

END OF ERA

Dief., Missile, Union Pen Arrow Epitaph

WHEN THE PRIME MINISTER buried the Arrow, he hinted that Canada's army, navy and air force will also be cremated and reincarnated in a single missile-armed force? Mark Harrison sifts the ashes on pages 1 and 2.

"CANADA never in history was so dependent on U.S. as it is now," Sen. David Croll, page 3.

* * *
"THE AVRO LAYOFFS could put many of our homeowners out on the streets"—the mayors of Acton, Milton and Georgetown, page 3.

* * *
WHY DIDN'T THE TORIES provide an alternate employment program? Liberal Leader Pearson and CCF House Leader Argue ask, page one.

* * *
THE DEATH of the Arrow has thrown a cloud of uncertainty around the future of Canada's air defences, Bruce MacDonald reports on page 13.

* * *
"DIEFENBAKER has got to go . . . he's thrown us out in sub-zero weather," says one former Avro employee, page 2.

* * *
THE ARROW'S death may have been unavoidable but the method of execution could have been less painful. If nothing is done to hold the corps of engineers and technicians who worked on the Arrow, Canada is going to become a second-class industrial power.
