BOYS'/GIRLS' STATE

by Kathryn Kelly

During the week on June 14-21, five students from Louisville attended an important governmental event. Three girls-Robin Rodak, Tracy Schario, and Kathryn Kelly-traveled to Ashland College in Ashland, Ohio. Here they partook in a week on self-government called Buckeye Girls' State. This year was the 40th anniversary of BGS, and the week was nothing short of action-packed. Caucuses on the state, county, and local levels were held, elections were conducted, and office work began.

Buckeye Boys' State was held at Bowling Green State University in Bowling Green, Ohio. Here, John Jones and Mark Warner participated in Boys' State and its self-government. This week at BBS was also a busy time as speeches were made, votes were cast, and offices were fulfilled.

Both Boys' and Girls' State help high school juniors learn more concerning our government and how it Among us this year is Michiko Kani, an exchange student from Japan. Michiko is actually from Yokohama, a small city near Tokyo. Yokohama is the largest seaport city in Japan. Michiko is with us this year and will be in Louisville until next summer.

Michiko's family back home consists of her parents, two brothers, and one sister. Michiko is presently staying with Louisville citizens, Mr. and Mrs. Donnat.

Michiko notes several things done differently in her country than in the United States. For example, where Michiko attended school in Yokohama the girls wore skirts all the time. Also, for each meal in Japan, custom is one bowl of rice, one bowl operates. A learning experience for life, BGS and BBS are both an honor and an excellent way to experience self-government in action. This program allows for students, the leaders of tomorrow, to learn of the political system of America.

The LHS band is a group of very dedicated and hard working people who receive little thanks. They are those people who cheer at our pep rallies and our football games. Led by Mr. Patrick, Mrs. Long, and Miss Tomlin, this group is a vital link in the activities of LHS.

Officers for the band this year are president, Laura O'Malley; vice-president, Kris Leatherberry; treasurer, Laura Gruber; secretary, Shana Blazer; and historian, Diana Nero.

This season the band is working diligently to earn a superior rating, taking them to the state competition. After they reach this goal, the band wants to work to achieve a superior rating at state.

At the Louisville band competition, Louisville performed and was judged. If they would have competed, the band would have been three points shy of a superior rating.

Some of the tough competitions at which the band will be performing are Marlinton and Medina. Dana Roberts, a junior band member, states this concerning what she has learned as a member of the LHS band, "I think that I have learned to be self-disciplined and to co-operate with others in a group."

of meat, one bowl of tea, and one bowl of water. Also, Michiko explains that a "goof" in her country is called a "p-man". This comes from the fact that a green pepper is hollow on the inside and a "goof" has a hollow head. So, watch out! If Michiko is walking down the hall, and she looks at you and says, "P-man", you'll know what she thinks of you.

We welcome Michiko to the United States, the city of Louisville and, specifically, Louisville High School.
