

of Samarra - Major at the point of the bayonet under a heavy fire of artillery and musketry, repelling the numerous desperate efforts of the enemy to recover it. Sir Thomas Graham (Lord Lynedoch) in his Order thanking the Column, states, - "The attack of the Village of Samarra by Major General Robinson's brigade was justly admired by all who witnessed it. Too much praise cannot be given to Major General Robinson and the troops of his brigade for their persevering defence of a post so gallantly won, against numerous artillery & great masses of infantry, the enemy employed to retake it, in repeated attacks".

On the 21 July 1813, General Robinson took part in the first assault of St Sebastian, & on the 31 Augt he commanded the attacking column at the second & successful assault, & was severely wounded. On the 7 Octbr following, the Major General was at the head of the leading column at the passage of the Bidassoa; & on the 9 Nov was at the attack of Secoa & the Heights of Cebora: on the 10 Dec, at the battle of the Nive, was again severely wounded. He recovered to take part in the operations at the Blockade of Bayona and the capture of the town on 14 Apr 1814, when he succeeded to the command of the fifth division.

In June 1814, the Duke of Wellington selected General Robinson to proceed in command of a brigade to North America, and he accordingly embarked of Samarra - Major at the point of the bayonet under a heavy fire of artillery and musketry, repelling the numerous desperate efforts of the enemy to recover it. Sir Thomas Graham (Lord Lynedoch) in his Order thanking the Column, states, - "The attack of the Village of Samarra by Major General Robinson's brigade was justly admired by all who witnessed it. Too much praise cannot be given to Major General Robinson and the troops of his brigade for their persevering defence of a post so gallantly won, against numerous artillery & great masses of infantry, the enemy employed to retake it, in repeated attacks".

On the 21 July 1813, General Robinson took part in the first assault of St Sebastian, & on the 31 Aug he commanded the attacking column at the second & successful assault, & was severely wounded. On the 7 October following, the Major General was at the head of the leading column at the passage of the Bidassoa; & on the 9 Nov was at the attack of Secoa & the Heights of Celor: on the 10 Dec, at the battle of the Nive, was again severely wounded. He resumed to take part in the operations at the Blockade of Bayona and the capture of the town on 14 June 1814, when he succeeded to the command of the fifth division.

In June 1814, the Duke of Wellington selected General Robinson to proceed in command of a brigade to North America, and he accordingly embarked at Burdeau with battalions of the 27th 39th 76th & 88th regiments, and arrived at Brandy Port, 100 miles below Quebec, on the 9 Aug^r 1814. In Sept. he commanded two brigades intended to attack the Naks at Plattsburg, but after having gallantly faced the passage of the Saranac, received orders from Sir George Prevost to retire. In November following he was appointed Commander in Chief and Provisional Governor of the upper provinces of Canada, which he held until June 1816, when he returned to England. He afterwards became Governor & Commander in Chief of Tobago, fulfilling the duties to the entire satisfaction of the home government & the inhabitants of the colony.

On the 2^d Jan 1815 General Admon was nominated a Knight Commander of the Order of the Bath. He was advanced to the Grand Cross in 1818. He attained the rank of Lieutenant General 27 May 1825 & that of General 23 Nov 1841 and was appointed to the command of the 29 Reg^t on 15 June 1840.

Sir Frederick was twice married, 1st to Jean daughter of Thomas Boles Esq of Charleville, who died in 1806. 2^d in 1811 to Anne daughter of — Perry Esq of Stafford, who died at Tobago. By the former lady he had a numerous family.

Died at Brighton last 7th year.

(Cut short by time)

Buried at Hove near Brighton

(not that I think) I have at home now and at night but I have My hope. By the power of the youngest of my children, who died at about 1805. In 1811 I have bought a quantity of the best of the the best of the best. I have and had appointed to the house 27 May 1802 that of course 23 to 1811 in 1805. The estate was the land of the that the land was the of the the estate of the land of the have found the land of the

the estate of the land of the
the estate of the land of the
the estate of the land of the
the estate of the land of the

at the house of the land of the
the estate of the land of the
the estate of the land of the
the estate of the land of the
the estate of the land of the