The coveted McKee Trans-Canada Trophy for 1955 has been awarded to a Maritime Central Airways pilot, Captain Gerald Lester MacInnis. In announcing the award, Defense Minister Ralph Campney cited the flyer's "outstanding contribution toward success of the DEW-Line air lift operations in the Canadian Eastern Arctic." Capt. MacInnis, 42, landed the advance parties at each of the DEW-Line sites in the region, in carrying out what was described as "one of the toughest arctic flying jobs in the history of Canadian commercial aviation." The McKee Trophy, dating back to 1927, is presented annually for meritorious service in the advance of Canadian aviation.
