

surprised at this denouement.

Stephen Emery Bailey, in former years well-known along the line of the Central Vermont railroad as a Postal Clerk, recently came from Dakota suffering with heart trouble and Bright's disease. He died last week at the home of O. B. Bailey, his brother, in Berlin. He was a brother of Thomas W. Bailey, the long time and favorably known Central Vermont railroad conductor, and, like him, was universally esteemed by all who knew him.

The September term of Court convened on