PLUNGE RIGHT IN...

This in-depth review of the choices, changes, and challenges of our year goes beyond the obvious, spotlighting not only the spirit of the people and the places that caught our eyes and captured our attention, but the wherefores and the whys that went along with them. So, get ready, dive in, and go beneath the surface. . .

During the choir back-to-school pool party, Helen Madeo, Elio Estopinan, and Chance Smith socialize with Denis Diaz. Chris Belland cools off in the pool and uses the time to relax. The party was a great way to submerge oneself in the friendship and excitement of the new school year.

Beneath the Surface of

Life

Student Life is not just what we do at school; it is the lengths we go to to forget school. It is not just what we do; it is who we are. It is a combination of mornings, afternoons, weekends, and all the in-betweens that make up our lives. It is the outrageous friends, the frantic times, and dynamic memories that make our lives unforgettable. From formal dances to casual gatherings, Student Life offers the ideal panorama of experiences that make us unique and that go beneath the surface. . .

Ashley Green

Anita Scurry enjoys the atmosphere of the pool party by leaping into the deep end. The party, sponsored by the senior class, was the ideal environment to rekindle old friendships at the beginning of the school year.

Elio Estooian, Billy Kight, and Bradley Larez shout their spirit during the intense heat of the bonfire.

How Many Times Do You Exercise a Week?

Quite often Emily Aguiar beach walks, and this time her mother joined her. Along with Conchettes, she gets her exercise by walking vigorously. Smathers Beach is a hot spot for students to partake in their exercise routines. During the Spring, the entire pitching staff of the Conch baseball team, can be seen running along the beach to help with their endurance.

Aaron Johnson rides along Smathers Beach just as many other students do. The sidewalk is a perfect place for a bike ride, yet Aaron chooses the sand for a more strenuous workout.

Should There Be a Bonfire for Every Sport?

Senior cheerleaders, Carrie Olatin, Julie Wensmann, Jennifer Freeman, and Kawana Staffney fuel the flame of Conch spirit while participating in the traditional coffin night competition between the Juniors and Seniors. Wearing their Senior jerseys, they show dedication to their class, while cheering at the Bonfire to get the student body pepped up for the upcoming football season.

Jackie Chavez and Elio Estopinan put the finishing touches on the 1994 Senior coffin for the annual bonfire.

Wishing that he was a kid again, Brian McBride slides into the rubber balls at the McDonald's playground one Friday night. On the weekends, students visit any local hangout where they can unwind. Popular places include "The Pines," "The Beach," and Downtown.

Project

earth

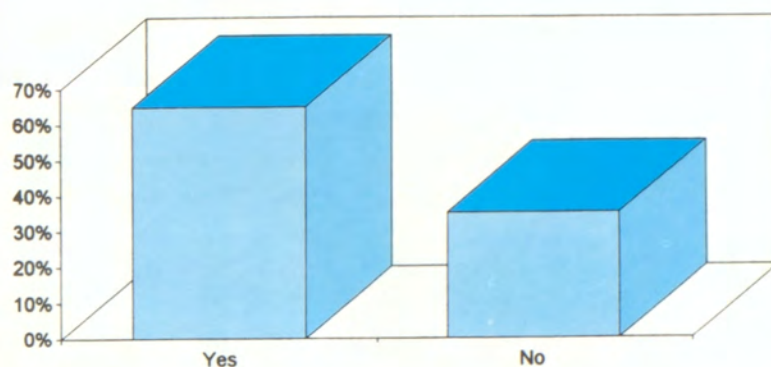

Environmental protection has turned out to be a predominant interest in the 90's. Fewer people are littering, more people are recycling, and more people are increasing their knowledge of "Project Earth" by reading books and magazines as Aimee Calleja demonstrates. This budding environmentalist browses at the Greenpeace store on Duval St. reading "The Everglades." Clubs such as Interact and Student Council, are also taking an avid interest in the environment. Both organizations recycle as well as participate in beach clean-ups.

Leah Haake pauses to delight in the uncluttered calm of Smathers Beach during a renowned Key West sunset. This particular time of day is popular for relaxing, meditating, and taking in the beauty of our environment.

Do You Recycle?

April Harper and Johnny Jackson add their contributions to the recycle bin in front of the school, for the annual recycling of Key West Telephone books. Many students brought in phone books to help the environment and to earn points in their clubs.

An average of 15,000 lbs. of aluminum, that's 45,000 cans, are recycled everyday in Key West.

Sixties fever

Kristi Gutierrez displays her flower child attire along with the symbol for peace at this year's Halloween bash, which is better known as Fantasy Fest. "I had so much fun this year, because the theme made it really easy to wear a costume." Many students took advantage of the easy theme, which was "Lost in the 60's," to get dressed up and have fun.

Every year around Halloween, Key Westers have a celebration which is known as Fantasy Fest. This festival originated 14 years ago as a small parade. Now, Fantasy Fest has gained national attention where over 50,000 tourists flock from all around the world to see our extravaganza. Each year, a new theme is created so the Fest will have a different twist. "Lost in the 60's" was the pick for this year's festival. Jackie Chavez, Elizabeth Calleja, Emily Aguiar, and Janel Quinquinio are definitely in the sixties spirit as they show off their costumes. "We were all excited for Fantasy Fest, because this is the first year that we dressed up," Emily said. "Each one of us had been planning our costumes for weeks!" added Janel. Whatever the attire students chose, it was clear that there was a Sixties fever in the air.

Crowd pleasers

As you walk the halls of Key West High there is no shortage to the different variety and style that you see, students here know that variety is what makes life interesting.

For each different style there is a group of people behind it and forming its individual clique. Cliques are groups of friends who share a common interest in everything from clothes, to music, to ideas, or sports. Leslie Munoz, Cori Miller, and Leah Klitnick participate in Conchettes initiation day. Being dressed up in tacky clothes is one of the requirements for a

"new girl." On this particular day, it is clear that all of the "new girls" were in a unique clique, therefore making them true crowd pleasers.

Click, Click, Click! If you are ever on the patio during second lunch, you may here the sound of dominoes being played by Lemuel "Turkey" Roberts and Alvin Brown. Aside from the click of the dominoes, moans of defeat and boisterous laughter can also be heard throughout the lunch period.

Ring of faith

Students gathered around the flag pole of their own will to pray September 14, 1993. This national event, which anyone can participate in, started about four years ago. Some students prayed openly, while others prayed to themselves. The start of the school year was one concern which was on everyone's mind.

Students prove day after day that religion, as well as strong friend-

Love triangle

According to a survey in a recent issue of USA Today, school is the number one place where teenage couples meet. This fact has definitely been proved at K.W.H.S. Between classes, at lunch, and before school, couples are seen all over socializing, fighting, and kissing. Julian Strampello and Katie Brown portray the typical teenage couple as they converse in the hallway between classes, just as many other couples do. Love triangles or problems may arise in many relationships; some might be solved while others terminate the relationship.

In an act of love, David Cooper and Stephanie Lyons feed each other their ice cream while at Dairy Queen. Later this sweet gesture turned into a mess, when they started an ice cream fight which got all over the both of them. Not only did they get a good laugh, but the passersby got a good one as well.

Have You Ever Been in Love?

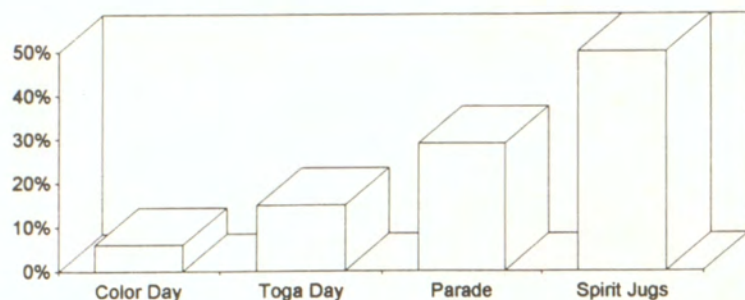

Chess Ingram decided to share his sandwich with Jennifer Whitehead at lunch one day. Although they seem to be happy together, they are not going out at the present time. Lunch is a popular time where couples get together to socialize.

Alex Agostini and Angie Ferrell stay close to each other's side on the first day of school.

What is Your Favorite Event of Spirit Week?

Danielle Sellers, Randy Sterling, Kelly Cabanas, Michael Balbuena, and Marcela Morgan represent the Freshman class as they ride on their float in the Homecoming parade.

Maylie Caffrey adds the finishing touches to Janel Quinquinio's toga while Helen Madeo anxiously awaits her turn.

"Senior Spirit" was evident the night of the Homecoming Parade. Chasity Perez explodes with excitement just after the first-place trophy was awarded to the Class of '94. This is the second year in a row that this class has won first place. "I knew that our float was awesome, but I did get a little worried once I saw the Junior float," said Senior Martin Niles. The Junior float was a giant underwater scene with a fifteen foot whale. "We won hands down because we simply had more spirit than any other class," added Randy Niles.

Spirit week — the week that everyone is excited, roudy, hyped, and out of control with spirit. It is the week before Homecoming. The annual traditions include: color day, toga day, spirit jugs, and the parade. Color day is when each class shows its spirit by wearing a specified color. Toga day is an event which is strictly for seniors to show their spirit. Spirit jugs is a Choir fundraiser, that consists of each class depositing change into its jug. Dollars are negative points, while coins are positive points. The class with the most "positive points" wins all of the money in its jug, while the Choir gets the rest.

Danelle Quinn helps the Senior class win this year's contest by depositing a month's worth of change.

The final event of spirit week is the Homecoming parade. This event gives each class or club the opportunity to build a float involving the theme of Homecoming. In recent years the floats have gotten more elaborate as the different participants compete for the coveted first place trophy.

Homecoming is more than a dance or a parade. It's more than five girls, nervously awaiting a crown. A lot of preparation takes place before the representative of our school is chosen. Our court this year had some unexpected events. Usually there has been a field practice — or run through — of the walk. This year rain cancelled the only opportunity to practice. The night of the game, just as the girls were walking out onto the field, lightening flashed. Luckily, the threatening storm never came. If that wasn't unnerving enough, the arch fell apart moments before the ceremony began. Finally, after weeks of apprehension, Mandy Moore

Queen. By: Saralyn Smith

"I enjoyed being on the court, and all the girls deserved to be there," said LaChant Barnett, who was escorted by Heath Brundage. "I was afraid I was going to trip because Martin kept stepping on my dress," Elizabeth Calleja said, laughing. Martin Niles escorted her through the night.

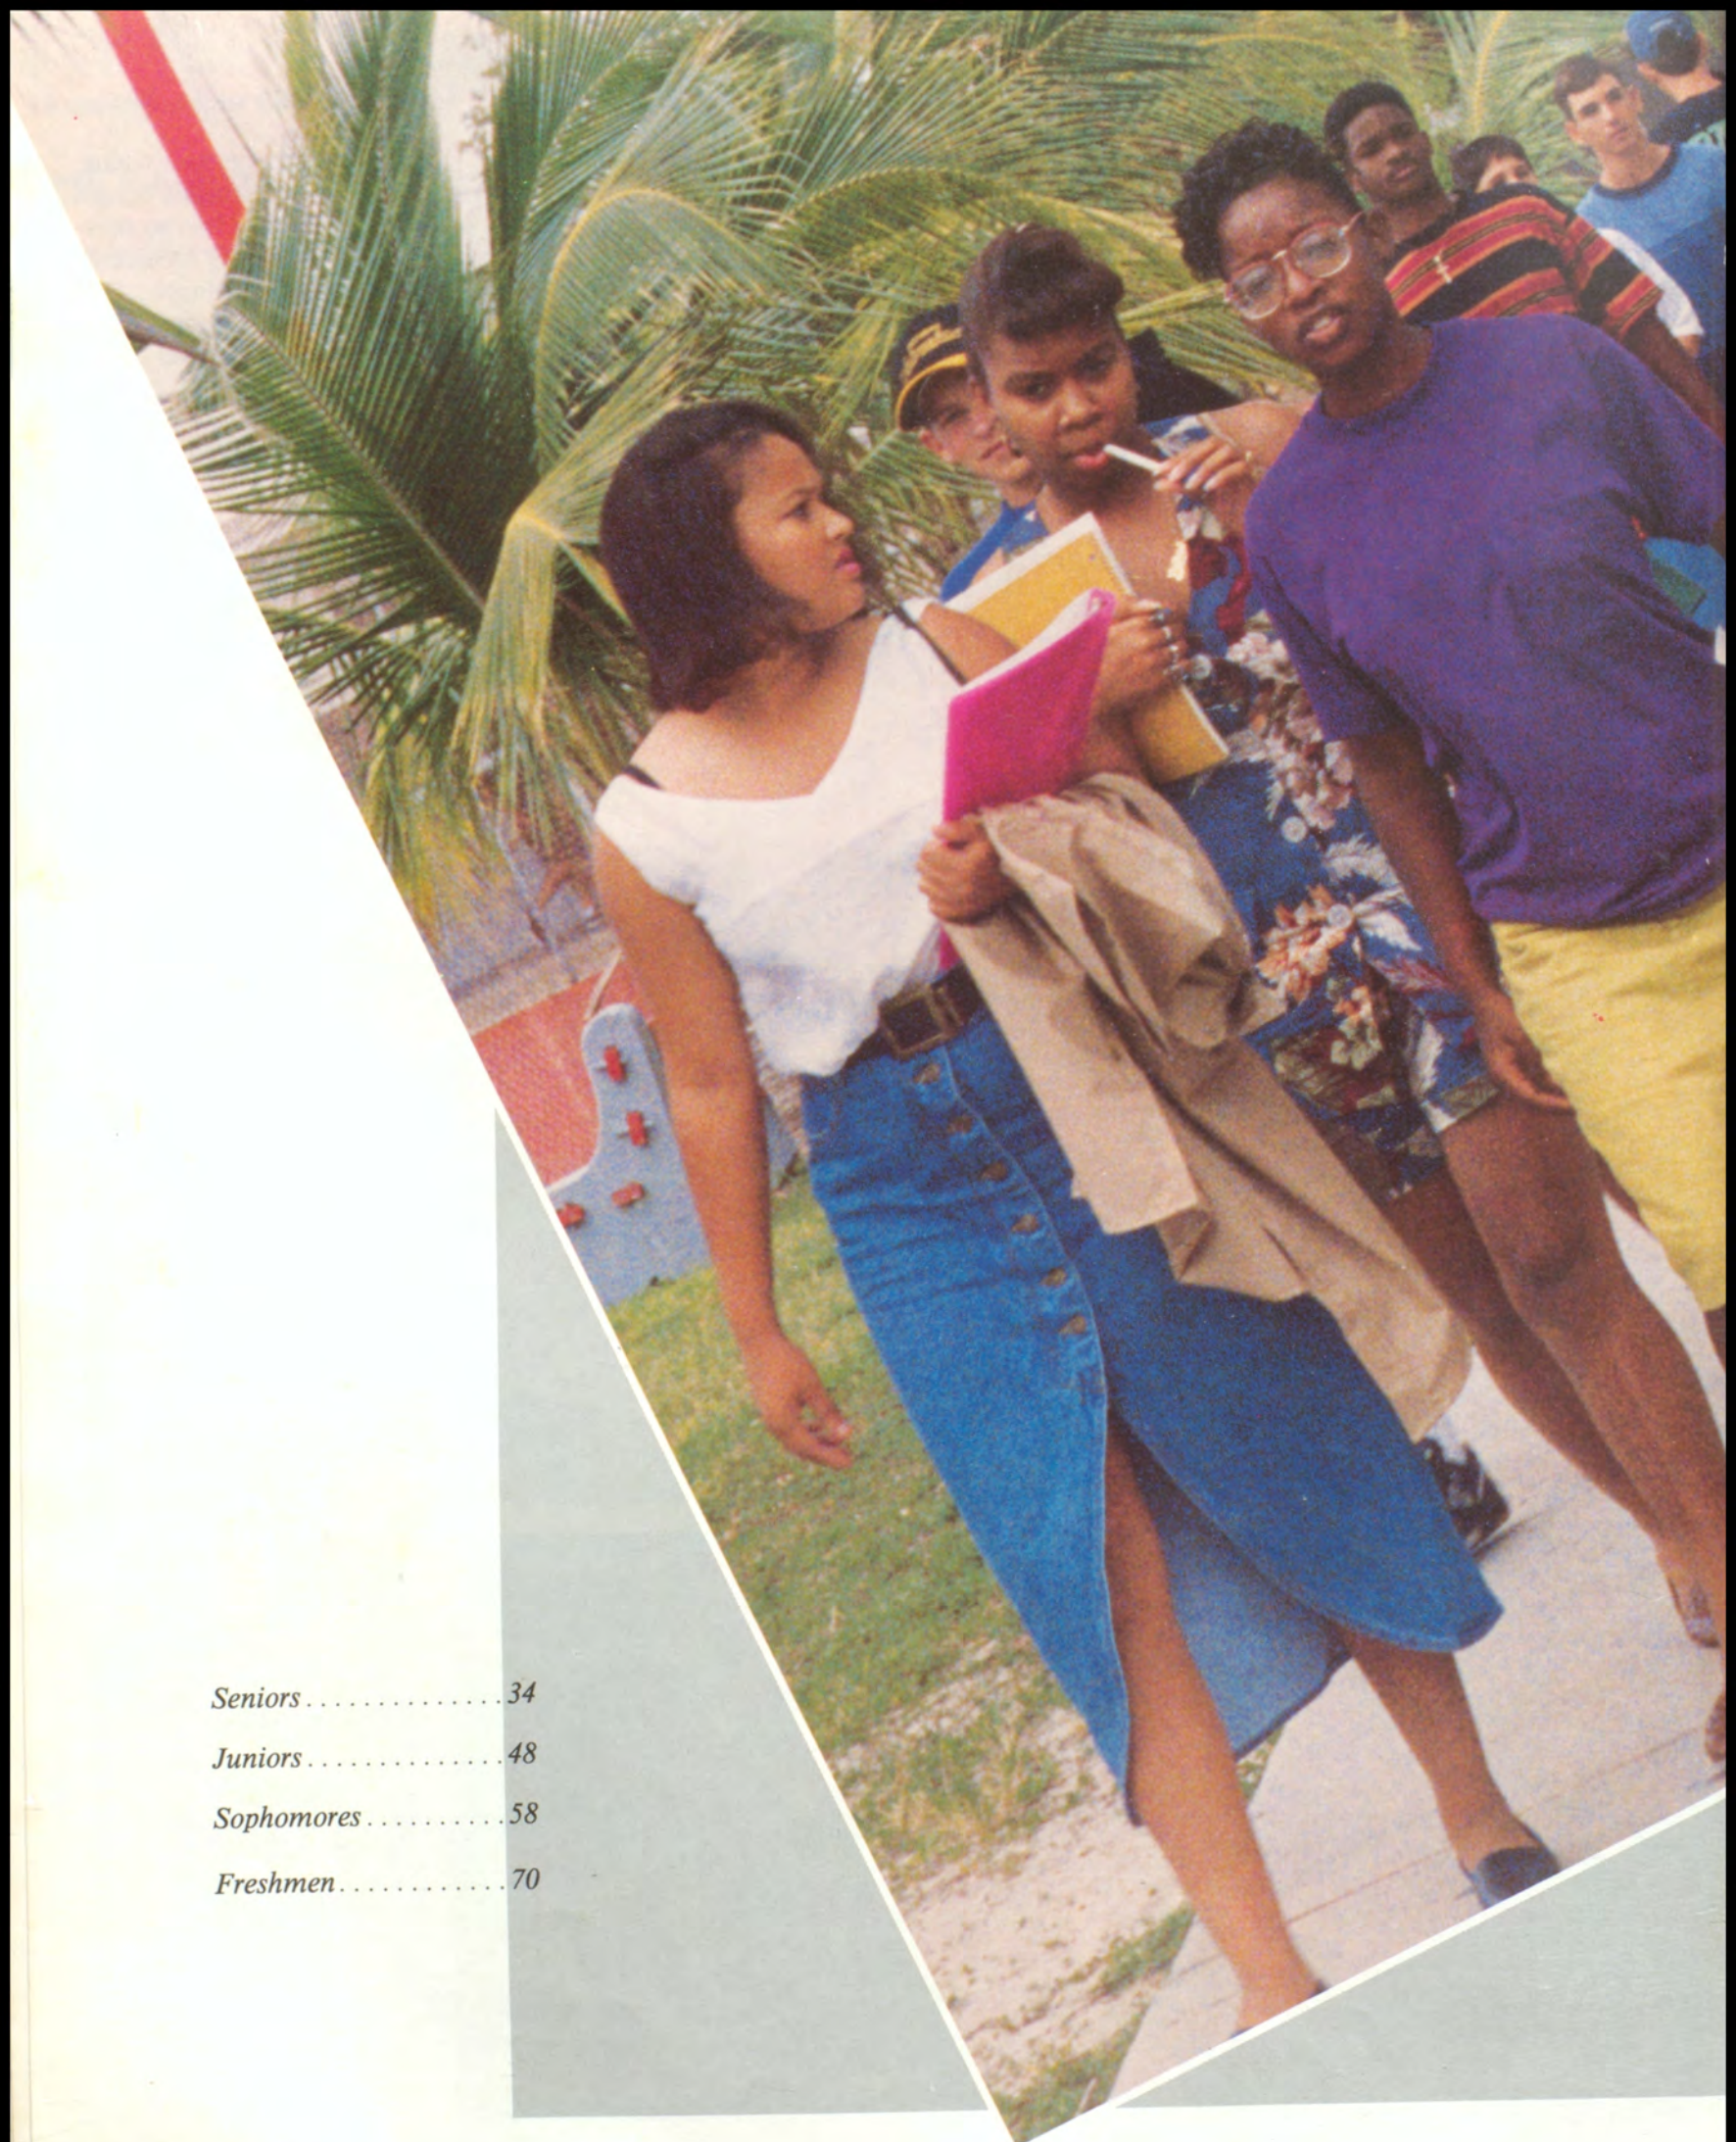

"The night was so exciting. It was wonderful just being a part of it all. I was so nervous, I almost wet my pants!" says Mandy Moore, this year's Queen. Her escort, Aaron Johnson stood by her side. "I am happy for her because I feel she deserved it, and I'm honored to be her escort," he said.

The court is gathered together on the football field. Letisia Rodriguez with Tony Acosta, Jackie Chavez with Chance Blatt, Mandy Moore with Aaron Johnson, Elizabeth Calleja with Martin Niles, and LaChant Barnett with Heath Brundage.

"The whole week was so hectic, and it seems like it ended in seconds," said Jackie Chavez. A close friend, Chance Blatt, escorted her down the feeling.

Letisia Rodriguez said, "It was a great experience, and an honor to be on the court." Tony Acosta was her escort.

A New Face on

People

People are diverse, ecentric, bizarre, and spectacular. They are our every day friends, weekend pals, and our truest confidants. People bring with them a variety of backgrounds that makes our time together exciting and unforgettable. Every person has endless oppurtunities to affect those around them. This has led to an unbelievable blend of people here. The people we turn to in times of sorrow and despair, the people we tell the most important news to, the people we share our lives with. They are the people who go beneath the surface. . .

Shawtel Bize, Evana Jackson, and Abigail Ashe socialize on the way to class, enjoying each other's company. Their days are always full of hectic run-arounds, so friendship helps soothe the maniac atmosphere.

What A Hassle for a Tassle

Many students expect Senior year to be hassle free; they soon realize how wrong they were.

One of the problems facing Seniors is grades. Students are required to have at least a 1.5 GPA and 24 credits to graduate. If students don't meet these requirements they have the option to go to night school to make up credits missed. "If night school didn't exist I wouldn't graduate this year," stated Donny Barrios.

Winning At Any Cost

"Who's got change, let's not be the first class to lose!"

Beneath the Traditon

Back in 1986, Lidia Blanco and the other members of the Senior class were pondering the lack of outrageous Senior activities during Homecoming week. Someone suggested dressing up in togas, and a tradition was born. The Class of '94 lived up to this tradition in fine fashion.

From tie dyes and designer fabrics to moth-eaten silks, the Seniors turned out in costumes that would have humored the most fashionable Roman. To add to the excitement of the event, the bubbas and bubbettes made a collective display of their Conch Spirit. At right, Michael Curry, Jennifer Cheek and Season Beck study what was and wasn't worn beneath those togas.

Seniors go along for a bumpy ride as they transport the wooden shell of the Mighty Conch to their secret building site.

Moments before the Senior float rolled down Flagler, last minute preparations are made to insure perfection.

Seniors Make it!

What's better then being a Senior? What's better then being #1? Nothing! The Homecoming Parade is one of those times Seniors fight to be the best; with a fresh and unique idea, they set out to make a float that will hopefully bring them victory. "Senior Moments In Time," was the class of '94's theme. Recreating scenes of toga day, the prom, athletic events, and graduation; the Senior float, with it's Conch shell shining brightly, was awarded first place for '93.

"This float is a symbol of all the great fun and great memories that were created during our high school years and we are proud to be a part of it," said Tiffany Preston and Melissa Centonze. Brian McBride

Seniors Kick'n Back

A student's Senior year is supposed to be the easiest year of high school, right? Wrong. Seniors are faced with many different problems.

One of the biggest problems facing Seniors is deadlines. Many seniors have part-time jobs or are involved in other activities, and have a hard time keeping up with deadlines for college applications, SAT's, and ACT's.

Another big problem facing Seniors is money. Applications for colleges and universities can cost anywhere from $20 to $30.

*As the end of the year approaches, Seniors Jamie Henton and Petra Kalous, at left, are able to just kick back and relax for the rest of the year. Angela Harrison**

Rising Above

Guy Rachmuth, Ed Swift, and Matt Truhan prove three is better than one while practicing for their first choir concert of the year.

Among the students in the Junior class there are many who have succeeded in keeping up with their class schedules while participating in extra-curricular activities. A survey reveals that the students who are at the top academically are also actively involved in many clubs and organizations.

"Balancing everything is easy for me. The classwork, choir songs, and band projects come with ease and I'm able to get through it all and still stay sane," said Matt Truhan, who is in the top 5% of the Junior class. Many students have similar feelings. Getting good grades is not always easy. When one has other things to do, such as practicing for sports or preparing for upcoming concerts, homework may come second. It is not easy, but many students find time to take part in these extracurricular activities and rise above average academic expectations.

Growth Experiences

Your high school years are supposed to be the best years of your life. They are a time for being young, having fun, and, last but not least, learning.

Juniors soon realize that their school days are numbered. It is time to grow up. With only 2 years of high school left, Juniors start thinking about their futures and the need to prepare themselves for the real world.

Some students have already begun this preparation by working after school and on weekends. Other students volunteer their time to help others while learning vital communication skills and gaining experience in the fields they wish to pursue later in life.

"I want to go into medicine, so when the volunteer job at the hospital came along I decided to do it . . . It's fun, enjoyable, rewarding, and what I want to do." stated Victoria Batty.

The Face Behind The mask

At one point every year, Juniors can be seen experiencing a fantasy when they participate in the American Authors Festival. This event originated several years ago, as an opportunity for Juniors to expand their literary knowledge. The Festival consists of students dressing up as characters from books written by American Authors. In their English classes, they give a brief synopsis of their character and novel. To also give the festival an interesting twist, students design posters about their novels, which are then displayed in D-wing hallway. Corry Johnson summed up the essence of American Authors Festival when he said, "This is the one day of the year that I can dress up as a hippie, and no one will laugh at me!"

Marissa Ramirez, who dressed as Ellen Olenska from Age of Innocence, signs up for the costume contest during her lunch shift which was held in the newly renovated library. Each student who entered the contest had to know some general knowledge about the character. As well as have an original costume.

Jennifer Foster explains her character Evangeline St. Clair from Uncle Tom's Cabin to costume judges, Mrs. Cotton and Mrs. Rodriguez. "It was a really good book. Very interesting and very controversial," she added.

Elvis is Alive! He was spotted eating a chicken sandwich in our very own Choir room. Actually, Stephanie Owens chose him as her character for the Festival.

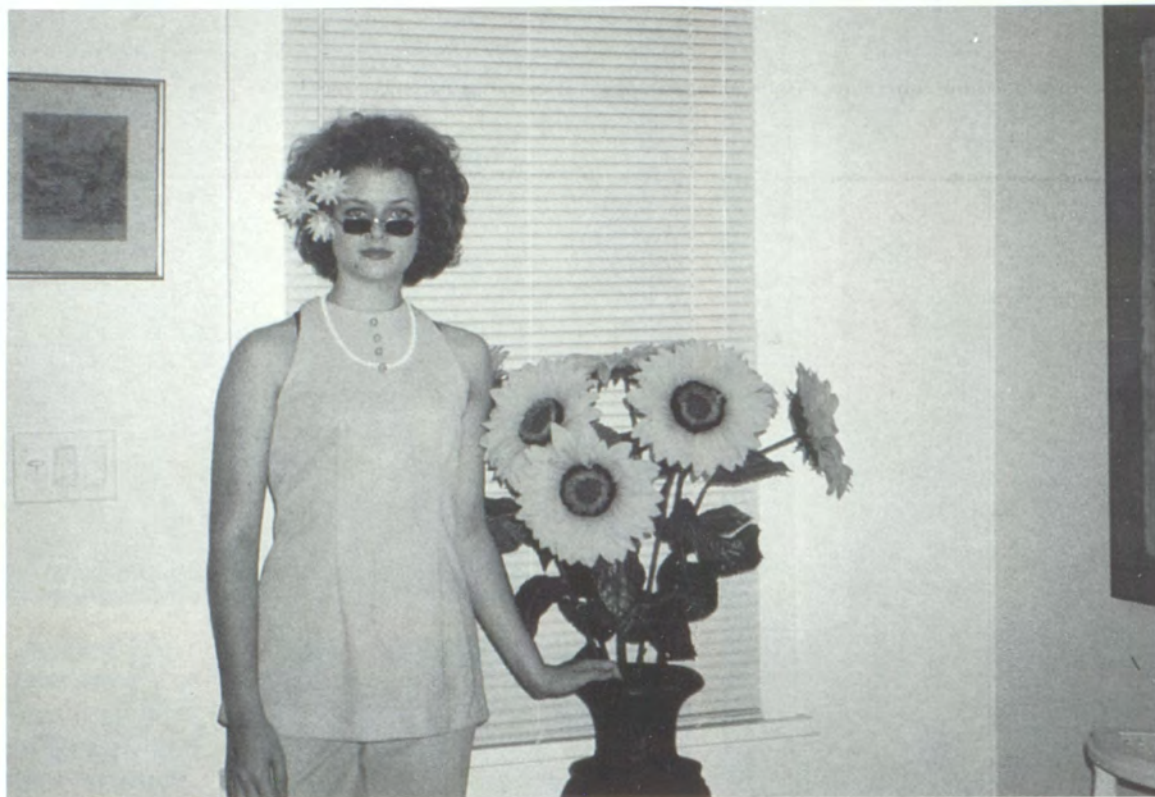

Jackson Sieglinger portrays the typical appearance of George Washington Black, a soldier, from Killer Angel. He was awaiting his turn in line to speak with the judges in the library about his costume and character.

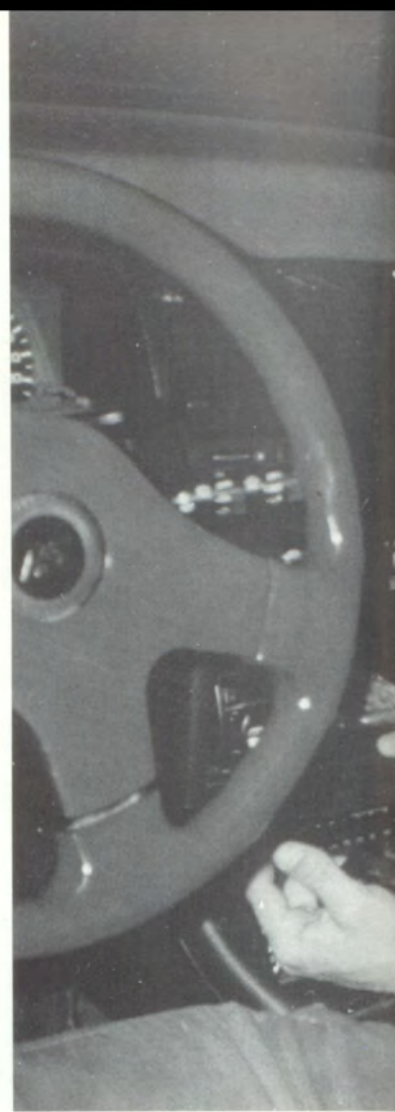

The winners of the costume contest were picked because of their originality, creativity, and knowledge of their character. This year's winners are: Matt Truhan and Kelly Reynolds for 1st place; D.J. Fallon and Melissa Herbig for 2nd place; and Jack Roberts, Jennifer Foster, and Diane Wood tied for 3rd place.

Finding A VOICE

Driving down the road with the radio blasting, walking down the halls wearing outrageous clothing, and joining as many clubs and organization as possible are all ways Sophomores are striving to be heard.

Being an underclassman is not easy, especially if you are a Sophomore. Sophomores do not receive as much recognition as Freshmen, Juniors, and Seniors. Every year the center of attention is focused on the Seniors because it is their last year of highschool. Juniors receive recognition because they are now upperclassmen and are in their last two years of school. Freshmen receive recognition because they are new to the school.

But Sophomores, well, that is a different story. Sophomores need a little harder to gain class recognition. "There are no school activities that are just for Sophomores," stated Andrew Harrison. That could be one of the reasons Sophomores must strive to be heard.

Is Bigger Really Better

Usually the Freshmen class is the largest in the school, but this year things were a little different. The Sophomore class is the largest with 356 students, outnumbering the Freshmen, the next largest class, by 37.

From class spirit to limited class space, being the largest class has its ups and downs. "I think we have both advantages and disadvantages. It's an advantage because you get to meet a lot of different people in your class and it's a disadvantage because classrooms are too small and classes are crowded," stated Marissa Centonze.

One of the bad points is that the race for the top academic spots is vicious. They're not competing against 183 classmates, like the Seniors, they're competing against twice as many.

On Our Own

In everyone's life there comes a time when they grow up and start doing things on their own. During their Sophomore year of high school, students seem to mature and become their own person. The person who is in control and can take all the ups and downs of home, school, and every other major topic of life. Sophomores also realize the importance of education and begin to turn better work and may even take occasional trips to the chalk board.

Sophomores are a perfect example of people who take charge of their life and start doing things for themselves, for their futures, on their own.

Taking the Initiative

Cooperative learning makes classwork easier to understand for some students. Groups such as this, with Jason Jones and Donald Trujillo, let students work together in class to complete their assignments.

"It's okay, Leslie, we'll help," Marissa Centonze. Marissa, Haley Pope, Maria Protopsaltis, Misty Jarrells, and Leslie Munoz are all member of Sophomore Executive Board. They assist Leslie in the making of their outstanding Homecoming float.

No, Jodi Johnson is not counting out the number of Baby Ryth bars she will have to eat to be entered into The Guinness Book of World Records. Jodi is actively involved in Beta and NHS. She helped the club package boxes of candy to be sent to the children in Cuba.

Samia Williams, along with other Sophomore students, attended College Night which was held in December. College Night gives students an opportunity to see what options there are for them when deciding which college or university to attend.

Katie Holloran, Jaimi Johnson, Aimee Calleja, and Kelsy Betz spent many hours checking candy and making sure it was put in the correct boxes and packaged up for boats headed to Cuba. This was a long, hot, and tiresome task for the NHS and Beta members who helped with this project.

Change of Place

Being in a new place can be confusing and sometimes difficult. In the Beginning of the 1993-94 school year 319 Freshmen attended Key West High School for the first time. This is a very big step in your education, not to mention your social life. Just the fact of being and establishing yourself in a new place brings about many changes. One is that high school is much larger than middle school which makes it more difficult to find your classes. Another adjustment comes about in the cafeteria. There is now a choice of what you want for lunch whereas in the middle school there is no choice. At the high school there is a hot lunch line, an A La Carte line, where you can get chips, deli sandwiches, cookies, etc., and the variety bar which varies from day to day with things like salad or baked potatoes. These are just a couple of the many changes that occur when you become a Freshman and attend high school for the first time. In the end, through all the confusion of new places and new faces, it's all worth while.

Projecting Success

Each year brings with it a new crop of Freshman. Being a Freshman can be a frightening experience or it can be one of the best years of your life.

Project '97 was created to help make the transition from middle school to high school easier for the students.

Project '97 was started with the class of '95, then called Project '95. Each year, as students enter our school, Freshman counselors and teachers meet to discuss things concerning the Freshman class.

Among the goals for Project '97 was a Freshman class health screening, cooperative learning projects, and a drug awareness program offered by Officer Kathy Daniels.

All these different programs are meant to make the transition from middle school to high school easier and to make the students' Freshman year the best possible.

Sowing Seeds for the Future

Hindsight, they say, is 20-20. We can look at Senior students, see how they grew and developed over four years, and remember signs that produced their growth when they were freshmen.

Foresight, the ability to predict how and in what directions this year's freshmen will develop, is more difficult.

Will Alvia Brown, a freshman football player, be drafted for the pros four years from now? "I would be proud to be in the pros because I would have achieved a goal that I have always dreamed of", he said.

Gilbert Font, a potential professional musician after highschool, says, "I made All State and also won outstanding musician at FSU summer camp. Playing music is fun and it gives you a lot of good opportunities."

George Twyman and Chris Toppino contemplate possibilities for the future as they await the bell for first period.

What seeds of success have been sown? Only the future will tell.

A Candid Look

“Is there something on my nose?” Jill Russell, Ana Kiesling, Erika Valdez, and Aimee O’Flynn joke around before class.

Freshmen have many tiresome rides home on the bus, but some days they engross themselves in interesting conversation.

Two freshmen boys call from the patio phones. The phones are on before and after school. The phones have heard students begging parents to bring papers to school, trying to find a ride home, and asking parents for lunch money.

“Shall we do lunch?” Freshmen Randy Sterling, Theron Kithcart, and Nadia Wetzel take time to catch up on the gossip during lunch.

Tide of Technology surges through

School

Once, the mention of academia conjured up images of stern intellectuals bent over books in dimly lit offices. This year, we approached learning from a different angle. A tech prep program was grafted onto the existing curriculum. The focus of education shifted toward the practical application of knowledge to real world situations. What we once considered a touch tank turned into a tidal wave that is coming to catch us beneath the surface . . .

-Erin Bush

Reading: an ESCAPE

Even though we cannot physically experience the excitement, danger, romance, mystery, and intrigue of people who lived hundreds of years before us, we can pick up a book and share their experiences by reading about them. Literature gives us a great opportunity to escape into another world.

What books helped students at Key West High escape? Many enjoy the horror novels of Stephen King, such as Carrie and The Tommyknockers while others preferred the drama of V.C. Andrews' Dawn and Ruby. John Grisham's law thrillers, The Firm and The Pelican Brief were also popular.

Of course, many students read books for their English classes, including Frankenstein by Mary Shelley and George Orwell's 1984.

Revealing hidden

Many people feel the Humanities classes, art, drama, choir, band, French, and Spanish, are a break from the more stressful, required classes.

In language classes, students study reading, writing, and speaking French or Spanish. According to Mrs. Zahav, the French teacher, "Learning a foreign language helps you broaden your horizons and understand the culture of other people."

Ready to ASSIST

Can you imagine what school would be like if you had no one to help you with a problem you may have? Whether you are failing a class, need a schedule change, or just want some information, you can always go to your guidance counselor.

Besides helping students with their problems, counselors organize standardized tests such as the SAT and HSCT. They also register students, monitor their progress, provide individual counseling, and schedule parent conferences. Each grade level has its own individual counselor: Mr. Freer, Mr. Cass, Ms. Edwards, and Mrs. Byrd. In addition to each grade level counselor there are others located in the guidance wing who will assist you such as Mrs. Russ, the college advisor, Mrs. Grier, the school nurse, and Mrs. Ingwerson, her assistant.

Key West High has started off 1994 with a great new library. The library is located in the same space-upstairs C-wing-but now it is bigger and better than ever.

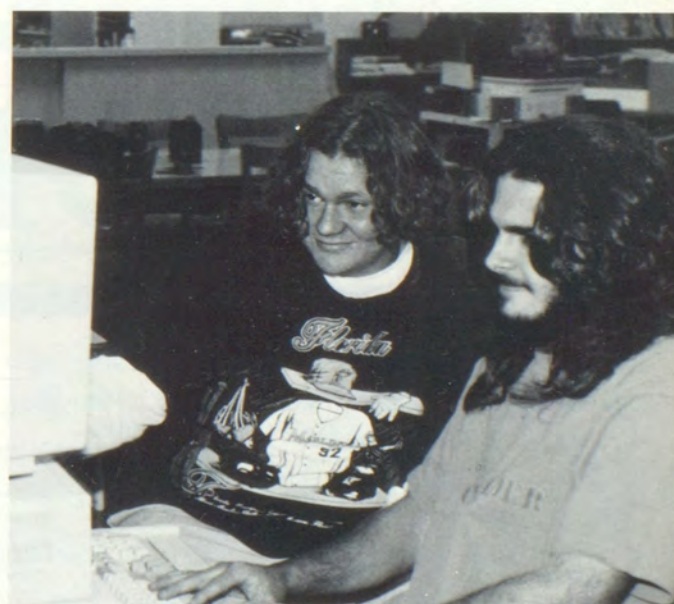

The renovations, which started last June, have added a number of new features: an elevator for the handicapped, new furniture, and new lights and ceilings. The new library will also have new technology. Five new computer terminals are expected, complete with new programs. The traditional card catalog will be replaced by a new computer. Mrs. Todd also hopes to receive the latest item in computer technology, CD ROM.

Keeping in SHAPE

Physical education is defined as the instruction in the exercise, care, and hygiene of the human body. As necessary as this may be, students have often felt that this is an unnecessary course. However, it provides opportunities to have fun and challenge one another.

Team sports gives students a chance to get exercise and stay fit while earning an extra credit.

SUCCESS

The following information was obtained using data on SAT scores from 1985 to 1992: from 1985 to 1988, the average math SAT score was 474. From 1989 to 1992, the average score dropped to 458 — a difference of 16 points.

This indicates that students in the mid 1980's at Key West High School were more proficient in Mathematics than current students. The need to develop better math skills is obvious from these scores.

Beneath a New Age of

Sports

Athletics, an accepted pastime and a major part of the scholastic year, have many repercussions for the student. Sports give us an opportunity to sharpen our competitive edge, and a chance to have good clean fun while reducing stress. These sports offer a new dimension to education. Working as a team is a key skill in our programs. Athletics are rewarding and educational. They provide us with memories of sports beneath the surface. . .

To succeed in J.V. Football, one must be talented and have

Heart

Junior Varsity football players develop attitudes and skills in an intense environment. They have much to learn before their move to Varsity; they must be ready both physically and mentally.

Both talent and determination are required to be successful in the football program. JV is where players begin to learn both.

More than half of all JV players will go on to play Varsity Football, according to Coach Freeman. Coach Kremer tells each JV player that, "You need to take the game to heart." It takes much more than throwing the football around the backyard to prepare for the Varsity; it takes pride and commitment.

To play girls soccer one must PASS

Following a loss to St. Thomas in last years sectionals, the Girls soccer team made several changes in its style of play.

"We are emphasizing short passes rather than kicking and chasing after the ball, a style used in previous years," stated Courtney Hart, captain.

The team has worked very hard. Making the transition from a run and chase offense to an intricate passing offense was not easy. Crisp passes were emphasized from the first practice, and hard work has resulted in steady improvement

With extra practice during the off-season, such as participation in AYSO, recreational soccer, going as far away as Mississippi to participate in soccer camps, and facing tougher competition, the Girls soccer team has gained experience.

Playing soccer around the world gives the Soccer team

Style

Soccer, unlike other sports, is played in a plethora of countries. Reaping these benefits of international sporting are the Kicking Conchs.

In various regions of the world, players are immersed into different, foreign styles of play. Matt Murray, who pleases the crowd by somersaulting on thrown-ins, learned this maneuver in Japan.

"In Israel, we used to play soccer all of the time with friends. I learned the basics," said Guy Rachmuth.

Over the summer, the team traveled to Canada to face tough competition. This improved unity prepared the Conchs for Miami teams.

Coming from places around the world such as Haiti, Guatemala, Israel, and Japan, the soccer team definitely has the international flavor to make the season a successful one.

In the game of soccer players must use their heads and their

Feet

"Since the beginning of our lives we have been taught to do things with our hands. After we learn to walk, we are quickly given silverware to eat with and pencils to write with.

Soccer is a sport which requires hand-eye coordination, but does not allow the use of hands. Athletes must learn to control a ball using the head and the feet.

These skills are taught in Junior Varsity. The team engages in strenuous practices and faces tough practices. This prepares them for Varsity level Soccer.

This year the boys continued learning the game but, due to an amazing turnout, a girls team was added as well.

In junior varsity soccer, players are students of the game. They are taught to concentrate less on handwork and more on footwork.

Different faces and different strategies have resulted in

Change

Along with the changes off the court there are changes on the court. Plenty of new faces have popped up on this years girls basketball team. The returning players will be forced to carry the load and provide leadership. One player who is returning, Saralyn Smith, stated, "We're really had to pull together since most of our other players are inexperienced. We are very supportive and help each other improve as individuals as well as a team."

What strategy does a coach use with so many new players? Coach Lopez didn't use the standard positions, instead he employed 3 forwards, a center and a guard. This was done to enable The Lady Conchs to utilize their height advantage.

Whether it is on the court or off the court, the Lady Conchs will strive to adjust to the changes around them.

The Slam Dunk : A mental and physical

FEAT

This year's athletic department changes included a new athletic director and new coaches. Varsity Basketball was one of the sports with a "new" coach, as Glenn Hayes was promoted from J.V. to Varsity coach.

With many players returning, Coach Hayes is familiar with their skills and ability. "Most of the returning players I know personally through the J.V. program; I feel this is a great advantage," said Hayes.

For the Varsity players, Hayes's style was different from previous coaches. He stressed not only a tough mental game, but a physical one as well. Asked what working with Hayes was like, Gaylon Parks said, "He's interested in the physical and mental aspect of the game."

Staying in shape is vital. Varsity Basketball stresses not only staying in physical shape, but also staying in shape mentally.

Being young and full of energy, JV players involved in basketball find a healthy outlet to invest their time. Coached by Donnie Preston, the main goals were to see that everyone played and that the team played together.

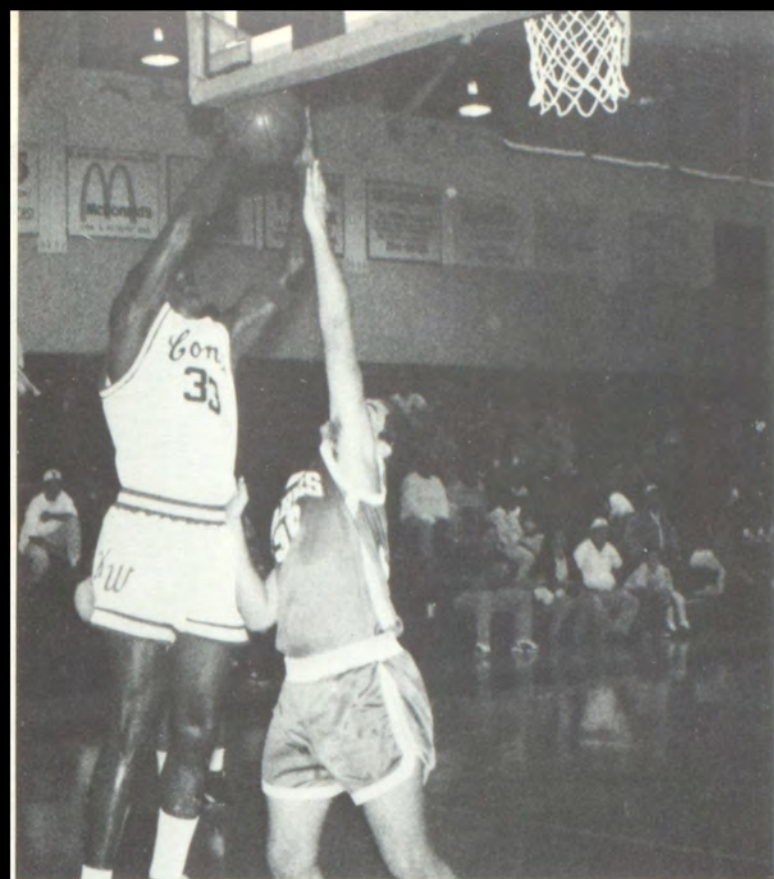

During practice, the team worked on layups, pass plays, running plays, and rebounds. To stay in good shape, and to help their footwork, the team took aerobic classes on Tuesdays.

This year they faced a tough line of competitive teams. The Conch JV consists of freshman and sophomore players. "All the athletes were talented, skilled, and loved the game of basketball," commented Coach Preston.

Coping with the mental rigors of golfing can be eased by

Relaxation

Golf is a sport for a different type of person. One must be relaxed and have the ability to deal with the pressure of that one error that may make the difference between a win and a loss.

Golf, like many other sports, requires physical and mental abilities. Although it takes much concentration, and is more mentally challenging than physically. The rest depends on one's hand/eye coordination. For example, hitting a ball so small with such a small club takes superior coordination.

To be succesful in golf, one must cope with the pressure that one error could make the diffrence between success and failure. Golfers are constantly put under this stress.

Paradoxically, members of the golf team find that the best place to relieve this stress is the golf couse itself.

With Rule Changes, the Lady Conchs are Now in The Fast lane

It would be a serious understatement to say that the Softball team changed. Both the Varsity and J.V. underwent a definite transition from a slow pitch game to a fast pitch game.

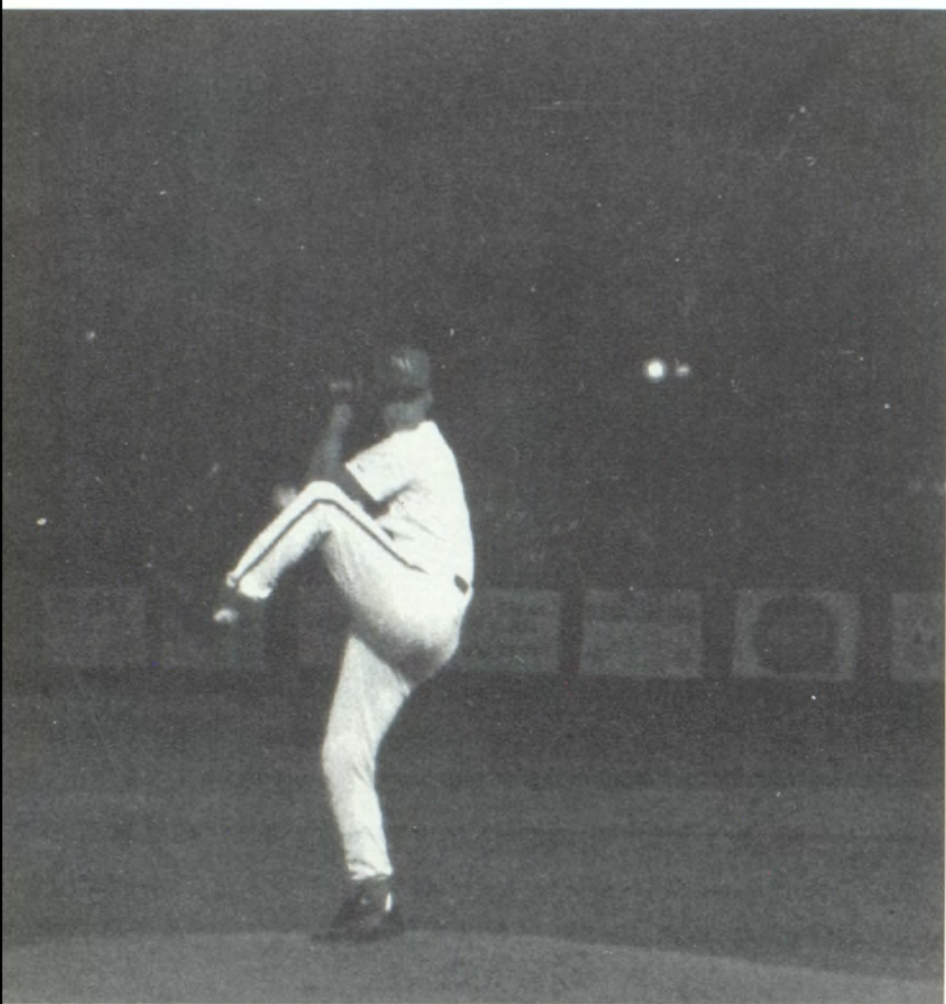

In order to make this transition a smooth one, the Lady Conchs practiced early in the season and practiced hard. New coaches with extensive baseball experience, Coach Wise and Coach Milliken, were brought in to provide tips on hitting and fielding the faster pitches.

In a tough and trying season involving faster pitches, the Lady Conchs worked hard to pull together the individual talents to form one team. The Conchs prepared for every opponent by taking fielding practice and hitting softballs in the batting cage.

With a good attitude and eagerness to learn a entirely new sport, this year was a success.

Life

Baseball is my life. I've been playing since I was seven years old and I hope to continue to play in college," stated senior Aaron Johnson.

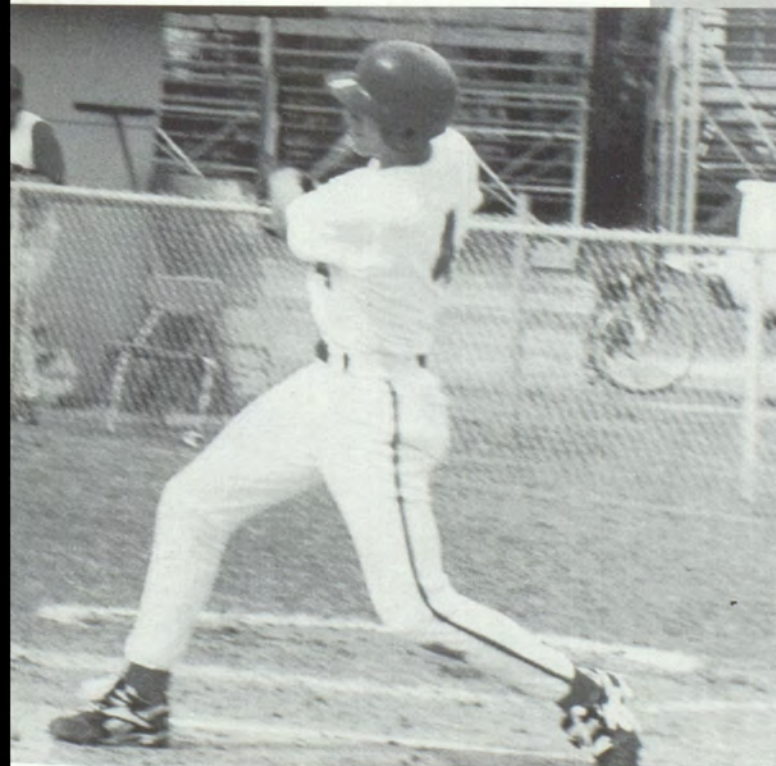

At KWHS, baseball is a very popular sport. Most of the boys have been playing since they were children, and, for some, the sport will provide a college education.

This year's '94 Conch Baseball team set the highest goal: The State Championship. A main factor in why the Conchs have had an outstanding record for the past two years is dedication. Whether it is between class, during lunch, or on the weekend, baseball is always on the players' minds. "I feel good, and I am confident in the boys' dedication," said head coach Ralph Henriquez, adding, "Being so dedicated will help them go places and succeed later in life."

Success

At the J.V. level, we stress fundamentals, along with academics to assure the players success at the next level," commented Head Coach Chris Valdez.

This years team expected another outstanding year, after working so hard during the off-season have made improvements to assure that they will be a force to contend with in the future.

When asked what it takes to achieve baseball success, Bobby Lowe stated " It is vital to practice hard and dedicate yourself to the game.

"You have to concentrate totally on the game and it has to be a team effort." says Brandon Merkey. Having nine players on the field definitely requires a team effort.

J.V. Baseball emphasizes teamwork and requires a good attitude. This is vital for success on the Varsity level.

Focus

While many coaching changes have occurred in recent years, one coach has remained at Key West High for thirty years. Coach McKell has seen the game progress through many eras.

His experience includes teaching at tennis camps, and playing the game for his entire life. McKell stresses focus, and concentrates mostly on the mental aspect of the game.

One of the things McKell attributes to the strong focus is the work ethic, on the court, and in the classroom. The team has an overall GPA of 3.75, efficiently balancing school and practice time.

Tennis is quite beneficial. It serves as a character builder, develops concentration skills, provides an opportunity to compete, and challenges a player physically. It's no wonder Coach McKell loves to teach and play the game.

Bringing New Talent to the Surface

An important segment of shaping our lives is the way we choose to express ourselves and our talents. Organizations such as Conchettes, Band, and Cheerleaders are places to show loyalty and school spirit. NHS, Beta, Mu Alpha Theta, Interact, and Z-club are the clubs to join for community service. The clubs we choose to involve ourselves with give us a chance to nurture our personalities, enrich our lives, and help us go beneath the surface. . .

Student Council is a club of medium size with sixty-five active members, five officers, and two sponsors.

"Student Council's main goal is to serve Key West High School's students' needs. We try to achieve that by taking a more governmental role by sponsoring many school service events," said Jackie Chavez, Student Council President.

Another of their ambitions is to, "Provide an active voice for students and carry their concerns to administrators," said Student Council sponsor, Frannie Tingley.

With the different dynamic personalities and charismatic leadership involved in the organization, Student Council is able to successfully coordinate and carry out such programs as Homecoming and pep rallies.

Helping to solve problems is a large part of being in both the Peer Counselors and being a member of the Sophomore Executive Board. Peer Counselors help students solve problems they would rather discuss with their peers than a teacher or parent. Peer Counselors keep everything that has been discussed between themselves and the students confidential.

"Peer Counselors give students a chance to talk about their problems openly with other students their own age," said Helen Madeo.

Obstacles faced by the Sophomore Executive Board included fund-raising, the motivation of the Sophomore class, and working as a team. These hurdles were all overcome by the strong leadership of the Board and its members. Funds were raised and the motivation was attained by the entire class working as a team.

SPIRIT

Working Hard to Attain the Audience's

Varsity Cheerleading takes plenty of hard work and an abundance of dedication. Many long hours of hard practicing go into each cheer and movement. During pep rallies and performances, the cheerleaders try to generate school spirit and enthusiasm throughout the audience.

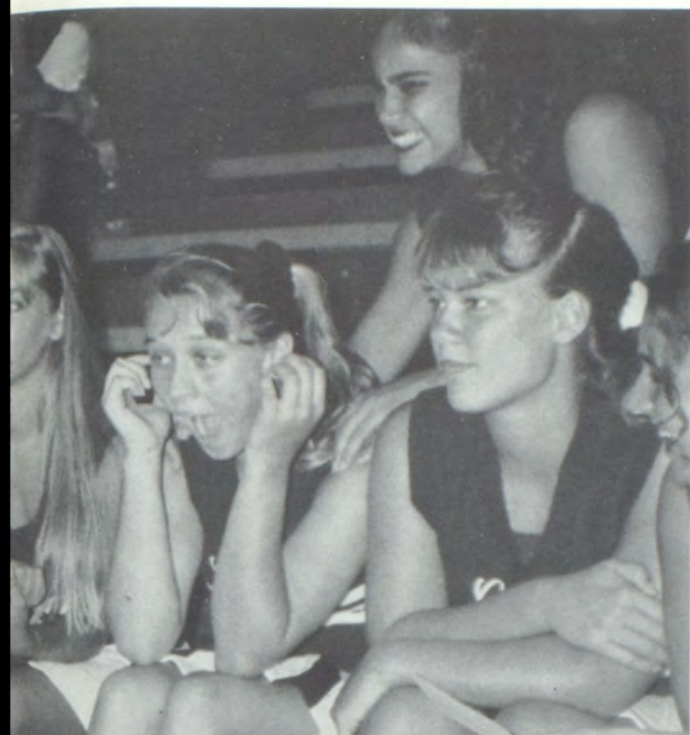

"Cheerleading can be a difficult task at times, but when a cheer is done perfectly during a performance, it is worth the trouble," said Briana Beckner.

"Cheering in front of crowds and helping them to catch Conch spirit makes the hard work all worth it," said Tiffany Preston.

With a lot of practice and school spirit, the Varsity Cheerleaders enthuse and amaze their audiences with the ease and agility they use while performing their cheers.

UNITY

Teamwork, Practice, and Dedication Help to Create

People seem to think that cheering and performing in front of an audience is easy, but the cheerleaders themselves know that it is not as easy as it looks. Many long hours and plenty of hard work are put into each cheer and routine to make them look perfect.

Teamwork plays a large role in the perfection of each movement. Cheering is not an individual effort, it is the combination of people working together as one.

"We have to work as a team, otherwise all of our work would be a waste of time and effort," said Jill Russell.

"The unity of the group is what makes cheering such a fun activity, without it, it would just be a hassle to belong to," said Neda Preston.

Key West Police Department, is this an emergency?"

If you have ever had to call the Police Department, chances are that at one time or another you have probably spoken to one of the Key West High School's Police Explorers. The Explorers cadette program is great for someone who is interested in a career in either law enforcement or criminal justice.

Although the Explorers have many advantages such as riding with officers and directing traffic, there are also a few restrictions. Carrying weapons and confronting suspects are not to be done by the teen cadettes.

"Getting a head start on a career that I am interested in is a large advantage of being a member of the Police Explorers," said Thomas Arroyo.

Working hard to be what we consider 'superior' is very important to the band," said Kevin Rendueles.

Hard work is a very large aspect of the 1993-1994 KWSHS Band. Through their hard work and dedication they have been able to achieve some of their most important goals throughout the year.

"We worked long and hard practicing for the FBA Festival and it all payed off when the judges announced that we had an overall superior band," said Matthew Truhan.

Providing a Helping Hand for the Community Through

Z Club is the only club on campus with the sole purpose of community service and individual development. Stressing dedication and diplomacy, this freshly chartered organization set out with high goals and spirits. Closely affiliated with Zonta, a women's business association, this club accomplished several community service endeavors. Community service and involvement are highly stressed qualities of members. Z Club's projects included the opening of the Key West Children's Shelter, the Marc House picnic and selling of Christmas trees, an Easter egg hunt at the East Martello Towers, AIDS help, and volunteering at the crisis hotline.

Through hard work and tireless efforts, the Z Club proved that the success of a club is not measured by the amount of money in the bank account, but by the simple achievements.

STAGES

*In Creating Perfection,
There are Many*

Just as each King and Queen play a vital role on the chessboard, each actor also plays an important role on the stage," said Carrie Baso.

The importance of teamwork both on the board and stage is extremely important. The chess pieces all work as one in the attempt to overrule the opposing side, while actors participate in a joint effort to bring a production to the stage. If total participation is not achieved, the goals of both the chess game, and the play will not be accomplished.

Perfect performance is also an important part of both chess and drama. Perfection is striven for by both actors and chess players, it is the goal of both to be perfect at what they do.

Both drama and chess have many similar goals. These goals can all be achieved through the combination of teamwork and hard work.

STRESS

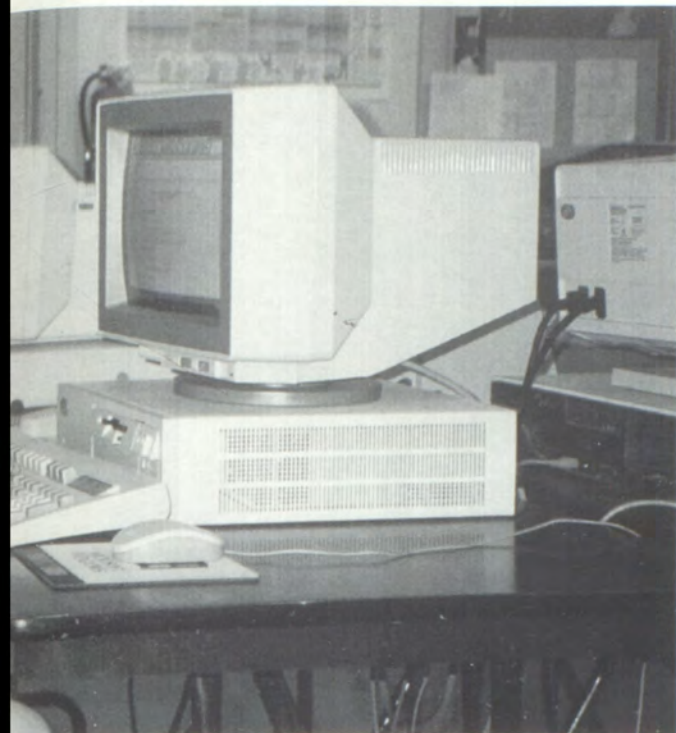

Preparation, proficiency, and positivity help to alleviate

Being a co-editor of the People section is great, but it can be stressful when trying to make deadlines. It takes a lot of time and hard work to put together a spread for the yearbook, but it is worth all of the hard work after it is done!" said senior Candace Hill, co-editor of the People section.

Even before the word go, the yearbook staff is hard at work. Before school has even gotten out for the summer, the next year's staff has already been chosen and is selling advertisements to help finance the book. In the fall when school reconvenes, the section editors choose their staffs and pass out assignments. The countdown then begins for the first five deadlines. With writing, getting pictures taken, getting interviews, and working on layouts and designs, time and hard work are not foreign words to staff members.

With Changes in Layout, Design, and News Focus, The Snapper

Articles! Deadlines! Stress! Who said producing The Snapper was an easy job? Snapper staff members, hoping to address more serious issues and events affecting students, had to adjust to many changes.

Along with layout/design and photography changes, this year's newspaper contained less non-essential news, more commonly known as 'fluff.' Snapper articles focused on more important issues, such as AIDS, censorship and education, as well as events occurring around the campus and in the community. Many staff members feel that these changes are for the better, and will provide an important service to the students of our school.

"Our primary goal was to get students interested in issues that will affect the rest of their lives," said Editor-in-Chief, Melissa Centonze.

Introduction to New Things, Helps Members Experience

On both Mu Alpha Theta and French Club, students are always experiencing new things. Whether it is tasting new French cuisine, or taking a test on material that students have never seen before, there is an exciting and challenging change in store for them.

"While being part of the French Club, I was able to learn about the French culture. Tasting delicious French cuisine and learning some otherwise untaught French idioms made French Club both unique and a joy to be in," said Ashley Green.

While the French Club is busy in Paris, Mu Alpha Theta members are kept entertained by the relatively difficult tests that they are exposed to.

"In Mu Alpha Theta, one must go beyond plugging in values, one must explore different methods to solve problems," said Guy Rachmuth.

Balancing the Bottom

Line

Living in a small town has its advantages. The locals seem to feel an allegiance to our school, and have always supported our programs with generous donations of money and time. The purpose of the advertising section is twofold. It serves not only to cover the mounting costs of yearbook production, but reminds us of how much we owe to the community in which we live. We would like to offer them our thanks for helping us go beneath the surface . . .

It seems like yesterday, we held your hand the first day of school. You have accomplished a lot since then. Dance, Cheerleading, drama, and gymnastics are just a few because you'll accomplish a lot more in your life. Skipping through the house carrying Moppy, you brought sunshine to all of us. Therefore, you'll bring the same joy to many others. When you were born you became a wonderful addition to our family. Now, you've become a wonderful addition to the world. It's not easy letting go, to let you try your wings. Remember, you won't ever be alone. We'll always be there for you, to lift you up and help you achieve your goals. We'll always be the "wind beneath your wings." We are proud of you! We love you,

Best wishes to the Class of '94

Jenni,
It's wonderful
realizing a dream....
...knowing that the little girl who once filled your life with joy and your heart with love has grown into a special woman who still makes you feel that you're a very important part of her life....

We hope you know how proud we are of you
of the choices you've made,
the goals you've accomplished,
the respect that you've won;
And we hope you know, too,
how much we love you,
and how much we wish that all of your dreams come true.

Love,
Mom & Dad

Your graduation is finally here.
 Soon you will bw not so near.
 It wasn't an easy task we had,
 to mold you into a nice fine lad.
 With prayers and guidance from God above,
 Everything we did was out of love.
 We wish for you every happiness
 And along with it much succss.

Jen,
A dream is your door to tomorrow. A secret reflection of you, a threshold that leads to a wonderful future where nothing is too good to be true. A dream is a beautiful vision that looks beyond what you can see, then lifts you and guides you and grows strong inside you to help you be all you can be. A dream is a daring adventure, a journey to carry you far, hold your dreams in your heart; we hope all your dreams come true. If they do, a part of our dreams will have come true, too.

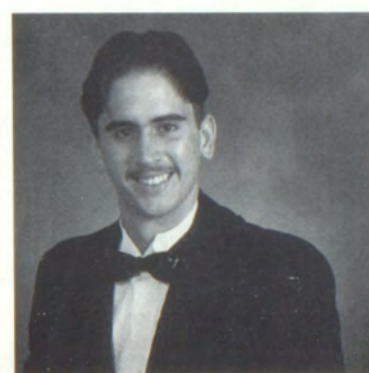

May God bless you,
We love you, Princess J!

Congratulations Joseph
This is a moment you will always remember with pride

In your life there are moments of pride and accomplishment that you will remember forever. Through the years, you have set goals, and met each challenge with courage and determination. You've overcome the many obstacles that you've encountered along the way. Remember that success is not measured by the expectations of others, but how honestly you live up to your own expectations. We are proud of who you are and of the man that you have become. We hope that all of your tomorrows will be filled with fun, love, and the great memories that we have all shared. We love you, BIG JOE !

Congratulations Scott

May your future be as bright as the smile you've always shared. You are a special person with a special plan in life. Keep on believing in yourself and your convictions, you will never go wrong. We are very proud of you and wish you the best always. Stay Gold!!

A daughter is a treasure - a blessing from above,
 She's laughter, warmth,
 and special charm,
 she's thoughtfulness and love.
 A daughter brings a special joy that comes from deep inside,
 And as she grows to womanhood,
 she fills your heart with pride,
 With every year that passes,
 she's dearer than before,
 Through every stage -
 through every age,
 you love her even more!
 For all you are,
 for all you do,
 May everything beautiful
 in life come to you.
 Congratulations! We love you,

Candace Lynn,
It's been very enjoyable to watch you grow from the child we always loved to the wonderful young lady you have become. Tragedy in our lives was overcome by your presence, love, and understanding. You used the experience as a guide for your future. The next few years will be the most important and we know you will use them wisely as you have done in the past. You will always have our unconditional love and understanding. We thank you for being a cornerstone in the foundation of our lives. We love you very much.

Thanks son, for the respect you have shown us in your growing and most difficult years. Also for the strength of character and the ability to meet small challenges. Although real challenges lay ahead, you have the foundation to over come them. And if you're ever in doubt, Faith in God and yourself is the answer May God and good fortune be always at your side.

*Yet I cannot tarry longer.
The sea that calls all things unto her calls me and I must embark.
For me to stay, though the hours burn in the night, is to freeze and crystallize and be bound in a mould.
Fain would I take with me all that is here. But how shall I?
A voice cannot carry the tongue and the lips that gave it wings. Alone must it seek the ether.
And alone and without his nest shall the eagle fly across the sun.*

To the Fanster,

Producing a yearbook with you is like falling off a log. You are a yearbook advisor worth his weight in gold. Although we now that nothing gold can stay, we trust that we are not jumping the gun. By saying the yearbook is fit to beat the band, we are as pleased as punch, and as happy as clams. We'll remember your valient efforts till the cows come home. You're a good egg, Jim. And you heard that straight from the horse's mouth!

"Luck is what happens when preparation meets opportunity."

You've grown into a beautiful young woman with the strength and courage to become who she wants. Always so strong. Believing and standing by the truth no matter what, even if there is no one in her corner. You could have never made us more proud. We believe in you always. Love,
Mami, Papi, Belinda,
Papo, and Claudia

Punkin,

Each breath a struggle,
Each hour a triumph,
A three pound scrop of humanity barely clinging to life.

With your determined spirit,
You fought to survive,
A glorious woman
In elfin disguise

Now, you are a survivor,
On the threshold of your life,
Talented, questing, caring, awaiting your place in the world.

God answered our prayers,
You are truly God's gift,
You have made us whole.
Live your dreams!

Lots of love,
Mom, Dad, Chris,
Blue, Tramp, Nub,
Conchman, and the Bros,

Ashley E. Green

The Trophy is a Lighthouse to

MAOR KAINAN

By: Sarah and Moshe Emanuel

He broke the record of the school as kicker in football, as soccer's striker. Applause rose up from the herald on the field that praised Maor "The Champ."

The sisters' shouts of encouragement, Shiri's and Limor's inspired him to magic in his play on the field. The mother's photos will forever remind us of his goals, and him his father's enthusiasm of the game.

Maor was born with a ball in his hand. He rolled around with the ball in his baby-bed. With his signature spin kick, he shot balls in the goal. Maor rose like a palm tree with his ball always beside him.

His body's abilities sprouted him wings. He flew and hovered as an eagle in the sky. Despite his shyness and humble manner, in a glorious ceremony he was given a great trophy.

A small tear of a loving mother now reminds her of his separation from her womb. A proud father's nurturance reminds us of Maor's separation from his youth and becoming an adult.

Standing against a seemingly hopeless goal, he scores and, as the kicker kicks Maor will now face life, ready to take it to its highs and summits.

Dedicated to my grandson, Maor Kainan upon his graduation from Key West High School, Key West, FL. on the day of his receiving the trophy for the most outstanding student athlete for the third year (2/25/94).

Good Luck, Maor, in your bright future!

All our love, Mom - Varda, Dad - Julien,
and sisters, Limor and Shiri.

Chance BLATT

Dear Chance,

From the beginning you were a handful. You were always the wildest and funniest and the one who kept things hopping around the house. We will miss that.

As you strike out on your own, remember your roots. You will never be alone because our love and pride will always be with you. Watch out world, here comes Chance.

*All our love,
Dad, Mom, Shane

The Sea of Cooperation

When we report to school every weekday morning we are reporting to our own student society. In every society there must be rules, and rules serve no purpose unless they can be enforced. This is a role the administration serves.

Administrators enforce and carry out all the necessary procedures to ensure a better learning environment.

A major change to the administration staff this year is three new assistant principals: Mrs. Connie Fahey, Dr. Brian Fogelson, and Mrs. Alma Olson. They help keep us in line and enforce necessary procedures to ensure a better learning environment.

The secretaries serve students as well. Just about all correspondence circulates to them.

'The navigator in a sea of confusion,' best known for his sense of humor and his "Roses are Red" poems, is Principal Mr. Bob Menendez. Behind a light-hearted personality is a hard working man. We can describe him as our navigator in the sea of cooperation.

It is to our advantage as students that our administrative staff works hard and together as a T.E.A.M. — Together Everyone Achieves More.

+++Danette M. Baso+++

Mrs. Olson, Dr. Fogelson, and Mrs. Fahey examine the layout of the sports facilities to be built behind the school. Everyone is excited about the high-tech improvements.

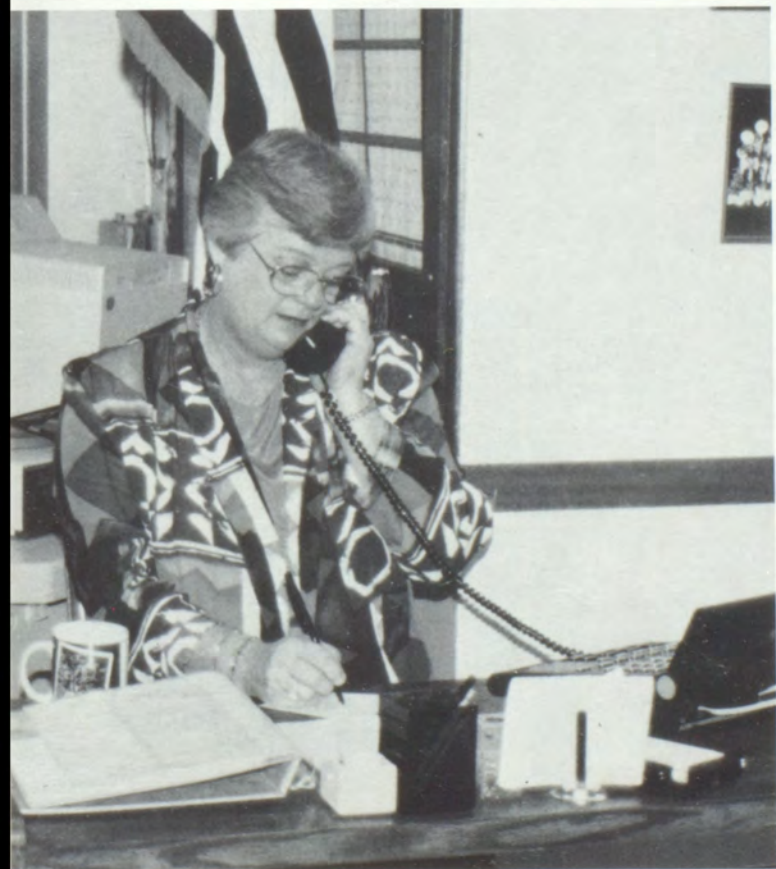

Dr. Fogelson picks up the ISS list for the day. His job as head of discipline has improved the attendance and maturity of students this year.

For the morning announcements Ms. Nodine holds the microphone for Mr. Menendez so he can inform students of sports updates, college acceptances, recent events, and a thought provoking quote of the day.

Mrs. Fahey, assistant principal in charge of administration, is always on the run. She pulls up information on the computer to supply a caller with their information request.

Mrs. Ann Collins calls the county school board office to approve some papers. Most of the documents that need to be typed go to Mrs. Collins where she types and distributes them.

Ms. Nodine pulls out some dittos from Mr. Menendez's files to review and update. As office manager, Ms. Nodine carries a large responsibility, "...but I have to admit, it's fun."

Preparing for the 21st Century

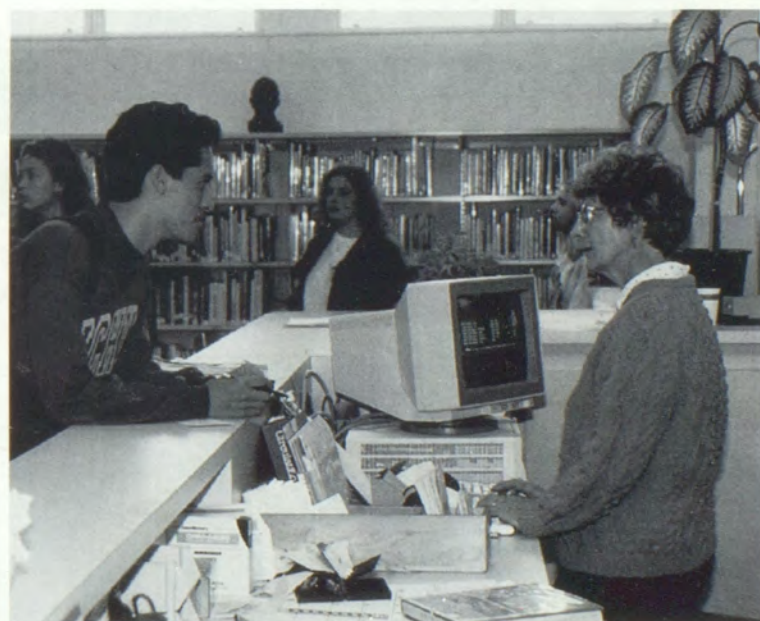

We are living in an age of dynamic progress. We are expanding our knowledge and learning about and how to apply facts, rules, and opinions every day.

Our teachers help us discover these facts, rules, and opinions. They know what the world has to offer us and recognize that we have a lot to offer the world.

The role of a teacher is to give us a foundation, a springboard that enables us to express and act on our beliefs and opinions. They prepare us for years beyond high school.

We will remember our teachers and the futures they helped us find.

Danette M. Baso**

Mr. James Boggs, the new physics teacher, explains physics is all around us. He demonstrates how sound and light travel by using a Slinky. Mr. Boggs likes to use props in his discussions to help students visualize concepts of physics.

Ms. Mary Jane Todd pulls up Al Rodriguez' student I.D. number on her new computer. The computer system is just one of the many changes in the newly constructed library. Ms. Todd, as well as the students, like the library changes.

Meeting ~~our~~ Needs

When Doretha Simmons arrives to work at eight o'clock she stocks the previous day's deliveries and pulls out any necessities for the day's luncheon.

Above right, the custodians pose for a picture in front of the conch to express their pride in keeping our school clean. From left to right are Victor Zapata, Joseph Russell, Mauricio Perez, Gilfredo Ramirez, Anselmo Gil, Angel Garcia, Amapolio Valle, Lee Ramsey, and Alfonso Rey.

Baso, Aida Canalejo, Elise Soler, and Diana Casas. The cafeteria staff and custodians' senses of humor are never nonexistent.

The preparation of the cafeteria lunches takes hours, considering about 950 students eat school lunch every school day. Monifa Jones stated, "I usually eat in the school cafeteria, and I like the fact that I have a variety of food to choose from."

Cafeteria workers arrive at school between seven thirty and eight o'clock each day. They prepare food and set up the snack bars and lines in about four hours to be ready for the hungry students of first lunch. After lunch, they pick up and prepare everything so they will be able to start right away the next morning.

The role of a custodian is similar to that of a cafeteria worker. They arrive early to unlock the gates and do other minor duties. They are constantly working around the school. After lunches, they clean the cafeteria and patio. At the end of the school day, they clean the entire campus. Their work day ends around seven o'clock, unless there is a special event, after which finally they go home.

Custodians and cafeteria workers have long and strenuous work days. All this work is done to maintain a healthy and clean environment for us.

+++Danette M. Baso+++

Gilfredo Ramirez sweeps the cooking room after school. The custodians are each assigned a section of the school to clean, which helps them to accomplish their duties through teamwork.

Usually seen by students working the cash register in the hot line, behind the scenes Aida Canalejo does her duty of slicing the roast beef for the special Christmas lunch.

Just after dusk and ready to go home, Mauricio Perez, head custodian, does the final touches to cleaning up E-wing by sweeping away dirt tracked in by students.

Superlative Seniors

We assembled at the Pier House on a brisk early December afternoon. There were about twenty-five of us, including the photographers. "Most Likely to Succeed" Denis Diaz and LaChant Barnett were the first to show and "Most Intellectual" Erin Bush and Ryan McCrillis were ready with an abundance of jokes upon arrival. "Best Dressed" Mary Edgington was there in style but Miguel Liz was almost fashionably too late. We trudged through the sand under the scrutiny of five European tourists in Speedos. "Wittiest" Cayman Smith-Martin and Mandy Moore noted the sign that proclaimed "Topless Beach" while "Most Talented" Camila Duke and Elio Estopinan excitedly explored the area. Randy Niles and Kawana Staffney, "Most School Spirit", encouraged the photographers to take the picture ASAP. "Hardest Worker" Ashley Green and Timothy Parker tried to organize the scene while "Best Looking" Lisa Gladwell and Aaron Johnson got ready in the bathrooms. "Most Courteous" Jennifer Dutton and Heath Brundage politely waited for instructions on where to sit. "Most Athletic" Lamont Woods was at an away game and Courtney Hart brought a soccer ball to kill time with. "Best All Around" Letisia Rodriguez and Isiah Sommers tried to help in any way they could. Our purpose: to walk away with a perfect photograph of The Senior Superlatives, one in which no one's eyes are closed!

To do this, our daring photographers had to wade kneedeep into the chilly winter water, where they shot over two rolls of film amid a barrage of comments from the disgruntled seniors perched precariously on the coral rocks. The sun was in our eyes, and we were not dazzled by the sunset.

All told, the photo shoot was a success. No one developed hypothermia and no one went blind. The coral dust rinsed right out of our jeans. As for the picture, it was, well, what else? SUPERLATIVE!

Before the shoot, Isiah Sommers, Kawana Staffney and Elio Estopinan survey the scene. The Superlatives who showed up early had to wait for those who were late. Kawana could be watching the individual pictures or is she looking for the man of her dreams among the tourists at the Pier House? Are Elio and Isiah enjoying the scenery? It is a topless beach, after all!

After an hour of standing in the sun and playing in the sand, the tired remaining Superlatives gather for the last exposure on the film. Erin Bush, Ryan McCrillis, Jennifer Dutton, and Ashley Green pause before collecting their extra clothes, shoes, bags, cameras, lists, and books and heading home.

[illegible]

and finally,

We view high school as preparation for higher education. In truth, it is a microcosm of life. It includes, in small doses, all the elements that comprise a lifetime of choices and the exercise of free will. The memories of another two semesters were made and placed on the shelf. Through it all, you were there. Until now, we have been swimming downstream, gathering strength to face the stronger currents ahead. When that river flows to the ocean, we will be prepared for the transition . . .

ready to understand what lies

Beneath the Surface

Senior Ben Abel gazes off into the horizon at the beach. Solitude and introspection often help students contemplate the future and all the responsibilities that it brings.

Beneath It All

The Conch '94 was produced by the yearbook staff at Key West High School, 2100 Flagler Avenue, Key West, Florida, 33040. Advisor: Jim Fant. Principal: Bob Menendez.

The book size is 9x12 inches with a press run of 550 books. The book contains 283 pages on 80 pound high gloss enamel paper. Conch '94 was published by the Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas, represented by Kenneth Thornberry of Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

The cover used 160 point binders board, was smythe sewn, rounded and backed, and printed on four color lithocote material covered with plastic lamination. Serif Typefaces include: Chancery Bold, Seville Italic, Time Roman Bold Italic, and Weidemann. Sans Serif Typefaces include: Amazonia, Eric, Geneva Bold and Nouveau Gothic. Display Typefaces include: Bodoni 2 Campanile, Brush, Muse Script, and Jefferson Script. Photography by Bryn Alan and student photographers. Special thanks to: Mrs. Susan Watkins of Viewfinder Dive Center for cover photography, Mr. Mike Hentz of the Key West Citizen, Mr. David Brye for computer assistance, and the entire faculty, staff, and student body of Key West High School.
