Let us show you this spot!

Two days, two oceans, and two continents meet at this single point on the globe.

It's a spot on the International Date-Line between Alaska and Siberia where the Arctic and Pacific Oceans merge. You look from today into tomorrow, from Alaska into Russia, and you go beyond the farthest west point of land on the North American Continent. It's just one of the thrilling experiences you will have on Alaska Airlines exciting 2-day Arctic Adventure Tour in Alaska.

Here's what happens:

First Day. You depart Anchorage or Fairbanks daily on Alaska Airlines Golden Nugget 727 Fan Jets bound for Nome and Kotzebue. On your way to Kotzebue you pass Mt. McKinley and cross over the mighty Yukon River. These are normally visible enroute. You cross the Arctic Circle and receive a personalized certificate to commemorate the occasion. At Kotzebue you are in the land of perma-frost and tundra. You may see catches of whale, seal and walrus on the beach. Dog team sleds, kayaks and oomiaks are just a few of the facets of Eskimo culture displayed for you to photograph.

The time has come to leave for Nome, summer home of the famed King Island Eskimos and Gold Rush capital of the Arctic. Your flight ventures to the farthest west tip of land on the continent, Cape Prince of Wales. You are now in the SHADOW OF SIBERIA. You have reached the end of all time zones of the world... the International Date-Line. At this point you look down on both today and tomorrow. You view the single point on the globe where East meets West: the dividing point between two continents, two oceans and two days. Weather permitting, you can easily see Siberia. Below, you can see Big Diomed Island belonging to Russia, and Little Diomed belonging to America, separated by less than three miles.

At Nome you are met and transferred to your comfortable, modern hotel. After dinner, the King Island Eskimos stage blanket tossing in your honor, then entertain you with chants and rhythmic beat of primitive Eskimo dances. You witness ivory carving, skin sewing, enjoy warm-hearted Eskimo hospitality.

Second Day. Today you ride in a skin-boat, witness dog sled and kayak demonstrations, and have an irresistible opportunity to shop for unusual souvenirs. An historical tour helps you re-live the gaudy, glamorous days of the Gold Rush. You meet a real pioneer gold-mining family. With them you pan for gold in the rich "pay dirt" of Basin Creek. Each visitor takes with him a sample of the precious metal and much admiration for these hardy Alaskans. These memories and many, many more, reward you as you board your Golden Nugget return flight for Anchorage, or beyond.
