Dear Sir:

I do not know if my message is correctly addressed, but I am sending this note of condolence in the hope you will receive it, and pass it along to those of you who also suffer for the loss of the astronauts.

Our grief knows no bounds, and as close 'neighbors' to the U.S.A., we also feel the loss, keenly. There is so little that can be expressed in mere words, but our deepest feelings of sympathy and regret are with you all.

May God be with you all, and let us fervently hope that there will soon be peace on earth to all of us.

God bless and keep all of you, as our close friends and neighbors.
May it ever be thus!

Most sincerely,

Isaac Haynes

at such a time
To know what words to say
But understanding thoughts and prayers
Are there with you today*
