

6326

A large, detailed grid of 100 small, square images, each showing a different texture or pattern, likely representing various types of paper or fabric. The patterns range from solid colors to complex, repeating geometric and organic designs. The grid is organized into 10 rows and 10 columns. The overall appearance is that of a high-resolution texture library or a collection of material samples.[illegible]