

SPOTLIGHT

has new advisor

By Merri Smith

As school gets back to the old grind we see many new faces in the hallway. One of the many faces you may see is Miss Latimer who is one of the new English teachers.

Miss Latimer isn't new to the classroom as she just graduated from Kent State with a Bachelors of Arts in English degree. She also received numerous awards at college such as Who's Who Among American Univerties, and recieved a Superior Scholarship Award. But what does this poor women do besides reading English novels? She works out at the Nautilus and she enjoys swimming, shopping (especially at Paul Harris) and listening to Robert Plant. When asked how she chose Louisville she said "i was originally from Alliance but had moved to Wadsworth so I had heard many good things about Louisville."

A NEW "MURPHYS' LAW"

by Nicki Torbett

Many students may think that they recognize the cheerful new face at the ticket window of the athletic office. This is more likely than one might think. Mrs. Sharon Murphy, the new athletic secretary, was previously employed as the receptionist of Dr. Viljams Blumentals, a Louisville physician.

Mrs. Murphy attended high school here at LHS, during which time she was active in GAA, band, and speech. By the way, if you notice a particular sparkle in her eyes at the mention of homecoming, it could be because she was once homecoming queen herself.

She and her husband have two grown children and one son, Collin, in 7th grade at Louisville Jr. High. When asked about her hobbies, she tells of her involvement with the Louisville Literary League and Canton Symphony, as well as an interest in theatre, and, as she adds with a grin, "Sports, of course!"

Some of Mrs. Murphy's duties as athletic secretary include handling tickets, money, officials, and transportation for all sports events, counting, depositing, and recording all money from each event, and acting as Mr. Starkey's personal secretary. Probably one of her most frustrating tasks is taking cancellations because of rain. Although Mrs. Murphy always remains cheerful and is never without her characteristic smile, one can't help but suspect that she really wants to tell coaches calling to cancel, as Dr. Blumentals would, to "take two asprin and call me in the morning."

The German club got their start this month. New advisor for the club this year is new German teacher Miss McDougal.

At their first meeting, the German club elected this year's officers. They are president, Tracy Schario; vice president, Erica Adams; secreatary, Kellie Van Swearingen; treasurer, Laura O'Malley; and representitives, John Ofer, Tiffany Menegay, and Scott Ickes.

The German club, as always, has some very exciting plans for the school year. They plan to go Christmas caroling, go on a field trip to Hofbrauhaus, go to some type of German concert, have a fundraiser, and have a German folk dance.
