

CHOSEN BY AIR VICE-MARSHAL D. C. T. BENNETT (of Pathfinder fame)
for
BRITISH SOUTH AMERICAN AIRWAYS

★ When Air Vice-Marshal D. C. T. Bennett pioneered, and then opened, scheduled services on the routes to South America and beyond, he chose Avro Lancastrians. Later on he expanded his fleet with Avro Yorks. Now passengers on the British South American Airways Routes fly in the new pressurized thirty-two seater Avro Tudor IVs. Of the Tudor IV A. V-M Bennett says "it is one of the finest propositions ever known in the field of long-range air transport."
