RE: HURRICANE SANDY CHRONOLOGY & SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

Please accept this memorandum documenting the sequence of events leading up to Hurricane Sandy and the significant milestones which occurred, including the disaster declaration(s) and recovery efforts. This memo is not meant to comprehensively chronicle every detail of the disaster event. It is a cursory review of the major announcements which occurred before, during and after the storm.

In retrospect, it appears that more than half of the city experienced some degree of flooding from either the storm surge and overtopping of the Hudson River, or the backup of sanitary sewers from the North Hudson Sewerage Authority's ("NHSA") combined sewer system. Unfortunately, there were no meters or devices which were operational which recorded either the flood depth or the number of sanitary backups. Therefore, this information is virtually impossible to gather after the fact and at best can only be gathered anecdotally by interviewing individual residents.

I also requested a detailed chronicle of the power outages from Public Service Electric and Gas ("PSEG"). I asked PSEG representatives to tabulate and share their information involving the number of meters which lost power and the number of meters which were restored on a daily basis. In addition, I am working with the Hoboken Health Officer and Construction Code Official to chronicle the number of permits and inspections which occurred on a daily basis after the storm and during the recovery.

With regard to the public record, there appears to be an ample record of the multimedia campaign the city engaged in to distribute and disseminate information to the general public before, during and after the storm. First, the city utilized its Reverse 911 system to notify local residents by telephone. Next, the city posted dozens of public notices and media advisories on its internet website, as well as Nixle, Facebook and Twitter accounts. Third, for people who either lost power or are not internet savvy the city printed over 10,000 fliers (in English and Spanish) which were posted on the front doors of nearly every residential building over the course of three days (November 2, 3 and 4). Finally, the city posted information on bulletin boards stationed in front of city hall at several other locations strategically located throughout the city.

The following is the sequence of events as evidenced by the city's records:

1. On October 24, 2012 at 1:24 PM, the National Weather Service reported that Sandy became a category 1 hurricane as it approached eastern Cuba.
2. On October 25, 2012, the City of Hoboken issued its first public notice, media advisory and Nixle Alert (EXHIBIT M1) cautioning residents to prepare themselves, encouraging everyone to sign up for the city's Reverse 911 alert system, preparing plans to operationalize the shelter and emergency operations center and posting barricades around flood prone areas.

9. October 28, 2012 at 4:00 PM, Mayor Zimmer conducted a press conference on the steps of city hall warning residents about the coming storm.

Hoboken Prepares for Hurricane Sandy

There is a growing possibility that Hoboken and the region could be impacted by a very major storm early next week as Hurricane Sandy continues north. More than 6 inches of rain and hurricane force winds may occur, with the possibility of record flooding.

"Just as with Hurricane Irene, we are preparing for the worst and hoping for the best," said Mayor Dawn Zimmer. "Most importantly, we want residents to remain alert and take steps to prepare themselves."

Residents who do not have a land line or have not received emergency notifications in the past are urged to sign up for the City's Reverse 911 system by visiting www.hobokennj.org/emergency. Residents may also sign up for non-emergency related alerts at www.hobokennj.org/alerts.

The City has plans in place for a shelter and emergency operations center if necessary. Barricades will be pre-positioned if needed to close off streets and "No Parking" signs posted in the most flood-prone areas. North Hudson Sewerage Authority has been clearing out catch basins.

A flood pump is operational, but very heavy rain can still result in flooding. As a result, residents who park on-street are strongly urged to avoid flood-prone areas. Due to the possibility of very strong winds, residents and businesses are asked to bring in unsecured objects from patios and balconies and secure outdoor objects such as lawn furniture or garbage cans that could blow away and cause damage or injury.

FEMA advises residents to take the time now to put together a family emergency plan and emergency kit. Some of the items in a basic emergency kit include: one gallon of water per person per day, for drinking and sanitation; at least a three-day supply of non-perishable food; battery-powered radio and a NOAA Weather Radio; flashlight and extra batteries; and First Aid kit. Having a kit can help you weather the storm.

Hoboken Advises Residents to Prepare for Hurricane Sandy & Seeks Volunteers

The City of Hoboken is asking residents to take steps to prepare for the potential for severe weather as a result of Hurricane Sandy.

"At this time, we are working with all departments and agencies to monitor conditions and prepare for the worst, and we are asking residents to do the same," said Mayor Dawn Zimmer. "We will continue to monitor weather conditions during the weekend and implement our plans as needed."

Information related to Hurricane Sandy and other important relevant resources are available on the City website at www.hobokennj.org/sandy.

Residents who live in ground floor units in low-lying areas of the City are asked to consider potential evacuation plans in case an evacuation is deemed necessary. At this time, no evacuation orders have been issued. Plans are in place if needed, to open a shelter at the Wallace School and a backup shelter at the High School.

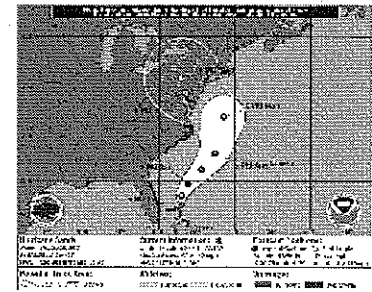

FEMA advises residents to take the time now to put together a family emergency plan and emergency kit (<http://www.ready.gov/build-a-kit>). Some of the items in a basic emergency kit include: one gallon of water per person per day, for drinking and sanitation; at least a three-day supply of non-perishable food; battery-powered radio and a NOAA Weather Radio; flashlight and extra batteries; and First Aid kit. Having a kit can help you weather the storm.

Due to the possibility for strong winds, the City will be bringing trash cans indoors. Residents are asked bring inside or tie down any patio furniture, flower pots, toys, and other loose items they may have outside. Contractors should secure construction sites.

Flooding is possible, so cars parked on-street should be moved out of flood-prone areas. Depending on storm conditions, the City may offer discounted parking in municipal Garage B on a first-come first-served basis to residents with valid parking permits. If so, details will be announced on the City website.

Alert

Residents Urged to Make Final Preparations for Hurricane Sandy

At this time, the National Weather Service has issued a Coastal Flood Warning, High Wind Warning, and Flood Watch for our area. Major flooding and winds up to 80mph are possible. Residents should take the storm very seriously and finish all preparations by Sunday.

Information related to Hurricane Sandy and other important relevant resources are available on the City website at www.hobokennj.org/sandy.

Evacuation

Although a mandatory evacuation has not been ordered, residents who live in ground floor units and in low-lying areas of the City, including those who flooded during Hurricane Irene, may wish to voluntarily evacuate due to the potential for flooding. For those who wish to but cannot evacuate, a shelter will be available.

Shelter

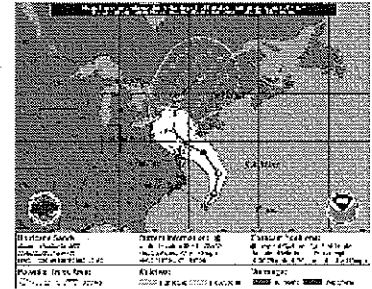

The City will be opening a shelter at the Wallace School, located at 1100 Willow Avenue. The exact time will be announced later today. Residents going to the shelter may bring medication, a small toiletry bag, clothing for up to 3 days, and 3 days of baby supplies including diapers and formula. Pets are permitted and must be crated. Please bring enough pet food for three days. Residents who wish to donate non-perishable food for the shelter may drop off items at City Hall.

Emergency Operations Center

An Emergency Operations Center will be open 24/7 as of 1:00pm on Sunday, October 28 and staffed by City staff and CERT volunteers. Please call our Emergency Operations Center at 201-239-6644/6645/6647/6648 if you have general questions, in order to alleviate the strain on our public safety officials. For emergencies, residents should call 911 or the Hoboken Police Department at 201-420-2100 and Hoboken Fire Department at 201-420-2005/2007.

High Wind Warning

A high wind warning is in effect from Monday 6am until Tuesday 6pm. Sustained winds of 35-55mph and gusts of 70-80mph are predicted. Residents and businesses should bring in unsecured objects from patios and balconies and secure outdoor objects such as lawn furniture which can blow away and cause injury. Please bring garbage cans inside so they do not litter our streets, and if you have a construction zone, please clear and secure the site of all loose materials. The City has brought inside all public trash cans that are not bolted down. Residents are also asked to help clear leaves from sidewalks to avoid catch basins from clogging during the storm.

Garbage Pickup

Regular garbage pickup will occur on Sunday night. Please promptly bring trash bins indoors after pickup has occurred.

Parking Information

Cars parked on-street should be moved out of flood-prone areas (see map: www.hobokennj.org/departments/environmental-services/storm-flood-zones). Due to the potential for flooding, the City of Hoboken is providing discounted parking at the rate of $5 per day in municipal Garage B (located on 2nd Street between Hudson and River streets) beginning Sunday, October 28th at 8pm through Tuesday, October 30th at 8pm for residents who reside in flood prone areas and have a valid Resident parking permit or Temporary parking permit placard. Parking before or beyond this time will be charged at the normal rate. Space is limited and is available on a first-come, first-served basis. Residents may also consider parking in private lots or moving vehicles out of town.

Flooding

Please avoid any flooded or barricaded streets. Like many older cities, Hoboken has a combined sewer system, so flood water is a mix of sewage and rain water runoff and poses a health hazard. Man hole covers may also have been displaced, posing a serious threat for pedestrians and drivers. Downed power lines in the water pose an electrocution hazard.

Be prepared

PSE&G has warned that up to 1 million of its 2.2 million customers could experience a power outage, and full restoration could take more than 7 days. For your safety and to ensure that our Police and Fire Departments can respond to all emergencies, it is very important that everyone is fully prepared to stay inside with enough water and food for 72 hours. Assume there will be no power and make certain to have flashlights, and batteries. Charge phones, fill bathtubs and sinks with water, which can be used to flush toilets, and turn refrigerators to the coldest setting and keep them closed.

Schools, Parks & Recreation

Hoboken Public Schools will be closed on Monday, October 29, 2012. Updates will be posted to the Board of Education website: www.hoboken.k12.nj.us and the City's website. All City parks and playgrounds will be closed at 3pm on Sunday, October 28, 2012 due to wind. All sports league practices scheduled for Monday are cancelled.

Public Transportation

The Metropolitan Transportation Authority will begin shutting down subway, commuter rail and bus service at 7pm on Sunday, October 28, 2012. All PATH train service and stations will be shutdown at 12:01am Monday, October 29 until further notice. NJ TRANSIT will offer full systemwide cross-honoring starting at 12:01 a.m. on Monday, October 29 and continuing through 6 a.m. Wednesday, October 31.

Government Offices

All City of Hoboken government buildings will be open on Monday, October 29, 2012.

HOBOKEN EXPERIENCING SEVERE FLOODING

The City of Hoboken has experienced severe flooding in excess of the record set in 1821.

The city is working closely with PSE&G to resolve power outages. According to PSE&G the substations at Madison Street and Marshall Drive are flooded and need to be shut down. This will result in the loss of power to much of southern Hoboken.

Several wires are down and all should be considered live;

- 2nd Street and Madison Street
- 89 Adams Street
- 6th Street and Park Avenue
- First Street and Bloomfield Street

Residents should not approach any wires or touch anything touching the wires including water. Residents should stay out of flood waters, which are a mixture of sewage and rainwater and pose a health hazard. Strong winds have brought down multiple trees and flood waters have displaced man hole covers. It is very dangerous outside so residents are strongly urged to stay indoors. A mandatory curfew remains in effect until 1 p.m. Tuesday.

MANDATORY CURFEW EXTENDED UNTIL 6PM

A mandatory curfew has been extended in Hoboken through 6pm on Tuesday, October 30. Driving is prohibited. Police will consider all people on the street in violation of the curfew and driving ban.

There are reports of multiple live wires down throughout the City, and PSE&G cannot get into Hoboken to confirm that they are de-energized. Manhole covers have been displaced and pose a serious threat to pedestrians and cars on flooded and non-flooded streets. Flooding in the city remains widespread.

"We will make it through this together," said Mayor Dawn Zimmer. "All our emergency personnel and volunteers have been working so hard under the most extreme circumstances to keep our community safe, and I thank our community for cooperating and being understanding. For now, we need everyone to stay off the streets and to check in on their neighbors, especially the elderly and disabled."

According to United Water, the drinking water is safe. Due to major technical communications difficulties, only one phone line remains operational in the Emergency Operations Center: 201-239-6646. We are working to establish additional lines which will be announced as soon as possible.

Hurricane Sandy Update and Call for Volunteers

The City is hopeful that several high wheeled vehicles staffed by members of the National Guard will be delivered on Wednesday morning. They will be used to assist in evacuating residents and delivering supplies to flooded areas.

Flood waters are estimated to recede in about 24 to 48 hours. North Hudson Sewerage Authority estimates there are 500 million gallons of water. The flood pump is operational and pumps out 75 million gallons per day, in addition to water flowing out naturally at low tide.

PSE&G is working day and night to restore power. They estimate full restoration will take several days. Substations can not be repaired until flood waters recede.

According to United Water, the drinking water is safe to drink.

Flood waters are a mix of sewage and rain water and pose a health hazard.

The City is asking the National Guard for as many pumps as possible to assist residents in pumping out their homes.

Volunteers can assist with a community cleanup of three parks: Stevens Park, Elysian Park, and Church Square Park. Please arrive at 10:00am at the corresponding park.

Volunteers can also assist with other efforts by going to City Hall at any time. Non-perishable food can be donated at City Hall for shelters and residents who need food.

The curfew has been lifted and driving is permitted. Drivers must exercise extreme caution since most traffic signals are not functioning.

The Ragamuffin parade will be rescheduled for after flood waters recede and all residents can participate.

The possibility of garbage pickup on non-flooded streets will be announced Wednesday morning.

City employees that can reach City Hall and can volunteer with the recovery effort are asked to show up on Wednesday.

Hi, I have some non perishable food, clothes, a blanket, dog food, dog beds and toys that I can help with. Is it possible to drop it in Jersey City? Can it be driven to Hoboken? Do you take dog stuff? I hope you do because I am a dog person and is really worrisome to me that pets get some help too.

I have adopted Hoboken as my Hur. Sandy town to watch your progress! I live on the South Oregon Coast where we are always concerned about high wind/rain events and tsunamis. I think President Obama for his concern and fast action to help all Hur. Sandy communities.

Dana, are there any agencies in Hoboken who are gathering names for welfare checkings? I live several thousand miles from you. How about the Red Cross? Right above where these comments are shows non-emergency number of 201-420-2000 or if you think it is worse, call 911. Keep checking this website for other responses to your concerns!

I had a friend with a mom in that bldg and she said that they were knocking on all doors, checking on ppl, giving them water, food, and whatever they needed. the national guard was out in full force in trucks going everywhere, so I am sure they are at least taken care of.

November 5 Update for Hoboken Residents

UPDATE FOR NOVEMBER 5, 2012

Power

All 3 substations in Hoboken have been repaired and energized. If you still do not have power, contact PSE&G by calling 800-436-7734 or through MyAccount at www.pseg.com so they can troubleshoot. There may be issues between the substation and your home (tap lines, transformers, service drops, etc), or you may need to contact an electrician to inspect and potentially repair the electrical panel or wiring within your building. The City has a team of electricians to check on equipment and make sure it is functioning and safe before power can be restored to buildings. This is a necessary step in order to restore power to those remaining buildings. If you still do not have power, call the Hoboken Utility Help Line (9am-5pm) at 214-561-0671/0672/0674/0675 and we will put your address on a list for inspections. Once an electrician becomes available, we will then dispatch them to your site. The City also strongly encourages individuals to coordinate to have their own electrician do this inspection and submit the inspection verification form in order to notify the City that the site has been inspected. Those forms for your electrician to fill out for verification are located at: www.hobokennj.org/sandy/Construction-Electrical.pdf

If using a City deployed inspector, the City will pay for the initial assessment, but any repairs that are necessary will need to be coordinated and paid for by the property owner. Property owners may be able to be reimbursed by FEMA for such expenses. Similar processes will be required for restoring gas service.

Election

The Election will be held for Tuesday, November 6, 2012. Voting hours are 6am to 8pm.

Advisory

INFORMATION FOR RESIDENTS ON TRASH REMOVAL, POWER & GAS RESTORATION AND PARKING

Tonight's City Council Meeting will be rescheduled to Tuesday, November 13 at 7pm due to the weather.

TRASH REMOVAL INFORMATION

The City has been running 8 to 10 extra garbage trucks every day in addition to the 3 regular trucks in order to deal with the overwhelming quantities of trash. Bobcats and other heavy equipment are being added to deal with the large amounts of trash. At the moment, residents are asked to postpone placing any more trash outside until the impending storm has passed. Further, they are asked delay throwing out bulk items if possible until crews are able to catch up with trash removal. All streets have had trash pickup, however large amounts of garbage continue to be placed on the curb immediately following each pickup as sidewalk space becomes available. If an area requires additional service, please submit a "trash" request via www.hoboken311.org.

If you are gutting your apartment, please apply for a container permit:

Residents are asked to place any storm-generated debris on the public right-of-way: the area of residential property that extends from the street to the sidewalk, ditch, utility pole or easement.

Do not place debris near a water meter vault, fire hydrant or any other above-ground utility. Only debris placed on the public right-of-way will be eligible for collection until further notice. Please follow the normal garbage and recycling pickup schedule. No hazardous waste (including paint). No electronics.

If all debris is not picked up during the initial pass, please continue to push remaining debris to the right-of-way for collection on subsequent passes.

POWER & GAS RESTORATION INFORMATION

Due to the impending storm, the mobile truck providing the phone lines for the Utility Help Line will be relocated and will no longer be operational. If you are without power and/or gas, your home or business may not be able to accept the service, and until it is certified as safe, PSE&G will not restore service. If you still do not have power, or if PSE&G has red tagged your home and shut off gas, please follow this process after calling PSE&G at 800-436-7734 (red tagging does not necessarily mean that new equipment is required, however the equipment must be inspected):

1. Call a licensed electrician (power) or plumber (gas) – below is a list of contractors that have worked with our office that you may want to consider contacting if you do not have a contractor.

2. After they complete an inspection and make any necessary repairs, they will let our construction office know (201-420-2066), who will then let PSE&G know to restore power or gas. The contractors on the list are all familiar with the process and our construction office. Due to the emergency nature of the situation, we have cut the red tape and paperwork typically involved in this process to make sure power and gas can be restored as quickly as possible.

The contractors have been instructed to immediately inform our Construction Code Office once you have been cleared to receive service. Once our construction office receives word that your home has been inspected and is safe, they immediately contact PSE&G to instruct them to restore service.

NOTE: We are providing this partial list only to facilitate connecting residents as quickly as possible to services needed to restore gas and electricity. This partial list of contractors is not affiliated, endorsed, or approved by the City in any way, nor does the City make any representation or warranties, express or otherwise, in connection with the quality of the services any of them may provide. Residents may use any state licensed plumber or electrician. Licensed contractors who wish to be added to this public list may contact the Construction Office at 201-420-2066.

Hoboken PATH Service to Remain Suspended for Several Weeks; New $5 Ferry Option from Hoboken Terminal to 39th St

Due to extensive flood damage, PATH service will not be restored to Hoboken, Exchange Place, or the World Trade Center for several weeks. The Port Authority & NJ Transit are starting a new ferry service ($5) between Hoboken Terminal and 39th Street (Pier 79) that will run Monday through Friday, 6am-10am and 4pm-8pm. A free shuttle will also take riders from Pier 79 to midtown Manhattan.

Please see the joint announcement below from Governor Christie and Governor Cuomo for more information:

New Jersey Governor Chris Christie and New York Governor Andrew M. Cuomo Announce Resumption of PATH Service From Newark to 33rd Street Beginning Monday, November 12, 2012

Work Still Proceeding to Restore Badly Flooded World Trade Center and Hoboken Lines; New Ferry Service Will Transport Passengers From Hoboken Ferry Terminal to 39th Street Pier in Manhattan

Trenton, NJ – New Jersey Governor Chris Christie and New York Governor Andrew M. Cuomo today announced that PATH rail service will resume at the Newark Penn and Harrison stations in New Jersey to Manhattan beginning tomorrow, November 12 at 5 a.m. Trains will run in both directions until 10 p.m. between Newark Penn, New Jersey and 33rd Street in New York.

In addition to Newark Penn and Harrison, the temporary line also will include stops at Journal Square, Grove Street, and Newport stations in New Jersey and at the 14th, 23rd and 33rd Street stations in Manhattan. Trains will bypass Christopher and 9th streets in New York. Disabled passengers will have access to the platforms only at Newark, Journal Square and 33rd Street.

PATH service remains suspended at the Hoboken, Exchange Place and the World Trade Center stations as recovery efforts continue. Due to significant damage that resulted from the unprecedented and widespread flooding in the PATH tunnels and multiple stations, it will be several weeks before resumption of service on the Newark-World Trade Center line and the lines to and from Hoboken station.

Port Authority officials caution passengers that they may experience extended waits and potential delays until service returns to normal. To reduce crowding at station ticket vending machines, passengers can opt to purchase SmartLink cards with pre-funded trips.

To provide additional mass transit options from Hoboken to Manhattan, the Port Authority and New Jersey Transit also will begin operating a new ferry service from the Hoboken Ferry Terminal on Monday. NJ Transit customers will now be able to take a bus to the Hoboken Ferry Terminal and then transfer to a ferry that will take passengers to Pier 79 at 39th street in Manhattan. The fare is $5 and ferries will run back and forth between Hoboken and Manhattan from 6 a.m. – 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. to 8 p.m., Monday thru Friday. Free shuttle buses will be provided from Pier 79 to midtown Manhattan.

Passengers who normally use the Hoboken station to get to Manhattan can also choose to make the ten minute walk to the Newport station, or take advantage of several other ferry and bus alternatives. Ferry service to Lower Manhattan is available from Liberty State Park and to Midtown Manhattan from Weehawken, New Jersey. In addition, NJ Transit has doubled the number of No. 106 buses from Hoboken to the Port Authority Bus Terminal in both directions.

Hoboken to Resume Partial Parking Enforcement on Nov 13 & Full Enforcement on Nov 19; New Towing Procedures in Effect

We understand that Hurricane Sandy resulted in significant loss to Hoboken residents, including the loss of many vehicles. For this reason, enforcement of permit parking regulations and alternate side parking for street cleaning will remain suspended until Monday, November 19th at 12:01am.

Beginning on Tuesday, November 13, 12:01am, partial parking enforcement will resume:

- Metered parking will be enforced east of Bloomfield Street.
- All other non-permit and non-street cleaning parking enforcement is in effect (parking too close to a crosswalk, stop sign, fire hydrant, in a bus stop, driveway, car-sharing space, handicapped space, Temporary No.Parking signs, parking on sidewalk, etc).

Full parking enforcement, including permit and street cleaning rules will resume on Monday, November 19th, 12:01 am.

For public safety reasons, we ask for your cooperation in the removal of damaged vehicles as soon as possible. If you do not have insurance for the removal of your vehicle, you may be subject to the expense incurred to remove it.

Any car parked on the street without plates will be considered abandoned and subject to towing at owners expense.

Residents with a new vehicle or rental vehicle can apply for a parking permit at the Parking Utility in the ground floor of City Hall or online at www.hobokennj.org/hpuonline.

New Towing Procedures

As a result of contracting law requirements and to provide redundancy and additional resources in cases of major storms, the City has transitioned to a rotating towing system as of November 1, 2012 that uses four towing contractors: Mile Square Towing in Hoboken, Logan Towing and Truchan Towing in Jersey City, and Johns Main Towing in North Bergen. Vehicles will be towed by each of the four contractors on a rotating business to their respective locations.

More MessagesSee more messages from Hoboken, New Jersey »Navigate & DiscoverEnter a town, zip code or address

The new procedures for retrieving a towed vehicle have been significantly simplified, eliminate multiple back and forth trips between the tow yard and Police Department, and uses a single point of payment. By providing a driver's license, the registration and insurance information can be retrieved without the need for additional back and forth trips as was previously necessary.

If you believe your vehicle has been towed, first call the Parking Utility at 201-653-1919 or the Police Department at 201-420-2100 to determine if your vehicle has been towed and to which location.

For those taking a Hoboken taxi to a tow yard, the City is now offsetting the full cost of the fare, so long as a receipt is provided by the taxi driver. The taxi fare must be paid to the taxi driver, after which a receipt should be requested. The receipt must indicate the date, time, cost, taxi number and driver name. The City will then deduct the fare amount from the towing fee after a receipt has been provided to the tow yard contractor. Regular taxi fares to the four towing companies are: Mile Square Towing: $5, John's Main Auto Body: $17, Logan Towing: $21, Truchan Brothers: $23.

Mayor Zimmer Strongly Urges Community to Register With FEMA* Local Business Asked to Submit Survey with Damage Estimates ****

Mayor Dawn Zimmer is strongly urging all residents to file with FEMA with their latest storm-related damage estimates. Local businesses are urged to complete an online survey so the City can establish an accurate accounting of damage:

<http://hobokennj.wufoo.com/forms/hoboken-business-storm-damage-survey>.

"Even if you're discouraged with the process, even if you've already been denied, the best way for Hoboken to get the help we need is to document your damage, register with FEMA, file with your insurance company, and appeal, appeal, appeal," said Mayor Dawn Zimmer.

"Unless the federal government knows the true extent of the cost to rebuild, we can't receive the extra help we need. If and when that assistance arrives, it is important for your case to remain open, so I can't stress enough how critical it is to stick with the process, continue providing updated damage estimates, and continue appealing. We also need a full accounting of the impact of Hurricane Sandy on local businesses so we can advocate as strongly as possible for our community."

In a meeting with Housing and Urban Development Secretary Shaun Donovan, who President Obama has tasked with leading the Sandy recovery effort, and Senator Robert Menendez, Mayor Zimmer stressed the need to address the inequity in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP). The program provides only limited benefits to those who live in garden level apartments, despite requiring that they pay for coverage. In addition, since NFIP only covers individuals, damage to common areas is typically not covered because they are the responsibility of condominium associations, which are registered non-profits. This is problematic for the building's residents since the individual property owners are ultimately responsible for the condominium association expenses.

Secretary Donovan noted that he and the federal government are working to ensure that better and more assistance becomes available, and that in order to do so, everyone that was affected needs to register with FEMA.

Mayor Zimmer has also raised her concerns with Vice President Joseph Biden during his recent visit to Hoboken and with senior officials from FEMA.
