

However, the clock is being donated by Michael Coe, the grandson of William R. Coe, the original owner of the Country House Estate, Planting Fields. In addition to the clock's intrinsic value, that is $12,800, I have finalized the value of this particular donated clock at approximately 40 percent higher, to $18,000, due to its important provenance.

X X X X X X X

Since it was actually part of the original Coe family home furnishings, and appears in several vintage family photographs, its importance and value is greatly increased by its return to the site where it resided in the early 20th Century, with the family of William R. Coe.