

The background of the entire advertisement is a deep blue night sky filled with stars. A bright, glowing band of the Milky Way galaxy stretches diagonally from the lower right towards the upper left. In the lower foreground, the dark silhouettes of two people are visible. One person is crouching on the left, looking up at the sky. The other person is standing on the right, leaning over a large, circular telescope mounted on a tripod. To the left of the telescope, the silhouette of a saguaro cactus is visible against the starry background.

Alaska Airlines

June 2000

Star Struck

The sky's the limit for Arizona stargazing