KEY WEST HIGH SCHOOL

Key West, Florida

Editor: Montine Jordan; Assistant Editor: John Ross; Sports Editor: Randy Enloe; Advertising Manager: Susan Weinrich; Sponsors

Foreword

It would be hard to find an island nowadays that is completely isolated. Certainly Key West is not. In a real sense it is part of the mainland. We do not cut ourselves off from the rest of the world by coming here or by being born here. "No man," said John Donne, "is an island." Man is tied to his fellow man in many ways. We feel the reality of the tie in our high school years—perhaps it is a closer tie during those years than at any other stage of life. We are aware of this closeness and we treasure it. And we shall treasure even the memory of it. Ages hence you will open these pages and recall that here on this small "body of land surrounded by water" you were surrounded by the friendship of your fellow students and by the sincere concern of your teachers and your principal.

Slynn R. Archer, Jr.

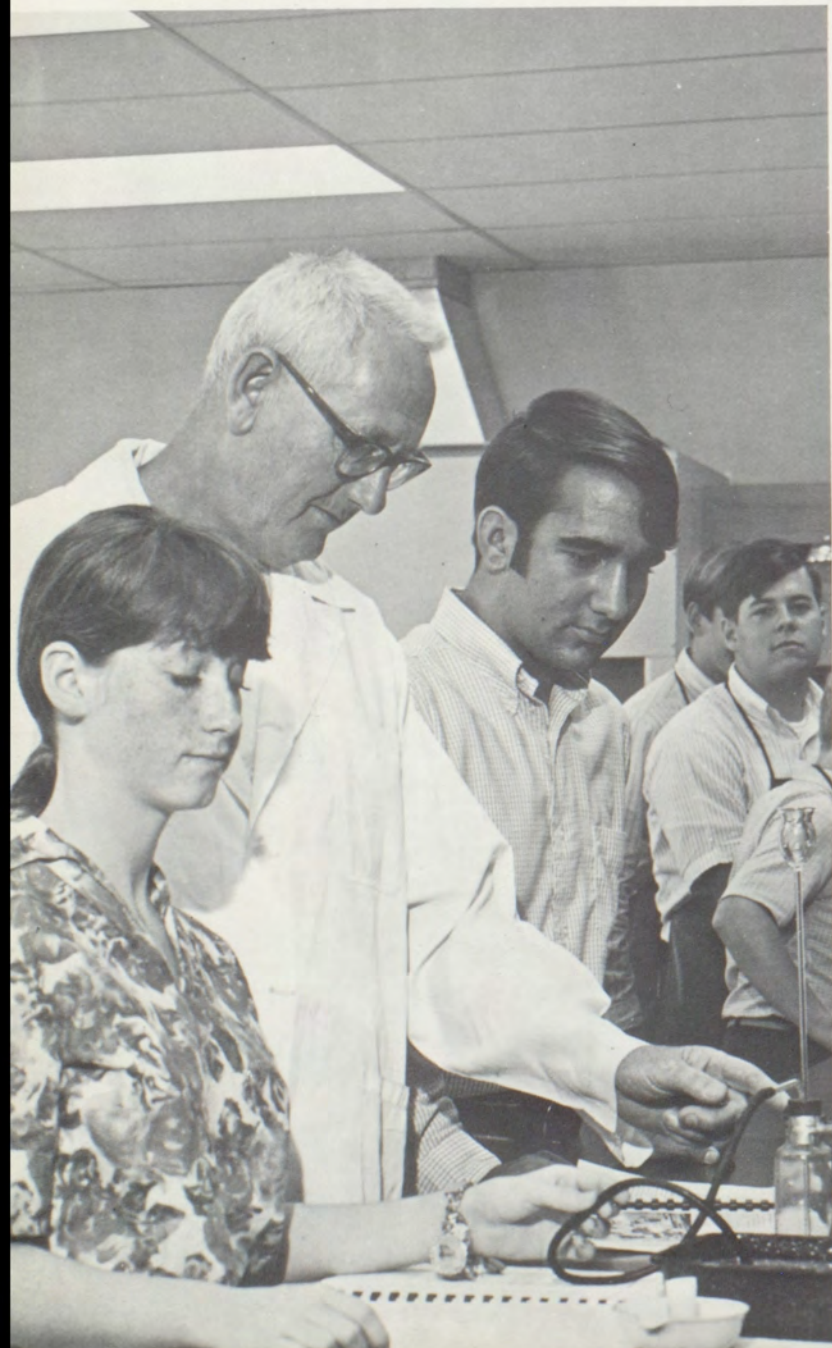

A Note on the Theme

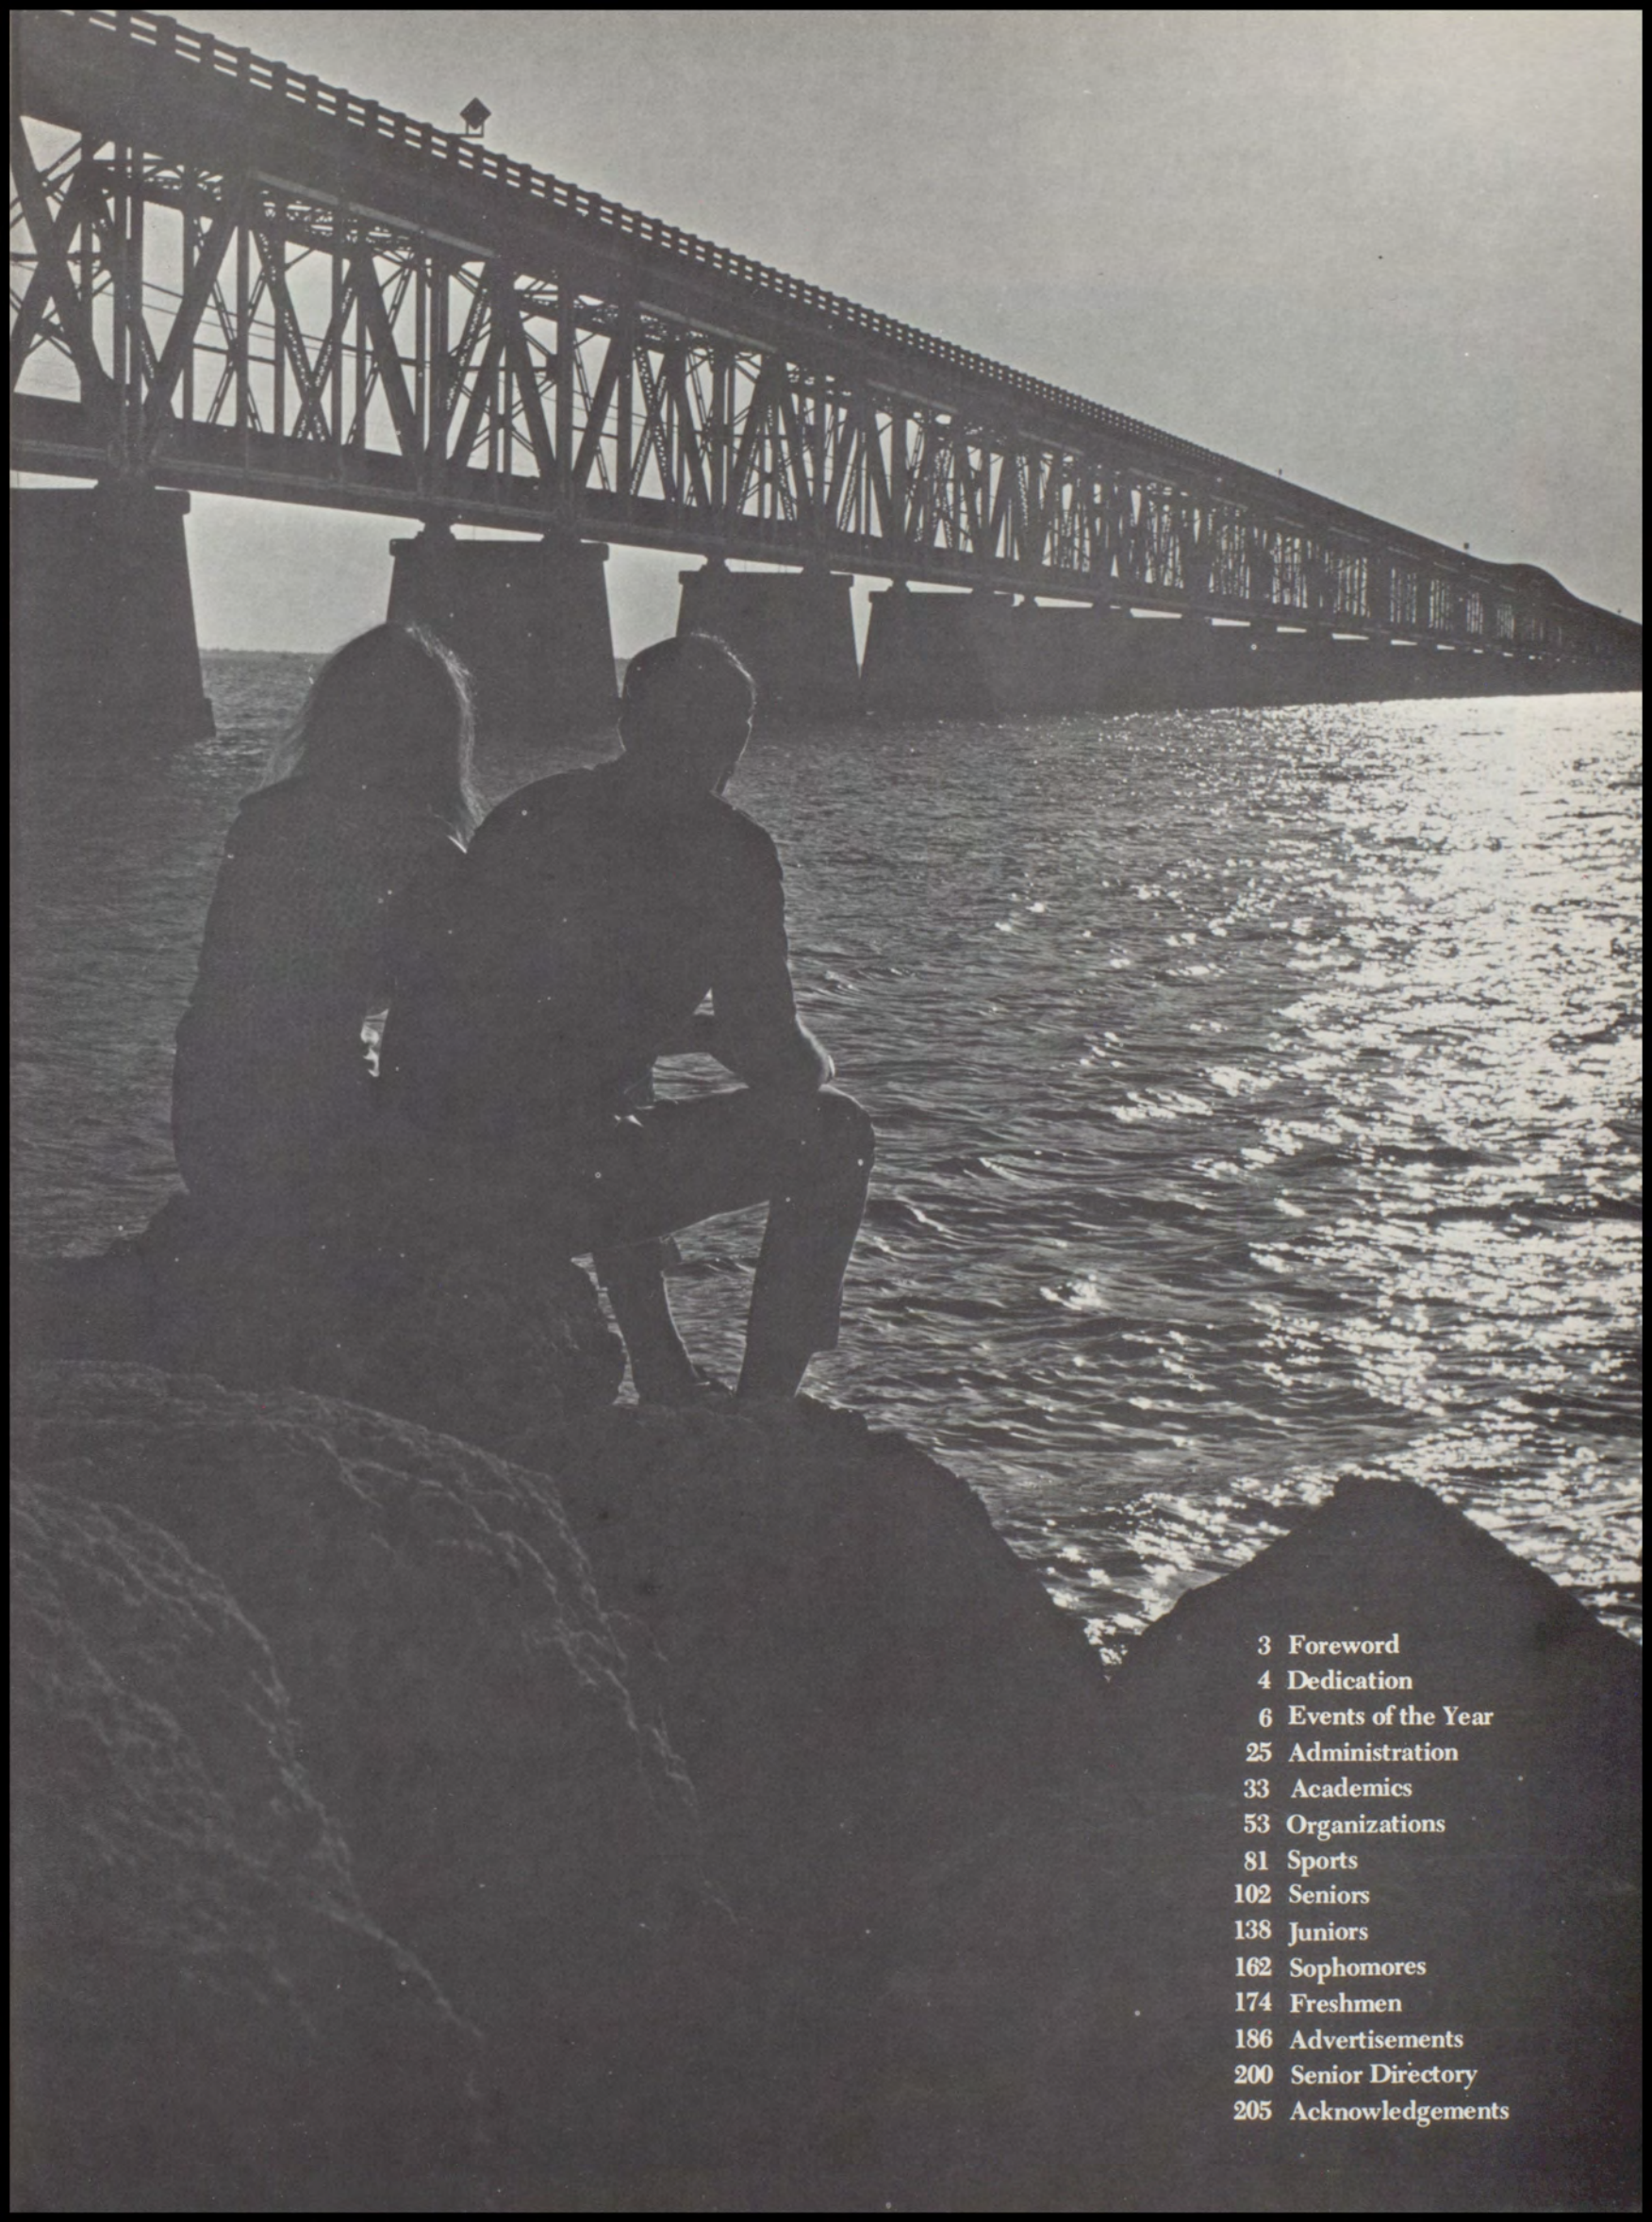

Ever fascinating, almost always beckoning, and occasionally forgotten, the sea lies around us. Shrimpers and crawfishermen know it as a means of existence. Charterboatmen take pride in introducing its adventures to "people from up north." Above it, upon it, and under it the Navy trains its fliers and sailors. The high school student, while respecting its dangers, seeks its pleasures: skiing, skin diving, fishing, exploring quiet mangrove coves, or merely taking a relaxing swim. The contemplative student sitting on the shore may think of the sea as a symbol of eternity, of the infinite. Its huge power, evident even on those calmest days when the waters seem asleep, is a literal reminder of the awesome force which rules the universe and must every moment and in all places be taken into account. Because we would remind ourselves of a wonder and beauty so close about us as to be taken for granted, we have chosen the sea as the theme of the 1969 Conch.

DEDICATION

One of the most memorable characteristics of Mr. Walther Lazier is his sense of humor. His wry wit is as rare as the rare coins he enjoys collecting. After the prom one year a huge quantity of cake remained to be disposed of. When it was decided that the teachers and students cleaning up could take the cake home, Mr. Lazier suggested that each person be limited to 487 pieces. Not everybody present saw the humor in this. It takes a sharp mind to appreciate a sharp wit. At another dance another year he and a fellow teacher suffered through hours of earsplitting noise from the over-amplified band. Finally Mr. Lazier approached the other teacher and, screaming directly into his ear in order to make himself heard, announced, "They're playing our song!" Mr. Lazier is retiring this year. We are losing one of our best teachers, and we shall miss him. But he deserves a little rest. He has taught school for twenty-nine years, twenty-two of them here at KWHS. It is good to see someone retire who is still young enough in spirit to make use of his retirement — and Mr. Lazier is still young. Perhaps some of our youth has rubbed off on him. He is going to the mountains of North Carolina, where he intends to set up a coin and stamp shop. (He likes to be called a numismatist and a philatelist.) We would like to have dedicated this book to all our teachers, but we picked him because — well, because he's Mr. Lazier.

Like the Tide the Year Rolled in . . .

As the tides of the sea in their rhythmic encroachments on the land offer opportunities to the discerning boatman, so are we, as the year turns, offered opportunities to launch forth to new adventures and accomplishments. As this book goes to press, the school year is ebbing away. Another adventure in the fascinating process of self-improvement is almost finished. A dozen pages are devoted here to glimpses of the year's events—some unusual, some traditional, some everydayish, and some, perhaps, even a bit bizarre.

Administration

Mr. Thomas Abbott

The School Board and the Superintendents

Following the resignation of Dr. Harold Campbell on March 29, 1968, Governor Claude Kirk appointed Mr. Thomas Abbott as superintendent of public instruction. Mr. Abbott's administration, though short, was vigorous and innovative. On January 6, 1969, Mr. Armando Henriquez, having been duly elected, assumed the office of superintendent. An alumnus of KWHS and former dean of boys at KWHS, Mr. Henriquez is aware of the merits and needs of education throughout our county and has devoted himself energetically to the institution of new programs and a new organizational structure. He has received enthusiastic cooperation from the school board, the members of which have many years of experience in dealing with the educational needs of Monroe County.

Our Principal

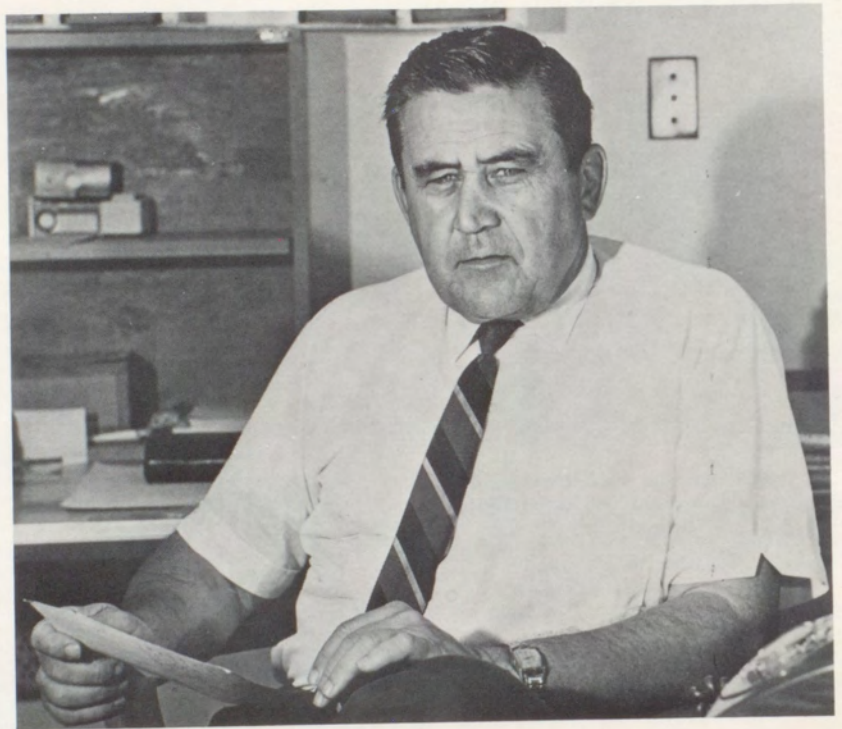

Mr. Glynn R. Archer, Jr.

When a country is great, its greatness arises from the spirit of the people, but the leadership of a single man is often necessary to fire that spirit to its soaring heights. So it is with schools, with our school. Glynn Archer, Jr. only a few years ago was one of us: was a student at Key West High School. He returned here as a teacher. He loves this school and holds its great spirit dear and takes unbounded pride in our successes. He mourns our losses and our failures — but always he looks upward, and unfailingly he leads us upward. With his love and dedication and leadership who knows how far we shall go!

The Office Staff

The proper functioning of a school the size of Key West High School depends to a considerable degree on an efficient and well organized office staff. The ladies pictured here are not only efficient and well organized but also charming and friendly and quick to offer assistance to students and teachers. Often they can be found at work long after the students and teachers have gone. During certain holidays and even during parts of the summer when school is out, they work on. If trophies were awarded for excellence in their profession, each of them would be a winner.

Mr. Horace O'Bryant

IN MEMORIAM

In November of 1968 Mr. Horace O'Bryant died in Ocala after an extended illness. It is not easy to write a tribute worthy of this man who did so much to promote better education in Monroe County. He was principal of our school for sixteen school years, from August, 1932, to June, 1948. For sixteen years after that he served as Monroe County Superintendent of Public Instruction. The effects of his dedicated efforts are in physical evidence around us. Horace O'Bryant Junior High School in Key West was named after him. The greater part of our present Key West High School building was erected during his administration, in 1956. But the spiritual evidence of his striving is also with us: his pledge to quality in Monroe County education lives now and will, on the strength of his greatness, endure for many years.

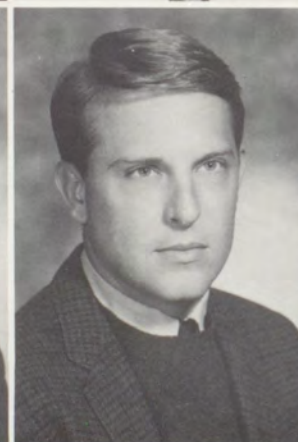

Academics

Faculty

Teaching and dedication are almost synonymous words. Because of the demands of his job a teacher must be dedicated. If he lets down in his efforts to give his best to his students, he is no longer a teacher in the full sense of the word. He must always strive to improve, to "reach" the recalcitrant student, to motivate the hesitant student, to inspire the best student to soar beyond present heights. We at Key West High School are fortunate to have so many dedicated teachers. They take their work seriously and show genuine concern for the welfare and improvement of their students. They spend long hours of extra-curricular work at sports events and dances. Always striving to improve, they take new college courses in educational psychology and educational technique. They are never satisfied — a good teacher never is.

English

The backbone of a student's education is the study of his own language. As a means of communication, a source of enrichment, and the origin of understanding between us and our culture, English serves its purpose well. The study of our language, its usage, its influence, and its development is only part of this purpose. A knowledge of American and world literature, captivating us from the amusing tales of Chaucer to the chilling tragedy of Macbeth to Whitman's innovative poetry, is a profit to our lives and completes this department's goal of contributing to the success of our education.

Carole Heinlein found the overhead projector useful in Mrs. Abbey's English class.

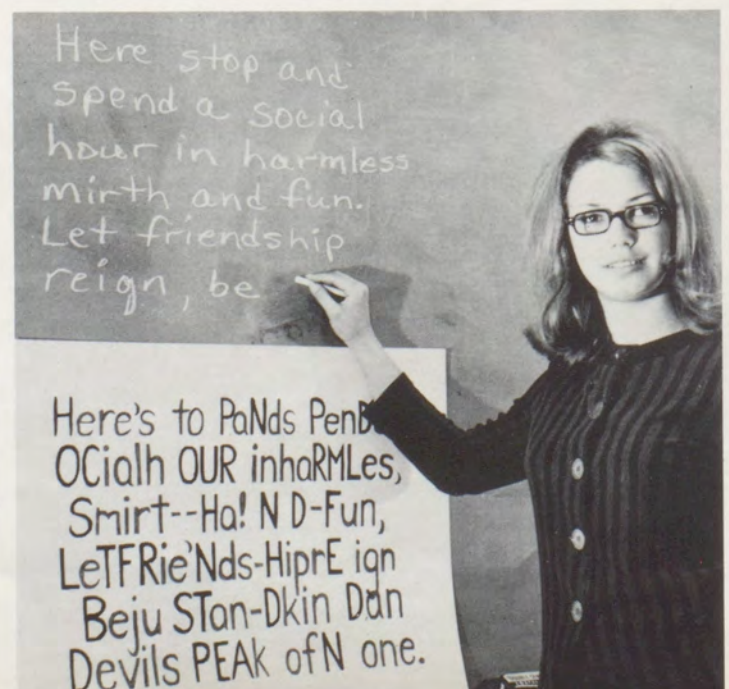

Becky Archer, Louise Saunders, and Janet VanDresser cram for A's on mid-year English exam.

High spot of the year in Mrs. Widener's classes was Caesar spoof. Dennis Swann, James Rodriguez, Robb Tomita, and Cynthia Orfield wait to go on stage.

Kathy Poole tries to untangle Mrs. Poe's impish conundrum.

Social Studies

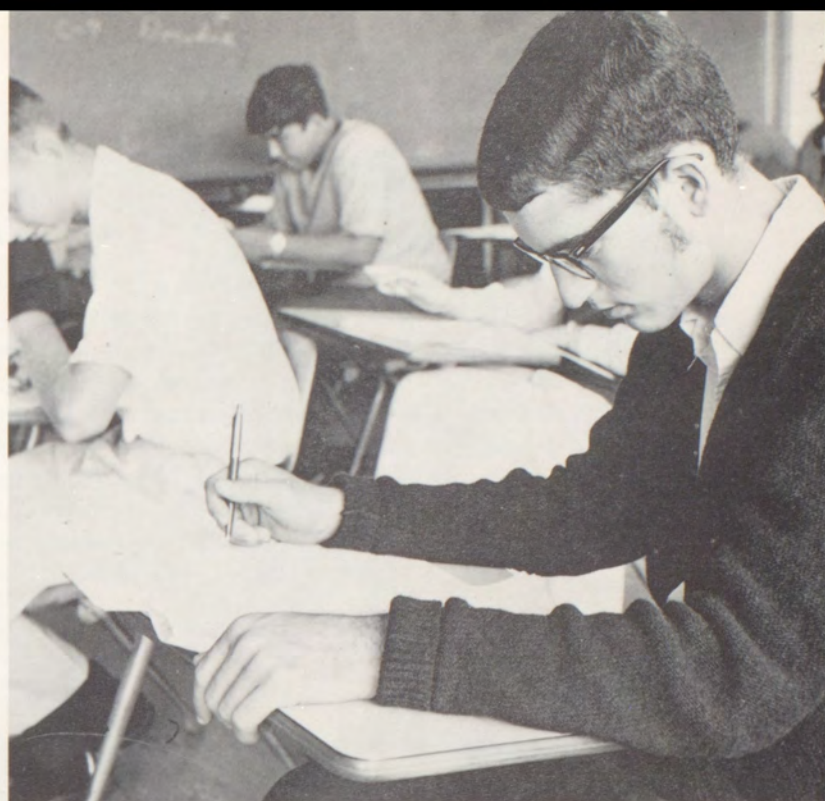

To understand the conditions of our society and the effects these conditions will have on our world in the future, we must relate the present to the past. The members of the teaching staff of our social studies department maintain this philosophy in their effort to familiarize us with the subjects of American history, world history, civics, and government. Upon completion of these courses students usually have a basic idea of the structure and function of different societies throughout the world and have gained valuable insight into problems of our own society which we now face or may encounter in the future.

Lou Albury would rather play basketball than give reports in government class, but he does both in his own inimitable way.

Clarence Higgs was thrilled when he learned the top of his head would be immortalized in the Conch. Here he works on American Observer test in Mrs. Roberts' history class.

Jose Pellico sweats out Mr. Roberts' tough world history exam.

Captive of the two-hour rule, wistful Debbie Carter stares out the window at the Atlantic Ocean after mid-year history exam.

Mathematics

Take a system of numbers; add a few operations, theorems, and postulates; subtract a little carelessness and a couple of impossible solutions; and result with a multiplication of knowledge in arithmetic and mathematics and a realization of an important division of our high school education. The faculty of our math department have exceptional talents in many fields, including those of general math, algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and calculus. They have succeeded with distinction in broadening our concepts of the complexities of the mathematical world.

Serious effort (relieved now and then by touches of humor) is typical of Mr. Simpson's classes. In foreground: James Greenwood, Janet Eckard, Kathi Sands. Hidden behind popular hairdo: Marilyn Saunders.

Mr. Tom Charette devoted many after-school hours to giving help to those wise enough to ask for it. He explains a point to Gregory Collins.

Heads bend and pencils wiggle as Mr. Parker's third period attacks math exam. Keith Fisher concentrates at front. Cheryl Holland and Mike Jolly mug camera from rear.

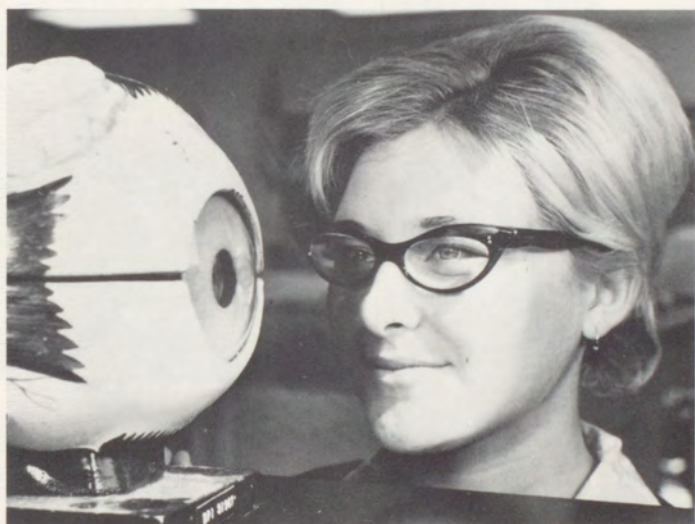

No one will ever know whether James Greenwood really determined the height of the flagpole by triangulation. Triangulation? . . . what's that?

Science

Only one test tube in the experiment of education, our science department seeks to create a better understanding of ourselves and of the various relationships of our environment. From physical science to physics, it serves as a catalyst in our absorption of knowledge. Whether it be the whys of a human respiratory system or the hows in the dissociation of water, the educators of this department are well-equipped both in machine and mind to broaden our comprehension of the makings of our bodies, our world, and our universe.

Mrs. Highsmith struggles to hold a concept as she explains photosynthesis.

Connie Losley and Kathy Boone share the thrill of studying leaf cells.

Languages

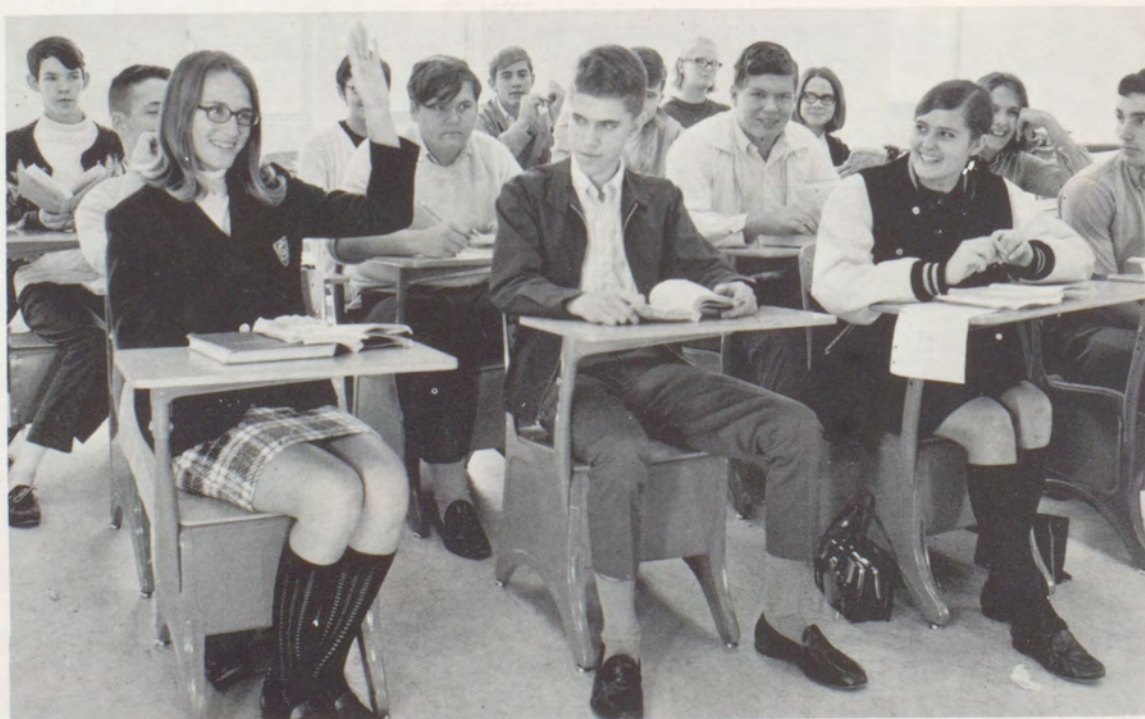

Languages are an integral part of communications in our world today. Spanish, French, and Latin are the language courses offered to the students here at KWHS. Many, through study of their chosen language, have attained fluency and speak knowingly of the cultures of their respective language's native land. A storehouse of knowledge possessed by the teachers of this department combined with diligence and hard work on the part of their pupils results in effective learning of a language other than one's own.

Janne Harrelson explains that "hamburger" in Spanish is "la hamburguesa" . . . but what are "las habichuelas verdes"? ?

Mr. Harper's fourth-period class views movie filmed in Mexico.

Linda Specht knows the answer in Mrs. Varin's fourth-period French class. Home Economics

"Practice makes perfect!" An important motto of our Home Economics department, it states simply the goal of this department in the development of its students' abilities. As potential wives, mothers, and homemakers, the girls in Home Ec practice avidly the skills of cooking, sewing, child care, and design. With due credit to the faculty of this department, we can say assuredly that with time, patience, and care, the girls in Home Economics eventually will realize a goal of perfection.

Debbie Hathcock knows that even stews require care in the making.

Benee Hawkins and Kay Skinner anticipate good results in baking.

Mrs. Lewis explains zippers to Linda Helliesen and Sandi Chitwood.

Gena Roberts pauses at ironing, gives cameraman typical smile.

Sarah Arnao exercised care in typing student directory.

Business

American business is a part of American greatness. Each year myriads of young people are needed to replenish and increase the supply of workers in the offices, factories, and stores. Key West High School each year sends forth its share. Our business department, staffed by efficient teachers (notable among them the conscientious and hard-working department head, Mrs. Nellie Pantaleo), is outstanding in its modernity, its idealism, and its honest practicality.

Brenda Roberts operates Burroughs Sensimatic.

Lee Norris trains in air conditioning at Summerland Electric.

DCT

Diversified Cooperative Training, combining a half day of school work with practical job experience, gives the student advantages not offered by the standard curriculum. Our DCT students are fortunate to have the energetic and capable leadership of Mr. Wayne Logan. They are fortunate, too, to have the good cooperation of various Key West businesses. Students this year were employed by Betty Ann's Stationery, Key West Outboard, Lower Keys Plumbing, Duncan's Auto Sales, Southern Bell Telephone Co., DePoo Hospital, J & J Ambulance, Monroe Office Supply, U. S. Naval Exchange, Stadium Mobile Homes, TV Sales and Service, Bache & Co., Medical Aids Pharmacy, McCrory's, Dr. Riggs' Dental Office, Summerland Electric, Southeast Air Lines, and S. H. Mechanical Drawing, Woodwork

"I hear America singing" — the words of Walt Whitman were meant for all of us, but particularly (and in a supremely democratic way) for the one who works with his hands: the welder, the artist, the draftsman, the lathe operator, the computer mechanic, the launcher of satellites The hands, with the help of the mind, create; and creation makes for happiness. Our school has been fortunate in having the facilities and the good teachers to set the student on the way to proficiency in the manual and mechanical arts. Miss Mayer, Mr. Bukovinsky, the unmatched Mr. Ciesinski, and Mr. Hawxhurst (on leave this year) have produced students of enviable accomplishments.

Chips fly as Glen Baker turns lamp base on lathe.

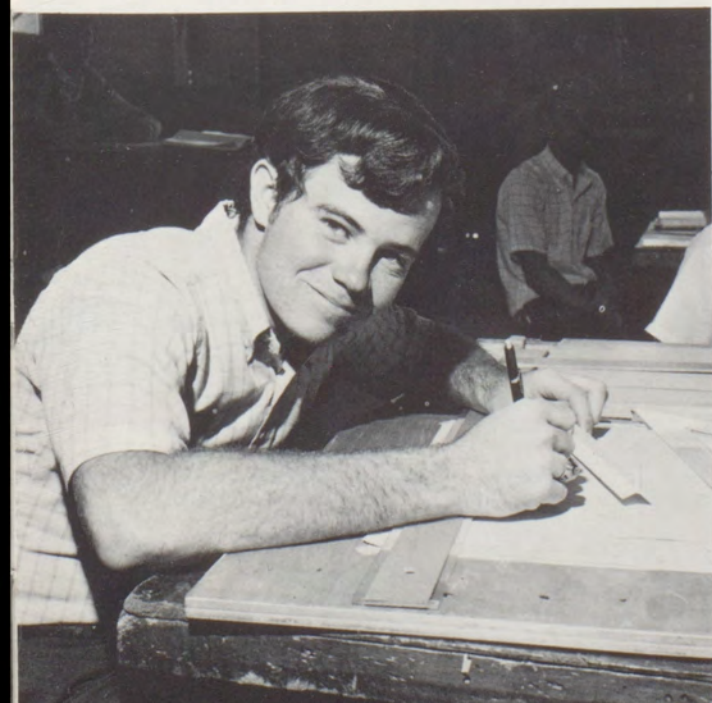

Mr. Ciesinski, who adheres to high standards, commends small detail in Don Forrest's drawing.

Wooden fishes in production here; the sculptors: Johnny Yarborough, Eddie Hancock.

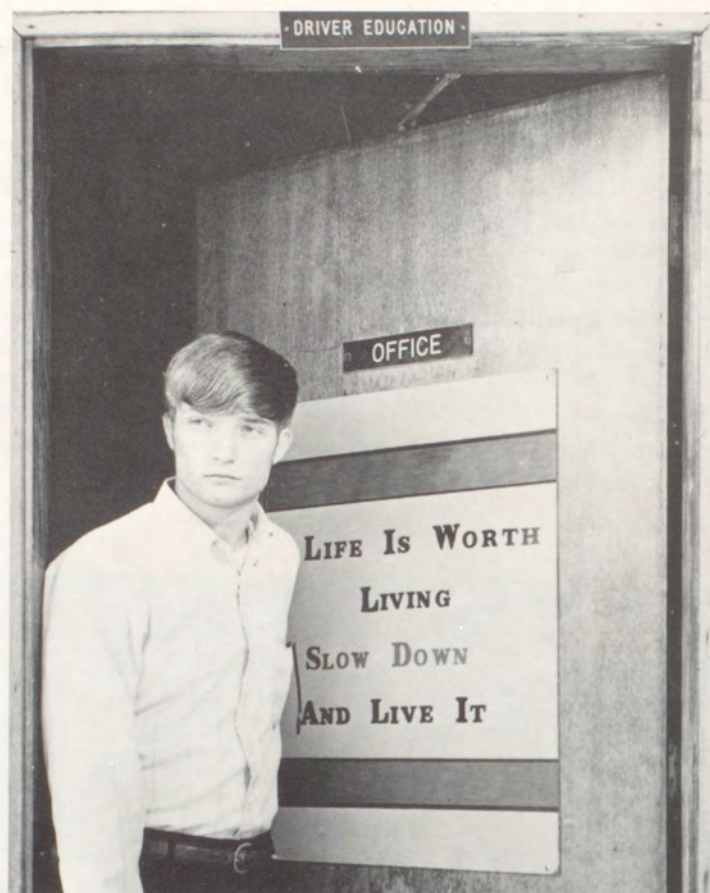

Mary Ellen Taylor signs course-completion certificate as Mr. Pannell looks on with pride.

Driver Education and Auto Mechanics

The sign, says James Curry, is worth thinking about.

The study of the makings of a car and that of driving a car correlate with ease. There is such a significance in understanding both, that we cannot recognize one without due reference to the other. The students and faculty of both these departments labor unceasingly for a better understanding of their respective fields. Both are important to our society. Without wheels, how will we travel? Without engines, how will the wheels move? Without people to make and fix these engines, how will they run? And without people who know how to drive these engines, how will we put them to safe and significant use?

Fellow students obligingly greased Ed Soldano up for this picture of a true mechanic.

Audio-Visual Services

Our AV department tries to march in the front ranks of new developments in audio-visual machinery and techniques. The coordinator, Mr. McDonald, has taken two advanced college courses in AV procedures in the past two years. Much improvement in service to the teachers and students is due directly to the dedicated efforts of the dozen students who staff the AV Room and operate the control booth at assemblies.

First-period AV workers carried heaviest work load of the day. Manuel Lopez, Ralph Arias, Randy Sterling, Peter Twinkletoes Estenoz audition a new record.

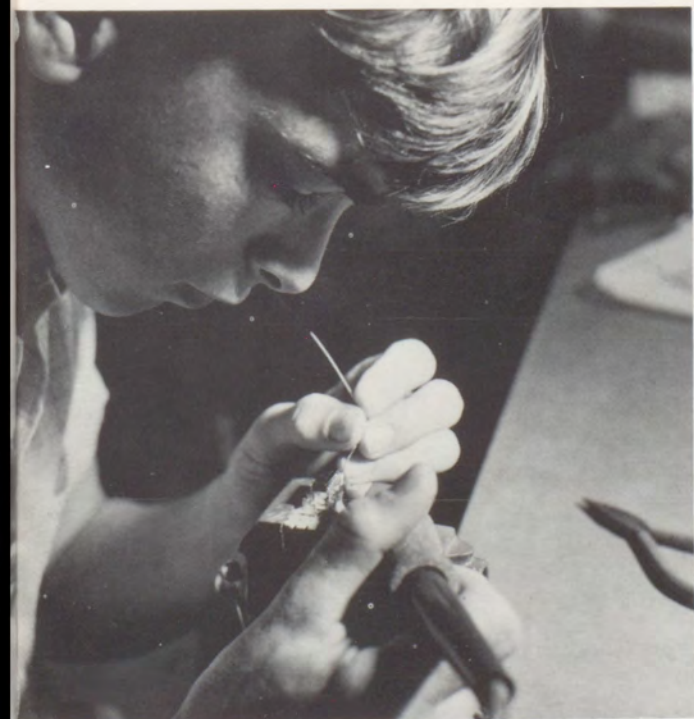

Before the year was out Don Perry gained many new skills. Here he threads movie projector.

Charles Ham dreams of becoming a ham operator.

Electronics

An exceptionally successful new course — and much of the success is due to the excellence of the chosen teacher, Mr. Howard Woertendyke—electronics this year has offered some sixty students a basic understanding of principles which can serve for advancement in the electronics field. As automation displaces many workers, it is actually creating jobs for those with knowledge of electronics. Our courses (next year an advanced course will be offered) are aimed at equipping the student to meet the opportunities.

John Parker wires micro-circuit board.

Mr. Woertendyke pauses in lesson on oscilloscope as Richard Cirotti and Harry Asbury ponder point.

Physical Education for Boys

Physical fitness is the goal of our physical education department. This is especially applicable to the boys' division of this section of our school's educational opportunities. Because they will become husbands, fathers, and leaders, it is evident that as young men they should learn the art of training their bodies for their future responsibilities. Through exercise, training in certain skills, and practiced sportsmanship, they realize the goal of this department in preparing them for the future.

One of first to try the new pool was Jonah Mack, shown doing a beautiful jackknife. Tony Davenport looks on.

Shadow makes the "before" in a before-and-after picture as Tony Nunez finishes perfectly executed half-press in our brand-new weight-lifting room.

John Sanclimenti soars in super somersault on the trampoline. Rick Wiggins watches.

Physical Education for Girls

From the heights of the trampoline to the depths of the toe-touching ordeal, the girls' physical education department at this school is one of exercise, skill, and fun. Provision is made for an enthusiastic hour of sports on most days, always with stress on good sportsmanship. Training in gymnastic skills and lessons in good health practices are also a part of the program. The girls of this department learn through their endeavors the way to becoming physically fit.

Mary Felton outjumps Dolores Roberts; Linda Pinkerton watches.

Joyfully running in out of rain: Lisa Bairstow, Miss Hankamp (not joyful?), Margie Parker, April Skaggs, Gail Leonard, Mary Raynor, Sandy Riggs, Kathy Boone.

Music

Song and laughter filled the air, a distant drummer could be heard practicing a snappy rhythm, and the tinkle of a flute could be heard above the throb of a pulsating trumpet. The music department of KWHS incorporates these sounds into an exquisite symphony of rhythm, harmony, and beat. The teachers as well as the students of this department are ones of exceptional talents. Long hours of diligent practice send forth at last from the realms of the band and chorus rooms exceptional sounds.

They love rehearsal: Teresa Zygula, Louise Saunders, Becky Archer, Monica Martinez, Robert Tallent, Steve Rexford, Genevieve Scadlock.

Practice, practice, practice. Zonia Martinez knows that it pays off.

Student Council

The Student Council of KWHS, under the loving eyes of its sponsor, Mrs. Pantaleo, is an example of democracy in action. As part of our education and a part of our future, it is our privilege to select willing and able representatives to serve us in their utmost capacity. They symbolize our ideas, our goals, and make known our grievances or praise. Without their assistance, many activities would not have been realized this year and in past years. To them, we give thanks for their faithful and trustworthy service to us and our school.

National Honor Society

Maintaining leadership, character, service, and scholarship in as many students as possible is the utmost ambition of the National Honor Society. Membership is open to any student in grades 10-12 who has maintained at least a "B" average in each subject and who displays high standards of character, scholarship, leadership and service. Besides promoting scholarship, NHS members undertake various service projects throughout the school year. Seniors of this organization receive gold tassels upon graduation.

Striving to promote the ideals of honor, service, and leadership, the Beta Club does outstanding work in the school and community. Under the leadership of Mr. Harper and Mrs. Roberts, this year's group has proven itself to be one of the best ever at Key West High. This organization for sophomores, juniors, and seniors sincerely believes its motto of "leadership by service." Membership is based on the qualities of scholarship, leadership; achievement, character, and a "B" average. Service was evident in the many projects undertaken by Beta Club this year: the annual Christmas baskets, Sadie Hawkins dance, bake sales, lollipops for charity, and many other services to the school and community.

Keyettes

Helping to better our school and community is the goal of this worthy organization. The girls who are members of Keyettes strive to uphold the high standards of this club and to perform to the best of their ability the duties which it commands. Their school spirit and enthusiasm are shown in their expertly decorated goal posts during football season and the sparkle of our school's trophies, to which they have applied quite a bit of elbow grease. Their leadership in our school is notable and constitutes a great boost to the status of KWHS.

Key Club

As the brother club of the Keyettes, the Key Club is also an organization of high ideals. The boys who compose this club's membership are worthy in both character and leadership and strive, as a service club, to perform their responsibilities to the best of their ability. To them we may give thanks for the Sweetheart Dance and for our student directory. We honor them for their undeniable spirit. A Key Club man is well known, not only for his service to our school and community, but for himself as a person.

Latin Club

Because it was and is a major contributor in the development of the English language, Latin is a valuable source of knowledge and understanding. A goal of the Latin Club is to make evident the continuing importance of the study of Latin. The members of this organization are enthusiastic supporters of "their" language. Through their endeavors they develop a more cultural atmosphere. Highlights of the Latin Club's year are their Roman slave auction, Latin Week, and the annual Latin Club banquet.

FHA

The Future Homemakers of America was founded for the purposes of preparing members to become better homemakers and inciting the interests of girls in activities in the home, school, and community. Any girl who is or has been a member of a Home Economics class is eligible to join. Among this year's activities were raising funds for the promotion of club projects, attending district and state conventions, and working on Junior Homemaker degrees.

Future Teachers of America

A remarkable surge of enthusiasm made this year's Future Teachers of America organization one of the most active in school. They took over full responsibility for the Teacher of the Month program and held a banquet at the end of the year for all the honored teachers. The tutoring program set up by FTA was a help to many students who were in need of extra instruction and moral support. Special permission was granted from the State Education Department for observations in Monroe County classrooms. The knowledge and experience gained from these observations will be of memorable benefit to FTA members.

Future Nurses of America

The challenge and hard work of nursing attract only those people with a sincere dedication for helping others. The purpose of FNA is to promote and nourish this sincere dedication. Members of this organization are "put to the task" of hard work when they serve as Candy Strippers at Monroe General Hospital. These students take great pride in a profession they hope to make their own.

Girls' State

Girls' State and Boys' State are held in Tallahassee each summer. To the boys and one girl at Key West High School who participate, attending their respective conventions is an honor. Girls' State and Boys' State have the same purpose: to educate potential seniors in the makings of a government. Through first-hand experience and participation these students learn of the structure and function of our government. Not only state government but federal government also is explored. During these conventions, the delegates from KWHS learn not only of our governmental processes, but share with many other high school students across the state the thrill of meeting and talking with one another, enjoying fellowship, and developing friendships.

There is a tradition in Key West which necessitates that its officials step down from their posts for the period of one day and relinquish their offices to the girls of the community. The senior girls who are chosen by their teachers to participate in this event are definitely a privileged lot. Girls chosen from the senior class of 1969 observed, as senior girls before them, this custom for one day. Commanding posts of commissioners, fire and police chiefs, and patrolmen, they learned in some degree what it is like to operate our city. For the girls it was a thrilling as well as interesting experience. Combining efforts with the senior girls of Mary Immaculate High School, they succeeded well in exhibiting their talents of leadership and responsibility.

Assistant city manager Charles Vallet emphasizes importance of city ordinances to Donna Fabal, Debbie Roberts, and Romaine Saunders, trying out big chairs in Council chambers.

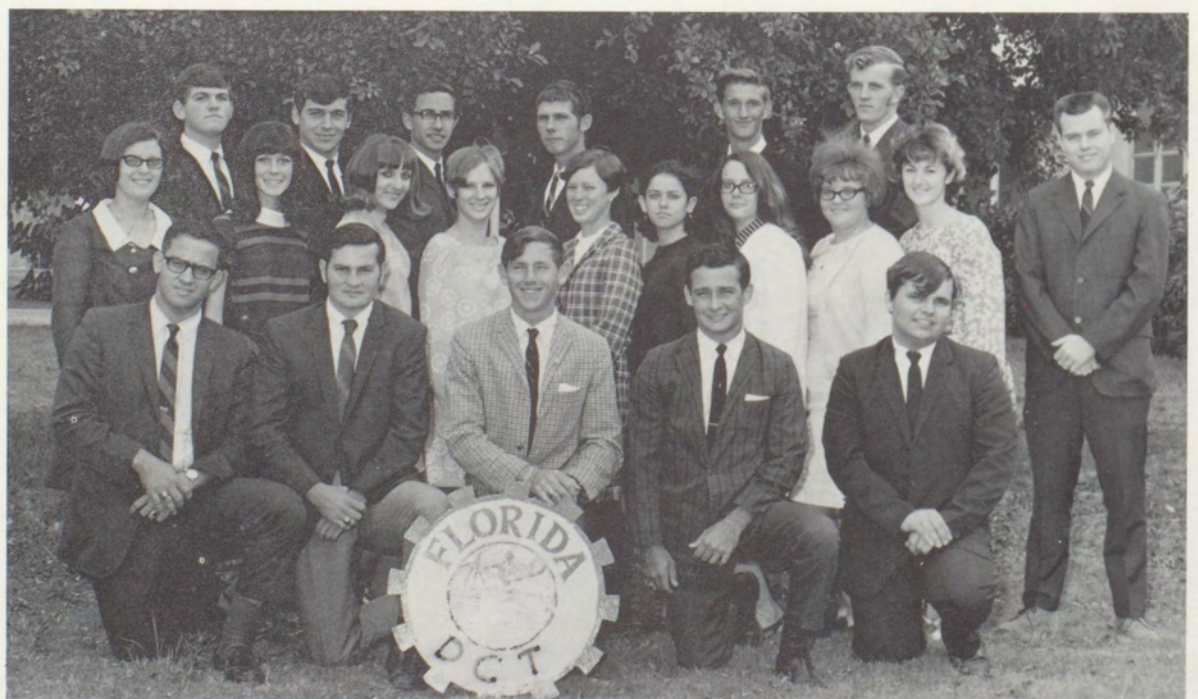

DCT

The purpose of the Diversified Cooperative Training program is to provide an opportunity for social development, to develop qualities of leadership, to develop personality and latent talents, and to encourage and stress the importance of responsibilities. The DCT students follow an adequate curriculum from eight o'clock until noon and in the afternoon go to out-of-school jobs which provide valuable practical training. For these students education extends beyond the classroom into the community. DCT students also participate in the local, district, and state activities pertinent to their program.

Auto Mechanics Club

An interest in the mechanics involved in the operation of an automobile, truck, or bus is the main requirement of those who become members of the Auto Mechanics Club. Under the supervision of Mr. Burchett the boys of this club expand this interest and secure theoretical and practical knowledge of what for many will become a paying profession. One has only to talk briefly to these students to understand that they are enthusiastic participants in this relatively new program in our school. Because they have a common interest and are together each day, they have a spirit that is uncommon among the clubs of Key West High School.

The Snapper

A SNAPPER reporter knows the meaning of the word work. In order to obtain a story he must sometimes stay after school, give up his study hall and work all hours of the day. But the reward is publication of a well-written story and an outstanding issue of the 8-page monthly SNAPPER. Under the sponsorship of Miss Jenkins and the watchful eye of Editor-in-Chief David Dowds, this year's SNAPPER was outstanding in all aspects. Clem Wohl, assistant editor; June Faraldo, news editor; Jennie Trias, feature editor; Katrina Goodwin, club editor; Randy Enloe and Alan Krug, sports editors, all worked together with the other staff members for the publication of a really fine paper.

The Conch

In an effort to provide the students of KWHs with a memorable account of the school year 1968-1969 the annual staff has labored unceasingly throughout this year to publish what we hope will be another fabulous CONCH. Under the expert supervision of sponsors Mr. John McDonald and Miss Brenda Jenkins the staff feels it has produced a yearbook which, years hence, will inspire fond memories and arouse pride in all who this year have been a part of our school. Mr. McDonald has not only contributed guidance and countless hours, but also many superb photographs to the make-up of this year's annual. Miss Jenkins' management of our business affairs was done with patience and devotion. (More CONCHs were sold than ever before.) Hard work and frustration seem to be inevitable ingredients in the making of an annual. We had our share . . . BUT IT WAS WORTH IT!!

Chorus

The great musical asset, the human voice, is combined with the musical scale to produce the sounds of sorrow, joy, hate, and love that have brought the Key West High School chorus the acclaim they deserve. Under the direction of Mr. Tom Whitley, they have acquired the talent of professionals that makes all of their performances great. Many clubs and organizations ask them to travel to all parts of the Keys to sing their message. During the year the group has given programs, sponsored dances and concessions, and, for the first time, put on the unforgettable Black and White Ball during Christmas vacation.

Genevieve Scadlock, Louise Saunders, Jeanette Anderson, and Monica Martinez pleased audiences as The Southern Belles.

Band

Key West High School is extremely proud of one of its finest organizations — the Key West High School Band. These students are, perhaps, the hardest working and most self-sacrificing of our school. They entertain at football games, give concerts, march in various parades, play for community affairs, enter state and district contests, and work hard. Their annual Tag Day was successful this year as it has been in the past, and their showing at all contests reflects their typical Conch effort. Not only is our band famous in its hometown, but it is famous throughout the nation as one of the most admirable organizations of its kind.

K-Club

Happiness is . . . becoming a letterman. For many boys at Key West High School the goal of becoming a member of K-Club is one of distinction. As an award and reward for their athletic abilities, membership in K-Club is considered definitely an honor. In return for this honor, the boys of this club offer service to our school and attempt to set a fine example for its students. We are proud of our K-Club members for the fantastic effort and devotion they have shown us. From the football field to the basketball court to the baseball diamond to the track to the tennis courts, these boys have proven they deserve to be called CONCHS.

Unity Club

"United we stand, divided we fall" may sound like a cliché, but the truth of the statement is never to be denied. Unity Club was formed this year at Key West High School to maintain unity and to avoid division, to bring students of all races and religions together for the betterment of the school. It is the objective of this club to prove that the younger generation can face up to issues before they become real problems. Mr. Bain and Mr. Kelly led these students towards the establishment of permanent unity at Key West High School.

Enthusiasm, Personality, Hard Work, Scholastic Ability, and Moral Character are some of the traits of a KWHS cheerleader. Practice starts during the summer and continues until the end of basketball season. During this period, the cheerleaders must raise money for their out-of-town games. Baseball Team Closed a Season of Superb Play and

Randy Sterling climaxed a brilliant high school career by striking out twelve in five innings for Conchs' 3-0 win over Lakeland for state Class A championship.

Bat girls Stephanie Thompson, Debbie Yeomans, and Linda Valdez took a serious interest in keeping bats in order, putting jackets on the pitchers, supplying the ump with balls. In their beauty and quiet dignity they were an inspiration to the team.

Bill Spottswood scores winning run against Lake Worth Leonard to clinch district title. Wayne Goldstein, who later batted in winning runs against Lakeland for state championship, roots Spottswood home.

Tennis Teams

The KWHHS varsity tennis teams, coached by Mr. Jim McKell and Miss Sandra Wickers are composed of students with perseverance and determination. They have spent many long hours of practice perfecting strokes, developing "deadly" serves and "unreturnable" backhands. Whether playing singles or doubles, the team performs well and has spirit and unity. The training obtained by participating in this sport is invaluable.

FRONT: Julianne Dopp, Liz Jackson, Dale Ford, Cece Watson. BACK: Cynthia Domenech, Mary Pfund, Ann Martin.

Acknowledgements

We would be discourteous if we failed to thank all those who indirectly or directly assisted in the production of this book, and we do here thank them all. We are grateful to Mr. Chester Conn of Conn's Camera and Card Center, who was patient of our photographic ignorance and spent hours replying to our requests for advice; to Mr. Edwin Swift of Swift's Camera Inc., who as an alumnus of Key West High School gives dedicated support to all its spirited endeavors; to Mr. Robert Morey of the United States Navy, whose kind offer of photographic help was an encouragement; to Mr. Mario Rios of KWHS, whose magnificent color work appears on pages eight and nine and whose brilliant analysis of our photographs almost made us experts like him; and to Mr. David Brye of KWHS, who advised us on choice of cameras and supplied us with some excellent pictures when we had all but despaired of securing enough good pictures (see some of his basketball thrillers in the sports section). We wish to make special acknowledgement to Mr. Conn of Conn's Camera for his personal aerial photograph of the island (which appears on pages two and three) and to The Key West Citizen for the loan of the photograph of Mr. Thomas Abbott which appears on page twenty-six. We will not forget our printers, Keys Printing Co. of Greenville, S. C., whose patience with us when we were overdue on deadlines contributed greatly to the quality of the book. Under more pressure we might have lowered our standards and rushed our copy to the printer in poorer shape. The spirit and merit of this book, however, rest ultimately on the wise judgment of our principal, Mr. Glynn Archer, Jr., whose patient faith in us we did our best to justify.
