

A Christmas Carol

There's a song in the air!
There's a star in the sky!
There's a mother's deep prayer
And a baby's low cry!
And the star rains its fire while the Beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem cradles a King.

There's a tumult of joy
O'er the wonderful birth,
For the virgin's sweet boy
Is the Lord of the earth.
Ay! the star rains its fire and the Beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem cradles a King.

In the light of that star
Lie the ages impearled;
And that song from afar
Has swept over the world.
Every hearth is aflame, and the Beautiful sing
In the homes of the nations that Jesus is King.

We rejoice in the light,
And we echo the song
That comes down through the night
From the heavenly throng,
Ay! we shout to the lovely evangel they bring,
And we greet in his cradle our Saviour and King.

Josiah Gilbert Holland.

LETTERS TO SANTA

—o—

Dear Santa,

Perhaps you remember that I haven't been asking for much at Christmas for the last few years, but now I ask just one thing and it is big.

I don't want any automobile, although I'd like to have one, nor do I want a husband, but I want $300,000 to build a new school.

Please be sure to put this in your bag.

Julia F. Bratten

* * * *

Dear Santa,

For the last two years my wife has been wanting an evening dress, but for some reason I can't find one that will suit her. She wants one with—oh I don't know what she said it was, but it was some funny name; so if you know anything about women you probably know the kind she wants and how she wants it made.

She wants a parrot, too, one that can talk so that she can train it to yell "hello" when I come in nights. You don't have to bring the parrot but I thought I'd mention it anyway. I'd be tickled if you didn't have any.

Bring the best dress you've got, with all those fancy trimmings, but don't let that parrot tear a hole in it or I might have to buy a new rolling pin.

Wilbur Jones

* * *

Dear Santa,

Will you please bring me a nice big box of "Gum"? I like to chew an awful lot; and, Dear Santa, I want you to bring me a great big Brown Derby. Even though Al. didn't get elected I want something to remember him by.

Eleanor Johnson

* * *

Dear Santa,

You know that I get to be Hall Police once in a while and I am built so close to the ground that the children can't see me when a bunch of them go by; for instance, when classes change. So please bring me a pair of stilts so I can have a commanding position in the crowd.

Leonard Timmons

Dear Santa,

Most of all I want you to bring me a big collapsible bath tub because—well, I can't tell you why, but it is absolutely essential.

I don't care what else you bring me but don't forget that.

Hance Fooks.

Dearest Santa,

Instead of asking you to bring me a lot of things, I am going to ask you to bring some one else something.

You know that I like her a lot and I want to give her two presents, but mom says that I can give her only one.

I am going to give her a nice dress or something just as nice, but that won't be enough, so I want you to bring her a necklace with three heart-shaped diamonds in front.

Carson F. Chandler

* * *

Dear Santa Claus,

Well, Santa, it's Christmas again and I want a lot more than I did last year. You see I am in High School this year and I am a whole lot bigger and I just need things.

First of all I want some thick sweaters and trousers, because the school is just like a cake of ice all winter. Next I want a foot ball with no holes in it. I got one last year but it was punctured and Dad said you must have slipped.

Well, so long, and don't forget those clothes.

George Lee Barnes

* * *

Dear Santa,

My Ford is getting bad and I wonder if you would bring me a new set of pistons, rings and valves? I want to put in a gear shift, too. Will you bring me that, too?

I don't want you to forget "Her" either. Bring her a wrist watch, with a band to match. You might throw in a silk dress and a new suit for me. The dress for her, of course.

James Gray

* * *

Dear Santa,

I don't know what you are going to bring me but there are two things that I don't want you to forget. They

FRESHMAN CLASS RANKS

FIRST IN ENGLISH TESTS

—o—

In the English tests given recently to all the high school students the Freshmen class averaged the nearest to the median. This median was formed after several thousand students had been tested and is therefore the standard which we should expect to reach or surpass. Each of the classes fell below the standard for that class, the Freshmen by 2.64 points, the Sophomores by 2.74 points, the Juniors by 3.3 points, and the Seniors by 3.91 points. This seems to mean that the Freshmen do relatively the best work in English.

The three upper classes fell down most heavily in punctuation, while the Freshmen found their difficulty to be sentence structure. The Juniors and Seniors did better in the sentence structure test than in any of the other tests, the Sophomores did best in capitalization, and the Freshmen found punctuation the easiest. The greatest variation from the median was 4.1. This occurred both in the Senior punctuation test and in the Junior grammar test. The score nearest to the median was made in the Freshmen punctuation test.

Despite those rather discouraging results of the classes as a whole, there were some brilliant individual results. In the Freshmen class Cynthia Hales stands out. She had a perfect paper in the capitalization test though college students are permitted 5 errors. This was the only perfect paper in the school. Ellen Payne and Kenneth Mason also did remarkably well in this test. Clay Mumford stands out conspicuously in the punctuation and grammar tests, making better scores than are expected of college students. Frances Maddox and Clay tie for honors in the sentence structure test. These students deserve our sincerest congratulations. We are expecting big things from them.

Esther Robins led the Sophomores in three of the tests and came second in the fourth. Blanch Cherrix, Harriet Gray, Mary Dryden, and Helen Harris also did unusually well.

Among the Juniors Minnie Dryden, Lois Mason, Anna Hales, Mathilde Dryden, Dorys Mount, John Collins, Joyce Strickland, Emily Scarborough and Viola Davis rank the highest.

The best scores among the Seniors were made by Virginia Riley, Mildred West, Grace Bradford, Esther Tatman, George Brown, Lola Godfrey, Iva Tull, Eunice Helm, and Carson Chandler.

SNOW HILL HIGH SCHOOL

WINS ATTENDANCE BANNER

—o—

Snow Hill High School won the banner for attendance for the month of November. We made a percentage of 95.5, Pocomoke High School made 95.4, Berlin 93.7, Stockton 93.4, and Ocean City 92.2, making a county average of 94.4. We feel very proud of our success and hope to keep this banner the rest of the year.

We feel that one reason we won is that we have been conducting a contest in attendance within the school. The Student Council has offered a banner to the room having the highest percentage of attendance for the month. The Senior Home Room won this banner for the past month. The following percentages were made:

	High School
Senior	98.8%
Freshman Sec. B	97.5%
Commercial	95.5%
Junior	95. %
Sophomore	94.4%
Freshman Sec. A	92.6%
	Grades
White House	93.5%
Seventh Grade	91.9%
Fifth Grade	91.1%
Sixth Grade	87.7%

SCIENCE CLUB

On account of the party for the field ball and soccer teams, the November meeting of the Science Club was not held.

A regular business meeting was held November 19. At this meeting two Juniors were admitted to the club. Mathilde Dryden read original compositions on "Does Thunder Turn Milk Sour?" and "Does Iron or Steel Get Tired?" John Collins explained "Television" by means of a short talk and diagram.

The President appointed Initiation, Refreshment and Program committees, after which the meeting was adjourned.

FRENCH CLUB

The usual business meeting of the French Club was held November 26, 1928.

It was decided that at the evening meetings in addition to the regular program a discussion would take place in English on French life, French people, industry and authors.

Because of a change in the schedule the business meeting was changed from the fourth Friday to the fourth Thursday in the month.

It was decided that each member should learn "Le Pater" and "La Marseillaise" before the next evening meeting.

GLEE CLUB

Hark! There is music in the air. Yes, the Glee Club is practicing each Wednesday and Friday and is planning to make a big success this year.

Since the beginning of the year the club has been preparing for a recital in January and is promising an interesting program.

The officers have been elected, and, together with Miss Shockley, our talented instructor, are trying to do their best to help make the glee club a success. The officers are as follows:

President, Wilson Hudson; Vice-President, Virginia Riley; Recording Secretary, James Gray; Corresponding Secretary, John Scott; Treasurer, Carson Chandler.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB

The evening meeting of the Dramatic Club was held November 23. The meeting was opened and minutes were read. Old and new business was taken up. The club decided to subscribe to the Sun for the rest of the school year. The following program was given:

"The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise"—Iva Tull and Wilson Hudson
The Life of James Benard Show

Wilson Hudson

The Life of Lady Gregory

Virginia Prettyman

The Life of Ibsen

Helen Harris

"Humoreske"

Virginia Riley

The business meeting was closed. Games were played and refreshments served.

The day meeting of the Dramatic Club was held November 12. Old and new business was taken up. We decided that no Freshman would be able to gain entrance to the Dramatic Club unless they were one of the six chosen from the Declamation Contest. As there was no other business the meeting was adjourned.

THE LATIN CLUB

The first evening meeting of the Latin Club was held November 16. After the meeting was opened the Lord's Prayer was said in Latin and the minutes were read. Old and new business was taken up. A play called "Parva Rubia Mitella" was given in Latin. The cast was as follows:

Red Riding Hood

Mary Brown

The Mother

Helen Harris

The Wolf

Edward Wilson

The Wood Chopper

Irvin Holston

The play was read by Elizabeth Warner.

The meeting was closed with America sung in Latin. Games were played and refreshments were served.

SOCCER TEAM RECEIVES HELPFUL LETTER FROM MR. WHITE

—o—

The following letter, which was received by the soccer team, expresses so finely certain ideals toward which we are all striving that we desire to share it with the rest of the student body; therefore we print it here.

"My dear young Friends:-

"Permit me thus familiarly to address you in acknowledging your letter of recent date, and to thank you for your compliments and the very fine sentiments therein expressed.

"Your sense of appreciation far surpasses any little thing that I may have done, and your thoughtfulness greatly exceeds any service that I may have rendered, for, truly, I have delighted in your companionship, both on and off the field, and have taken the keenest pleasure in following the fortunes of the game, rejoicing as you rejoiced, and sorrowing as you sorrowed.

"It is very gratifying, however, to know that you caught the spirit of my endeavor, understood the meaning of my interest, and rightly interpreted my motives, which have been altogether altruistic, actuated by the desire to be helpful; to give aid and encouragement; to develop the right attitude of mind towards the game and sports in general; and to inculcate those principles of applied morals and manners, clean living and clean thinking, which the ancients propounded and practiced in the maxim, 'A sound mind in a sound body.'

"Your letter appeals to me in a manner that excites the loveliest interest and feelings of deepest and strongest emotions, and while feeling my unworthiness, nevertheless, take pride, pleasure and satisfaction in the acquisition of such a fine body of splendid young manhood to my coterie of friends. May I venture to indulge in the hope that the associations thus formed may develop into lasting friendships, whose exercise and manifestations may be mutually helpful and beneficial?

"Futher to express my thanks and to show my appreciation, I herewith make grateful acknowledgment of the item concerning my humble house and my few possessions, appearing in the current issue of 'The Representative,' your ably edited and capably managed High School paper.

"In this connection, I am reminded that the Chinese have a saying, 'My friends are my principal ornaments,' and while I am not boastful of my belongings, I rejoice in my friends, who are more to be desired than great riches, and whose value and worth are more priceless than the most precious jewels.

"Yours in very sincerity and truth,
"C. V. White."

UNDERWOOD TYPING AWARDS WON BY TWO STUDENTS

—o—

Nellie Hearthway and Iva Tull won medals from the Underwood Typewriting Company in the monthly speed test for November.

Nellie Hearthway won the silver medal emblem, which is awarded for a net speed of 50 to 59 words a minute for 15 minutes. She made 51 words with 5 errors. This is the first silver medal that has been awarded to a student in Snow Hill High School for several years.

Iva Tull won the bronze medal emblem which is awarded for a net speed of 40 to 49 words a minute for 15 minutes. She made 44 words with 4 errors. This is the third bronze medal that has been awarded to our pupils in two years, Eunice Helm and Martha Bailey each winning one last year.

These two girls are to be congratulated on their achievements and the splendid work they are doing in the Typing Department.

We hope that other pupils will follow this example and soon make awards.

CHRISTMAS

Christmas, the most joyous season of all the year, has come again. It is a day of feasting, a day of family reunions, of giving gifts; and many other things are done to celebrate the joyous occasion. It is a happy time for the children, the young folks, the middle aged and the old folks. The children are happy because they are expecting Santa Claus to bring them gifts. They dance with glee around the brilliantly lighted Christmas tree. The young people enjoy visiting their friends and exchanging gifts. They enjoy the Christmas parties. The older folks enjoy the home coming of their loved ones and the Christmas feast. The rollicking happy children bring pleasant recollections of their own childhood days.

But, back of all this there is a deeper joy, because of the coming of the Christchild, who set the joy bells ringing that first Christmas long ago.

He came to bring happiness to a sorrowing world and angels announced his birth with a song of joy. He came to help others. If we would keep Christmas in the true spirit we will think of others who are less fortunate than we and try to make them happy.

We cannot bring Him gifts of gold and Frankincense and Myrrh as did the wise men, but in helping others we are bringing our gifts to Him, for he said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these ye have done it unto me."

Our Christmas joy would not be complete without the exchange of pleasant Christmas greetings and best wishes to all our friends.

We, the staff of the Representative of Snow Hill High School, extend to all—subscribers, friends, faculty, patrons of S. H. H. S., student council, student body with its various organizations—most sincere good wishes for a joyous Christmas holiday. May your New Year be blessed with success and happiness, and may there be "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men."

LET'S BE NEAT

The school building is bad looking we all know—but if the grounds, halls and class-rooms were kept clear of papers and all other trash, the appearance would be improved immensely.

The majority of people consider it the work of the janitor to keep the building clean, but if each student took it as a responsibility to put all his own papers and trash in the waste paper baskets the janitor would not need to do so much and our building would be better looking.

"Clean-up-week" is held in every town, when each town is cleaned up and kept clean for a week. Why not, instead of having clean-up-week, keep the school building and grounds clean for the entire year?

SCHOOL SPIRIT

Do we, the members of Snow Hill High School, possess the proper school spirit? Have we done all in our power for old Snow Hill High School? Let us ask ourselves these questions. We want our school to be the very best high school there is; but in what way must we endeavor to make it the best?

If we think about these things and reason with ourselves, these questions will come to our minds:

1—Do I cooperate with my teachers and with my classmates so as to make their school life happier?

2—Do I uphold the Student Council in all its undertakings during the school year as well as try to enforce its laws?

3—Do I support all Extra-Curricular activities of Snow Hill High School and endeavor to live up to their standards?

4—Do I boast our school paper, "The Representative," and do I try my best to make it represent our school?

5—Do I show an interest in all athletics? Have I done what I should have done to help the boys and girls win the championships; and am I going to support all athletics from now on?

Fellow Students, we shall answer these questions by our actions. We shall endeavor to make our school better by showing the proper school spirit.

THE FIRST REAL CHRISTMAS

On a street far back from the central part of Snow Hill, which is situated on the Pocomoke River, was a small house, very old and dilapidated but greatly appreciated by the family therein. Here, the man of the house, Mr. Allen Brown, had lived and died, leaving his wife and a small boy of three years. Their only support was gone. What was to be done? They were in such destitute condition that starvation seemed their end.

The days following Mr. Brown's death were an endless torture to the mother and child who were fast fading away. Suddenly, an idea presented itself to the mother. In years gone by, she had knitted socks with fair success. Why not try it again?

So, with a new light of hope and joy stamped on the mother's face, she began her work. Perhaps after all there would be food to eat at Christmas time even though there were no candles and toys for Baby.

And was her work a success?

Day after day she toiled, very slowly at first for it had been quite a while since she had used her needles, but finally the old saying began to speak for itself, "Practice makes perfect;" and when the quantity began to increase, she began to wonder whether or not she could sell these socks. They were very warm for the outdoor working man, but would they care to buy? She was soon to learn.

Very shyly she entered the doors of both the rich and poor. They needed no explanation as they had learned of her great troubles. Some bought of her through pity, others through need and some very rudely refused to even examine her stock. This caused her bitter tears but when she thought of her baby Joseph, she continued with renewed courage. It was for her boy that she sacrificed, he, who was her only companion.

One evening while glancing over a magazine, her attention was drawn to an ad headed as follows: "How to earn money in spare time." After carefully reading this over, she found that the company publishing the ad offered a knitting machine to anyone who wished to make sock-knitting a home job. The terms agreed upon were simply to knit and ship the socks to them until the machine was completely paid for and thereafter, to be given so much per dozen for the socks. Surely, the future now looked bright to Mrs. Brown for the machine could knit several dozen pairs a day. She immediately ordered the machine, which was straight-way installed in her home. Then, the work began. In a very short while the machine was all her own and the light of a new day seemed to dawn for her and "Baby Joe."

And it was indeed a new life for little Joe. His cheeks began to look like two red apples and his merry little voice echoed from room to room. And the mother—What of her? She too was happy and although her cheeks were not as Joseph's, the bloom of youth was stealing back again. So with love and happiness combined, the days glided on.

Thirty years have passed and with it, many changes have been brought about. Through real management and economy, the mother has given her son an education, and a successful one. Instead of the "tumble down shack," there stands a very pretty and attractive bungalow, and in the heart of town we find a neat and up-to-date office. As we approach this office, our attention is brought to the name, stamped in gold across the Elizabeth Warner visited her aunt in Swarthmore, Pennsylvania, during the holidays.

Harriet Grey '30 spent Thanksgiving in Berlin visiting relatives and friends.

Rah! Rah! Rah! Just look at the Seniors' fingers! We are proudly sporting class rings. There was much excitement one Monday morning when it was whispered about in the Senior room that our class rings were here, and when Mr. Godfrey did walk into the room with them, you should have seen the smiling faces. Everyone was much pleased with his ring—and we all are very proud of them.

On Thursday evening during Thanksgiving Esther Tatman informally entertained a few of her friends at her home. They were Julia Evans, Louise Duer, Margie Truitt, Wilma Jones, Eva Truitt, George Brown, Hance Fooks, James Sturgis, and William Bradley.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Perry Simmons spent the holidays in Greensboro, Maryland.

The Seniors are hard at work writing short stories. We are expecting fine results.

Virginia Dryden, '28, accompanied the "Grangers" of Salisbury Normal to Washington, the week-end of November 23. In Washington, the National degree of the Grange Order was given them. President Coolidge addressed them Friday night. Saturday morning the party spent in seeing Washington, Arlington, and Mount Vernon. Saturday afternoon they attended the Maryland-Virginia football game at College Park.

On Wednesday evening, November 28, cars of various makes, with people of various descriptions, made their way to the home of Naomi Sturgis of Girdletree. When the contents of the cars were dumped there were found Alma Martin, Anna Jones, Isabelle Johnson, Emily Scarborough, Page Martin, Harold Parks, Marion Riley, Walter Onley, and Samuel Oglesby of the University of Maryland. After a taffy pull the guests departed looking forward to a big Thanksgiving dinner.

Everette Townsend, a graduate of '28, while playing Soccer on the Beacom College team, broke his leg on the Tuesday before Thanksgiving. He was taken to the Delaware Hospital. We sympathize with him as he couldn't spend the holidays at home.

Lillian Pusey, '29, was accompanied to her home in Selbyville by Miss Elva Richardson, who spent the holidays with her.

Miss Hermione Riches spent the Thanksgiving holidays at her home in Baltimore. While there she attended the Hopkins-Maryland game.

Miss Ethel McAllister, our popular sixth grade teacher over at the White House, was married Wednesday evening, in Salisbury, to Mr. Avery W. Perdue. They spent the holidays in and around Gettysburg. We wish them much happiness in their married life!

Lois Mason, '30, entertained 16 of her friends, in honor of her 16th birthday, on Thursday evening, November 29. After playing games, the guests were invited to the dining room, which was charmingly decorated in pink and white and where they were served delicious refreshments. The guests were: Virginia Riley, Mary Brown, Esther Robins, Vera Jones, Mathilde Dryden, Alma Martin, Grace Shockley, Anna Jones, Isabelle Johnson, Anne Purnell, Carson Chandler, Jr., John Collins, Marion Pettit, J. Herman Perdue, Jr., Edward Wilson, and George Corddry of Washington College.

Ralph Jackson, '32, spent the week-end in Baltimore visiting relatives.

Among the students who visited at home during the holidays were Julia Evans and Louise Duer from the Normal School at Towson; Eva Truitt, from Strayer's Business College, Baltimore; Ethel Webb from Beacom's College, Wilmington; William Sherkey from Temple University, Philadelphia; Franklin Powell from W.C.I., Dover; Martha Bailey from Goldey's College at Wilmington; George Corddry from Washington College; Nellie Cherrix and Virginia Dryden from Salisbury Normal School.

Miss Julia Bratten visited her niece in Wilmington and friends in Philadelphia during the holidays.

Miss Freda Waddington, our former Commerical teacher, was in Snow Hill for a short visit over the holidays.

Margaret White was absent a few days on account of illness.

The Commericals are glad to know that they have won the home room inspection banner for the first 3 months of school.

Each year after the High School soccer season is finished an all-county eleven is chosen. This is done not only to show that the people are interested in the game, but to give the boys encouragement and something to work toward. Mr. Culver, reporter on the "Berlin Times," has shown his interest in this respect. We are proud to know that we have our part in the all-county eleven. William Bradley was chosen as goal keeper and Lester Hearthway as right full back.

Four Berlin players were chosen and five from Pocomoke.

JUNIORS STAGE WIEN'IE ROAST AT OLD FURNACE

"Good night! No matter where I get the smoke gets into my eyes," said Ada.

"Which goes to prove that women are the weaker sex," said Walter sarcastically.

The Junior Class and some of the Seniors were having a "Hot Dog" feast at the Old Furnace.

The scene around the camp fire was one of business and happiness, everyone trying to find room to put his puppy over the blaze.

"Ah!" exclaimed Harold with satisfaction, taking a big bite of hot dog and roll, "this sure tastes good."

"Yes, I expect it does," agreed Les, "but your telling me doesn't do any good because they are packed three deep around the dogs and I am the third one out."

"Come on, pass 'em this way," said Walter Onley.

Some time elapsed while everyone was roasting another round of "hot dogs", and everything was quiet except for an occasional, "Give me room for mine." Then—

"Hey, Mr. Jones, did you bring any mustard?" Ada yelled, running around with a smoking wiennie in her hand.

"Yes," answered Mr. Jones, "I put it in one of those big bags."

"Well, I—— Doggone it, Bill Townsend had it all the time, and he has used half of it!"

Some time after "lunch" Wilson Pussey, owner and pilot of the truck which carried us to the feasting ground, cleaned the spark plugs, disconnected the exhaust, and did several little things to put the red bus in good shape for the hard pull to the house of Mr. Warren, some distance farther on. We arrived there eventually after a hard fight on the part of the truck and several pushes by the boys.

We spent a few minutes looking at the outside of the house, which was very interesting. Most of the time was spent, however, at the pump back of the house because all of us, having had nothing to drink except cider, were thirsty.

After this, we began the ride home.

JUNIORS ENTERTAIN FIELD BALL AND SOCCER TEAMS

"You are cordially invited to an Autumn Party gay

Where the teams, Field Ball and Soccer, will have their final play.

Be sure to find a costume and wear a funny mask.

No matter if it is a little work, 't'will be a pleasant task.

Laughing Jack O'Lanterns' faces will wink from nearby posts

And all the Jolly Juniors will be the merry hosts."

This was the invitation that the members of the Field Ball and Soccer teams were lucky enough to receive.

At seven thirty o'clock, November 2, there assembled at the school gypsies, negroes, clowns, a nineteenth century doctor, sailors, French maids, flappers, men of leisure, and a parson.

At eight o'clock sharp the grand march started, passing before the Judges. John Gordy, personifying the nineteenth century doctor, was awarded the first prize, which was a miniature skeleton. Alma Martin, the French maid, received an ear of corn, the second prize. All received honorable mention.

Next on the program came an eating contest in which the coaches and players were the contestants. A marshmallow was placed in the center of a string; each of the two contestants placed one end of the string in his mouth. The one chewing the string the fastest received the marshmallow as a prize. This was followed by cheers for the teams and coaches.

Perhaps the feature of the evening occurred when there were passed around slips of paper bearing verses of old familiar and popular songs. In this fashion the group was divided into quartets to sing the songs. Unexpected talent was discovered.

The latter part of the evening was devoted to dancing. Indeed, so popular was this diversion that even after the refreshments were served and it

Dear Santa,

It certainly is terrible the way people find things. Some time ago someone discovered that my Ford had no lock on the back to keep the lid down. So what did they do but take the gallon of pure water that reposed there! Now when you bring me my new Ford have the lock so it will work. I don't want that to happen again because I—I mean the battery went dry from lack of water. James Moore door: "Dr. Joseph T. Brown." None other than the rosy-cheeked babe of long ago.

It is Christmas again, and we find this same mother and son seated around the fire in their cozy sitting room. They are thinking of that Christmas long ago, when, instead of beautiful gifts, there was only poverty. In their hearts they are thanking God who has so richly blessed them, giving them once again, their first REAL Christmas.

Mr. Frank—"The egg should be placed in the pillar large end up."

Clarence Taylor (reading): "Mr. Frank, it says here the small end should be placed down."

was obviously "time to go home," the guests were loathe to leave. Perhaps this was the sincerest way of saying that the party was a real success.

Mr. Simmons—"Have you got your short story done, Hance?"

Hance—"Yes sir."

Mr. Simmons—"When did you start?"

Hance—"The night after I did it."
