AMERICAN BATTLESHIPS NOT WARMLY WELCOMED IN HAVANA

Sight of Hundreds of Marines Drawn up Alarmed
Crowds of Spectators

THOUGHT IT INTERVENTION

Admiral Osterhaus Paid Call on American Minister and Call Returned

Havana, June 11.—The first class battleship Rhode Island and the first class cruiser Washington, flying the ensign of Rear Admiral Osterhaus, arrived in Havana yesterday afternoon. The Washington entered at 12:30 followed closely by the Rhode Island. The Washington fired the salute to the Cuban flag and it was returned by Havana.

Gather Early in Morning.
The water front was lined with persons early in the morning to see the American warships enter. When the look out on Morro signalled that they were in sight the news spread and thousands of others hurried to the Malecon, the wharves and other points of vantage.

Thought Intervention Sure.
The sight of the hundreds of marines lined up on the decks of the two warships apparently meant in the minds of the populace that they would immediately land and that intervention was already an accomplished fact.

Official Inspection.
As soon as the warships came to anchor, Dr. Rulobos, of the marine hospital service, boarded the vessel to make the customary inspection.

Olivares Welcomes.
Lieutenant Olivares, aid-de-camp of Colonel Morales Coello, commander of the Cuban navy and captain of the port, boarded the Washington, and extended the customary welcome to the island.

Admiral Osterhaus Lands.
Rear Admiral Osterhaus, accompanied by Captain Frank K. Hill, his chief of staff, and Flag Lieutenant Anderson, landed at the captain of the port at 1:30 o'clock. He went to the office of the captain of the port and asked to be directed to the American legation. When given the address he entered a public coach and drove away.

Minister Returns Call.
Minister Beupre, accompanied by Secretaries Gibson and Bell, returned the visit of Rear Admiral Osterhaus, at 3:15 o'clock, the minister receiving a salute of fifteen guns. Consul General Rodgers, called later and was greeted with a salute of nine guns.

No Uniforms Donned.
A number of officers from the two warships came ashore during the afternoon and last night, but they were all in civilian dress. There was not one uniform ashore.

No Shore Leave.
It is understood that there will be no shore leave given the marines and sailors while they are in the harbor. The American legation said last night that the matter was up to Admiral Osterhaus.

Length of Stay Unknown.
The length of time the ships are likely to stay here was not known at the legation. It was intimated, however, that they would probably sail to other island ports after awhile.

No Marines Landed.
The legation was positive in its declaration that marines would not be landed unless extremely grave circumstances warranted such action.

Number of Marines.
The Washington brought 250 marines besides her crew of 850 men. The Rhode Island carried 140 marines and a crew of 859 men. The Washington is commanded by Captain Richard Hughes, and the Rhode Island by Commander S. L. Jones.

Here in Five Hours.
The trip from Key West to Havana was made in just five hours. The vessels are anchored in the lower bay and the sailors and marines can overlook the city which they are not allowed to visit.

Santiago de Cuba, June 10.—The attack of Yvonne upon the town of Sagua de Tanamo and a clash between negroes and American marines at El Cuero were the chief developments reported at general headquarters here today. The negroes at Sagua de Tanamo were repulsed by 100 federal guerrillas and 30 rural guards. The only damage done to the town was the burning of a few houses on the outskirts. Several other small skirmishes are reported, resulting in several deaths of negroes.

May Have Met Yvonne.
The attack of Captain Iglesias on Yvonne is expected hourly. If the negro leader has not been able to throw the federal troops off his track they should have met before this. The understanding here is that Yvonne has lost a large number of his men, who have dropped out exhausted by the persistent pursuit to which they have been subjected.

Eight Negroes Killed.
Captain Garza of the guerrillas, has informed General Montenegro that his command surprised the lead-

STATE EPWORTH LEAGUE CONFERENCE IN SESSION

This is the Nineteenth Session
Since Organization in Eighteen Hundred Ninety-four

Arcadia, Fla., June 11.—The State Epworth League conference to be held at Tallahassee June 11-14 will be one of the most important gatherings of young people for the present year. This is the nineteenth session since the organization of the state League conference in 1894.

The first meeting of the State Epworth League conference, according to the records was in 1894, some time in June, the days not being given. Kissimmee was the place of the meeting.

How appropriate that the first meeting of the state conference should be there. The first chapter was organized in the little town.

LAST NIGHT AT THE MONROE.

The Monroe Theater has been giving its patrons good vaudeville bills ever since it opened several months ago, but it has never given its patrons as good a vaudeville bill as it gave them last night, when Sig. Reinfield's minstrels appeared for the first time this week. The house was crowded when the hour for opening came, and the people enjoyed to the full the popular company's performance. Time and time again they were called back by the audience, who seemed loath to let them disappear from before the footlights. It is a good company, and they play well. There is no doubt but that the Monroe will be a popular place during the entire week.

PIERCE AND BITTER WAR ON IN CHICAGO

Feeling Between Roosevelt and Taft Forces is at Fever Heat

Chicago, June 11.—With the possible arrival here during the next few days of Colonel Roosevelt, who it is said is preparing to conduct his campaign in person, interest in the approaching convention is almost at fever heat. In fact, it is the only subject of conversation and the hotel lobbies are full of partisans of both candidates.

This morning saw many more leaders of both factions as well as delegates and alternates flocking to the city, and as the battle grows more acute the party lines are being drawn tighter than ever. Old politicians say nothing equal to it has been seen since the convention of 1880 when James A. Garfield sprang from comparative obscurity to the highest office at the hands of his party.

Parallels with the Garfield convention are being drawn and there is a great deal of talk about a third candidate, a dark horse that is being groomed for the fray in the case of a deadlock that cannot be broken, but the really big leaders on both sides refuse to consider anything or anybody except their own candidate.

PARCELS POST THROUGHOUT U. S.

Washington, June 11.—Legislation for a general parcels post throughout the United States possessions, except the Philippines, is practically certain to be enacted by the present congress in the opinion of Postmaster General Hitchcock. In a statement today, he expressed the hope that the measure introduced by Senator Bourne will be made a law.

er, Losada, and killed eight negroes and captured a number of horses and other effects.

Fell Into Ambush.
Lieutenant Acosta reports that his men fell into an ambush at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. One federal soldier was shot in the leg. The negroes were driven from their position. No negro losses were reported.

Two Negro Defeats.
Captain Perdomo reports surprising a band of negroes at 2 o'clock yesterday near Pedrera de Santa Aaa. Two negroes were killed. Another band was surprised at Caridad and two more casualties on the negro side resulted.

HONG KONG STIRRED BY TROUBLE AGAIN

Outrages and Massacres
Near Hong Kong Necessitate Martial Law

Hongkong, June 11.—The assembly at Canton has denounced the action of the provincial governor in declaring martial law according to dispatches received here today. Advice received here relate tales of horrible brutalities. It is reported that the soldiers are practicing wholesale massacres. Outrages have occurred in various cities.

Executions are taking place daily at Wuchow, men being shot on the slightest pretext. The government troops are firing volleys at short range literally tearing the bodies of the victims to pieces. The citizens are holding secret meetings planning to wreak vengeance on the officials engaged in carrying on the executions.

Chinese merchants are advocating raising money by subscription to pay the expense of government instead of negotiating a foreign loan with its ensuing complications.

VERDICT RETURNED BY CORONERS JURY

Theodore Lowe Relieved of Blame of Shooting and Killing His Brother

Theodore Lowe, the young lad who accidentally shot and killed his little brother on Monday morning, was cleared of all criminal liability yesterday afternoon by a verdict rendered by the coroners jury, which met in Sheriff Jaycock's office in the county court house and finished taking evidence.

Two witnesses were examined by the jury. Mr. Lowe the father of the children, and Theodore. Mr. Lowe stated that he had no idea the gun was loaded, but considered it useless and at one time had told Theodore that it was not loaded, but had never given him permission to play with it. Theodore stated that his mother had left him to amuse the baby, while she was out on a short errand to a neighbor's house, and that he had gotten the old revolver, which he had played with on several previous occasions, to amuse both himself and the baby. When the accident occurred he was pointing the gun at the baby, who was reaching out for it, and never considering the possibility of the old firearm going off, he pulled the trigger. The revolver, which caused the accident, was produced by Sheriff Jaycock and answered the description given by Mr. Lowe. It was very badly rusted, and would only go off when the cylinder was placed at a certain position. The cylinder contained two cartridges, an empty one and a loaded one.

The jury arrived at the following verdict after a very few minutes' deliberation, and was discharged by County Judge Gunn: "Darrel Lowe came to his death by a pistol shot wound over the left eye at the hands of his brother, Theodore Lowe, age not yet 14, and the two little ones with a pistol that was supposed by the father to be not in good condition and which the father had placed aside as of no account."

THINGS TO REMEMBER.
Let us pause in our pursuit of money or pleasure or health or happiness on this day of days, July Fourth, to remember some of the bits that have grown rusty in our memories or that have been unthought of for so long that they may have been forgotten. It will do us good to re-read:

"We join ourselves to no party that does not carry the flag and keep step to the music of the Union."
—Rufus Choate.

"Our country! In her intercourse with foreign nations, may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."
—Shepherd Deane.

"Our country is the world—our countrymen are all mankind."
—William Lloyd Garrison.

"I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."
—Nathan Hale.

"One flag, one land, one heart, one hand, one nation evermore!"
—O. W. Holmes.

"I was born an American; I live an American; I shall die an American."
—Daniel Webster.

ON WAY TO BALTIMORE.

Baltimore, June 11.—The advance guard of boomers of the candidate for the democratic nomination for president, is arriving here for the national convention, and laying final plans for the campaign.

ALEUTION ISLAND MAY BE DESTROYED

habitants Have All Been Wiped Out

Cordova, Alaska, June 11.—The Aleutian island Kodiak is reported to have been practically destroyed by a volcanic eruption. Fear is expressed that the inhabitants may have been wiped out.

The revenue cutter Manning was in the vicinity of Kodiak during the eruption and has probably gone to the aid of the stricken fishing villages which lie almost at the foot of the mountain on the other side of the island.

Captain Knight, of the steamer Annie, which arrived here yesterday, reported encountering volcanic waves on Friday. He lost two barges and had difficulty in preventing his vessel from being swept away.

NEW YORK MAKING MERRY FOR GERMANS

Entertainments Planned in Honor of Officers And Men of Ships

New York, June 11.—The imperial German squadron, including the battleship Moltke and the cruisers Stettin and Bremen, arrived in New York harbor yesterday and took up positions in the Hudson river off Grant's tomb. The four days' festivities began this morning.

The officers and men of the squadron are the guests of the city and many entertainments are being planned in their honor. The officers were guests at a great civic dinner tonight. The day was ideal for sight-seeing and thousands of persons took advantage of the opportunity to visit the German vessels.

The German ships were accompanied to their places of anchorage by the second division of the Atlantic fleet—the Louisiana, South Carolina, Kansas and New Hampshire—under the command of Rear Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow. As the Germans crossed the line between Governor Island and the Statue of Liberty they let go with their big guns in salute, and the army guns on Governors Island replied.

GOVERNOR OF ORIENTE PROVINCE CANNOT FIGHT

Government Says He Can Do
Most Good by Staying at Home

Camaguey, June 10.—The provincial council of Camaguey has refused permission to Governor Caballero to go to Oriente province at the head of the troops from here to put down the negro uprising.

The members voted unanimously that the governor's place was in his own province, as no one was better prepared to handle the situation of trouble occurred here.

BERLIN TO VIENNA RACE
COMPLETED IN FAST TIME

Winning Aeroplane Made Distance of 330 Miles in 395 Minutes

Vienna, June 11.—The aeroplane race from Berlin to Vienna was completed this morning with the arrival of the winners in this city. The contest was resumed yesterday despite the unfortunate accident which wrecked two machines in an electrical storm.

The race was won by the German aviator Hirth, carrying Lieutenant Scholler of the German aviation corps as a passenger. He covered the 330-mile course in 395 minutes, negotiating the entire distance in a little less than a mile a minute.

TO THE CUBAN PEOPLE OF KEY WEST.

The members of the "Union Cubana Club" having heard the rumor that in said club some members were collecting funds to aid the lamented and disastrous rebellion now going on in our beloved country, inform the directors of the club and those knowing the disastrous consequences that such assertions will bring to the club, decided to call a general meeting to protest against such a rumor and invite our dear representative, Sr. Antonio Dias Carrasco, Cuban consul, Editors Jose Ferriol of the Centinela, Gerardo Felipe of the Montegote, Mr. Octavio Monterosi, reporter for the Cuban paper La Lucha; Principal Jose Abren, of San Carlos school, Jose Morquez, Juan Perez Rolo and Belisario Mendoza that they may witness the same. Said meeting was held Sunday the 9th of June, in which all of its members agreed to make it known to the Cuban people of Key West that the above named club protests and has always protested against the uprising in arms of a number of ambitious Cubans and together with a number of adventurous strangers. It is understood by the members of this club that there is no reason what ever that justifies such prejudicial uprising and at the same time knowing fully well how terrible and serious it would be for all the Cubans, another intervention, and still worse for the very same race that Estenoz and his associates say that they defend. We make it known to the Cuban people of Key West that the members of the "Union Cubana Club" does not conspire and that its members condemn Estenoz's act.

We do not wish to be the first to break the cord that binds us in peace and good will that has existed among the Cuban colony here and that the criminal uprising in our country has interrupted, being decided in this purpose we will not use any words that would indicate the conduct of these persons who were first to begin such disastrous propaganda that has done so much harm since the members of this club have always known the duty that patriotism demands; they desire to receive the respect and consideration that they accord other institutions of like kind.

SUSANO DIAZ, President. PEDRO ZQUEIRA, Secretary. Key West, June 10, 1912.

DAMAGING PINEAPPLE CROP.

The rains of the past two weeks in this section and along the east coast are said to be damaging the pineapple crops irreparably, and will cause considerable loss to the growers.

The season should be now at its height, but owing to the rains it is impossible to get men to work in the fields, thus causing the fruit to ripen to a point where it will not stand shipping.—Miami Herald.

WAR AMONG THE INDIANS.

The Airdome will have the companion picture of "An Indian Massacre" here for Friday night, and the film comes more highly than any other that has ever been here. The name of the film is "War Among Indians," and it will be a puller for The Airdome Friday and Saturday nights.

Record.

S. H. Gove is busily engaged in drawing plans and specifications for a hotel and several bungalows that the president of the American Land Company, W. A. Pridmore, is contemplating having erected in the new town of Harwood. There are so many people visiting this new settlement north of the Tomoka river, that some kind of accommodation must be arranged for them without delay.—Daytona-Halifax Journal.

The average newspaperman hardly ever puts in more than five or six hundred working days in a year, but of course there are exceptions to the rule.—Pensacola Journal.

Negroes Attacked American Marines But Soon Learned Their Mistake

AMERICAN BULLETS HURT Negro Leaders Killed—German Cane Burned—Cubans Fall into Ambush

Burn German Cane.
The news has reached here that the negroes have burned several fields of cane belonging to the German owned sugar mill, Hatillo. The fact has been communicated to the German minister in Havana who is expected to complain to the Cuban government.

Attack on Marines.
The attack on the American marines occurred at one o'clock this morning. The number of negroes in the attacking party is not known, but the marines promptly drove them off; Captain Manswaring praises the conduct of the marines.

More Marines Land.
Two more companies of marines are reported to have been sent to Guantanamo. They are from the Missouri. Another detachment is on the way to Baracoa on the Colgoa.

Mayor Captured.
The mayor of the little ward of Guaso is reported to have been captured by the negroes.

Rabi Offers Services.
General Rabi, the famous negro general of the war of independence, has again offered his services to General Montenegro to help put down the negroes. General Montenegro has thanked General Rabi, but informed him that he cannot accept his offer at this time as he has not sufficient guns.

General Rabi commands great influence in Oriente province, not only among his own race but also among the whites. He is a particular friend of General Mario Menocal, manager of Chaparra.

Menocal not Needed Yet.
General Menocal has offered General Montenegro 3,000 volunteers, including four veteran generals, to fight the Estenoz rebels. General Montenegro thanked him and said their services were not required now, but would be accepted if needed. General Menocal telegraphed to President Gomez three days ago offering his services and they were accepted, the president telling him to confer with General Montenegro.

Garcia Kohly at Work.
Secretary Garcia Kohly, who was sent here by President Gomez to acquaint himself with the exact situation, left here yesterday for Guantanamo to continue his investigations. He is confident that the uprising is practically under control.

The mayor of Guantanamo has telegraphed that the government forces are crowding the negroes under Lacoste, the paralytic, who has nearly fallen into their hands two or three times. Lacoste is the soothsayer of Guanabacoa, who now styles himself "governor" of Oriente province. He is almost helpless and is carried in a hammock wherever he goes. His carriers are reported to be getting tired of their dangerous charge, but he holds them by a mysterious spell which causes them to think that he will bring them victory.

To Avoid Sensationalism.
General Montenegro has issued an order to officers forbidding them from giving out any news to the press which differs from that given officially.

Bands of 100 Guerrillas.

General Montenegro has issued an order that all guerrilla companies shall be composed of not more than 100 men. Privates will be paid $1.50 daily, while two sergeants will receive $90 a month. The two commissioned officers will receive $150 and $100 a month respectively.

Negro Leaders Killed.
News has reached here of the death of two negro leaders. One, named Gardery, was killed in Puerto Bonifante by one of his own men when they disagreed about the burning of a house. Captain Iglesias also killed a rebel chief named Varade near Songo.

GOVERNMENT PRESS AGENTS.

Investigation by a congressional committee, in session in Washington recently, "revealed" what almost every newspaper editor in America has known for years, namely, that an agent of the government departments employ press agents. Some of the congressional probers were much shocked to know that the press agent of one department of the federal service often spends his time attacking another branch of the service.

It was brought out that the press agent of the department of agriculture has furnished to newspapers throughout the country and to correspondents in Washington material derogatory material was to attack been summoned before committees for testimony. The purpose of this derogatory witnesses who have the witness before he had a chance to testify and thus discredit him utterly.

Coffee Retailer, Attention!

Prices of Green Coffee are steadily rising, and there is no prospect of lower figures for the present. As a consequence, the price of the ground article will also be raised by the different roasters supplying it. Perhaps there are many among you who are already paying this penalty. I have secured several lots, though, at such figures as to leave the price unchanged, as long as the lots last.

THE PRICE IS 25c PER POUND for the same good, satisfactory and reliable article which has made "EL CENTRAL" famous for over twenty five years. Think of this if you want to save dollars on the coffee which you sell.

Playing Chess

"What's in the box?" asked the girl in pink. The young man with the high forehead smiled at her. "I'm going to teach you chess," he announced. "I brought over the men."

"Why, how perfectly lovely!" cried the girl in pink, immediately pulling off the cover. "I know I'll be just crazy about it! Aren't they cunning?" "I'm glad you're pleased," said the young man in a gratified tone. "I was afraid you wouldn't want to learn or would be bored. Few women care about chess. It's really a great game!"

"The idea of not caring about it!" exclaimed the girl in pink, spreading out the board. "I know it's so different. Why, the other girls will simply die of envy when I tell them I can play chess! It sounds so intellectual!"

"Now, we'll set up the men," announced the young man with the high forehead.

"Oh, they're not all alike, are they?" she continued in surprise. "How funny! I should think that would mix you up dreadfully! Don't you think it would be lots easier to play if they were all alike? I heard of a man who could play six games of chess at once—let's try it!"

The young man coughed. Well, I have men for only one game," he said. "Maybe it would be better just at first not to try any more!"

"All right," agreed the girl in pink, cheerfully. "Only I think it would be loads of fun to have six games at the same time. Then we could walk around among them. I get awfully tired sitting still—do you? I guess it's because I have nerves. My mother's sister—"

"Now I'll move this one," said the young man. Then he explained the moves to her and finally said: "It's your turn."

"I think it is perfectly absurd not to let them all move alike!" she cried. "It just mixes you up! Is that really the way you have to play or are you just trying to fool me?"

"I'm not smart enough to make it up," said the young man. "Men more brilliant than I invented the moves hundreds, and hundreds of years ago."

"Well," said the girl in pink indignantly, "if they've been playing it so long I should think they would have straightened it out and simplified it before now. You move 'em all alike when you play checkers and you know what you are doing! If this thing's a queen why isn't there a crown on something on it, and for these horses that turn corners—how perfectly ridiculous!"

"You'll understand it after you have played it a while," said the young man. "I'd move that one to start with if I were you."

"All right," said the girl in pink. "I'd rather shoot this one down the black squares, though. It's so funny to see it go crisscross instead of straight ahead—"

"But you can't," said the young man. "Your bishop can't move because that pawn is in the way!"

"I don't think a little pawn ought to count when it's a bishop that wants to get by," said the girl in pink, arguing mentally.

"Now I'll move this," said the young man, firmly. "You see, it threatens your queen."

"I don't see why that is so awful," said the other. "Oh, you say the queen is the most valuable of all because it moves farther and in every direction? Oh, Arthur! I saw Marie downtown today and what do you suppose she told me? You'll be surprised! You'd never guess—"

"You can't move that way," said the young man. "This isn't dominoes or checkers—the idea isn't to take all your opponent's men!"

"Well, what is the idea?" demanded the young woman. "In checkers you try to take 'em and—oh, to checkmate the king, you say? Well, I'd like to know how I can get anywhere near your king when you've got him on the back line with all those other things stacked up in front of him—you ought to move 'em out. What's that thing? A castle? How silly! It doesn't look any more like a castle than I do! It's a castle, why doesn't it look like one?"

"I'm afraid," suggested the young man, "that chess doesn't appeal to you! Perhaps we'd better stop playing!"

"Why, I'm perfectly crazy about it!" insisted the girl in pink. "I think it is terribly interesting and I'm so glad I've learned how! And I don't see anything so awfully hard about it either! But it makes my head ache a little, so let's play authors for a change!"

Dolls Always Known.

History fails to tell us the inventor of the doll, which has been such a boon to mankind, not only in quieting the rowdy youngster, but in stimulating a healthy imagination and affection. Five hundred years before Christ little girls had dolls; there is sure evidence of it, and Edward Lovett, an enthusiastic collector, has a doll from those dim ages. It is little more than a battered stick now, but is unmistakably a doll. No one could name a fair value for such a prize, which stands out as a proof that the child of today is singularly like her little sister some twenty-five hundred years ago.—Dundee Advertiser.

Elsie was glad to leave the stuffy office and come out into the afternoon sunshine of Madison square. She paused for an instant and hesitated.

Up in the little hall bedroom that she called home in lieu of a better one, there was a pretty cotton frock to be finished if she expected to wear it on Sunday. Every afternoon for a week she had hurried home to sew, and every stitch must be made by hand—and yet, there was another and a stronger call that turned her feet toward Fourth avenue. Elsie Chapin yielded to the last call and went.

Perhaps it was laughable that a quiet little dove-like stenographer could find delight in poking about among the second-hand shops of Fourth avenue after a day spent in transcribing dull business letters on a clattering typewriter. It was true, however. Whatever of color and romance came into her lonely life was furnished by the multitude of lovely and curious articles in these antique shops.

There was food for fancy in the ancient pewter dishes and the willow pattern china; a chair that had belonged to some long-dead personage; perhaps a bedstead upon which royalty had slumbered in a distant land; tall clocks that had marked the days of forgotten lives; an empty jewel casket; a piece of rich tapestry—there was a story in every article, and Elsie Chapin had learned to read each one.

This afternoon she hastened her steps until she reached the particular shop that she called her own. The attendants had long ceased to be suspicious of her lingering there among the treasures. Perhaps they read in her rapt and dreamy eyed abstraction the truth of her coming. It was not the articles nor their value that she craved—it was the story she read in each one.

Sometimes one of the attendants called her attention to some newly acquired article, always assured of her interest and appreciation. They could not know that in the days before her unfortunate father's failure in business and his subsequent death, there had been many treasures in her own home. She was alone now and, perforce, content with looking at the belongings of other people.

There was an ancient escritoir with a fascinating number of pigeon holes and secret drawers that attracted Elsie this afternoon. She was standing there, wondering if within some still concealed compartment there might not be a bundle of old love letters tied about with a blue ribbon which would fall to pieces at a touch. There might be a withered rose or a wrinkled little glove, some relic of a bygone romance.

From her dim corner behind the escritoir Elsie was roused to look toward the front of the shop where the proprietor was in conversation with a slender, dreamy-eyed young man who was holding a violin to the light.

"It is an Amati!" protested the young man.

"All violins are Amati or Stradivarius," replied the proprietor skeptically. "Mr. Spohr, I will give you $100 for the instrument. If I buy it I am taking a risk. I do not like to handle musical instruments."

The musician bent his head over the beautiful violin. He passed a tender hand over the satiny wood, flicked a string that vibrated with almost human melancholy and then laid the instrument in its case.

"It is yours for that price," he said quietly, but Elsie read in his tone despair and almost agony at the parting with an instrument that was doubtless his means of livelihood, for Spohr was rather shabbily dressed and thin and pale, as though he were recovering from some long illness or had been insufficiently nourished.

Elsie's tender heart was wrung with pity at this little tragedy being enacted before her. Many times she had read tragedies and romances in the antiques of her curiosity shop. Now she was witnessing a real heart-breaking drama.

Fascinated, she saw the proprietor count out a roll of bills to the violinist, and triumphantly bow out the dejected young man.

By the time the proprietor had returned to the violin Elsie was standing beside him.

"This is for sale?" she asked quietly.

He nodded. "You saw that young man?"

"Yes—I heard what was said," she returned.

"You did?" He frowned. "He is Spohr, the violinist. He has been sick in the hospital and must have money so he sells me this—I am taking a chance, of course," he said, looking at her under his beaming brows.

"You mean it may be a poor instrument?"

Again he nodded. "It may be a fake."

"You regret your bargain already?" she asked with apparent simplicity.

The dealer scanned her with shrewd eyes and saw nothing save her little dove-gray personality with soft brown eyes under the gray hat.

"Yes—perhaps I let that hundred go too quick."

"Then I will give you $100 for it," said Elsie a little breathlessly.

"Well!" The dealer laughed shortly. "I would not make anything and I am in business to make money."

"You said it was not worth $100," corrected Elsie, looking him straight in the eyes. "I will give you $100 for it now."

She opened her purse. "Call it $105 miss, thank you. The violin is yours. Shall I have it dusted off?" He made a movement as if to take the case to the rear of the store, but Elsie quietly laid her hand upon the handle. If he was unscrupulous, she would not give him an opportunity to change the violin.

"I will take it as it is," she said. "Please give me a receipt for the money." Five minutes afterwards Elsie Chapin walked out of the antique shop carrying a violin case. She had parted with half of her savings it had taken her two years to accumulate, but somehow she felt supremely happy. She was about to make someone very happy, too.

She called up one after another of the hospitals until she discovered the one wherein Spohr had been confined. There she learned his address and entering a subway train, she was soon at her destination.

It proved to be a lodging house in a very cheap quarter of the west side. When she rang the bell and asked for Mr. Spohr, the sharp-voiced landlady eyed her keenly.

"I guess he's up to his room. Third floor front hall. He ain't thinking of giving lessons here—because I won't have it," she rasped, stepping aside for the girl to pass her.

"I think not—" Elsie was beginning, when there came a step on the stairs, and she looked up to see Spohr coming down. He was without a hat, and in his hand he carried some money. The eyes of the landlady fastened avidly upon the money.

"Did you want to see me, Mr. Spohr?" she asked meaningly.

"If you please," he said gravely, and paid her the money. She was instantly overcome with servile politeness.

"Thank you so much, Mr. Spohr!" she gushed. "This young lady wishes to see you—you may use the parlor if you wish." She opened the door of a stuffy red-plush room, and the violinist with unmasked surprise on his face, stood aside while Elsie fluttered past him into the dingy room.

"You wished to see me?" he asked gently.

Elsie nodded. She was frightened now that she was in his presence. She had not realized that he was so tall and commanding of presence, or that his voice was so rich and vibrant. He looked proud, too. What would he say to her when she explained her errand?

What he did say to her in his amazed surprise neither of them ever remembered. When they parted it was with the sweet knowledge that each had found a friend. Gustav Spohr had expressed his gratitude so delicately, so gracefully, that Elsie parted from him without one doubt as the wisdom of her impulsive action. He had told her gently that he treasured her kindness above everything that had ever happened to him, and that the return of his violin would enable him to resume his position with the large theater orchestra of which he had once been soloist; with the renewal of his health he would not only regain that position, but later on hoped to appear in concert.

After that there were many delightful musical treats in store for Elsie Chapin. Tickets had a pleasant habit of dropping into her mail, and many times she went to hear Gustav Spohr play. Once a month he sent her a payment on the $100, and she was almost disappointed when the debt was cancelled. The obligation, he said, never could be paid.

The day they were married, Gustav took Elsie to her curiosity shop and, to her delight, purchased the old escritoir which she loved, and behind which she had been hidden when she first saw him.

"I can't find any old love letters or even a withered rose, Gustav," she said, after she had thoroughly ransacked the secret hiding place of the desk.

"Never mind," he murmured, "hide our own love letters there for our grandchildren to find and tell them the story of your old curiosity shop, and how you found a husband there!"

Ocean travel is now to be made as well as luxurious.

A man rarely knows when to discard an old suit of clothes.

Sowing seeds of kindness is as right, and sowing grass seed is as good.

THE SITUATION IN CUBA.

(From the Havana Post)

The attitude of the Washington authorities regarding Cuba is so much at variance with the actual situation here as far as our information indicates that we are at a loss to find an adequate explanation. We do not like to believe that representatives of the United States in Cuba have misstated facts or that they have been misled by alarmists who may or may not have been swayed by an ulterior motive. Nor do we care to believe that the fear of what might happen rather than what has actually taken place has been the theme of Washington dispatches. We prefer to think that the alarmist reports given out in Washington have been gathered from other than official sources.

As far as the presence of Admiral Osterhaus and his warships in Havana is concerned, the visit really has no great significance. We are told that only the gravest developments will result in the landing of marines and we are also assured that there is hardly a remote possibility of such developments.

If the United States cares to indulge in summer manoeuvres in Cuban waters with one eye on the negro uprising and the other on the financial and political situation, this should not cause any general alarm in the breasts of either patriotic Cubans or patriotic Americans. The nerves of women, and the notwithstandings of some of the more temperamental of the male sex will probably be benefitted. It is also likely that the nervousness of the American ships may have a sedentary effect on the hotter-brained West Indians.

The negro uprising has not yet been under way three weeks but hundreds of thousands of words plentifully besprinkled with sensational adjectives have been used to portray the "gravity of the situation." One amusing angle is the publication by the New York newspapers of the alarming Havana dispatches in their news columns with comment in the editorial columns belittling the situation and discrediting their own news. The New York Tribune, asserted editorially yesterday that there was nothing to indicate that the Cuban situation was grave or that the Cuban government was not entirely able to settle it.

The sources of information have been weak and in the lack of developments scare rumors have been substituted for facts. The news-gathering forces have not been adequate nor has there been a sufficient tendency to confirm reports before putting them on the wires as facts of with the appearance of facts.

The American legation informed The Post yesterday that it had no information of disorders in Havana since the disturbance of Saturday. Asked if they had any information to justify the necessity for warships at Havana it was stated frankly that there was no such information and that the ships would probably disperse later.

This is all at variance with the reports given out at Washington as having been received from Cuba. A Washington dispatch to The New York Times last Thursday reported a shocking rape case (which was reported here and afterwards denied), and added that four such aggravated cases had been reported to Washington within a day or so. We digress here long enough to state that to the best of our knowledge not one of the several reports of assaults by negroes on white women, has been verified while most, if not all, have been denied authoritatively.

The Washington dispatches indicate that President Taft is hesitating on the verge of declaring a third intervention because of the negro uprising. In perfect fairness to all elements involved we are bound to declare that the uprising does not justify an intervention nor hardly the presence of American ships or forces unless, perhaps, they may have a good moral effect.

Whether or not the financial condition of the Cuban government is such that a restraining hand is required is another question. It must be admitted that the island is impoverished but it is doubtful if the condition is beyond repair.

The political status quo is interesting and like all the other angles of the situation in Cuba has many possibilities. Again logic and reason forces the conclusion that there is no imminent menace or even probable menace in the situation.

An intervention in Cuban affairs should not be based justly on any one of the conditions in the republic. Neither the negro uprising, the depleted treasury nor the political situation constitutes in itself a sufficient cause and it is extremely questionable whether they are adequate in the aggregate for such a measure. These are facts beyond the ability of the aggressive interventionists and annexationists to gain.

As we pointed out last week, the general situation here has provoked an increasing sentiment favoring intervention and perhaps ultimate annexation. We will go a bit further and elucidate the grounds for this sentiment. It is based chiefly on the belief that Cuban independence is a myth and that the nation and its government will always be at the mercy of sensationalists who can induce northern interference whenever there is the slightest misstep on the part of the Cuban government or unusual occurrences give opportunity for spreading the propaganda. It is argued that better an American government, or any old government, which will ensure stability to the business interests of the islands which are the chief sufferers by the present condition of things.

Business Dress

Bright and Pretty Colors Worn by the Women

By JOHN W. V. BALLARD

THE difference between man's and woman's attire in color is largely attributable to the difference in temperament and taste. Men's dress is grave because they dress in accordance with the requirement of their business, and their clothes for full dress and half dress are quiet, principally that the contrast with that of women should be more apparent.

From time immemorial woman has been garbed in gayer dress than that of man. This is opposite to the nature of the sexes in the bird kingdom, for the male bird's plumage is more brilliant than that of his mate. Then why does woman dress more gaily? It is her nature. It is her desire to dress becomingly. It is her wish to dress in a manner more pleasing to her husband, her lover, her friend.

It is also a fact that a few of the fair sex who seem to have little desire to please the eye of man will study attractive dress and bright attire. The adage, "Beauty unadorned is adorned the most," seems a contradiction of ideas, but the most beautiful women of the world desire to dress in richest colors and best quality of fabric.

Imagine at a grand ball a lady entering the assemblage in the sombre colors employed by the male sex, such an effect would seem ridiculous. A desirable effect is not always produced in gaudy colors alone, but must be combined with materials of exquisite texture. A new and lovely gown often is conducive to the promotion of a cheerful temperament and in a practical way a fresh and pretty frock has suggested an aid to convalescence after a protracted illness. A great variety of costumes is necessary to the fair sex to meet the requirements of the many festal and other occasions of the present day. The church, the theater, dinner, dance, motoring, and sports in general, all require special costuming. We have been asked by one of our large papers to design a suitable and becoming costume for young ladies' baseball college clubs in the brilliant colors of their respective colleges.

We are unwilling to acquiesce in the report that the society ladies of our city dress in extremely subdued fashion, for they certainly manifest exceptionally refined taste in the adoption of rich colors and superior fabrics. So it seems to us that bright and beautiful colors are rightfully employed by the fair sex on nearly every occasion.

Working Out Our Own Salvation

By L. H. O'CONNOR

And now comes a great writer who says that we are too stingy, that we should spend more money, eat better food, wear better clothes, pay our friends' car fare. That such a course is money well invested. Henry Ward Beecher is reported to have said that a dollar a day was enough for a laboring man. Ingersoll advised young men if they had but a dollar to "spend it like a god." Every banker will tell us that if we have a dollar we should deposit it with him, and he will make us rich.

I wonder if it has ever occurred to these people that the majority of men do with their money as necessity requires. There is not much choice for many of us. Philosophy, economics and frugality are all right in their places, but there is no fixed rule by which a dog can be made to wag his tail. He is governed by the occasion whether it's a fight or a frolic.

I have many times been in the wheat pit on the Chicago board of trade, where 1,000 men were yelling, clawing each other like wild beasts, when from the edge of the pit a well known character noted for his keen, shrill voice would cry aloud: "This is a gay life."

Laughter and ridicule sometimes has a quieting effect. Life, if not "gay," is certainly susceptible of numerous variations. We each have our own individuality. Each is himself alone. He can be no one else. No general rule of conduct applicable alike to all can ever be successfully carried out.

When Adam and Eve passed out of Eden beneath the flaming sword they were apprised that the world was all before them. Since then man in his wanderings has made many discoveries, many secrets of nature he has unlocked, but the greatest of them all remains a mystery, that is, man himself. God does not intend that his kingdom shall be filled with counterfeit presentments. We must work out our own salvation, crystallize, harmonize and purify and do it alone.

"Know then thyself, presume not God to scan; the proper study of mankind is man."

Problem of Saving All Personal Letters

By E. P. MELLINGER

The line of distinction between letters of business and letters of friendship has become more and more sharply drawn. Broadly speaking, the abrupt business communication of today is not a letter at all. Yet most business letters are preserved for a time. After what is deemed a sufficient period, such letters are destroyed.

But the old, old problem of what to do with personal letters still is as perplexing as ever. A private letter from a friend is a bit of that particular friend himself. Not cold paper and ink are inclosed in the envelope, but aspirations, fears, opinions, love.

Here, then, arises the dilemma: shall the recipient destroy such a letter, or shall he stow it away, thereby giving himself a chance to reread it, but also rendering it possible that other eyes than those for which it was intended may read it?

One type of person solves the question by throwing everything away. As he himself avers, he thus cuts himself loose from a host of ties by which he may bind himself to the past. He surrenders one of the most precious privileges of letter exchanging. The solution by throwing everything away is really no solution at all. That is merely to adopt the method of one who avoids a sprained ankle by never taking a step, or who avoids trashy novels by not reading at all.

Over against him stands the person who never destroys any personal letters. He goes on classifying and preserving, preserving and classifying, until, instead of merely filling odd corners here and there, he fills whole boxes, drawers and trunks. By traditional custom letters find their way to the attic. They do not always—largely because people cannot afford room for attics nowadays—but they end by filling an unconscionable

WASHINGTON AND TIGERS FOUGHT HARD

Senators Beat Detroit Out
After a Hard and Very Close Struggle

Detroit, June 11.—The home team lost out this afternoon in a hotly contested game with Washington. Dubec and Onslow worked for the Tigers and Groome, Cashion, Johnson and Henry, Williams and Ainsworth were the Washington battery. Detroit made 2 runs, 7 hits and no errors. MANAGER ISBELL HEARS ONE ON HIMSELF

Frank Isbell, Manager of Des Moines Club.

The following story is told on Frank Isbell, former major league star and present part owner of the Des Moines team. It happened recently when Izzy and his bunch were on their way to the southland.
Secretary McMullen of the Wichita club says: "I didn't pay much attention to what they were saying for quite a little bit, but after a while I heard the visitor saying thing about 'that — Frank Isbell.' and then I began to listen. The fan was lining Izzy up as several kinds of a reprobate and horse thief, and Old Izzy was sliding in with him in everything he said, even going a little stronger most of the time.
"Most ungrateful man I ever knew anywhere," declared the fan. "Made all his money here in Wichita and then pulled up and went off somewhere else to spend it."
"Yes, I reckon that's right," said Isbell. "He probably didn't have a dime when he came here. Probably never anything much in the big league, even if he was up there 16 years or so."
"No, I reckon not. He probably was a mighty cheap player up here, anyhow, and I suppose he blew in his money about as fast as he made it. I understand he is an awful gambler and rounder."
"Regular bug, I guess," chimed in Izzy.
"Pretty soon the conversation waned and after a bit the fan wandered out. Izzy pulled off his hat and rubbed his hands over his bald head.
"Say, Mac," he said, "did you hear that guy? Well, sir, I sure did enjoy his conversation. I believe that is the most fully correct and unvarnished opinion of myself I ever did get handed out at first hand. Wish I knew who my friend was. I'd like to send him a box of cigars."

"Moth Miller" Hat

The trimming of the hat in the photograph is a replica of a moth miller. Fashionable milliners in New York now are trimming summer hats with representatives of the butterfly class. The hat is most effective when worn with a tailored gown or shirtwaist suit.

EMBELLISH THE FIRST MEAL

Exceedingly Dainty Are the Breakfast Sets Offered in the Stores Just Now.

Exceedingly dainty breakfast sets include a cloth and small napkins of linen damask bordered with an English chintz flower design in green and red, green and pink or green and yellow and are hemstitched bordered. Another is of linen crash embroidered in crossstitch and a third of pineapple patterned linen is edged with hand-crocheting. New designs for table cloths include Belgian double damask with borders for square and round tables which begin at the center and widen to the edge; Irish linen with pin dots with scroll borders, clover leaves, shamrocks and lilies, and hemstitched plain linens with flat lace monograms in one corner.

Show towels are of pure heavy Irish linen deeply embroidered in floral pattern along one end of damask with deep borders in flat medallions and of huckaback with hemstitched damask ends and side borders. Guest towels of 15 by 24 inch dimensions match the materials and decorations of the show towels and are always laid out in company with them.

MODISH MILLINERY

The Picture Hat in its Beplumed Perfection.

Boots for Tramping.
Such boots as are to be dedicated to tramping should be scrubbed well with English harness soap and then treated to two coats of a good waterproofing oil. This will keep them soft, no matter how often they are soaked. These little attentions bestowed on well-built shoes will do much toward keeping their wearers well shod and will save many dollars.

When it comes to buying it must be remembered that summer means loose shoes or shoe discomfort. A ready-made shoe should be bought either a trifle wider than the size usually worn or else a half size longer. This will be found a great saving on the stockings, too.

CARE OF CHILDREN'S CLOTHES

Little Things Most Mothers Know and That All Should Have Full Knowledge Of.

Mothers should learn how to distinguish materials which fade, shrink, spot or go to pieces.

Get samples and test the goods before buying.

Try the threads with the match test; wool may be recognized by the bad odor, there being none from cotton.

Boil the sample in a five per cent. solution of caustic potash for 15 minutes.

The caustic potash destroys the wool and leaves the cotton.

All wool goods disappear entirely under this test.

Samples put in sunlight show the value of the different colors.

Brown in a woolen material will fade, but will hold its color better in cotton.

Green, unless in fine goods, is risky.

Beware of lavender or light blue.

Black in cotton shows the starch and often fades.

Dark blue changes little in woolen materials or gingham.

Red is good in wool.

Deep pink is the best color, as it fades evenly.

OUTFIT FOR READING IN BED

Russian Blouse Gown and Cap Go With This Somewhat Reprehensible Habit.

To read while in bed is most reprehensible, but if you persist in the practice be sure to have the proper outfit—a Russian blouse reading gown and a curl paper covering cap. The gown, which reaches almost to the knees, is a front closing blouse with elbow length cut-in sleeves and rounded-out neck which is finished with a broad collar of side plaited white mulline. You may make the blouse of pale-toned wool, satin or messaline, and embroider or applique it with birds and butterflies or of a flowered thin silk lined with lightweight flannel. Just above the normal waist line draw in the fullness with a rope of silk cordage. The cap of silk matching the grounding of the gown is merely a circular piece pulled on to a narrow ribbon, over which is placed a wide frill of plaited mulline, and at one side, usually above the left ear tip, may be placed a big bow of black velvet ribbon.

Pocket Inside Pocket.

Inside the pocket of the housekeeper's aprons make a tiny pocket with flap to button over the top. In this she can keep her dimes and nickels. They will not fall out if the apron is thrown down carelessly and a trip is often saved to another part of the house when change is wanted.

Modish Finish for Collar.

A row of black fringe an inch and a half in depth makes a very modish finish when run around the extreme top of a white lace or net collar. If another row of deeper fringe is attached to the bottom edge of the collar, resting on the throat, it is liked all the more.

Health & Beauty Hints

By Katherine Morton

A toilet vinegar of any desired odor is made by digesting four ounces of any fragrant flowers or scented herbs in one pint of strong white-wine vinegar. Merely put the flowers in the cold vinegar and let it stand for a week, agitating three times daily; then strain several times, and repeat the process with more fresh flowers or herbs if the liquid is not sufficiently perfumed. Toilet vinegars made from dried herbs, such as lavender and rosemary or others, can be prepared in the same manner, only half the quantity of these being needed; but fresh materials are better, these exercising a more active result upon the skin.

Women used to the coquetties of the toilet understand the use of toilet waters and vinegars of all sorts. Where cold cream is much employed, they are indispensable for taking the shine off the skin, and since a liberal use of cream burns the flesh, making it at last darker and rougher than before—remember the point—the toilet vinegar is often required for a thorough cleansing. When using, about a tablespoonful of strong sort is put in a small bowl of water. For astringent treatments of the neck the vinegar or water will be used full strength, after the throat has been washed, massaged and creamed. Sponging down with a solution of toilet vinegar and water is also very refreshing on a hot day and to sick persons, while if a hot plate is sprinkled with one or it is sprayed about the chamber the sick room will be gratefully purified.

When treating sagging muscles of the neck use the vinegar hot.

Where the herbs or flowers cannot be had, flower and herb oils achieve the next best thing in the way of a beneficial toilet water, and a vinegar of this sort is as easily managed. One of the simplest lavender waters made, and which always receives the name of "fine" in the drug stores, can be fabricated at home by digesting one ounce of mitcham oil of lavender in a half pint of strong rectified spirits. Other perfumed oils can be used in the same way.

A toilet water especially for resting the muscles of the body owes its invention, it is said, to Mme. Bernhardt, who used it every day, particularly when coming in from her outdoor exercises. As this wonderful woman at sixty-eight or nine is younger than many women of forty, I would advise a little trial of her "calming" water, which is made in this manner:

Alcohol ½ pint
Spirits of camphor 2 ounces
Spirits of ammonia 2 ounces
Sea salt 5 ounces
Boiling water.....To make a quart

Put all ingredients in a large bottle, or in two, and agitate thoroughly. When using, shake the bottle always and rub the water into the skin with the hands.

Dresses for Girls

THE first is for a girl of 8 to 10 years, and is made up in ruby red fine woollen material, with a silk stripe.

It has a Magyar bodice with the right side of front cut in a slant and taken over to the left. A strap of plain material trimmed with buttons is carried from above waist to hem of skirt.

The neck and sleeves are trimmed to match, and the waist-band is also of the plain material.

Materials required: 2½ yards stripe 44 inches wide, ¾ yard plain 40 inches wide, 1½ dozen buttons.

The second would look well in fine face cloth and is for a girl of 6 to 8 years. It has a plaited skirt connected to the bodice by a braided waist-band; the neck and armholes are trimmed to match. Piece lace or figured silk may be used for the required underslip.

Materials required: 2 yards cloth 42 inches wide, 6 yards Russia braid, 1½ yards silk or lace 18 inches wide for underslip.

For the third black satin is used. The dress is for a little girl of 4 to 6 years, and is just a straight, simply cut Magyar, trimmed at the neck and sleeves by Vandyke lace. A cord girle encircles the waist, and a narrow lace edging finishes the foot.

Materials required: 1½ yards satin 40 inches wide, 1 yard Vandyke and 1½ yards narrow lace.

Social Forms and EntertainmentsFrom "An Orphan."

Have found your column of questions and answers very much help. A very good boy friend of mine has failed to write to me for a very long time and I have never done anything to stop him from corresponding. Would like to start corresponding with him again, as we have been great friends for four years, therefore I would like to continue being friends. I am now seventeen years old and would like to know if it is proper for me to wear ribbons on my hair? I don't care to do my hair upon my head. I want to look girlish as long as possible. I am an orphan and will take your advice any time.

EUGENIA.

Write a letter to your friend and ask him why there has been such a long time between letters. You know "Uncle Sam" occasionally lets mail go astray, and it is possible that "he" has written you and you have never received the letter. So give him the benefit of the doubt and write once again to him. This is all you can do. You are not a bit too old for hair ribbons.

From a School Girl.

I have been helped very much by your valuable column. Many thanks. Do you think a young lady should teach a young man to play cards? How often should a school girl let her beau call upon her, or do you think a girl of fifteen too young to receive company?

Do you believe in "leap year" affairs, where the girls go for the boys? Do you approve of going automobiling at night?

"VIOLET EYES."

There is no harm that I can see in teaching a young man to play cards, for I do not object to cards any more than any other game. A girl of fifteen is entirely too young to have what you are pleased to call a "beau." Wait until you are out of school before you allow such thoughts. Leap year parties are lots of fun when properly chaperoned, as all parties should be. I am not much in favor of night automobiling without a chaperone.

From a "Young Girl."

I am a young girl of fourteen years. Is it right when at a party a boy who is in my room at school escort me home? My brother is just my size. When he has one or two boy friends at his home is it right for me to play games with them.

H. SMITH.

Certainly it was perfectly correct for your boy friend to see you safely home, and equally proper for you to help your brother entertain his friends, that is, if he likes to have you with him, and he should.

MADAME MERRI.

Children's Bonnets

BONNETS of lace-straw and silk braids are shown, made up with light weight silks or ribbons, of high luster. Bright tones of blue and pink are used on many of them and tints of many colors in the soft and supple ribbons that form the trimming and sometimes part of the body of the bonnet.

Fig. 1 illustrates a pretty combination. A fancy braid in deep ecru forms the body of the shape. A quaint finish at the brim-edge is made by over-casting a tuscan straw cord about it. The shape bends outward in a deep scallop over the ears and is otherwise plain.

The scant trimming consists of a wreath of small pink June rosebuds laid in the simplest manner about the crown. At the left side a very full choux of ribbon, made of small puffs set close together, complete the childish design. It is an adorable little model fitted to crown the straying curls or smoothly bobbed hair of little misses. It is worn without ties and fastens with an elastic cord under the hair.

Fig. 2 shows another combination in which a silk lace braid is combined with puffed ribbon to make the shape. Its foundation is a frame of fine silk wire. This frame provides for the Dutch bonnet flare over the ears at each side, which is balanced by a crown like a square in shape.

The bonnet pictured here is made of light blue braid and white messaline ribbon. The band of braid about the head is repeated in the facing and the edge is finished with a puff of the ribbon. The square crown is made entirely of braid and the crown is set on by means of a puff made of the ribbon.

At the left side a short braid of ribbon, folded, is fastened to the frame with a small spray of little roses and terminates in a rosette of ribbon at the point over the ear. This is repeated on the right side and from these rosettes short ties extend, fastening under the cheek at the left, in a simple bow of two short loops and ends. The ties may be fastened on the inside at the same points; this will allow more flare to the frame and give a closer fit, if it is desired.

Never was there so great variety to choose from in children's hats and bonnets, as are shown this season. But nothing is prettier than these, the simplest of designs made up of the materials and in the colors which have long been associated in our minds with headgear for little ones.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

PUTTING THE SHOES IN ORDER

Now Is the Time to See That They Are in Proper Condition for the Hot Weather.

If one intends to have a supply of summer foot gear in readiness before the hot months are actually here there are several things which should be done as soon as possible. Last year's shoes, which have presumably been put carefully away, should be taken out of hiding and gone over with a cream that will clean and preserve the leather, then the cobbler should have a chance at these before the home repairs are attempted. A half-sole, a new heel lift, new buttons put on with patent fasteners, and straps on the chafed front or back seam of a boot will work a wonderful change. If the renovated footgear does not look quite new it will at least give one something to wear on a bad day, and every one knows it ruins new shoes to get them wet or even thoroughly damp. After the cobbler has done his work new ribbons should be put on pumps and new ribbon lacing in ties. Then every pair should be properly "treed" and polished and covered from the chance of dust.

Proper Patching.

When children's dresses have to be patched, be sure to match the weave of the material, and if it be striped or plaid goods, take great care that the lines of the figure exactly match.

Before applying the patch be sure that the material of the patch matches the dress in color. For example, do not patch a faded garment with a piece of new material. If the dress is faded, wet a bit of new material and lay it in the sun until it, too, is faded the same amount as the dress itself; then it can be put on underneath the tear, the frayed edges cut away and the edges of the tear sewed down with invisible stitches. Dampen and press the patch on the wrong side and it will be almost impossible to see where the garment has been mended.

Footwear Indorsed by Paris.

The white boot is an important factor of the Parisienne's toilette this season. It is seen with white costumes having conspicuous white touches. These white boots have very high tops that fit the ankle exquisitely, so that the foot looks exceedingly trim and dainty. Most fashionables in Paris now wear flesh-tinted or cream silk stockings with the buttoned boot, black stockings being worn with black slippers and pumps in the evening. The colonial pump of gun metal, with a curved, oblong buckle, is a new model which is liked for piazza and country wear.

VERY UP-TO-DATE

Gown of white cotton voile and coarse guipure, with brown silk tie and belt of dull gold gauze. White straw hat lined with brown velvet and trimmed with a brown paradise feather.

Keeping Cream Sweet.

If you have cream you want to keep sweet a few days, add two or three lumps of sugar, stirring it well, then cover it and set it away in the coldest corner of the refrigerator.
