

Your very kind note my dear Mr. Nicholas, found me on "the Sofa" trying to look interesting. (Now I pray you not to compare me with a certain Lady you saw in a similar situation some few evenings ago). I have recovered entirely from my late indisposition; & feel more like myself than I have for ten days past, for my cold has left me.
It would have given me much pleasure to have seen you yesterday.
But, I could not think you inattentive for Mr. A. was good enough to call & enquire after me in your name.

The Dr. shall receive your message the first time I see him & shall answer it in person. Your servant waits at the door so adieu A. Watson

To,
Mrs Nicholas
