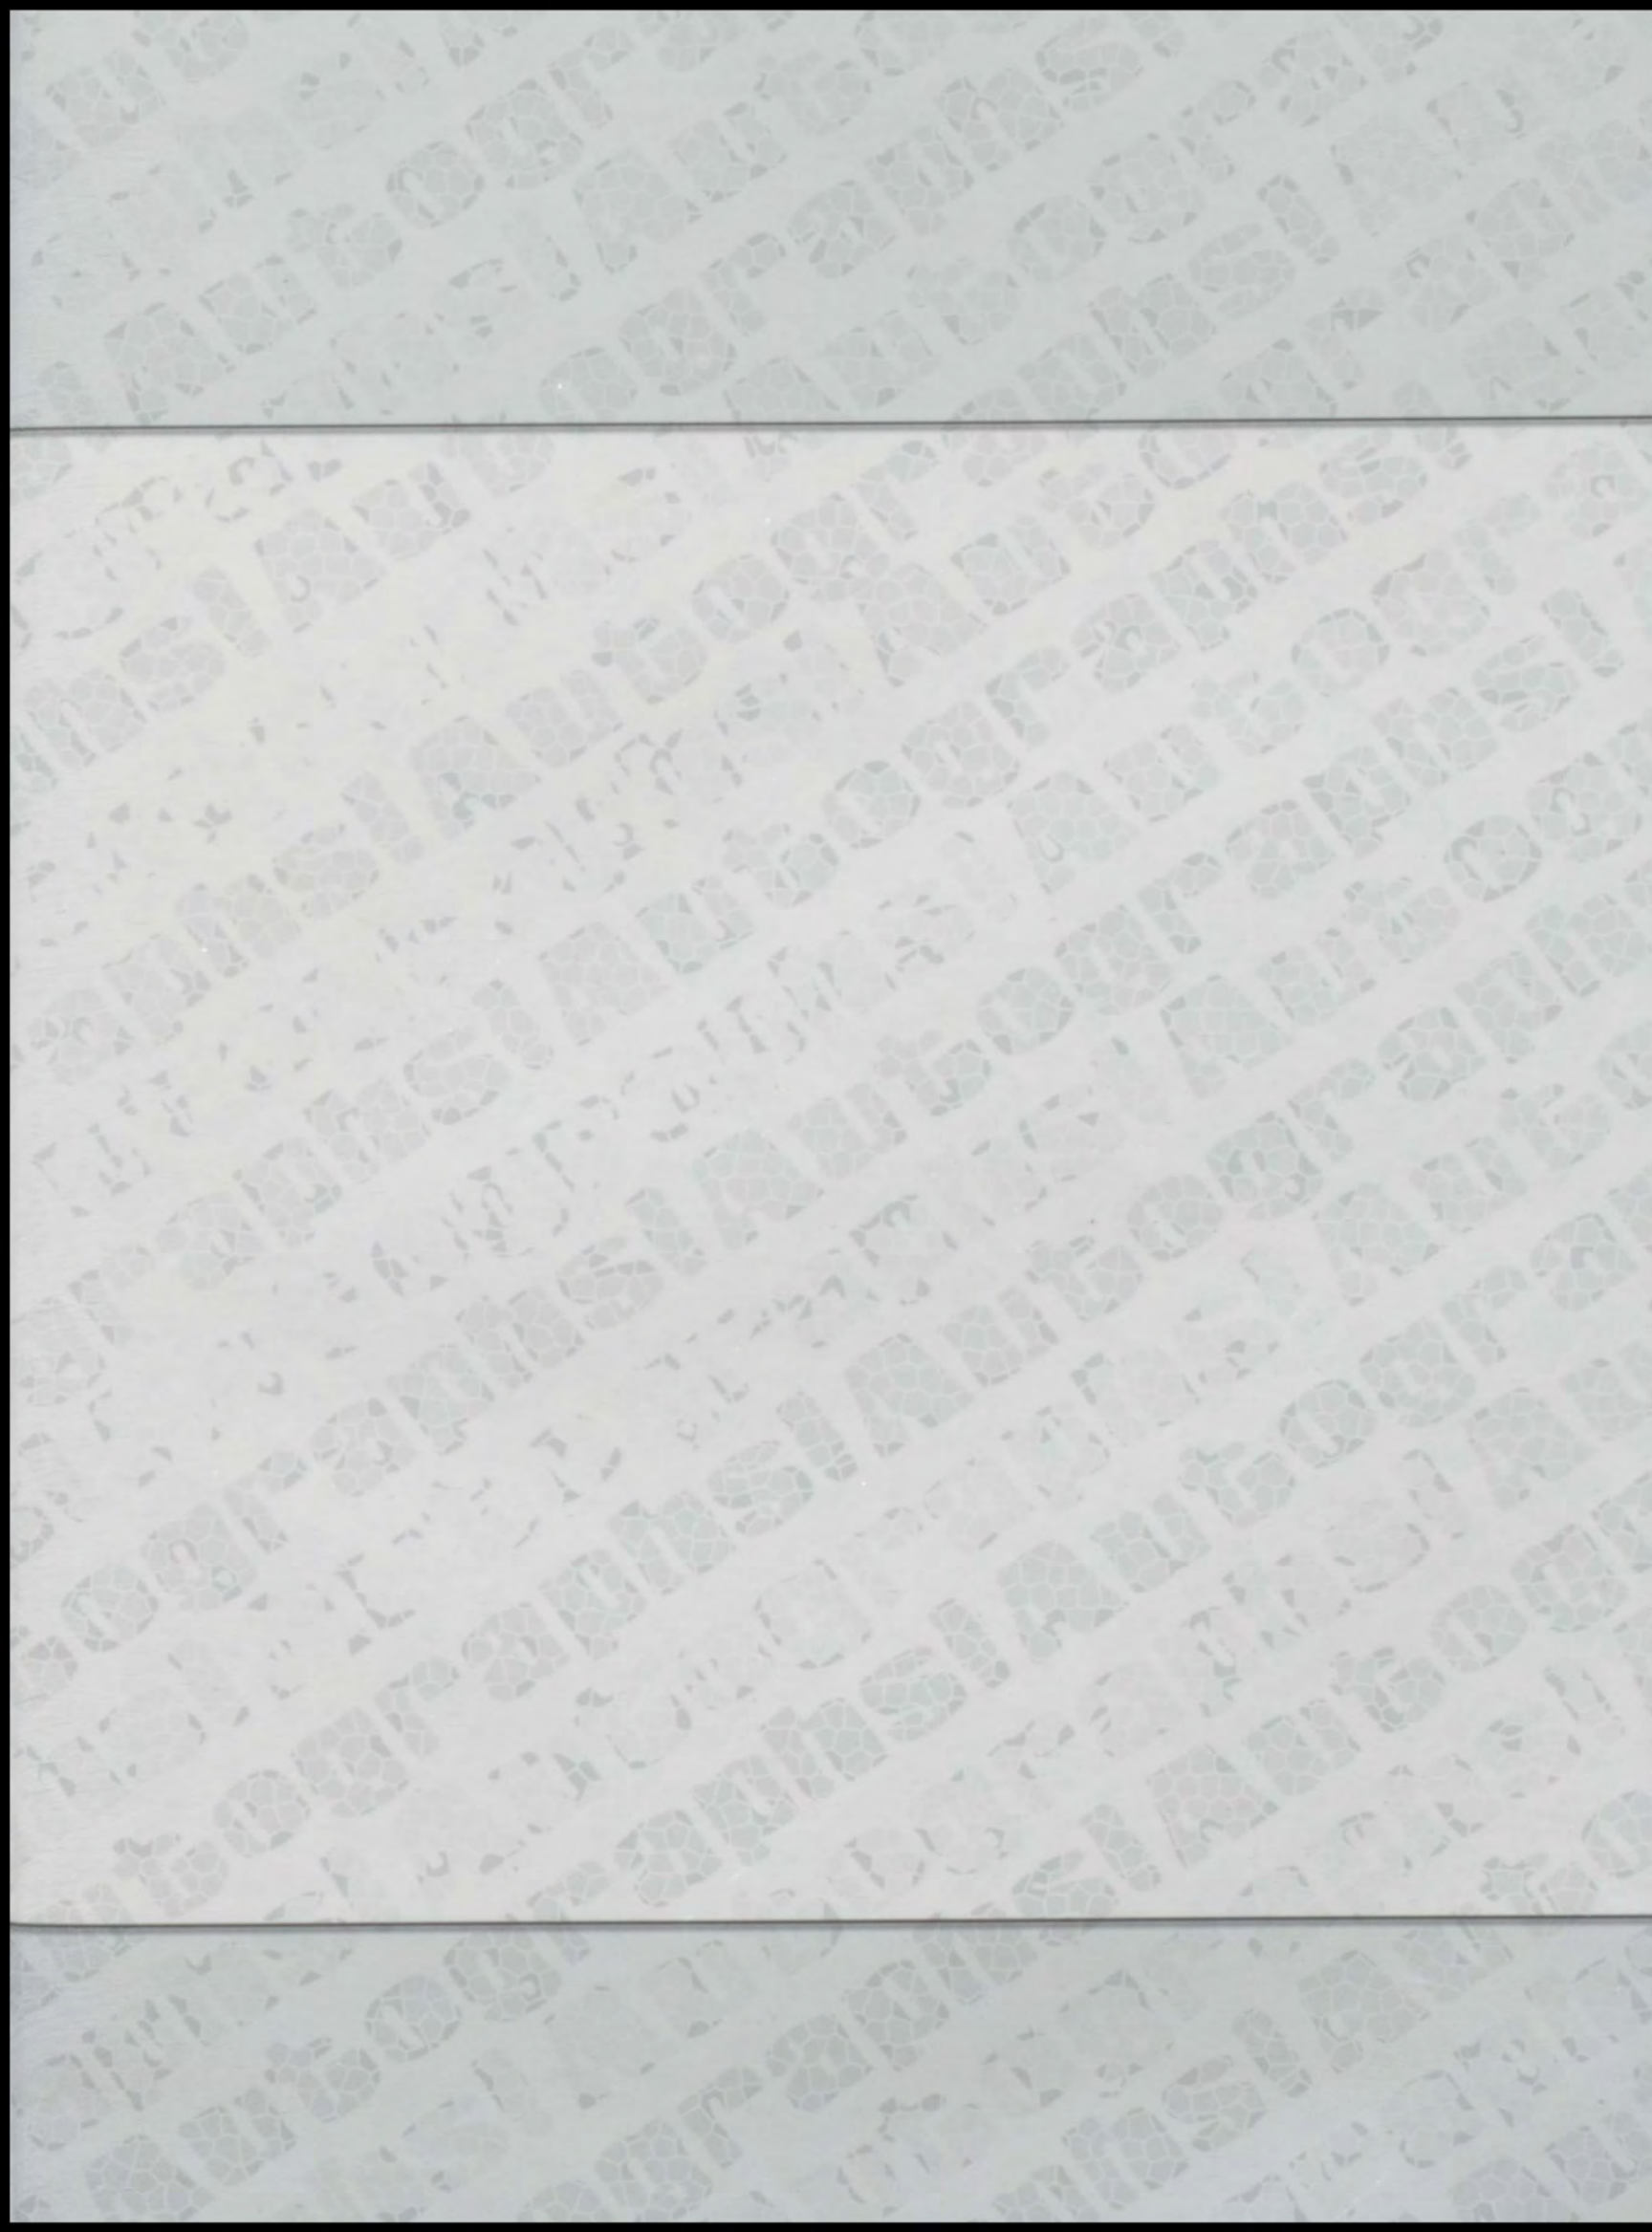

We have many to thank for our success, but we especially want to thank and recognize Mrs. McPherson for the heart, soul, and caring devotion she has shown to us throughout the years. Her welcoming manner and open door policy has been a gateway for many students facing the trials and tribulations of high school. Mrs. McPherson has been a faithful administrator who is always ready to help students and teachers in any way possible, providing a better school experience for everyone.

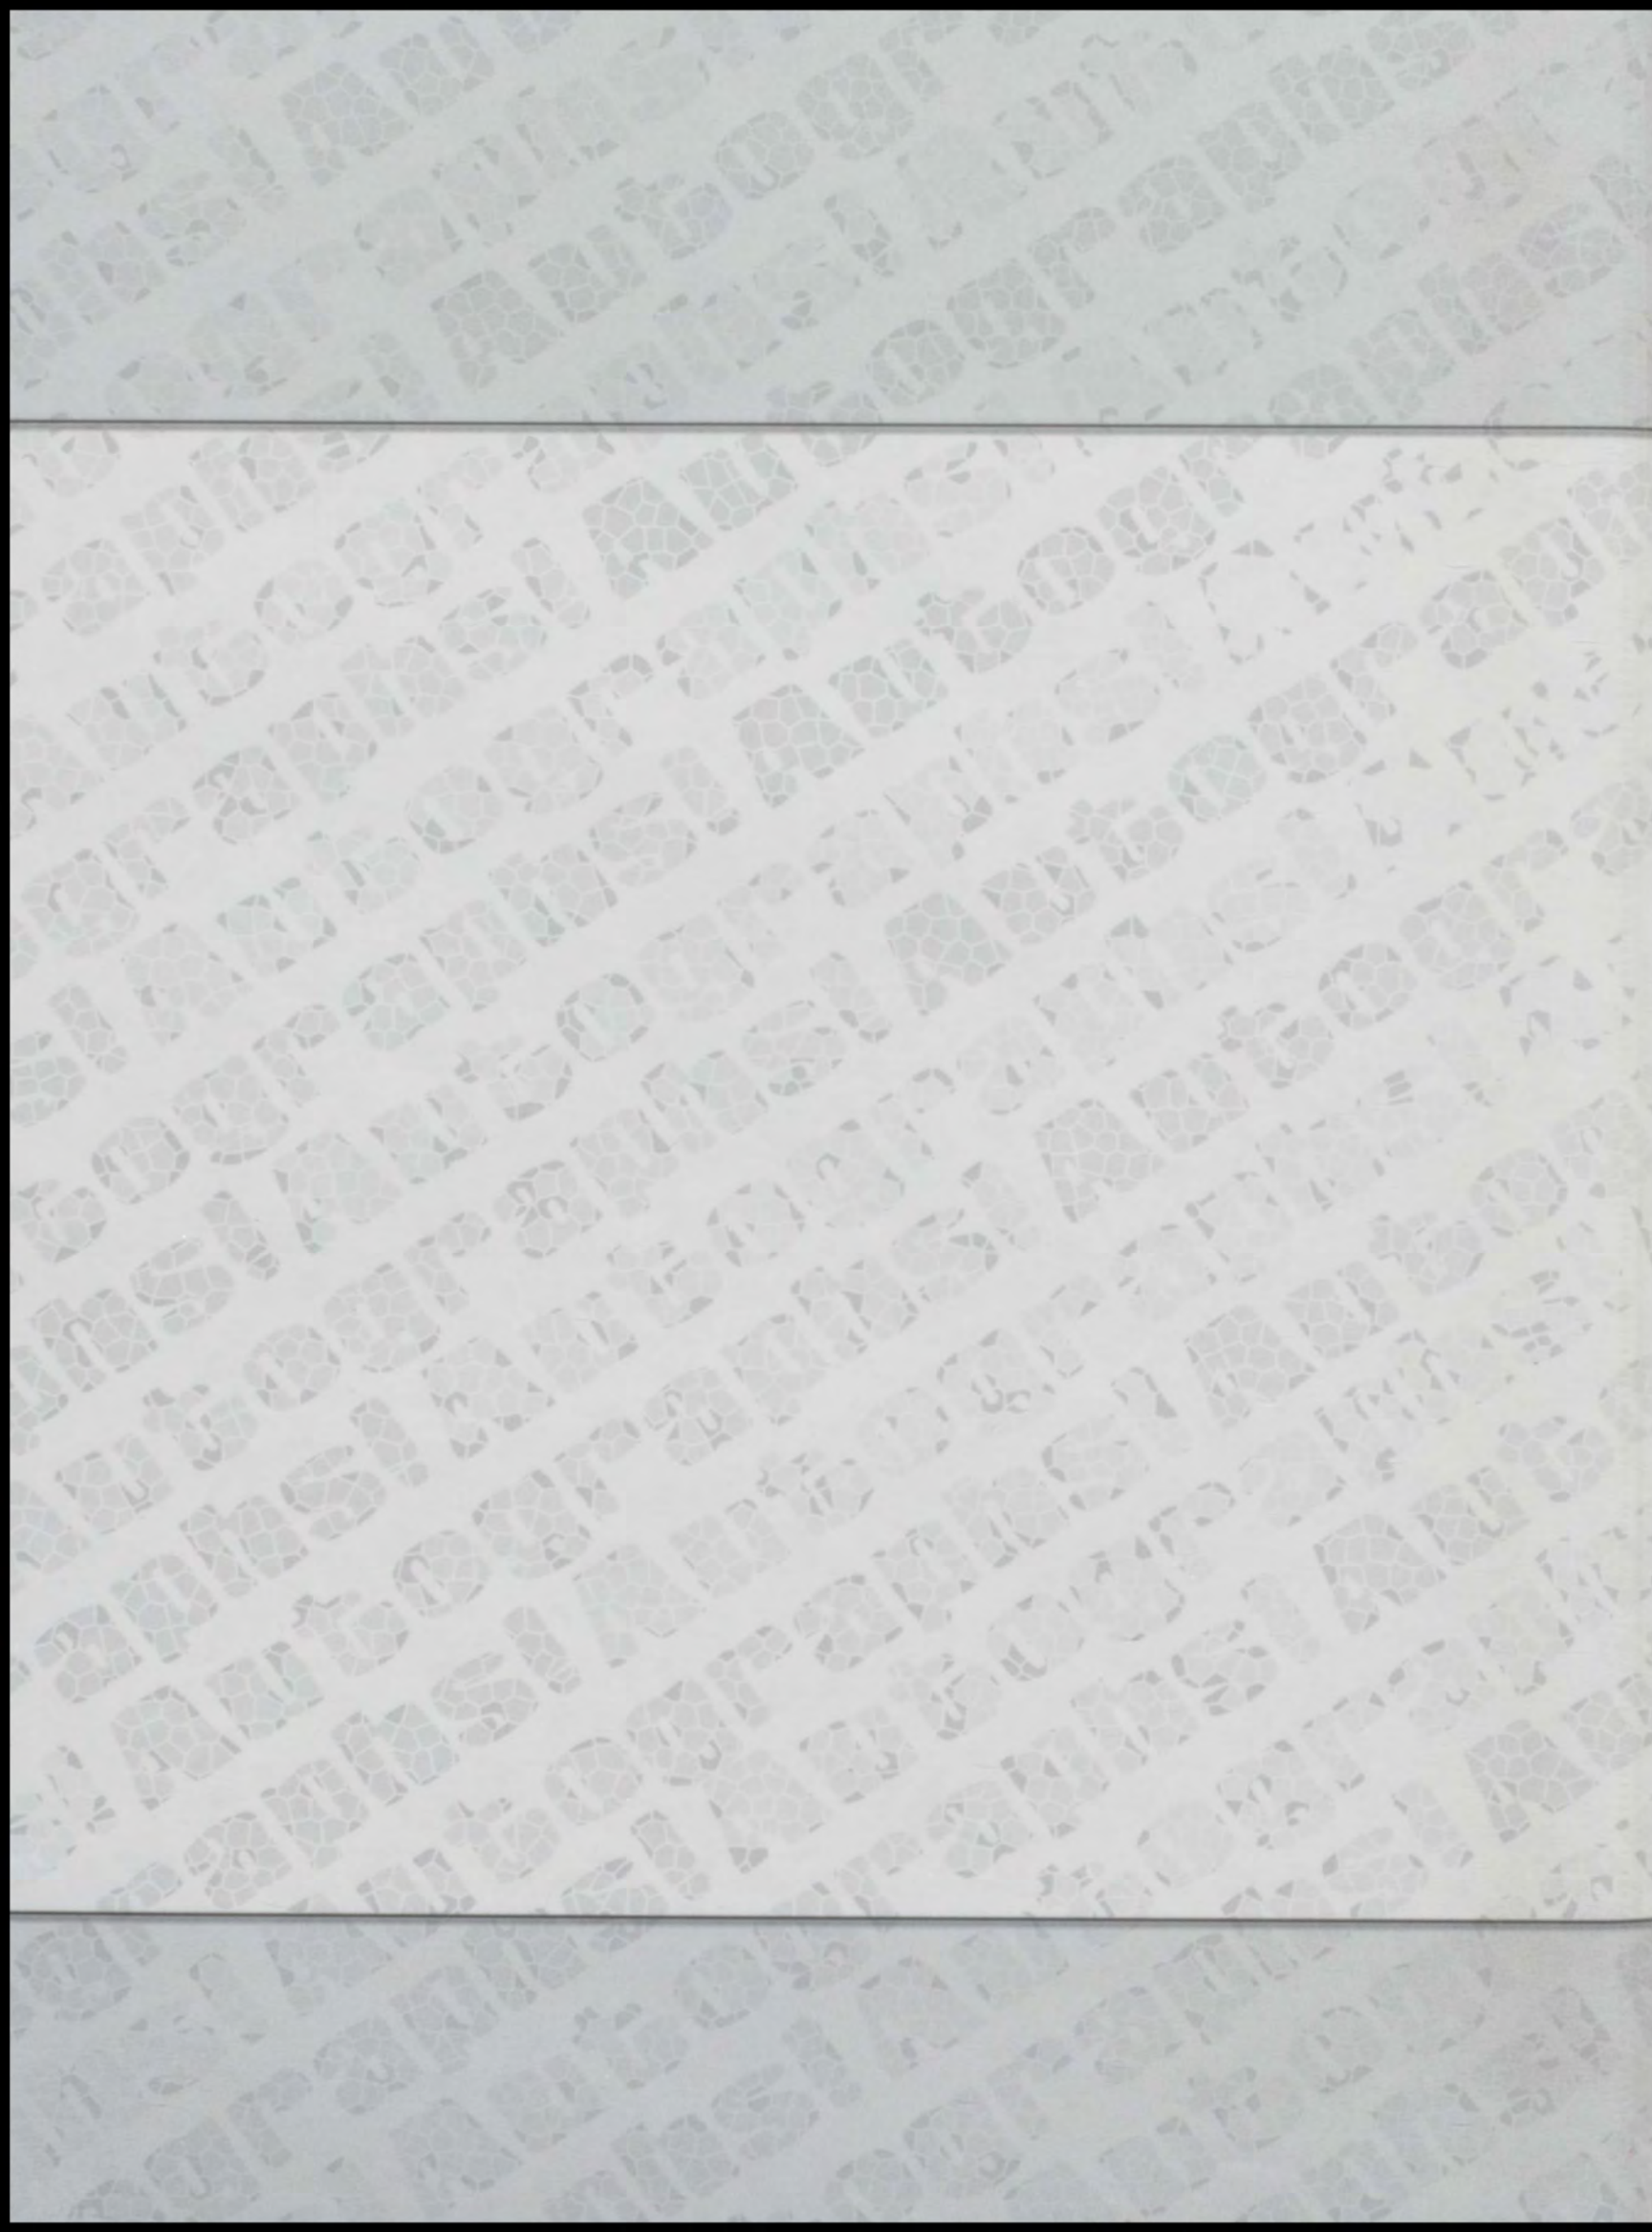

Thank you Mrs. McPherson!

What's next... Conch 2006 was produced by the KWHS yearbook staff at 2100 Flagler Avenue, Key West, Florida. Ms. Kinnune, adviser, headed production. The book is 9X12 with a press run of 800 copies and 368 pages of 100 lb. matte paper. The Conch 2006 was published by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas, represented by Ken Thornberry. The cover was designed by Lauren Roberts using a four-color photo on grey lithocoat cover material over 160 pt binders board with red silk screen. The Conch design on the folio was used with the permission of Goal Line Embroidery Of Key West, Florida. The endsheets are white with Brilliant Red Taylor custom silk screen, four color photos and Black Jester type.
