

Miss Emma Nicholas
Hamilton

My dear Emma

I was unexpectedly called to get off the bed and see your mother read her new paper note. I was obliged to reach although my eyes were very half open. I have not been well the last three days and therefore have given me medicine which accounts for my sleeping at this hour. Shall be very glad to come to Plymouth at the time you mention and will be glad to stay as soon as I return from Plymouth which will be the last of this week. I am going there this afternoon. Good bye. I am ever as you were or I would write more, and my head is upset soon

Yours affectionately
Eliza
