What Easter Means.

THE words east and Easter are descendants of a common ancestor, the Sanscrit Usra, meaning ray of light. East is the point of the compass where daylight first appears. Usra became, in prehistoric Greek, ausosa, the dawn, which became in Latin aurora. The word Easter also descends from usra, appearing in the Anglo-Saxon name of a pagan goddess, Eôstre, whose festival was celebrated at the vernal equinox, when the sun rises due east.

The Christian day of rest was transferred from the Jewish Saturday Sabbath to the following day in remembrance of our Lord's resurrection on that day. In honor of his title as Sun of Justice, the day of His rising was called the Sun-day.

The early English Christians did what was customary throughout the early Church, and baptized the pagan custom. They kept the solar symbolism with which the people were familiar, but gave it its full Christian signification. They allowed the chief Christian festival to be called by the name of the old pagan goddess, lest the analogies between Sun and Sunrise, Christ and the resurrection, be forgotten. And so we speak today not of the Paschal time, as do most Europeans, but of Easter time; not of Paschal day, but of Easter Sunday, the Day of the Sun when the Sun rises due east.

Graham Carey in the Catholic Art Quarterly (Easter '46).

This is how the story began - My cousin Miss King wished to give me an antique mirror from her old home. My dear friends the de Schauensees arranged to bring me up here to get it, so just one year ago to day we had a wonderful out door picnic out on the lawn - all fell in love with the place and surrounding country, and are now living here in the house, having made many changes and improvements in it. I am happy and proud to have been their first guest in their new home Easterhill Farm. May God always bless and keep this lovely and delightful family.

O God, I cannot thank Thee half enough
For all the shining, lovely things of earth...
The sil'ry cobweb of a grey moth's wing;
The violet's sudden joyous springtime birth.
For me, the drifting flowers of the snow;
For me, the clean-cut beauty of a tree;
For me, the blown, wet veil of silver mist
That sweeps in, fresh & fragrant from the sea.
And for me too the comradeship of rain;
The smell of earth, pungent & damp & sweet;
The starry silence of a summer's night;
Coolness of flowers; hills like burning gold;
Wisefulness of smoke; dreaminess of spring;
Sunshine & dusk, & dawn with silver feet..
Dear God, I bind my thanks for every one
Into a prayer & lay it at Thy Feet -
For Castlehill Farm has brought them back to me again. Mariel G. Benziger hearts deep-anchored in the source of love and joy.

The best is none too good they say,
But my "Best" now stay far away,
I'm tired of crowds and silly chatter
Of nylon buses, that doesn't matter.
At last! a peace from things so hateful
To Easter Hill Farm I'm truly grateful.

December 8th 1941 - January 25th 1942.

Thank you dear Anna Marie for your hospitality given in friendship and accepted in friendship to heady hearted refugees from poor Europe.
Respectfully enough.

From Rome to Portugal, across Europe at war; from Lisbon to New York, across the "Battlefield of the Atlantic", where the rattlesnakes roamed under water, seeking their prey and watching with jaeger eyes, one ship flying the stars and stripes, the only lighted thing on that ocean of darkness, our journey's end brought us to Easter Hill on the evening of December 8th 1940 just as the war wave broke on our American shores!

We found a loving welcome, true hospitality within its sheltering walls!

May God bless Easter Hill Farm and all those who live there. May the dark shadows of war never touch it! May the holy angels hover over it, and the Lady cover it with

Her cloak "all woven with light!"

January 26th - 1941.

"As the doors were closed, Jesus came and stood in their midst and said to them: Peace be with you!" (St. John 20. Domitrica in albis).

May Our Divine Lord's abiding Presence and Easter gift of Peace be the enduring happiness of Easter Hill Farm. Its memory of our long visit within its hospitable walls in our exile away from "Roma beata" and Casa Mia.

December - January 1941 - 1942.

Francesca Mac Muerough

Samie and Susie, the two tiny, much maligned English Hildebrande Belenese, who enjoyed being eaten in furnished Spain, enjoyed the hospitality of Easter Hill Farm. They scampered about in little red coats like squirrels to the amusement of Snow-brown, the gentle Dalmatian, who looked from his highness at their sinners.

"We are very lovely, they say, even if our Chinese beauty is not admired by some people. In China we were as gossamer as jade, and our ancestry goes back so far, it is lost in the mists of time.

We have been called the darlings of the Western World, and if there are hearts that are shut to our charms, we proudly say with the old Italian proverb: "Chi non mi vuole non mi merita!" and we go on singing our national anthem which ends thus:

The Belenese on China Seas,
Set out to win the West.
A piece of King is a lovely thing!
But oh! the dogs are best.

The Spring-softened sod of Orange County felt strange to the feet of these French sailors after months of striding across the armored steel decks of the battleship Richelieu. Yesterday marked the conclusion of a nine-day leave spent near Chester. Pictured left to right are Robert Mellard, host to the men-o'-warsmen; First Mate Lucien Guilbert, Sanford Durland and Petty Officer Yves Denis.—Photo by Conklin.

Middletown News, April 12th 1943.

2 Richelieu Crew Members Enjoy Holiday in County

CHESTER.—Refreshed by a nine-day holiday at the home of Robert Mellard on the Monroe-Greenwood Lake Road, First Mate Lucian Guilbert and Petty Officer Yves Denis returned to duty today aboard the French battleship Richelieu, now undergoing repairs in New York.

The young men spoke few words of English but at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Durland here yesterday they conveyed the impression that they had had a wonderful time in the past few days.

Particularly had they delighted in helping Mr. Mellard in construction of a cabin on his country place. They were pleased with the courtesies that had been extended them at the Orange County War Price and Ration Board in Goshen where they had had to call to secure furlough ration allotments. But best of all they enjoyed visiting with people in this vicinity who had lived in France in better days.

For instance, they called upon Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Nemett here. The first sight of French uniforms was too much for Mrs. Nemett. She burst into tears of pride as the young men were greeted. She and her husband had seen the ravages of World War One in France.

One other evening they had called at the Chester home of Mrs. A. M. De Schauensee where again they were welcomed as sons and spent precious moments in conversation recapturing memories of their beloved homeland.

Neither of the young Frenchmen has heard from relatives in France for more than two years. Those long months were passed at sea or bottled up in the harbor of Dakar, from whence the Richelieu had fled to appear in New York harbor some two months ago, bearing scars of battle.

The seamen had nothing to say about those experiences. They were much more interested in observing the operations of American autos, or relating the delight of drinking fresh milk at the farm of Harry Davis. At the Mellard home they had their first taste of canned sweet corn and liked it.

First Mate Guilbert whose home was in Normandy, had been a farmer before the war. Petty Officer Denis, on the other hand, had lived in Brittany but had been a seaman in pre-war days. Both are unmarried.

A happy joyous day

Julia Dade

May 11th - 1943 -

Two of the Mac Munnough Trio arrived for a Spring visit to Easter Hill - accompanied, of course, by the never failing Pekenele Samie and Smie. Arrived coincided with premature appearance of twelve new inmates of Easter Hill Farm - 12 baby turkeys just two days old - so new to the world they wobbled on their little legs - had to be taught to drink and eat! The only thing they knew by instinct was to hug the electric heater, simulating the warmth of their non-existent feathery winged mother. The twelve - Matthew, Marc, Sue and John - Thomas with the crooked neck - now a week old - are part of the family now and love company in Easter Hill's sunny cheerful kitchen. They peep like canaries. Snow-

Brown loves them - they are his baby turkeys! Smie would like to mother them under her warm silky golden fur - as for Marc. Marc she talks to the twelve as if they were babies - and good docile babies at that! When they have attained 25 lbs - what a sad day it will be - and what a glorious Thanksgiving dinner there will be - with home-grown turkeys on Easter Hill's table! -
