

Avro Arrow - 50th anniversary

RSS
What is this?

Home » News » Avro Arrow - 50th anniversary

March 27, 2008

We'd like to thank Richard Banigan and the Aerospace Heritage Foundation of Canada for giving us the opportunity to bring you these two superb contemporary photos of 'Arrow' prototype RL-201, giving us the opportunity to once again feature the truly ground-breaking Avro (Canada) CF106 Mk1 fifty years on from its first flight.

Actually any excuse to feature the 'Arrow' is good enough, particularly when it reminds younger enthusiasts that this aircraft, which never made it into operational service, first flew in the late 1950s yet featured 'fly by wire' computer control, integral missile systems and was capable of MACH 2+.

Find out more about the Avro Arrow at: <http://www.avroarrow.org/AvroArrow/factualarrow.html>

Back to index