

Calgary Sun

JAN 29 / 2005

spent on finding ways to stop child pornography. Governments should be looking at ways to stop these monsters from victimizing our children. The governments need to realize owning and distributing child pornography is not art, it is abuse. I can't believe people put up more of a fuss about what two consenting adults do with their lives, than what happens to children.

Karen Rathwell

(Two separate issues.)

RE: THE Jan. 28 comment: "We get a free ride, militarily, from the U.S." Does the U.S really want a super military power on their northern border? I think not. The AVRO Arrow debacle demonstrated how paranoid the U.S can be when we produced a superior plane. I think they like it as it is. We're no threat to them. Can we say with as much confidence they're no threat to us?

Penelope Moses

(They are friends and allies.)