

“If Carter won’t come out here to talk to us, we’ll have to come to him.”

Protester Linda Gill, The Daily Californian, April 18, 1977.

Two weeks into the sit-in, the San Francisco protesters sent a delegation of twenty-five to Washington to keep the story in the national news. The elected group, made up of people with different disabilities and racial backgrounds, spent long days educating and lobbying politicians.
