Mr. Henry von Minden, Who Opposed Raising Irish Flag Over City Hall, Dies

When a Member of the Board of Aldermen He Was One of Those Who Backed Mayor Hewitt in Famous St. Patrick's Day Incident.

Mr. Henry Von Minden, who as an Alderman from the Tenth ward in 1888, was one of the three members of the Board to support Mayor Hewitt when he opposed the raising of the Irish flag over City Hall, died yesterday at his home, No. 109 Park avenue, Orange, N. J. He was in his sixty-third year.

Mr. Von Minden was born in Overgone, Oldenburg, Germany, on November 4, 1856, and came to this country when he was eleven years old, settling in Galveston, Texas. He began his career as a farm hand and a cowboy. He moved to this city in 1871 and obtained work in Hoboken as a grocery clerk and later branched out in business for himself at avenue A and Second street.

He was elected an Alderman from the Tenth ward in 1887 and the following year entered into the heated discussions of the Board, when it was proposed that the Irish flag be hoisted over the City Hall on St. Patrick's Day. Mr. Von Minden, aided by Alderman C. O. Hubbel and Alfred Conklin, indorsed the stand of Mayor Hewitt that "no flag but the Stars and Stripes and the flag of the State and municipality should wave over City Hall." An ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen was vetoed by the Mayor.

Mr. Von Minden organized the United Wine and Trading Company, of No. 321 West Thirteenth street, and of which he was president for many years. He was at one time vice president of the United National Bank, now known as the Hudson Trust Company. He was a member of a score of Masonic and other fraternal and benevolent societies and was chairman of the German-American Schuetzen trip to Hamburg, Germany, for the international shoot.

CHARITIES NAMED IN WOMAN'S WILL

Mrs. Jackson Divides Remainder of Estate Among Her Children.

The will of Mrs. Rachel S. Jackson, of 1023 Bloomfield street, Hoboken, who wrote out her own death notice for the Jersey Observer prior to passing away, was admitted to probate this morning by Surrogate James F. Norton at the Court House. The will was dated July 2, 1919, and her three sons, Millard F., of 1023 Bloomfield street; William J., of 1212 Park avenue, and Clarence S., of 302 Central Park West, New York, are named executors.

Millard F. is left $7,000, which included an extra $2,000 for his assistance in running her business affairs. Mrs. Lenore C. Coane, daughter, of 1114 Bloomfield street, is left $5,000; Mrs. Juliette A. Konert, daughter, of 402 Monastery street, West Hoboken, is left $10,000 and $11,000 each is left to three other daughters, Isabel E., Marion E. and Emma L. Jackson, all of 1023 Bloomfield street. She says the difference in the bequests is not that some of the children are dearer to her than the others, but because those left lesser amounts have sufficient incomes of their own. Other bequests are: Hebrew Ladies of the Temple Adath Emuno, $500, and similar sums to the Hoboken Day Nursery and the Mary Stevens Hammond Home of Hoboken. The sum of $1,000 each is left to the Hebrew Orphans' Home and the Hebrew Home for the Aged of Hudson County. The three sons are to share the remainder of the estate equally.

The will also provides for $300 to be paid to the Congregation Adus Emuno to have the names of the testator and departed relatives read at the Yom Kippur services for twenty-five years. There are also bequests of personal effects to the children, including jewelry, and the will directs that the house at 1023 Bloomfield street be sold as soon as possible but the single daughters shall have the right to remain in it for six months. The executors are left $1,000 in all for their services, Millard Jackson receiving $500 and his brothers $250.

FORMER HOBOKEN OFFICIAL IS DEAD

Millard F. Jackson, Sr., former Health Commissioner of Hoboken, died at his home, 1020 Blomfield street, yesterday afternoon after a brief illness. He was 77 years old.

Mr. Jackson was one of the oldest and most prominent residents of Hoboken, having lived in the city for about sixty years. During his lifetime he was prominently identified with the real estate business, and the idea of a twenty-family apartment house, four families on a floor, was his conception. The first apartment house of that type was built by him in Hoboken thirty years ago.

Mr. Jackson's service as Health Commissioner of Hoboken occurred in the administration of the late Lawrence Fagan.

Survivors are a son, Millard F. Jackson, Jr., trust officer of the Hoboken Trust Company and former commander of Hoboken Post, No. 107, American Legion; a daughter, Mrs. Edythe McNamara; a brother, William, and his sisters, the Misses Marion, Emma and Isabel Jackson.

Funeral services will be at the family residence, in charge of Dr. Charles Francis Potter of the First Humanist Society of New York. Entombment will be in Fairview Mausoleum.

Mr. Jackson's death follows that of his brother, Clarence S. Jackson, by slightly more than two weeks.

Paul M. Konert

Anybody who knew Paul M. Konert, who died yesterday, must have been impressed with his sincerity and devotion to duty.

For 27 years he was librarian, first in old West Hoboken, later in the new Union City.

Quiet and reticent, Mr. Konert worked diligently to improve the library facilities, which he did materially. He spent many hours outside of the libraries studying the progress of other institutions and reviewing new books for possible addition to the shelves, which he guarded with a personal fidelity. Union City has lost an able, industrious and conscientious librarian, whose place will be difficult to fill.

Masonic Rites Tomorrow For Paul Konert

Librarian Dies Suddenly of Heart Attack at Breakfast Table—In Early 70's

Lodge services for Paul M. Konert, librarian of the Union City library, who died suddenly early yesterday morning of a heart attack at his home, 400 New York avenue, Union City, will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the chapel of William Schlemm, Bergenline avenue, Union City. Funeral will be Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment will be in Hoboken Cemetery.

Paul M. Konert

Konert, who was in his early 70's, was born in the West Hoboken section of Union City. From early youth he was active in civic affairs. He was the leader, before the turn of the century, for the establishment of a free library in West Hoboken, and when the idea materialized he was made secretary and clerk to the board. In 1891 the first library was opened in Public School No. 1.

Slumps Over Table

With him when he died was his wife, Mrs. Juliet Konert, nee Jackson. They were married 37 years ago. He arose slightly earlier than usual, and remarked so to his wife. He sat down to eat breakfast and while gazing at a newspaper suddenly crumpled over on the table. Dr. Benjamin Older was called, and pronounced Konert dead. He was under treatment for a heart ailment for several years, suffering at at months ago.

Despite his years Mr. Konert was active in his work. He never missed a day at the libary and even on Sunday mornings spent several hours at work.

Before entering public life, he was manager of a lumber company and served for several years as a member of the West Hoboken Board of Education. With the establishment of the libary, with himself a secretary, he interested Andrew Carnegie in building a library, with West Hoboken supplying the books. He was named librarian, a post which he held for 28 years, until his death. The first library was at 327 New York avenue. With consolidation of West Hoboken and Union Hill 10 years ago, he continued as head librarian of both branches.

"Best Read Man"

Although he left school at an early age, Mr. Konert was well educated. He was a great believer in self-education and was known as the "best read man" in Union City. He discussed freely, music, art, literature, and was a rabid sport fan. Many evenings found him at the opera in New York City, or listening to a philharmonic concert. Many afternoons he spent at the Polo Grounds or the Yankee Stadium watching his favorite baseball teams. For many years he was coxswain and active member of the Rosedale Boat Club. He was also a member of the Hoboken Riding Academy.

He took little interest in politics. However, his work was such that both parties realized his worth to the citizens of Union City and no one was ever mentioned for his position regardless of which party was in power.

Tribute by Eastmead

Mayor Lewis B. Eastmead, when he heard of Konert's death yesterday, said: "We have lost one of the most faithful workers we ever had and he will be most difficult to replace." Other commissioners called at the home yesterday to offer condolences to the family.

He was a member of Doric Lodge No. 86, F. and A. M., Cyrus Lodge, No. 82, Royal Arch Masons and the Congregation Adas Emuno, of Hoboken.

Surviving besides his widow are a daughter, Mrs. Madeline E. Millenthal, wife of Major Benjamin Millenthal, former commander of West Hoboken Post, American Legion, and a grandchild, Janet R. Millenthal. He was also uncle of Paul Moos, former head of the board of governors of North Hudson Hospital; Gustav Moos, of Union City; Sidney Moos, of Rye, N. Y.; Louis Moos, of Stamford, Conn., and Miss Rose Fischer, Union City.

Recall Memory

Union City Library Founder P. M. Konert, Dead 25 Years

The 25th anniversary of the death of Paul M. Konert, former librarian of Union City Free Public Library, was observed Saturday by his daughter, Mrs. Madeline Millenthal, 71 Knox av., Cliffside Park.

Mrs. Millenthal visited the grave of her father in Hoboken Cemetery where he was interred following his death on April 23, 1935. Funeral was attended by many officials of North Hudson, including the late Union City Mayor Lewis B. Eastmead.

Mr. Konert was known and respected as a civic worker and was one of the organizers of the first free public library in old West Hoboken. He also was an organizer of the Americus Hook and Ladder Co. of the old West Hoboken Volunteer Fire Department which was formed in 1894.

The library he served for more than 27 years paid tribute to him in September of 1937 when a plaque was dedicated at the 15th st. library. Arrangements were handled by Mayor Harry J. Thourot, who was then public affairs director.

Present at the ceremonies were the late Haddon Ivins, former Hudson Dispatch editor and state librarian, in addition to officials from throughout the area.

Mr. Konert was largely responsible for the endowment of the library he directed through his personal contacts with the late Andrew Carnegie, who presented a grant of $25,000 for the building in 1902.

Mr. Konert retained his position as librarian throughout the years regardless of the political faction in power. Dedicated to his work, the public servant took no interest in partisan politics and was paid tribute to his devotion to his job.

Managed Lumber Firm

A former member of Union City Board of Education, Mr. Konert was manager of a lumber firm, before entering public service. In his early life the civic leader was an ardent athlete. He was also active in Doric Lodge 86, F. and A.M.; Cyrus Lodge 82, Royal Arch Masons, and Congregation Adas Emuno, Hoboken.

Masonic and other ritualistic services will be held at the Schlemm Funeral Chapel, Twenty - second street and Bergenline avenue, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Religious rites will be conducted Friday morning at 10:30 by Rabbi Robert T. Jacobs of Hoboken, and interment will follow in Hoboken Cemetery.

Manager of Lumber Firm.

Before coming into public life, Mr. Konert, who was born in West Hoboken, was manager of a New Jersey Lumber Company. It was while a member of the board of education of old West Hoboken that he with several other prominent citizens started a movement for the establishment of a free library and in 1898 the first library was established in Public School No. 1 in West Hoboken.

With the establishment of a library and the election of trustees, Mr. Konert was made secretary and clerk to the board and temporary quarters were established at 327 New York avenue, now the site of the Lincoln Republican Club.

About ten years later, Mr. Konert interested the late Andrew Carnegie in erecting a library in the town and he himself was named librarian, a post which he held for twenty-eight years, continuing as chief librarian of the two libraries when Union City and West Hoboken was consolidated.

In a community where public office in a large measure depends on political affiliations, the fact that Mr. Konert took no active interest in partisan politics and was retained as librarian no matter which political group was in control is a high tribute to the devotion he gave to his job.

In his early life, he was an active athlete and took a great interest in a number of sports. He was for many years an active member and served as coxswain with the Rosedale Boat Club of Hoboken. He was one of the founders of the Americus Truck Company of the West Hoboken Volunteer Fire Department. He was also a member of the old Hoboken Riding Academy until it passed out of existence.

Among the organizations of which he was a member are: Doric Lodge No. 86, F. and A. M.; Cyrus Lodge No. 82, Royal Arch Masons, and the Congregation Adas Emuno of Hoboken.

He is survived by his widow, Juliette A. (nee Jacobson), to whom he was married thirty-seven years; a daughter, Mrs. Madeline S. Millenthal, wife of Major Benjamin Millenthal, head of the Hudson County Officers Reserve Corps, and a granddaughter, Jeanette R. Millenthal.

He was also the uncle of Paul Moos, former president of the board of governors of North Hudson Hospital; Gustav Moos of Union City, Sidney Moos of Rye, Louis Moos of Stamford, Conn., and Miss Rose Fischer, former secretary to the superintendent of schools in Union City.

PAUL M. KONERT, LIBRARIAN, DIES

ment had not caused him to prevent him from carrying out his duties of librarian.

He was at work yesterday and got up this morning as usual to go to the library. He was at his breakfast and was reading a newspaper as was his custom when he slumped forward and quietly passed away as if in sleep.

Mrs. Konert, who was alone with her husband, summoned Dr. Benjamin Older, and the physician pronounced him dead from a heart attack.

Mrs. Marie M. Davis

Mrs. Marie M. Davis, of 1218 Park avenue, Hoboken, died early today at her home, succumbing to complications after a short illness.

Mrs. Davis (nee von Minden), was the daughter of Theresa and the late Julius von Minden and the widow of Edward Davis. She is survived beside her mother, by seven children, Mrs. Frank Finnerty, wife of the Hoboken fireman; Mrs. Anthony Straten, Mrs. Joseph Dettmering, Mrs. Carl Zenzius, Mrs. John Cheavilier, Mrs. Thomas Gordon and Henry Davis, and two sisters, Mrs. William Jackson and Mrs. Charles Rollenhagen.

Funeral will be held at 9 a. m. Monday from the residence. Requiem mass will be offered at 10 o'clock in Holy Innocents P. E. Church. Burial follows in Cresthaven Memorial Cemetery, Clifton, under direction of the Bosworth Funeral Home.

Mrs. Davis was born in Germany. She came to America over fifty years ago and had since lived in Hoboken.
