MODERN THIRD CLASS
ON ALL STEAMERS

The Service from New York to England and the Continent outward via Plymouth and Cherbourg and return via Southampton and Cherbourg is maintained by the following steamers which carry First, Second and Third Class Passengers:

s.s. "COLUMBUS"	Captain N. Johnsen
s.s. "MUENCHEN"	Captain F. Rehm
s.s. "STUTTART"	Captain Kurt Grahn

The "COLUMBUS", the latest addition to the North German Lloyd fleet, is a splendid example of German ship-building and the largest and fastest German steamer, making the trip from New York to Bremen in eight days. The interior of the ship combines elegance and refinement with appropriate space arrangement. The large reception rooms and the various cabins are arranged and furnished not only with a view to artistic decoration but with special attention to the requirements of modern hygiene. These arrangements may indeed be called model ones. A large number of first and second class cabins are for one passenger only, so that even during the height of the season the wishes of passengers, who desire a room to themselves, may be complied with. All the cabins are very spacious, the majority being outside rooms and consequently allowing an unchecked influx of day light. German Arts and Crafts have again been given an opportunity to show what they can accomplish. Our illustrated pamphlet will give an idea of the comfort and the beauty of the decorations lavished on the rooms.

The two sisterships, "MUENCHEN" and "STUTTART", although not as luxurious as the "COLUMBUS" and somewhat smaller, are also entirely new boats and of most modern construction. They afford at moderate rates to the traveling public every comfort and convenience identified with modern Atlantic travel. There are also provided several cabins de luxe with private baths and the appointment of these accommodations will meet the approval of the most fastidious. The public rooms such as the lounge, smoking room, reading room, dining room, etc., are veritable masterpieces in design and execution and "German Art in Industry" has been given in them most excellent expression.
