

This air-to-air shot of the Arrow over Malton was taken from a chase plane that followed its test flight closely. The successful flight was the culmination of four and a half years of planning and work by engineers and technicians.

Hugh MacKecknie, AVRO