LEGION COMPLETES PARIS TRIP PLANS

Arrangements for the Paris convention of the American Legion to be held September 19 to 23 have practically all been completed both on this side and abroad. James F. Barton, national adjutant of the Legion, reported after inspecting arrangements recently in the French capital. Representatives of veterans' organizations and high city and government officials met Adjutant Barton, Bowman Elder, national chairman of the France convention committee, and John J. Wickler, national travel director, upon their arrival on French soil. All expressed eagerness for the day when their former American comrades in arms would visit the scenes of the World War. Reservations are increasing and no date has been set when any bookings will close.

Under the arrangements the sessions of the ninth annual convention of the Legion in Paris will be held in the Palace Trocadero, famous government exhibition building. The Hotel Continental will be the headquarters of the Legion auxiliary and the Hotel Palais d'Orsay that of "40 and 8," the play and honor society of the national organization. Thirty thousand rooms ranging in rate from $7 per week up are under contract to house the veterans in the French capital. On September 19 there will be a great Legion parade in which veterans of the allies will join. In the reviewing stand will be Marshal

James F. Barton.

Ferdinand Foch, supreme commander of the allied forces; Gen. John J. Pershing, war-time commander of the A. E. F., and Howard P. Savage, national commander of the American Legion.

Plans and development of the France convention from the United States side have been going on for approximately two years. The Legion has obtained one-half fare for the round trip from the veterans' home town to the ports of embarkation on this side. A fleet of twenty-eight of the largest ocean liners, of which the S. S. Leviathan is flagship, will carry the Legionnaires to France. Round-trip steamship fares on the official Legion ships range from $145.50 to $370 on most of the ships, while on the S. S. Leviathan the rates are from $151.50 up.

Legionnaires will have full run of the ship and there will be a complete program of games and entertainment at sea. Most of the Legionnaires will travel with their local delegations. The landing ports abroad will be Boulogne, Havre, Cherbourg, and Antwerp, Belgium.

Those eligible to take the trip at the Legion rates on the official steamers fall into the following categories: Members of the American Legion in good standing for 1927 and with a paid-up 1925 membership card; members of the American Legion Auxiliary paid for the same period; fathers and grandfathers of Legionnaires; husbands of women members of the Legion or auxiliary when accompanied by member wives; minor lineal descendants of Legionnaires; brides of Legionnaires in 1927 prior to the convention; and newspaper representatives with credentials from the publisher showing that they are on active duty covering the conventions.

Although department quotas of space in the movement were recalled by national headquarters on March 15 there still remained space to be had with local delegations. It was announced after a check. The Legion has prepared an attractive two-color "On to Paris" steamship folder showing the ship assigned to the state delegations, the official plans, rates and other information essential to veterans desiring to make a reservation for the Paris trip. Veterans may obtain one of the folders by writing either to the France convention office of the particular state whose address may be obtained from the local Legion post or to the France convention committee, national headquarters, the American Legion, Indianapolis, Ind.

Simple Anesthetic

The chemical name of "laughing gas" is nitrous oxide. It is used as an anesthetic in dentistry and minor surgery. It produces temporary insensibility, during which some patients cry or laugh hysterically.
