

Mythical Avro Arrow Lands in Calgary

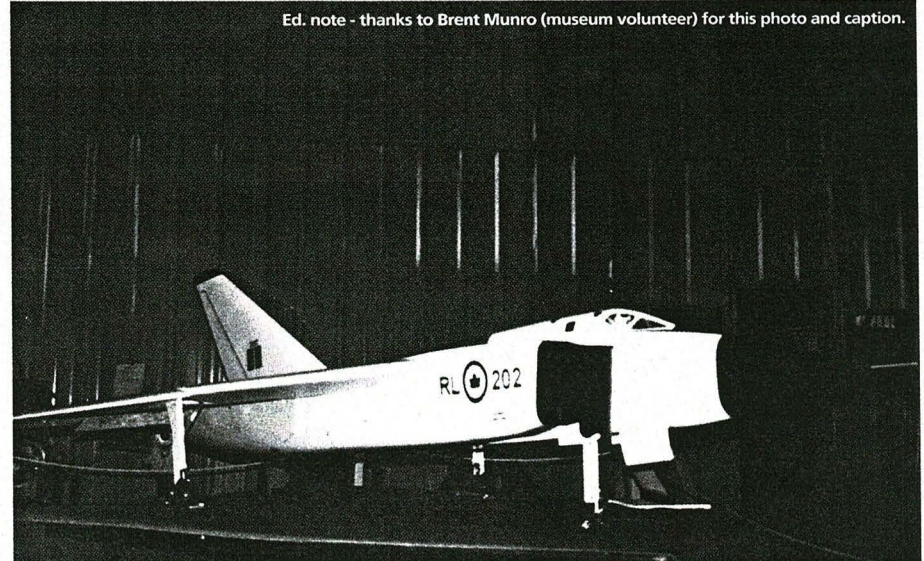

It could be the mythical #206 Avro Arrow that disappeared from Avro headquarters in February 1959. It could have gone through a radical transformation which included a size reduction to a ten foot length, a new paint job to change the number to 202, technical modification which allows it to be flown by remote control... or...

...perhaps it's a flying model created by Calgary model makers Doug and Donette Hyslip to shoot the flying footage for the CBC mini series - The Arrow.

Whatever you wish to believe, don't miss the chance to see this fantastic model at the Calgary

Aerospace Museum,
4629 McCall Way N.E.
(just north of the Port-O-Call Inn)

Ed. note - thanks to Brent Munro (museum volunteer) for this photo and caption.

Alpine Helicopters And Canadian Mountain Holidays

Alpine Helicopters is located on the east side of Calgary International Airport. The heli-skiing operation through Canadian Mountain Holidays (CMH) also brings business to a number of other tenants on the airport. Skiers fly into Calgary from either the United States or Europe, overnight at the Calgary Airport Hotel and then leave by motor coach to

Originally a "macho" sport, only available to skiers of great skill, it has now become possible for all types of skiers to enjoy the thrill of heli-skiing. Intermediate downhill skiers can now join "intro" groups, and with the help of "fat" skis, can enjoy their experience the first time out. People of all ages heli-ski, from teenagers to individuals in their late seventies. Guests bring their own boots and

ASN 829

R.L. 862-1997
Box 3-16