Foreword

It is the chief aim of the Staff to give to the owner of the book a lifelong treasure and an everlasting reminder of the cheerful hours spent in work and play in our school; a story that will permit the owner to recall his or her school days most vividly; and to help the reader to live over again the many pleasant school days, the games, and the true friendships made in K. W. H. S.

MISS MARY B. TREVOR

Dedication

In our appreciation of the spirit of loyal cooperation, enthusiasm, and fine friendship which she gave both individually and collectively to our class, we dedicate this CONCH.

Class Poem

"Four years before the mast," they cried
When first we came aboard,
We took our place below the decks
But firm we've ever stood.

The cargo we have brought aboard
Our splendid ship of thought,
Is now to us a precious thing
As we are nearing port.

It seems as if 'twere yesterday
When first we set our sails,
For an eventful voyage long,
Through muddy seas and gales.

"But firm we've ever stood," I say,
Although we've met defeat;
Our ship was driven back at times
Across the stormy deep.

"Aye, Captain, now a port appears,
A strange volcanic land.
But surely this is not the port
That we at first had planned."

"No, Mate, that's no volcanic land
That you behold so plain;
It's but the port for which we sailed
And has remained the same."

The time has come, the haven reached
For which we set our sail,
The ship we launched four years ago
Has reached its destined land.

Farewell, old ship, and classmates dear,
And teachers ever true,
And may success forever be
My happy wish to you.

MAURICE FELTON.

History of Class of '34

"Like unto ships far off at sea, Outward or homeward bound, are we."
—Longfellow.

In 1931 the Class of '34 began her outward bound voyage with all of her crew full of enthusiasm. During this year we were snobbed by all the members of the upper ships, but despite this fact we had smooth sailing and we brought our ship through successfully on her maiden voyage. There is little to write about during our first year of high school as we spent our time studying and working to enter the senior high fleet the following year.

In September, 1932, we sailed our ship into senior high and joined the other ships of the fleet. At this time we were given Miss Mary Trevor for our sponsor, and she has given her aid and time to the development of this class ever since. At the beginning Miss Trevor laid down before us the ship's course telling of the rough and shallow spots, which we had to cross in order to sail in at the head of the fleet, but we were determined to battle the waves and cross the bar in 1934. Within the next few weeks members of the crew met and elected the following officers: Paul Sawyer, captain; Kathleen Watkins, first mate; Galen Lund, purser, and Lois Sawyer, secretary. It was at this time that our ship took a lead in the field of sports. Our baseball and diamond ball teams met and defeated teams from the other ships. In the annual basketball tournament of the fleet, our ship came in second. Two members of our crew received positions on the fleet's basketball team, and William Cates won a place on the all sectional team for his brilliant playing in the district tournament held at Miami. When the call came for singers our ship sent forth a large group who helped the Glee Club win three prizes at the music festival at Tampa. Some of the boys of our ship served as waiters on the world tour given for the departing ship of '32. During the next three months we were given shore leave which made every tired sailor happy.

The next year we came back promoted to the proud position of Juniors which made us rank second highest in the fleet. We were encouraged by again having Miss Trevor for our sponsor. As Ship A-Hoy sounded throughout the ship Paul Sawyer was again appointed captain, while William Cates was given the position of first mate. Galen Lund and Kathleen Watkins held fast to the financial and business records.

It was at this time that the fleet formed an association which put the governing of the fleet's activities in the hands of the different ships. Selma NeSmith was elected as first mate to represent our class and Floyd Dillon was sent as an engineer.

Our ship began at this time putting on boxing matches in the gym in an effort to defray the expenses of the prom which was held on May 19 at the Country Club. As the fleet put down anchors at the Country Club the members were conveyed to a Japanese garden where they were entertained and feasted by Japanese maidens. The entertainment was immensely enjoyed by the departing fleet and our efforts were not in vain.

April the first found the Senior fleet of '33 ready to play their pranks on our crew, but the members of our ship did as they were told and kept the audience in laughter by imitating various radio stars. We fooled the upper ship and ruined the most important part of the program by stealing the conch which prevented the captain, Kathryn Lightbourn, from saying the long speech which she had kept the midnight oil burning to prepare.

In the fleet's annual basketball tournament of this year we again came in second, losing to the seniors who delighted in burying us with the greatest of sorrow. This did not affect us as we came back the next week and defeated the champion crew by a wide majority. When the fleet sent out an S. O. S. call for basketball players we sent Robert Bethel and William Cates to its aid. We also put forth this year one of the best diamond ball teams throughout the fleet.

Our ship also sailed away with many of the prizes offered by the P.-T. A. of our fleet. The winning of these prizes is due to the sincere efforts of Mrs. Cleveland Dillon, homeroom mother of our ship. We owe her our appreciation and gratitude for her faithful work.

After spending another three months shore leave the crew came back in the autumn of '34 to enter on the homeward lap of our four year journey with the Key West High Fleet. At last we had reached our goal and were now the highest ranking ship of the fleet, Seniors! We hoped to pilot our boat successfully on its homeward journey so that in June of 1934, the fleet would be proud of our ship. Our ship was again piloted by the same officers who piloted her in 1933. We wished to congratulate our officers who have worked cheerfully and hard in an effort to make our journey fruitful.

Soon after getting down to smooth sailing, plans were made for the annual basketball tournament. We at once made up our minds that our ship would win the championship this year. After three weeks of hard playing our boys defeated every other team and won the championship. The team was presented a silver trophy by Coach Huddleston. Our girls' team also won the girl's championship of the fleet which added more glory to our ship's flag.

When the call came for ball players for the fleet's basketball team we readily answered, "Aye, Aye", and sent four players, William Cates, Joe Navarro, Gilmore Parks, and Galen Lund, who proved to be very valuable to the team. The fleet will miss these four when the call is again made in 1935.

The next big event recorded on our ship's log was Conch Day. The calendar had played us a mean trick by having April first on Sunday, but we fooled the Junior ship by sailing in a week in advance, on March 23. The rival ship's crew made two attempts to steal the highly prized conch shell but they could not get the best of us as we were prepared for them. To the strains of a gay song we marched down the aisle attired in conch hats and old clothes. We called the amazed pupils up to the stage and forced them to imitate various movie stars which only portrayed their lack of ability. Our captain then called the captain of the Junior ship and with great eloquence presented the historic shell. The Seniors marched off the stage and left the downhearted pupils to think of a plan for next year when they might enjoy the pleasures of an all day picnic.

In the next few months our ship's decks were turned into a stage where plans were made for the annual play. On May 11, we presented "Skidding", a three act comedy of modern life, which was greatly enjoyed by the large audience in attendance.

On May 18, the Junior ship presented the annual Jr.-Sr. Prom which was given in honor of our departure from the fleet. The Juniors are to be congratulated on their splendid entertainment which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

We are now sailing into our homeport where graduation awaits us. Within the next few days our journey will come to an end. As it comes to its happy ending we hope that the ships of the Key West High Fleet will sail on to greater accomplishments in the years to come. We also wish to thank every one who has had a part in making our voyage a success. Especially do we owe Miss Trevor our thanks, appreciation, and best wishes. As we spend the few short hours left telling friends and teachers goodbye we are also making plans for the future when we must sail forth on larger ships to do greater tasks. I only hope that in their future voyages of life every member of the Class of '34 shall pilot his ship on to greater and nobler success.

PAUL SAWYER.

"Last Will and Testament"

Key West High School
Key West
Monroe County in Florida

To Whom It May Concern:

We, the Seniors of 1934
Being of sound mind more than ever before
Do make and do publish this Last Will And Testament
And leave it to the Juniors to make the best of it.

First, to Miss Trevor, both kind and true
Wholeheartedly we leave our happiness to you.

Second, to Miss Peeples, always in good mood,
We leave all our thanks and gratitude.

And lastly, we Seniors do leave to School Mates
Our good personalities and wonderful traits.

And now individually I'm telling to you
We leave you the following to make you feel blue:—

Hugo Barcelo to Bob Roberts does leave
His wonderful power to make the girls grieve.

William Cates and Joe Navarro to Ygnacio Carbonell
Their art on the Basket Ball floor to quell.

Emory Blackwell to our dear little friend Woodrow
His ability to "box" and to sometimes lay low.

Charles Thompson, a fine fellow, thought he may not be smart
To Jack Pierce his good nature and his ability at art.

Dear Maurice and friend Paul to Delio Cruz
Their ability to argue and sometimes to "snooze".

Mary Cleare to Edna and Marguerite does leave
Her ability to play Basket Ball and not to be peaved.

Edna Nottage and Nathalie to Cynthia Howanitz
Their art to paint faces and not to just sit.

Joe Peacon and Howard Pinder to Kathryn Shaw
Their ability to be quiet and never to "caw".

Jim Watkins and Galen to sweet Curtis Stanton
Their ability not to "fool around" and to cut out the rantin'.

Barbara Taylor to Deloria her "ponies" does leave
Hoping she can use them and hoping they won't heave.

Gilmore to Shirley a few of his old jokes
Thinking she can use them on some of her "blokes".

Harriette and Flora, both joyful and sweet
Do drop their bad habits at Cleo Kemp's feet.

Dot Dobbs and Edith Russell to Thelma Mendoza
Their art of liking boys and to go with them. Youza!!!

Edith Williams to Helen Russell, now this is just lent
Her ability to be good and to be innocent.

To Henry Higgs from Virginia and Sylvia, who "giggle"
Their art to be silly and sometimes to wiggle.

Strong Leonard and brave Arthur to little Yvonne Atwell
Their ability to keep fit and always to act well.

Anna Kirchheiner and Kathryn Lowe on Edwin Sweeting do bestow
Their art to run deep but to always be slow.

To Ruby from Selma and William Saunders we have
A big bunch of "hooey" and a great big laugh.

Frank Fernandez will gain, but Harry and Kelly will be less
A few of their silly grins and all of their shortness.

Lois Sawyer to Annie Saunders won't leave her men
But she leaves to her, her art to stay thin.

John Roberts and Mary Taylor to Iola Rogers
Their ability to be late but never to be doggers.

Mary Curry and Minnie to Beulah do bequeath
Their ability to know things and also to believe.

Frances and Florence to Mary Romero leave that
Which makes them good looking but a little bit fat.

Josephine and Edith Roberts to Margaret Falcon
Their art to look bright and to stare like a beacon.

Kathleen Watkins to Harriet Johnson her beautiful "A's"
Hoping she can use them in a good many ways.

Barbara Sturrup to Laudelina her way to be ready
To like everybody but have only one steady.

Armida and Carolyn to Lolita Valdez
Their peculiar walk and their funny little ways.

Ralph and Malcolm to Erma and Edna Mae
Their art to be funny and make "cracks" all day.

And lastly, does Walter his sympathy leave
To the next Testator so he won't be deceived.

Witnessed and signed by the Class we adore
On this thirtieth of May in nineteen-thirty-four.

THE SENIOR CLASS
Walter Norman, Jr.

Prophecy of the Class of '34

Three years ago
There seemed no need
To have our future plans revealed
The Class of '34 shared a common fate
And that, my friends, was to graduate.

But now I'm rather curious
As to what they each will be
So I'm just going to imagine,
And here's my prophecy—

Harry is a doctor
So gentle and kind
That all the women adore him
And, of course, he doesn't mind.

Out on a college campus
We find Virginia Shine.
And I'm here to tell you, folks,
She's having one grand time.

Next we come to Gilmore
A circus clown is he
Well, we always knew he'd wind up
In some sort of comedy.

Selma and Maurice
Are senators for the state.
Let's hope they do something
Before it's too late.

Joe Peacon's short stories
Are just too divine.
He's rushed with reporters
Who take much of his time.

Two of our members
Are artists of fame.
Bobbie and Charles
Are the ones I must name.

The New York Giants are
Indebted to the class of '34
We gave them William, John and Joe
And who could ask for more?

Emory is a boxer
Whose motto is "Keep fit",
And when he's in the ring
His opponent just can't take it.

In a little red school house
Sheltered by trees
We find Minnie Knowles
Teaching a b c's.

Tune in on your radio
At eight in the morning.
You'll hear an accomplished pianist,
Our own Walter Norman.

Nathalie and Edith
Made Hollywood their aim,
Their splendid work in pictures
Soon brought them fame.

Over Caroline's future
We need not tarry.
I may be wrong
But I think she'll marry.

As editor-in-chief
Of the New York Times
Ralph has quite a job
To read between the lines.

Edith Williams is a librarian
Who's now perfectly at ease,
For she's completely surrounded
Ey books that she can read.

Howard and Leonard
Are scientists rare.
They're trying to find out
Why some people aren't all there.

Harriette's in a hospital
That's strange. She isn't ill.
Oh, I see. She's one of the Nurses in Jackson Memorial.

Mary Cleare had to keep
Up with her sports,
So she's now teaching basketball
How it should be taught.

Malcolm has a repair shop.
Competition he has none.
Just bring him your old cars
And he'll make them run.

Florence, Dorothy, and Lois
Are stenographers three.
They have an eye for business,
And also for money.

Hugo is a gentleman
So rich and so bold.
He's still fond of ladies,
A habit of old.

Arthur and Kelly
Wandered away.
They joined the navy—
So people say.

As a newspaper reporter
Paul is right there
To get all the latest news
Before his rivals appear.

Edna is a chorus girl
In Ziegfeld's latest show.
Mary Curry is a seamstress.
Who said she couldn't sew?

Galen and James took to the air.
Just a pair of stunt fliers
Who neither worry nor care.

Barbara, Anna, and Edith
Got themselves in a jam
When each picked a husband
Who just can't understand.

In the Cuban consul's office
Work Armida and Josephine
Who earn so much money
They think it's a dream.

Kathleen is a governess
To a very wealthy child
Who has such an awful temper
He almost drives her wild.

Frances and Kathyrn
Now run their grocery store,
Where fruits and fresh vegetables
Are found in galore.

Sylvia and Mary are clerks
In a large department store,
Where employer and employees
Are always at war.

In a New York night club
William now plays his banjo
He certainly progressed
And it wasn't slow.

Please don't take me too seriously.
I may be right or wrong,
But that you will all see
Before very long.

Senior B Class

Class History

Our class entered the Senior High school in February, 1932. At that time we were thirty-four strong. Some of our members have by extra effort been promoted to the upper class, while others, to their sorrow, have fallen by the wayside. Today we stand twenty-two strong.

We have presented several very good chapel programs. In the 11A we presented "The Ghosts Walk", a pantomime which was made more realistic by a real storm. In the 12B we presented "Peter Appears" and a famous (?) boys chorus.

In athletics we have been represented in the tennis tournament and basketball. We had three members, Charles Smith, Edward Woodson, and Merville Rosam, on the varsity basketball team.

We hope to accomplish more, to improve more, and to reach onward to higher and better things as times goes on.

Junior A Class

Class History

Ahoy there, World. One more year and we will be launching our ship out into this great world. Many will drift into different parts, and others will settle down at their home port.

Most of us have kept together since we started the seventh grade, while others have joined since we started our educational career.

Both, boys and girls, have taken an active part in athletics. Several times the school teams have included some of our members.

Our class has put on two boxing matches to help raise money for the Junior-Senior Prom. We have worked hard, but we have been rewarded greatly in the end. We also won the prize several times at the P.-T. A. meeting for having the highest percent of parents present.

The annual entertainment for the Seniors was at the Country Club. It was most successful and was enjoyed by everyone.

Now, we are looking forward to being "dignified seniors" next year.

Junior B Class

Class History

The history of the Junior B Class isn't an outstanding one, but it is one of many enjoyable happenings.

When we entered Senior High we were forty-four in number. This group was divided into two distinct sections, one under Mrs. Guito and the other under Miss Beals, and both under the supervision of Mr. O'Bryant, our principal. In our Sophomore A year we were united under Mrs. Thompson. At this time the class presented a one act comedy entitled, "Sophie Groansmasher", which was greatly enjoyed. As we were only sophomores, we weren't able to accomplish very much.

Soon we became Juniors! At the beginning of this semester our sponsor, Mrs. Thompson, left us to visit Egypt, and other points of interest in the Old World. Mrs. Salis took her place, and we continued with our activities as before. Our class has proved to be one of the most active classes in the school. The class, in order to make money for the prom, worked hard, and gave a dance which proved to be a grand success. Since then we have put on a boxing match, which drew a record-breaking crowd.

We were wise, and found out when Conch Day was to be held, and were prepared for any pranks that the Seniors might play on us. We showed those Seniors how we could "take it". I'm sure that the Monday morning after Conch Day will always be remembered by the Seniors.

Plans are being made for the big event which will take place in May, the Prom. Although we haven't accomplished wonders, we have worked hard, and still expect to keep working, not only on our extra-curricula activities, but on our studies and school duties.

Class History

As new recruits go into the army, we came into the Senior High, green, but with a great ambition.

We left Junior High with the feeling that we had accomplished something, and had set an example for other classes to follow.

In athletics, we held the championship of Junior High in basketball. As Sophomores, we gave the Seniors a very hard fight.

We have always done our best to present interesting programs for our chapel assembly. Many of our classmates helped to present "Polished Pebbles", which furnished the library with many new books in 1933.

Our great ambition is to establish an exceptionally high mark for achievement, loyalty, and scholarship.

The Student Government Association was organized by the students of Key West High School in 1932, for the purpose of maintaining standards of truth and honor, to encourage the practice of good citizenship, and to promote the highest type of relationship between the faculty and the student body.

The Association has been successful in the organization of a few clubs, and in keeping up the purpose for which it was organized.

MEMBERS

Selma NeSmith	Frank Alvarez	Nicholas Goshorn
Paul Sawyer	Kathryn Lowe	Allan Robinson
Thelma Atwell	Harry Weintraub	Joseph Pinder
Maurice Felton	George Collins	Kathleen Watkins

The Debating Society was organized October 12, 1933, with ten charter members. The first officers were: President, Joseph Peacon; Vice President, Maurice Felton; Secretary, Selma NeSmith; Treasurer, Arthur Espinola.

The society held its first public debate in the auditorium February 13, 1934. The question was: Resolved, That all students of this High School should be required to take one year of fishing. Frank Alvarez, Selma NeSmith, and Paul Sawyer argued for the affirmative, and Maurice Felton, Harry Weintraub, and Lois Sherman for the negative. While both sides presented very good arguments, the affirmative was given the decision.

On April 27, the society presented a humorous debate in the auditorium. The question was: "Which came first, the hen or the egg?" This was a decisionless debate. Kathryn Lowe, Thelma Atwell, and George Collins argued for the egg, while Selma NeSmith, Allan Robinson, and Harry Weintraub argued for the hen. This debate was put on to raise funds for the society.

The members are expecting to do more serious and more constructive work, to build up a strong debate team next year.

At the time of the organization there were thirteen members. Since then five new members have been admitted.

The club meets every Tuesday afternoon at three fifteen and studies the text books, "Make Up", by John F. Baird, and "A Handbook of Acting", by Madame Eva Alberte.

Since we organized, the club has presented three one-act plays. "The Surprise Package" was presented in chapel in December of 1933. "That Rascal Pat", by H. G. Groves, was given in chapel for the benefit of the club expenses, on March the second, during the sixth period. "The Ghostly Lovers", by Beulah King, was presented for the P. T. A. meeting on April the seventeenth.

We owe our successful work in this department to our Adviser, Miss Peeples.

The Annual Staff wishes to take this opportunity to express its sincere appreciation for the loyal co-operation among the students through their speedy subscriptions and willing help. The Staff has worked loyally and has accomplished its purpose most successfully in the publication of this volume of the Conch. Miss Trevor has been the adviser of the Annual Staff and has willingly devoted her time to help them.

If in the years to come, one may look on these pages and recall the happy hours spent in work and play in Key West High School, the efforts put forth in this edition of the Conch, will not have been in vain.

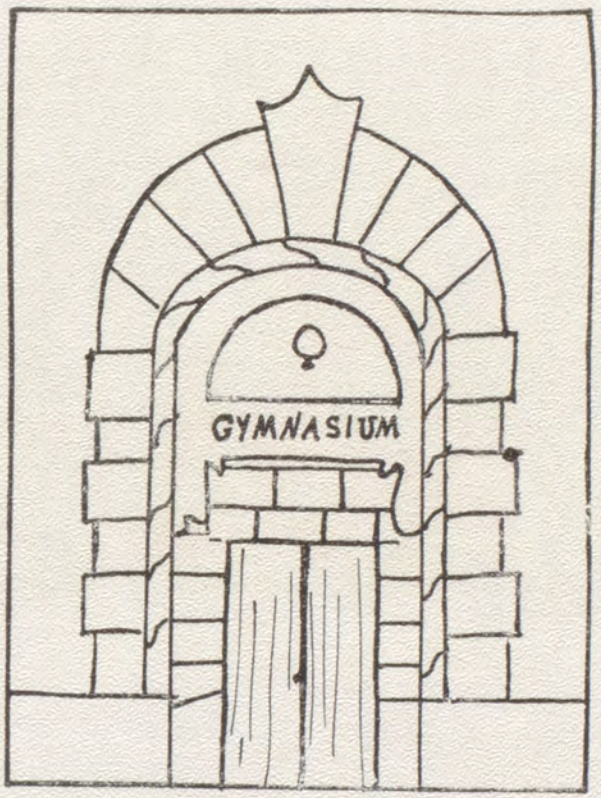
The Hi-Y Club was organized in Key West High School in 1933, and has made rapid progress in its development. The Club has been honored by the presence of Mr. Merrill Brown and Mr. Minear, both of whom are active members of the Y. M. C. A. throughout the state.

The Club is sponsored by five prominent professional business men of this city. They are: Mr. J. J. Trevor, Mr. Joseph Boza, Mr. Horace O'Bryant, Mr. Charles E. Smith, and Rev. Shuler Peele.

The purpose of the Hi-Y Club is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the High School and the community a high standard of Christian character.



Basketball

(Varsity)

The Conch Varsity coached by Huddleston had a fairly successful season and played against the strongest opposition in the state. The Varsity, led by Cates, Woodson, Navarro, and Anderson, got off to a flying start and won three straight games before falling before the West Palm Beach Wilcats and the State Champions of Miami Edison. Hard luck was experienced on the road trip and the Conchs pulled an iron man stunt by playing and defeating the strong team of Redland High with but five men, and playing the last few seconds with four Conchs on the court.

Tennis Club

At the beginning of the year, a tennis tournament was held by the Athletic Association, under the direction and supervision of Coach Dumont Huddleston. There were many entries, and the tournament was hard fought throughout. Ygnacio Carbonell and Charles Smith went into the finals after being hard pressed by their opponents in earlier matches. The final match was held at Bayview Park; Carbonell used his height and powerful drives to outplay and win from his smaller but courageous opponent, Charles Smith.

CONGRATULATIONS--

To The Leaders of Key West High of 1934

Leaders in all things are outstanding and recognized as the best in their line.

The leader in electric refrigeration is still the General Electric, the only refrigerator with a five year free service plan. It has no bolts, no screws, and does not even need oiling.

Both the exterior and interior are gleaming white porcelain. It has a self-opening door, interior lighting, and sliding shelves; and is fully equipped with food saving dishes and a water cooler.

Its leadership over all other makes is indicated by the fact that one out of every three sold is a General Electric—even though there are over one hundred and fifty other types of electric refrigerators.

The best is the cheapest in the long run.

APPRECIATION

The entire Annual staff takes this opportunity of expressing its sincere appreciation to the business organizations who made this volume of "The Conch" possible.

It realizes that of all the factors which go into the making of a successful yearbook, the most important is finance.

The business men represented in this book believe in us, now it is time for Key West High to show the spirit of cooperation and appreciation so characteristic of them.
