THE SAMOYEDE DOG

The Biteless Dog with a Human Brain

The Samoyede, the reindeer, shepherd and sledge dog of the ancient Samoyede people of Western Siberia, on the Arctic shore, is one of the hardiest and most intelligent, as well as one of the most beautiful of dogs. He is an ideal pet and house dog—easily trained, easily maintained in either town or country.

The Sam has been bred in Siberia for at least twenty centuries. He breeds true, always shows the chief characteristics of his race—an unfailing loyalty to his master, with a cheerful willingness to help his human friends with whatever work they provide. The Sam is a fast sledge dog, as testified by Nansen, Scott, Shackleton, Duke of the Abruzzi, Borchgrevink and others. He is also a natural shepherd. He is to be recommended for country estates, where he will efficiently take charge of any dog work at hand.
