Key West High School

2100 Flagler Avenue
Key West, FL 33040

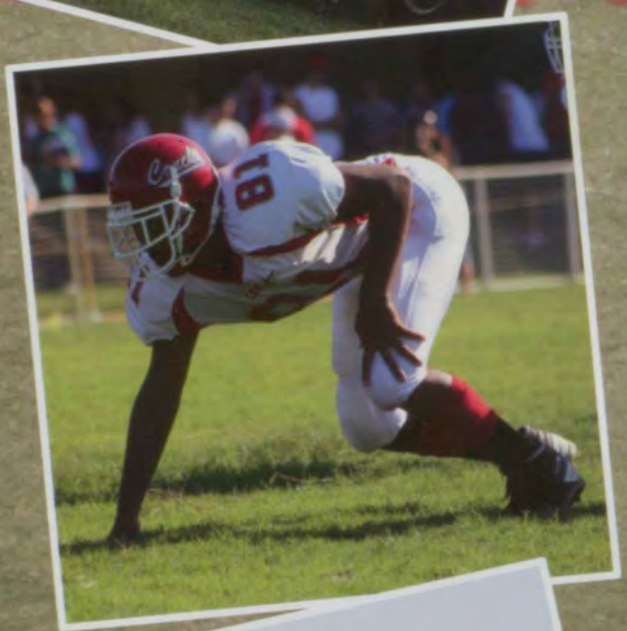
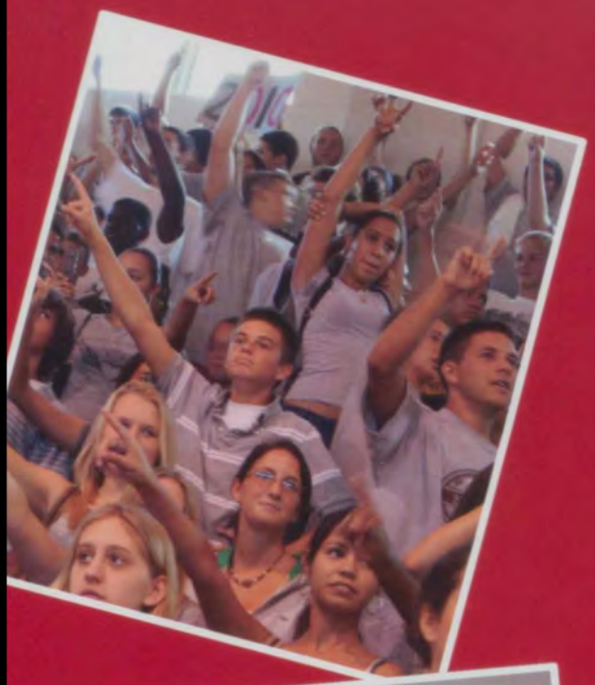
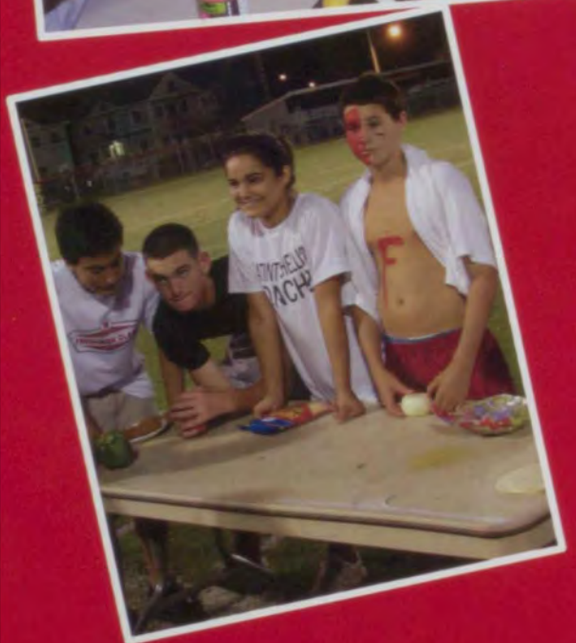
http: //kwh.monroe.k12.fl.us/
Principal: John Welsh
Enrollment: 1371



When we entered Key West High School, we knew that we would learn many things. The lessons were more than what was in our math, history, and science books; they were also about friendship, goals and life. Our steps were small in the beginning, but as we gained knowledge and grew in confidence, our steps grew bigger. As Conchs, we learned how to swim in the mainstream of life and go to great depths to help others. Friends and family were like sand on the beach, smoothing out the rough spots in our lives. The victories, academic achievements, and fun filled memories brought us waves of joy. As we moved forward to find our place in the vast ocean of life, we took with us our Conch Pride and all of the lessons learned.

Lessons Learned





Key West High School presents invaluable lessons every day. All of the knowledge gained allows us to take what is and create something better. We turn obstacles into OPPORTUNITIES, deadlines into accomplishments, dreams into REALITIES, defeat into determination, classmates into friends, MOMENTS into memories, and everyday lessons into successes of tomorrow.

Good ole' Days

Melissa Mclaughlin, Sheri Yoest, Danielle Gambino, and Dawn Robbins sit together for a group shot while Briana Bosco opens her birthday presents.

Strutting down the beauty pageant runway, Brittany Mariscal, Brittany Pazo, and Amanda Malott show off their pretty dresses to the crowd.

Taking a break from the swimming pool, Kaitlin Hopkins, Kimberlee Haack, and Kara Haack sit on the couch and eat summer snacks.

Showing opposite personalities, Stephen Ford, the spooky skeleton, and Catherine Ford, the cheerful clown, sit patiently waiting for their trick or treat adventures to begin.

Everyone changes and grows with time. Living in a small community allowed students that came from different parts of the keys to make new friends and keep old ones close. Amanda Malott said, "I don't know what I would do without my friends. They have always been there when I needed to talk to them and I'm grateful to have such great friends that I have known since childhood." Although many students may have moved on to college and other monumental times in their lives, the close bonds between friends remained strong. No matter the distance, the memories will never be forgotten.

Renewing an Old Tradition

Briana Bosco

Seniors Aaron Fraga and Michael Vercher cool off after a great performance.

Amber Bosco

Cheering on their fellow classmates, the football team makes it a night to remember.

Senior Andrea Wells shows off her conch pride standing for the Alma Mater.

The sound of cheers, the sight of crimson and gray, and the woody aroma were all ever so present at the bonfire festivity held at Key West High School. The traditional bonfire was a highly anticipated event that commemorated and celebrated the opening of the Conchs' sports season. There had been a lull in the bonfire activity for about five years and the cheerleaders really wanted to bring the tradition back. They asked their coach, Ms. Bosco, to talk to Mr. Fraga, athletic director, concerning proper procedures for the bonfire. After getting the "OK" from the fire department and administrative staff, everyone was hyped about the renewed tradition coming back. Senior Catherine Ford summed it up as such, "The bonfire provides an opportunity to show pride in our school as well as a chance to meet new people and create lasting memories." This event promoted camaraderie and was a spirited function that promoted fun and tradition.

Amber Bosco

Corey Childs holds up his best catch of the day.

Taking a break from the boat, Kaitilyn Trent and Amy Coley discuss how clear the water is.

While in France, Natcha Palay and her sister jump into a lake to celerbrate their summer adventure!

The ringing of the bell at 3:45 on the last day of school gets the students excited because it means summer begins! Summer time allows students a chance to enjoy the island that is better known as "paradise" with friends and family. Although boating days are one of Key West islanders' favorites, there are also many other activities to partake in during summer vacation. Students take advantage of every day before the new school year begins.

School's Out!

Alexia Degraffenreid and good friend Amanda Talbott take a quiok pose before the tubing begins.

Rachel Walker and Scarlett Williams prepare for their parasailing adventure.....Time to get a bird's eyevuew of the keys!

Showing off her great wake boarding skills, Victoria Brisson holds on tight.

While exploring the deep blue sea, David Hawthorne discovers a sea turtle and poses for a picture with his underwater discovery.

Annabelle McLeod holds up her African Spur Thigh tortoise, Lumpy. This is one of her many pets that weigh 75 pounds or more.

Science teacher, Mrs. Smith, shows some affection for her turtle Sparky. He is a spunky turtle who did not miss the moment to pop his head out and say hello.

Brenton Taylor alows his sugar glider, Bindi, to climb on him while he poses for a photo.

How could one live in Key West and not develop a soft spot for an animal? We have unusual pets on the island ranging from monkeys, to sugar gliders, to iguanas, and let us not forget the chickens. At the same time, we have everyday household pets such as cats and dogs. Having a pet can help one relieve stress and can serve as a best friend. Dogs are better known as "man's best friend", but judging from the looks of the photos, dogs are not the only animal that can be described as "man's best friend".

Unconditional Love

Deanna Mira shows her cat, Pumpkin, some love. She says with a smile, "I love my cross eyed kitty."

Danielle Hills plays around with her pack of dogs better known as Snowball, Charlie, Max, and Missy.

Walking around school, Mrs. Morris and her christmas duck wish everyone a Merry Christmas.

The class of 2010 shows their school spirit by trying to out-cheer the other classes.

Putting Pep in our Steps!

The student body, staff members, parents, and community members gathered to support the Conchs at the fun, action packed, and spirit-filled pep rally. There were different engaging performances by the band, Conchettes, cheerleaders, pep squad, and the DJ. The teams were recognized by their captains and coaches. The different classes competed to determine who had the loudest class and most school spirit for bragging rights throughout the year. To end the traditional pep rally, the alma mater is played and a renewed sense of pride and commitment emerges.

Ms. Bosco

Time to huddle up! The football players get rowdy for Friday night's game.

In a sea of red, the senior class shows their pride!

During the homecoming pep rally, the members of the homecoming court competed to see which girl could dress up their escort the fastest.

Providing the traditional tunes and the upbeat rhythms, the band keeps the music flowing and the people dancing.

Skip to my Lou! Having fun in the hallway, friends Lindsey Vinson, Samantha Grizzle, and Devynn Kraus skip down the hall in their pajamas.

Briana Bosco

Pretty in pink! Mrs. Webster struts her robe and shower cap during class on Pajama Day.

Mrs. Perkins

Spirit week is a fun-filled traditional week that consisits of Toga Day, Pajama Day, Twin Day, and Spirit Day. This year's spirit week kicked off with a Senior Toga Day and a Twin Day with lots of memorable attire. The students look forward to showcasing their creativity. A majority of the students and faculty gets involved in the activities and goes "big" for the occasion. It's a way to get the students and staff pumped for the homecoming events. "The funny thing is when I go school shopping in the summer, I usually look for cool things to wear for spirit week," said sophomore Phillip Young.

Still kids at heart! Briana Bosco and Jordan Veliz decide to act on their inner child and have some fun after working so hard.

In the hot sun, Ms. Bertolini, Ms. Preston, and Ms. Parmer, sell tickets for the fundraiser.

Watch out Superman! David Lee flies and dives to show some kids how catch a football.

Who's going to win? Leander Rahming, Jimmy Hirschbeck, Brittany Pazo and Jaxon Coleman compete against each other in the X-treme Sports Challenge to see who's the best athlete.

A race to the finish line! Zachary Harden and Kevin McCord go head to head in the obstacle course. Looks like Zack is taking the victory.

One ticket please. Kevin Hernandez makes snow cones for the kids.

SPORTING A

Just hanging out. Scarlette Williams decides to put herself through the the tire instead of the football.

Seeing who could go faster, Katherine Albury and Megan Malgrat race down the slide.

This year marked the first annual Sports Festival held at Key West High School. The festival was held on February 10, 2008 and was put together by the school's athletic director, Peter Fraga. Mr. Fraga wanted a way to promote the school's sports' programs as well as a way to raise money for the various athletic teams. There were many activities for everyone to enjoy which ranged from moon bounces, slides and obstacle courses to snacks and sport instruction. A great family fun day!

With a smile on his face,Mr. Fraga sells ice cold water on the to a thirsty costumer on this bright, sunny day.

A long day of hard work deserves a little fun. Senior Richard Cormack spends his 18th birthday helping out at the fundraiser event. He and Maleah Fraga slide down the moon bounce for some excitement.

How high can you go? Humberto Rojas shows off his skill doing back flips in the moon bounce.

Anticipating the release of the ball, Stephanie Ford waits for the next dunk.

Capturing the Pride

Briana Bosco

I'm not afraid of you. Standing her ground, Stephanie Leone stares in the face of Davy Jones acted out by Michael Hartley on the night of the parade.

Ms. Bosco

The seniors get hyped while waiting at the high school for the parade to start. "Riding down Flagler Avenue, dancing, and having a good time are the best parts about being in the parade," stated Brittany Pazo, class member.

Briana Bosco

Attack! Portraying the part of William Turner in the movie, Bryce McBratnie leads the pirates into the fight.

Doing an amazing job, Jeremy Boros excites the crowd with his uncanny costume and hysterical speech.

Briana Bosco

The day after the parade, senior class president Brandon Martin helps take apart the float.

With smiles on their faces, Luara Kaczkowski and Brittany Pazo practice the skit one last time before heading to the high school.

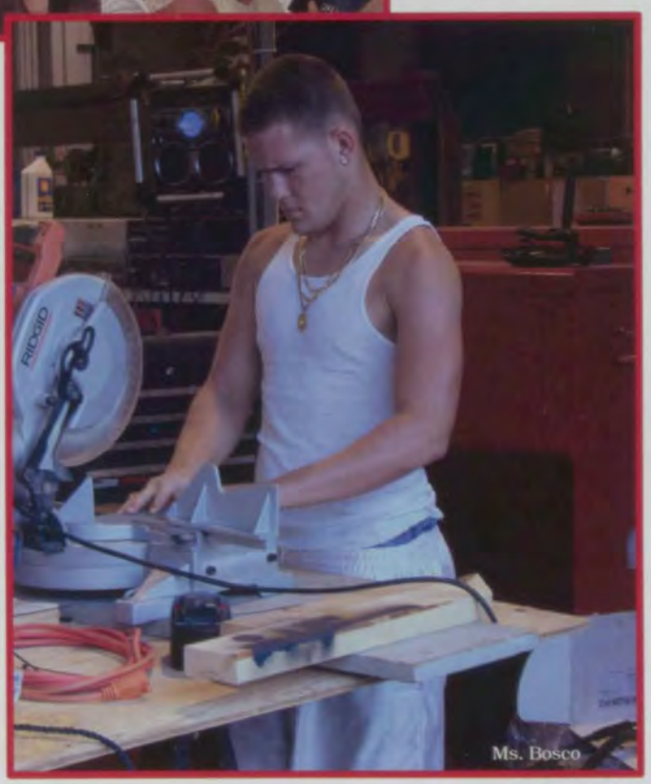
Ms. Bosco

Hard at work, Derrick Cassel makes sure the lines are straight for the windows that were later painted.

Ms. Bosco

In excitement, the senior class jumps up and down with shouts of joy after hearing the announcement that seniors won first place.

Keeping a steady hand, Korey Rodriguez carefully cuts pieces of wood to build the float.



Ms. Bosco

The senior class ended their reign as the first place winners of the homecoming parade. They were excited and proud that the float that they worked so hard on won! They overcame many obstacles in the building process and came together with an extravagant float. This year, the first year without backboards on the floats, allowed the class to be more creative. The theme "Into the Sea", led the class to act out the hit movie "Pirates of the Caribbean". The skit consisted of the Patriots and Davy Jones capturing the Conchs' pride. With the beloved Conch Pride gone, the pirates fought off the Patriots and Davy Jones to get it back. With comedy, action, and the unforgettable Conch Pride, the seniors were not only able to capture the crowds' attention, but the first place trophy as well.

Alexia Degraffenreid

The muscle men of the group lift the La Concha onto the flat bed the day it was received.

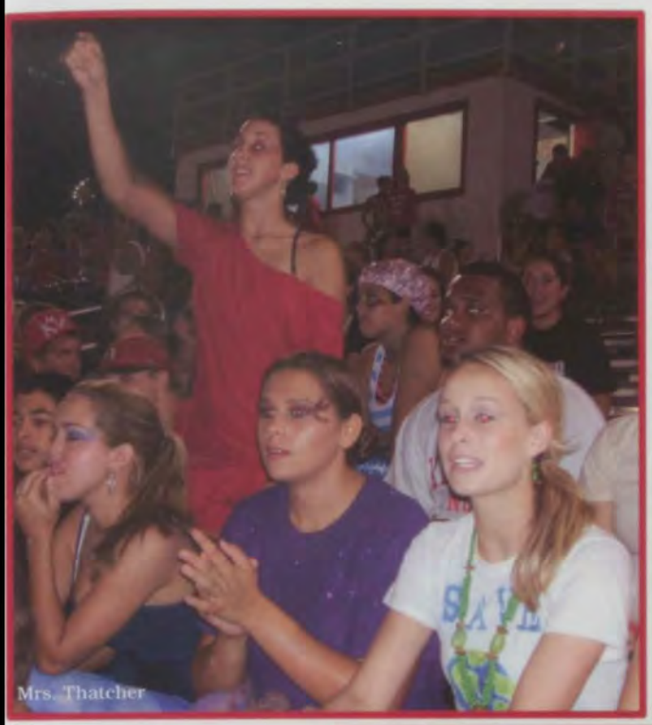
Juniors Make it Rain



Mrs. Thatcher

The junior class had a successful turnout, splashing into second place at the traditional homecoming parade. Spending school nights and weekends on the float, the class of 2009 showed their efforts and school spirit with an amazing float. The theme was an eco-friendly skit involving a Key West High student awaking only to find his city under water. The horrible dream was an eye opener for the student which prompted him to think about the effects of his actions on the environment. "I am satisfied with the turnout and hope to receive first place next year," said member Cassandra Mcgee.

Ah! Junior Executive Board members wait in anticipation for the results of the homecoming parade.

Alexia Degraffenreid

" You is a pretty man," says the Chinese octopus, Alexia Degraffenreid, to main character, Jesse Hammers.

Shea Reger, McKenzie Anderson, Devon Marlow and Terry Williams kick off the amazing skit with a classroom scene discussing recycling issues.

Mrs. Thatcher

Taryn Weller, Keia Rahming, and Arianna Gonzalez watch Janessa Giannetto create student council shirts for the skit.

The Sophomore Executive Board raises money each year to create the homecoming float. The celebration of homecoming is an event that all can enjoy be a part of. Each class has a float in the homecoming parade that is judged on originality, theme, and skit. This year's theme was into the ocean and each executive board was allowed to pick the topic of their skit. The Sophomore Executive Board took on "Gilligan's Island" in the hopes of taking home first prize. Upon winning third place, Sophomore Executive Board sponsor, Koleen Bethel said, "Even though we stayed afloat with third place, we are going to rock first place as seniors."

Off to the parade! See you on Flagler Avenue!

The freshmen pulled off an awesome float for the homecoming parade. Their skit was based on the movie Atlantis and consisted of young talented freshmen acting as the different characters. Although this was their fist year participating in the homecoming parade, the class skit was entertaining, and received a fourth place finish. "We should be looking forward to placing next year seeing how great our float turned out our first year", said Elie Ceberio, freshman executive board member.

When we are little, we are often told that team work and a great attitude are the keys to success, but we often forget about the people who help us on the long and hard road we have to travel. Look around the campus.... classmate, teachers and staff members. They are the people that help us get by through the day. They are the people who crack a funny joke or do something silly, or they might just be the teachers that made it a point to try to make us feel better when we are having a bad day. They are the people that help us get through the day. I guarantee you that when you look around a classroom, you will at least be able to find someone at some point that can make you smile.

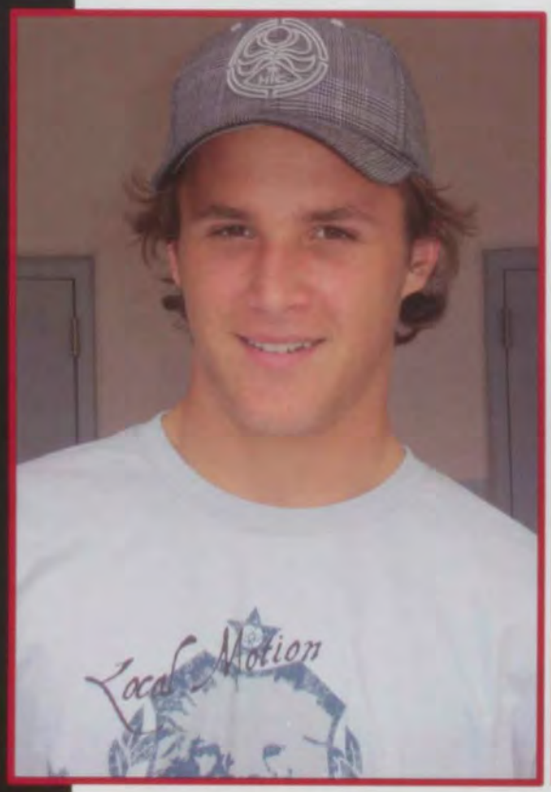
Rewind..

What do you remember most about the first day of your senior year?

"I remember the first day of my first year here as being easy to meet new, great people."
-Thomas Daubs

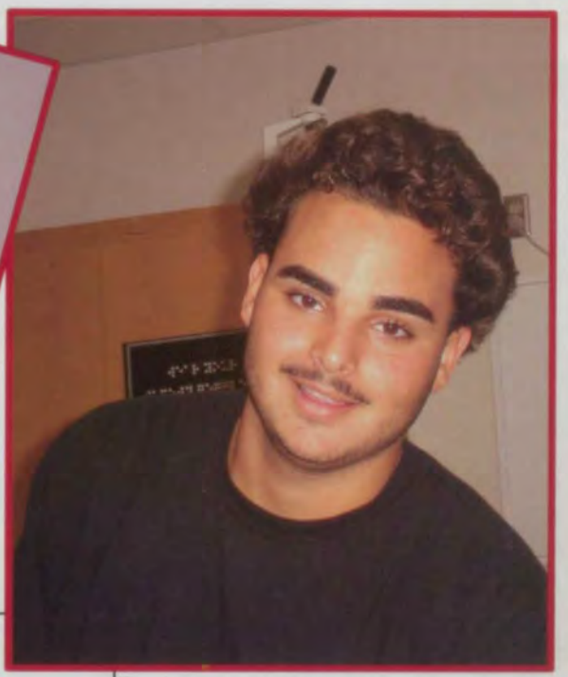
"The first day of school was amazing! The class of 2008's entrance was off the chart. Underclassmen are going to have fun trying to top us. People will remember this for years to come."
-Andrea Wells



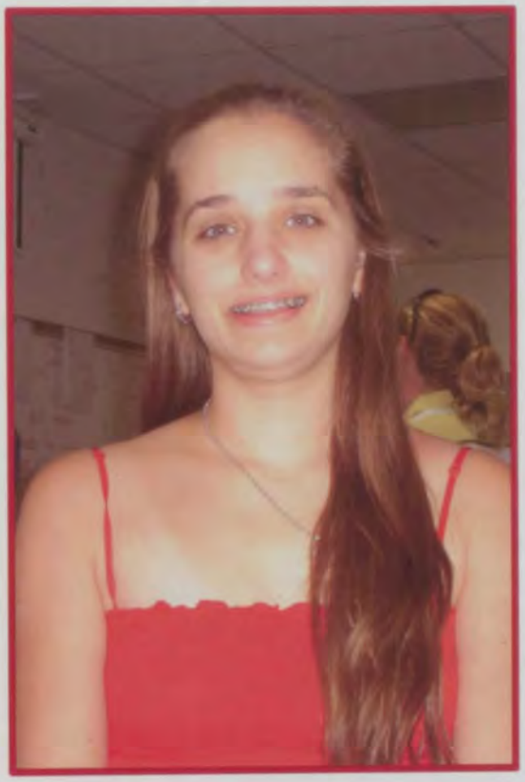
How do you feel about off campus lunch?

"All seniors should have privileges for off campus lunch from the first day of school, and after the first nine-weeks if students have bad grades, they should not be able to go any more."
-Danielle Malby

"I think a student who has responsibility, a car and a license should be able to leave for lunch."
-Rolando Risse



Look back!



What was your biggest accomplishment while attending Key West High School?

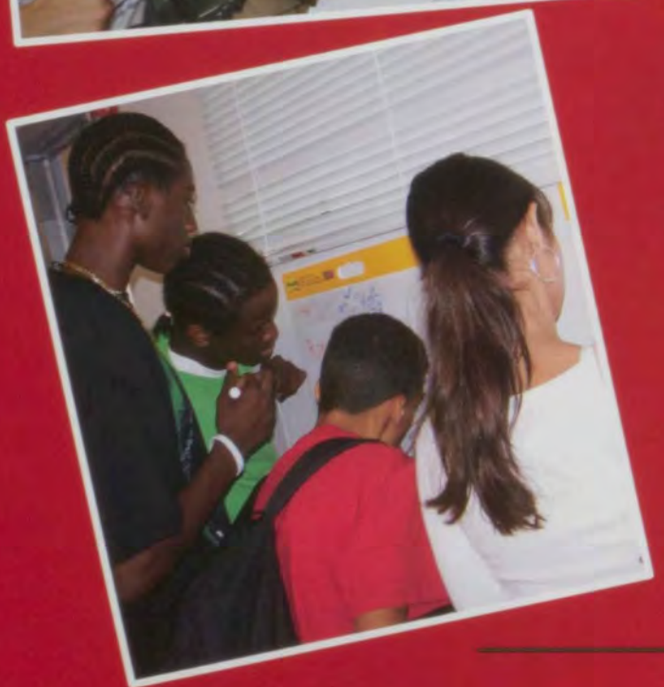
"Making it to my senior year with all of my credits."
-Michael Gallagher

"Making sure I stayed on top of my homework and getting all of my classes figured out. "
-Barbara Perez

If there was one thing you could change about your high school years, what would it be?

"I would change moving my freshman year because coming back for my senior year I noticed that I missed out on a lot."
-Venus Blasco

"I would have gotten better grades and had a lot more fun in school."
-Steven Wilbarger



As we enter school, every individual brings his or her own story. Each is as unique as a shell on the beach; no two quite the same. Together, we take steps along the way to discover who we are and what we can become. Our path may not always be SMOOTH, but we have our classmates and special adults to lean on and help us through the tough times. Along the way, we learn our own personal lessons that change us forever.

A Day To Remember

The boys and girls took separate photos on Toga Day.

As freshmen, we look forward to the day when we get to experience Senior Toga Day. This class is far different then any other class that has passed through KWHS. The class took toga day to a new height with togas as unique as each classmate. Decorations and adornments on the togas ranged from super heroes and colored sequins, to school colors. Senior showed their styles and and their pride.

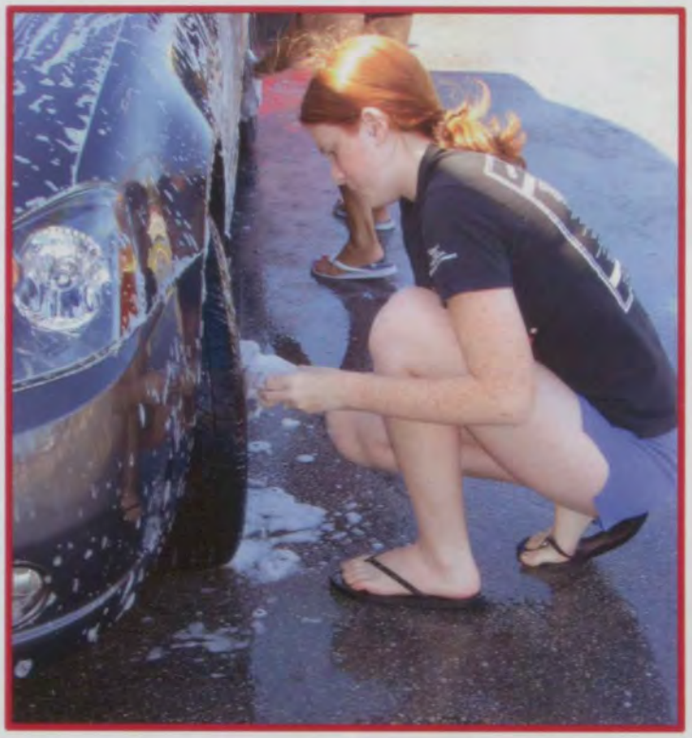
Raising Money



Making sure the tires are squeaky clean, Jianna Williamson scrubs hard.

This year the seniors have worked extra had to raise money for their class. Not only did they sell candy and have a car wash, they held the first Road To Graduation 5K. Members of the community ranging from the little ones to the older ones, came out to help the senior class.

Hard at work, Sheri Yoest and Robert Higgs hose down the car.

Waving in the runners, Bryce McBratnie stands out in his lime green vest.

Key West High School Biodiesel started out as an Honors Physics class, with an interest in Bio-diesel that headed by Mr. Clearman, Physics teacher. This interest led to the formation of the Bio-diesel Club. One of the students' responsibilities is to collect grease from local restaurants. The grease that is collected later turns into biodiesel which will power the biodiesel car. Biodiesel has some interesting projects on the horizon and one is looking into powering the school buses and making a big production line. Students are excited about the new club's future and projects.

Sponsor Ms.Hach reviewed her notes before a big presentation about what National Honor Society is all about.

"National Honor Society at Key West High School is like no other in the state. We are so much more relaxed here," says sponsor, Ms.Hach. National Honor Society is a group of elite students ranging from tenth to twelfth grade who hold a three point five grade point average or higher. A students must be dedicated, which means spending long hours doing homework, and they must work even harder in class. National Honor Society promotes community service and school unity. During October, National Honor Society sold pumpkins and also they donated canned food and clothing during Thanksgiving and Christmas. This group of enthusiastic young men and women were devoted to improving the school.

Heating Things Up

The Pro-Start Program involves students cooking and creating incredible meals. The students of Pro-Start attend class for two periods throughout their school day. These students work hard to cook for the staff as well as cater for other events. Sometimes they make meals for other students. But no matter who they are cooking for the Pro-Start class is always having fun sampling new cuisines and sharing the joys of cooking.

Jazz Band is comprised of some of the most talented students in the Conch band program. Having played different instruments for the majority of their teenage years, the students can truly be called musicians, or at least musicians in the making. When performing at band concerts, the Jazz Band gets a chance to express their outstanding talent to the Key West Community and are obviously a crowd-pleasing group. "I've played the saxophone since middle school, but this Jazz Band has been the most rewarding of all my band experiences," says junior, Nicole Roman. BURNING UP THE TRAIL

Spike-A-Pose

The girls varsity volleyball team formed a tight knit family and gelled as a group. No matter if they won or lost, they helped each other get through any issue. Under the direction of new coach, Ms. Hulme, the varsity volleyball team traveled above and beyond expectations. " This year's new coach came in to the gym on the first day of practice and was ready to get down to business. She helped us work together and make us become the team we always knew we could be. This year has definitely been the best year because everyone gets along great and not only are we stronger physically, but mentally too," said senior Danielle Hills.

Perfection of the bump, set, and spike was the focus for these young girls, but it did not come all that easy. Through struggles and long, hard practices, the new coach, Greg Gerez, brought the girls together as a whole. The team learned positioning, rules, and the language of the sport. Their hard work paid off when the team put their uniforms on and stepped on the court showcasing their talents and hard work.

As Freshman, Aubrey Mulcahy stated, "The swim team is like one big family and swimming helps to keep physically fit."

Diving Into Victory

A Fresh New Start

Keeping up the momentum, the varsity boys soccer team played their hearts out while they were on the field, no matter if it were practice or a game. Being a young team gives them an advantage, as that they will learn to bond and grow together throughout their high school career. They had their share of wins and losses, just like any other team. Their progress was evident, as their talent grew each time they stepped on the field with a soccer ball.

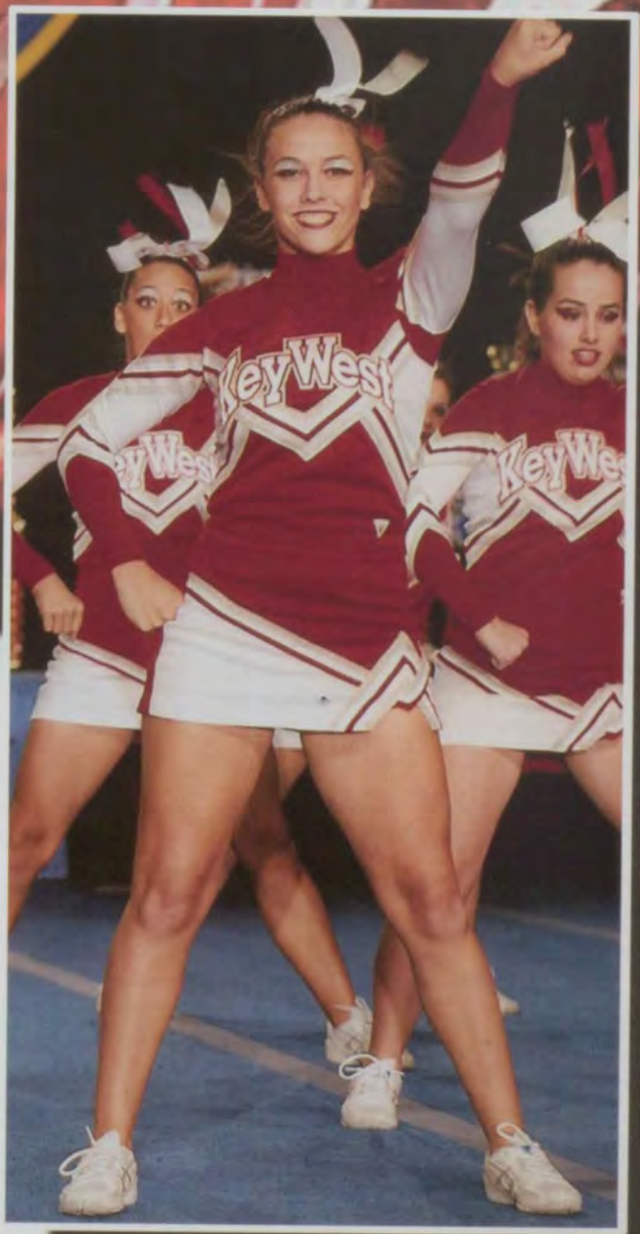
Get Together! Every time before they get on to the matt the girls get into a circle and give each other words of encouragement.

Smile! Carla Batschelt flashes the judges a great big smile while performing in Jacksonville.



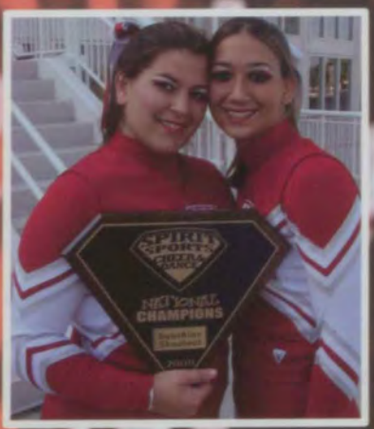
This was the first year FHSAA recognized competitive cheerleading as a sport, but to these girls it has always been a sport. "People need to realize that cheerleading isn't just yelling, cheers, and shaking pom-poms, it takes a lot to put people up in the air, jump, cheer, dance, and sell it to to a crowd all at once. It's harder then it looks," said captain Briana Bosco. They have one shot to prove to the judges that they are the best. In cheerleading there are no quarters, innings, or second halves; they don't get a second chance to raise their score. It's all or nothing. The girls give it their all on and off the mat. To the girls, its not just an after school thing, it's a way of life. It's not just sweat and bruises, it's bonding and becoming a family. They made many memories and had many great times together.

In It To Win It!

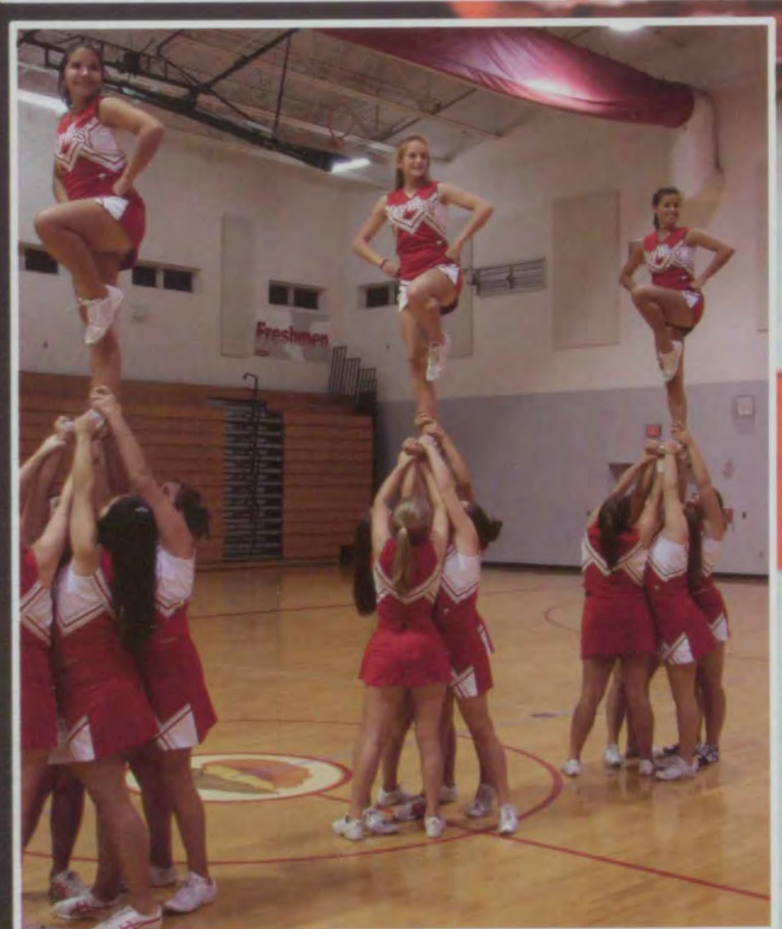
Pull It! Junior flyer Amanda Talbott pulls her scorpion in the air while her bases hold her tight.

Stick it Girls! The bases hold the flyers sturdy as they hit the pyramid in the middle of the routine.

Captain Briana Bosco and co-captain Amanda Malott hold the plaque after winning.



Back: Catherine Pierce, Alexia Degraffenreid, Alexandria Archer, Amanda Talbott, Jessica Anderson, Katherine Albury, Morgan Fraga, Brittany Pazo, Megan Malgral, Samantha Grizzle. Front: Tori Solano, Amanda Malott, Briana Bosco, Emily Kidd, Ashlie Hernandez, Katelynn Johnson, Alexis Averette Carla Batchelli, Cecilia Cervantes, Lindsey Vinson.



The night before going away to State, the team practiced hitting all their torches.

Make me sparkle! Brittany Pazo lays down while coach Alissa Bosco applies glitter to her eyes.

So much has gone on since our red carpet beginning. It is hard to believe our high school years have come to an end, and a new journey is upon us. Classes, work, activities, friends and family make up our world. We show how to juggle it all and still make the grades, the floats and the PRACTICES and these are the lessons we leave behind. Sometimes we fall and shed some tears, but mostly we enjoy the friendships and fun we had through it all. It is now time to put all that we have learned to the test. Class of 2008, venture out into the sea of life.

Sacred,

18 years ago, God blessed all of us with you. You are a huge part of our lives and have given us great memories. We look forward to what God has planned for you. You did it!! Sometimes it was difficult, but you pulled through. Success is not measured in what we have but in those we touch. Always carry that big smile with you. Always keep the Lord in your heart. Stay true to yourself. Acknowledge him and he will guide you. May your future be full of love, laughter, success and happiness. So proud of you!!!!!!!

Always here for you

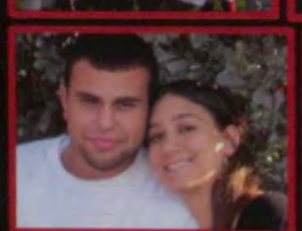
Amanda



Amanda Jean,

Since before you were born you have made me smile, but I could have never imagined how much joy you would bring to my life. Throughout all of our life's ups and downs you have always been strong and determined enough to never let it bring you down to accomplish all that you have set out to do. There is still so much of life waiting for you to achieve, and without a doubt you will. Know that I will always be here for you. I want you to know you are not only my daughter, but my best friend and I am so proud of you. GOD could have never blessed our family with a more perfect daughter, grand-daughter, sister, and niece. We love you with all our hearts.

Colophon

This 9x12 yearbook was produced on 100# enamel paper. It was published by Taylor Publishing and printed in Dallas, Texas. The photo on the lithocote cover was taken by Briana Bosco. The pages were created using the Studioworks online program. The photos were taken by staff members and others and Photoshop was used to make corrections on photographs. The senior portraits and underclass photos were taken by Bryn Alan Studios. The theme was created and developed by Briana Bosco and yearbook staff members.
